MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

SECOND DAY.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 30th, 1881.

The Council met at 10 a. m., the Warden in the chair.

The minutes being read and approved,

The following petitions were read:—

From certain ratepayers of Faraday and Herschel, asking for a grant of $150 towards the repair of a bridge over the York Branch.—Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

From certain ratepayers of Tyendinaga, asking that the side road in the 6th concession between lots 30 and 31 be assumed as a county road.

On motion of Mr. White, the above petition was referred to the Gravel Road Committee af 1882.

REPORTS.

The Gravel Roads Committee reported as follows:—

Your Committee find that there is a balance of the sum appropriated at the June session unexpended, to the amount of $268.

| Belleville and Richmond section | $103 00 |
| Corby's to Madoc Gravel Road | 26 00 |
| Near Hanlan's Corners | 48 00 |
| Canifton to Ross' Corners | 25 00 |
| Jamieson | 24 90 |
| Wallbridge's Mills to Thomasburg | 30 27 |
| Tweed to Bogart | 12 25 |
| Belleville to Corby's | 24 00 |
| Corby's to Tweed | 35 00 |

Which sums your committee would recommend the Gravel Road Superintendent to have expended on said sections as soon as practicable.

Your Committee recommend that the Superintendent be instructed to see Mr, Hicks in reference to the purchase of the gravel-pit on the Trenton road, and report to the January session as to the probable quantity of gravel, and price asked; that the Superintendent, under direction of the chairman, bank gravel and deposit stone on such of the County roads where it will be a saving and expedite the work, until the January session of the Council.

That the Treasurer be authorized to pay to the order of the Chairman the sum of $449.92 to cover moneys expended in banking gravel last year, and not before provided for.

That $5 be paid T. Farnham for amounts disbursed by him, and $20 be paid to J. D. Macaulay for gravel obtained from his pit.

The report was received and referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

The Public Accounts Committee reported, giving a statement of the expenditure on the Court House and Gaol, and on Roads and Bridges in the different Municipalities during the past year. The total amounts expended were as follows:—

| Court House and Gaol | $ 419 57 |
| Hungerford | 423 55 |
| Thurlow | 1,913 20 |
| Stirling | 344 90 |
| Sidney | 397 49 |
| Rawdon | 60 01 |
| Tyendinaga | 427 55 |
| Elzevir | 352 45 |
| Village of Madoc | 493 35 |
| Madoc Township | 133 70 |
| Marmora | 63 17 |
| Trenton | 3,541 60 |

The Committee also gave a statement of minor miscellaneous expenditure by the County Surveyor. The total amount was $8,440.

The report was received and adopted.

Mr. Wilmot gave notice of a By-law for the repeal of By-law 227, in reference to the taxation of dogs in the County.

The communication of the Clerk of the County of Kent in reference to the taxation of dogs was, on motion, referred to the Committee on By-laws.

Mr. Rose gave notice of a By-law to re-establish police regulations in the village of Frankford.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Council went into Committee on Roads and Bridges, Mr. Haggerty in the chair.

The petition asking for $150 towards the repair of the bridge near the York Branch, between Faraday and Herschel Townships, was considered.

Mr. Kavanagh spoke in favor of the grant, urging its necessity. He moved that the Committee recommend that $100 be granted for the purpose specified.

In reply to the Warden, Mr. Kavanagh said that the river at this point was 100 feet wide. It would take $500 or $600 to build a new bridge.

Mr. Vankleek said he had measured the stream here, and it was 150 feet. He said the repair of the bridge was an absolute necessity.

Mr. Fitzgerald seconded the motion.

Mr. Gordon opposed the voting of large expenditures on roads and bridges at the last session of the Council. The matter should in his opinion be deferred until next year.

Mr. White suggested that the Council recommend the Committee of Roads and Bridges of 1882 to make the grant asked for. He thought it the duty of the representatives of the front townships to assist the settlers of the northern municipalities, and the least that could be done was to keep their bridges in order.

Mr. Fitzgerald urged the immediate repair of the bridge.

Mr. Ashley did not think that the petition should have been brought in at this session. It should be deferred until next year, and be brought in in the usual manner. The back townships had no right to ask for grants on account of the poverty of their inhabitants, for there were certain inhabitants of Thurlow who were quite as destitute.

A discussion arose on the question whether the bridge in question was properly a county bridge. The Warden gave it as his opinion that it was not a county bridge, as it was not across a stream forming the boundary between two townships.

Mr. White, in reply to Mr. Ashley, said that, at this time, no one in this country was destitute unless he were either sick or lazy. If people were too lazy to work they did not deserve sympathy; if they were sick the Township should assist them. Speaking to the question, he said that the county should assist the back townships on the same principle that a farmer improves the rear part of his farm.

Mr. Kavanagh, at the suggestion of Mr. White, changed his motion so as to read, that the committee recommend that the Council of 1882 grant $100 towards the purpose in question.

Mr. Wilmot moved in amendment that the petition be referred to the Council in 1882 at the January session.

The amendment was carried.

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

The Warden then left the chair.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 3 o'clock, the hour's delay being on account of the St. Andrew's procession, which several of the Councillors wished either to participate in or witness.

A communication from John Marsh, caretaker, was read, stating that the brickwork of the chimneys of the Shire Hall was defective, and asking that proper repairs be made.—Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges resumed.

The petition from James Whittock and others, asking for the expenditure of $100 on the road leading from Madoc Village to O'Connor's Corners was laid over till the January session.

The report of the County Surveyor was read. The following is an abstract of the report:—

The first thirty-eight clauses referred to work already done under the superintendence of the County Surveyor and paid for.

The report recommended repairs to the following bridges: The bridge over the canal at Chisholm's Rapids; at Harvey's, Madoc; Meagher's Bridge; Stoco Bridge; Mame's Bridge; the bridges at Chisholm's; a bridge on the third line of Tyendinaga; the bridge at Lake's; the bridge north of Well's in Marmora; the bridge next to the mill in Madoc village; one of the piers of the Trenton Bridge, and part of the roadway; the covering of the Little Black Creek Bridge; a bridge east of Frankford in the 5th concession of Sidney; the bridge at Bondreau's; over Beaver's Creek; over Tannery Creek; over the Moira at Brownson's; a bridge on the Jamieson Road. The report stated that the three new spans of O'Brien's Bridge should be made self-supporting, and recommended that the bridge be trussed inside the present bridge and connected by new trusses with it. The Surveyor declared his approval of Dennis' roadway for bridges. He also recommended the covering of all sound bridges, but would not recommend it until each bridge requires to be newly planked.

The report was adopted, as far as the work already done was concerned.

With reference to the clause respecting Little Black Creek Bridge, Mr. White moved that the Warden, the Reeve of Hungerford and the County Surveyor, examine the bridge and make such repairs as they may think necessary.—Carried.

The remainder of the report was adopted clause by clause.

The clause in reference to the covering of old bridges was adopted with the addition that before the County Surveyor proceed with the covering of old bridges he should confer with the Warden.

Mr. Ashley moved that the County Surveyor be instructed to take such action as may be in his opinion necessary to have all fences or other material encroaching upon the County roads removed so as to give the proper width to the roads.

The "other material" mentioned in the motion was inserted at the suggestion of several members, who spoke of the obstruction to roads in the shape of large stones.

The motion was carried.

M. Tuttle moved that $45 be granted for repairs on the County Road from Bridgewater to Bogart's and $5 for a culvert on the road from Bridgewater to Flinton.

After a short discussion the motion was carried.

Mr. Pearce moved that the Clerk be instructed to notify the Warden of the County of Peterborough that the bridge over the north channel of Dee River is in need of repair, and ask if that County would be willing to bear half the expense of repairing it.—Carried.

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Council adjourned.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

A General Stampede.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders, It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. ## The Latest Book Seizure.

It seems absolutely impossible for the Globe to record or discuss any action of the Dominion Government or its officials without resorting to misrepresentation. The latest case in point was contained in the Globe of the 24th inst., in the local columns of which the following paragraph appeared:

> "ANOTHER BOOK SEIZURE.—Yesterday a consignment of books to Mr. P. C. Allan, bookseller, were seized by the Collector of Customs. The history of the consignment is as follows:—Mr. Allan ordered from a Chicago house a number of copies of Ingersol's lectures. The publisher sent the order, and with the lectures the following works as samples, which were not ordered:—The Crisis, The Rights of Man, Common Sense, The Age of Reason, all by Paine; Volney's Ruins of Empires, and Voltaire's Pocket Theology. Mr. Allan made a demand for the books, and the authorities handed to him only the lectures of Ingersol. They have kept all the others, which it will be observed are mostly of a political character. Instructions will in the meantime be asked in Ottawa regarding the latest seizure."

When the facts are stated that the law requires that the whole of a parcel which contains contraband or illegal articles must be seized by the Customs authorities, just as a vessel containing such articles is seized; that the Ingersol lectures, which had previously been adjudicated upon by the Department and allowed to pass, were in a separate parcel, and were therefore not subject to seizure; and that the law had been explained to the Globe's news-gatherer, it will at once be seen how grossly the action of the Collector at Toronto and of the department has been misrepresented. The "Age of Reason" and "Pocket Theology" having been declared immoral and indecent, and their importation being prohibited, nothing remained for the Collector at Toronto but to seize the whole parcel in which they were contained, irrespective of the character of those other volumes which were packed with them. In fact, had the remainder of the package which contained the prohibited books been bibles, still they must have been seized. Again, if Mr. Allan did not order the books that were seized, he has no grievance, or if he did order them, he must have known that two of them were liable to seizure, and that the rest of the package was also forfeit.

Doubtless misled by the Globe's contemptible misrepresentation into the belief that the Collector of Customs at Toronto had seized, as immoral and indecent, works of a purely political character, the London Free Press and the St. Catharines Journal strongly censure Collector Patton, and the latter berates the Minister of Customs as well. The last named paper also speaks of the law as "an enactment of a past age," whereas it was, although passed some 36 years ago, deliberately re-enacted by Parliament in 1879 and Parliament is possessed of the necessary authority for preventing the circulation of immoral or indecent literature. The people's representatives have chosen the best and most effective mode of doing so which has suggested itself to them during the long period that the law has been in force; and, although the St. Catharines Journal may think otherwise, it will find few, other than those who would place no restraint on the circulation of immoral and indecent literature, to agree with it. The subject is one of too much importance to be trifled with, and if a law cannot be framed to meet everybody's views—which is an utter impossibility—it is better that the error, if any there be, should be on the side of decency and morality.

That False Accusation.

Mr. T. S. Carman, through his newspaper, makes an equivocal denial of the fact that he was consulted by the editor of this journal as to the secrecy or non-secrecy of the Grit convention before referred to. In placing Mr. Carman's statement on paper, his amanuensis first represents him as distinctly denying that such a conversation as we referred to ever took place; then goes on to argue that the idea of such a thing is preposterous; but finally reduces the question to one of recollection or of veracity by saying Mr. Carman "declares he has not the slightest recollection of anything of the kind." This is an easily understandable issue—it is (and must necessarily be confined to accuracy of recollection or of veracity as between Mr. T. S. Carman, who, be it remembered, inspired his paper's first article, and the editor of the INTELLIGENCER. We gladly accept the issue and leave it to the people of this community to decide. To refresh Mr. Carman's memory, however, we would state that the conversation occurred either in his own place of business or on the sidewalk in front of it just after the hour for which the gathering was called.

But we have not done with the matter yet. The Ontario alleged that > Mr. J. L. Mills, then temporarily on the staff of our contemporary, was instructed to push his way into the room where the convention assembled as soon as the doors opened, and surreptitiously take notes of the proceedings.

Here is a confident statement—one which, if true, would have convicted us of gross inconsistency in condemning in the Globe an offence which we had practiced to a less offensive extent, but still involving the same principle. We seek the truth from the only person who can tell it, and the Ontario thereupon "comes down," when threatened with exposure, and with all the sang froid of the practiced falsifier, in its second reference to the subject coolly says:

> "We know nothing of the instructions Mr. Mills received from the editor!"

Why, then, allege that it knew all about it? Does not the blundering prevaricator see that his admission is fatal to his case—that, upon his declaration that he knows nothing of the instructions given to Mr. Mills, his charge of inconsistency against the INTELLIGENCER falls to the ground, and that he stands convicted of making a false accusation, which is precisely what we charged him with! If this fact escape his comprehension it will not be overlooked by his readers. His position is not an enviable one, but a writer who expresses approval of the Globe's method of securing reports of private meetings is not likely to feel any very sharp prickings of conscience. If, however, conscience does not trouble him, the wound to his amour propre will be deeply felt. So we leave him to the tender care of the few of his friends who will not laugh, because too dull to appreciate as it deserves the laughable end of his attempt to paint the INTELLIGENCER as black as the Globe. The Kingston Whig, which repeats the Ontario's charge, ought in justice to publish its retraction.

SCOTS AT DINNER.

Grand Banquet at the Dafoe House.

Good Fare, Good Speeches and Good Songs.

The banquet which was held last evening in the Dafoe House under the auspices of the local St. Andrew's Society was probably the most largely attended and the most successful in every respect of any banquet which has yet been held in Belleville in honor of Scotland's patron saint. Fully a hundred and fifty persons sat down to dinner. These included many of the most prominent citizens of Belleville, and several distinguished visitors from a distance. The chair was occupied by D. B. Robertson, Esq., President of the St. Andrew's Society, and the Vice-chairs by Mr. Wm. Smeaton and Chief McKinnon. At the Chairman's right sat S. Ross, Esq., (President of the St George's Society), Rev. Dr. Clarke, Col. Prince, (American Consul), Rev. D. Mitchell, and John White Esq., M. P. On his left sat E. McMahon, Esq., (representing the Young Men's Irish Society), C. L. Coleman, Esq., (President of the late Native Canadian Association), and Hon. Robt. Read. There were also present, Mr. Aylesworth, Warden of the County, Jas. Brown, M. P., Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., Major Boulter, M. P. P., Thos. Holden, Esq., W. L. Hamilton, Esq., N. B. Falkiner Esq., E. B. Fralock, Esq., J. W. Johnson, Esq., Col. Lazier, and many other prominent gentlemen.

The room was richly and beautifully decorated with flags, banners, and appropriate designs, while mottoes hung in profusion on the walls. Among the most prominent of these were the following: "The Land We Left and the Land We Live In," "May Our County Prosper," "The Day and all who Honor It," "Welcome to Our Guests," "God Save the Queen." Appropriate selections from the poems of Burns, beautifully illuminated, also ornamented the walls. At about nine o'clock the company marched in procession into the dining-room, headed by the piper, and were soon ranged in order about the two long tables, which were covered with ornaments and toothsome delicacies. After waiting in comparative silence and eager suspense for a few minutes the wild strains of the pipes were heard, and presently Pipe Major Smith issued from the kitchen blowing "wi' wonderfu' lungs o' leather." Behind him marched Mr. Bolger, the house porter, bearing aloft in triumph the sacred haggis, and the two vice-chairmen, walking reverently, with bowed heads, brought up the rear. In this manner the little procession traversed the room two or three times, and as the complex and pungent scents which came from the mysterious compound, which Scotsmen love to discuss conversationally rather than digestively, were wafted to the nostrils of the assembled company, many of them turned pale with emotion.

This ceremony over, the company sat down to one of the most sumptuous and best-served dinners which has ever been given in the Dafoe House.

In about an hour the hunger of the hungriest was appeased, and all were ready for the programme of the evening.

Letters of regret were read from Rev. J. W. Burke, Mgr. Farrelly, Rev. A Turnbull, J. C. Jamieson, and Rev. M. W. McLean.

The Chairman said that he was happy to be able to say that the condition of the St. Andrew's Society of Belleville was so prosperous that it had been enabled to lay aside several hundred dollars towards charitable objects. Donations had already been made to Marchmont Home and other institutions, and he was certain that in the event of a hospital being erected by the Christian ladies of the city St. Andrew's Society would give it substantial assistance. For this happy state of affairs the Society owed a great deal to the cordial support which it had received from the public on public occasions such as the present. He was proud to look around him and see so many prominent citizens assembled to do honor to Scotia's patron saint. He concluded by proposing the health of the "The Queen," prefacing it by a few remarks in eulogy of Her Majesty.

The toast was drank with the usual enthusiasm.

"The Prince and Princess of Wales" followed.

Song—"The Prince of Wales"—Mr. Hulme.

The toast of "The Governor-General and Lieut.-Governor" was next drank, which being done, Pipe-Major Smith played "The Campbells are Coming."

"The President of the United States" was the next toast, and was very enthusiastically honored.

Col. Prince responded. It was with feelings of great pleasure that he rose to respond to this toast. After a few eloquent introductory remarks, in the course of which he referred to the present cordial relations that existed between the United States and England and Canada, the speaker dwelt on the recent calamity which had befallen his country in the death of her noble President. He passed a glowing eulogium on Garfield, who was one of the ablest, purest and most disinterested Presidents which had ever presided over the destinies of the Republic. The sympathy which had been extended to the American people by England and Canada during their period of sorrow had been more deeply appreciated by them than he could tell, and would never be forgotten. It would be a link to bind together, more closely than ever before, the two nations. Referring to President Arthur, he said that he was a worthy successor to the late occupant of the Presidential chair. He had been maligned, but it was now acknowledged that since he had attained his present high position he had demeaned himself in a manner worthy of his office, and there was no doubt that he would guide the ship of state with caution, prudence, and courage. He could speak with, perhaps, pardonable pride of the American Constitution, which had enabled the nation to glide so smoothly over the difficulty which was presented in the sudden death of the late President and the sudden elevation of his successor. In his Yorktown address, President Arthur had offered a glowing tribute to the English nation, and had by the graceful act of ordering the salute of the British colors done something to show the American people's appreciation of the feelings which had recently been displayed by Her Majesty the Queen, and the British people. The bond of union which the death of Garfield had so materially strengthened was the inauguration of a new era in the history of the race. He believed that hereafter the two great nations would move side by side in the march of human progress, and the Red Cross Flag of England, and the Cross of St. Andrew would mingle their folds with those of the Stars and Stripes in the cause of humanity. He believed the English-speaking peoples were destined to rule the world, and the two nations, with such a grand future before them, could not afford to have any feeling of jealousy or harshness between them. Their certain destiny was to join hands in the work of developing, perfecting and spreading those arts which elevate humanity—and "whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." He concluded by thanking the company for the honor paid to the American people which he represented, and to himself personally.

"The Army and Navy and Volunteer." followed.

Song by Mr. Blaind—"The Red, White and Blue."

"The Day and All who Honor It" was next honored.

Song, "Scotland yet," Mr. Edgar.

Rev. D. Mitchell responded to the last toast He held that St. Andrew was a typical Scot. He brought his brother to Christ, and when the miracle of the loaves and fishes was wrought, it was he who suggested that the fragments should be saved. Prudence, forethought, and fraternal affection were typical qualities of the true Scot. In the toast, "all who honor" the day, as well as "the day," were mentioned. How many were gathered together to-day and this evening to honor the day—in every city, town and hamlet in the old country, Canada and the United States! In the United States and Canada Scotsmen were more loyal to Scotland than in Scotland itself. He hardly heard of St. Andrew before he came to this country. We had here an advantage over our brothers at home. In Scotland, Scotchmen were divided into clans and classes, while in Canada, a Scotchman was a Scotchman to a fellow-countryman, no matter from what part of the country he hailed. All Scotchmen in this great continent were representatives of Scotland as a whole, and it was the duty of each one to do his best to uphold the character of the noble race from which he sprang. The rev. gentleman's address was interspersed with numerous sprightly anecdotes which caused much laughter, and was also replete with eloquence, especially at the close.

Col. Brown, M. P., being called on, responded briefly to the toast of "The Army and Navy."

Mr. A. Watters then recited "Dougal Dhu's Ode to the Black Watch."

After a few remarks from Lt. Johnson, Col. Lazier, and Major Hulme on the subject of the last toast, Mr. Carmichael recited a selection from Aytoun's "Burial March of Dundee," in his usual fine style.

"The Land We Left and the Land We Live In" was next honored.

Song, "The Emigrant's Farewell," Mr. Webster.

Mr. H. Walker responded on behalf of "The Land We Left." No one, he said, delighted to hear his country extolled more than he. No people in the world were more patriotic than Scotsmen. Every true Scotsman delighted to dwell on the early scenes of his boyhood, and at times turned with a feeling of longing to his native land. This love of country was not the result of the fertility of the soil, for there were not more that 6,000,000 acres of arable land in the country. It was not on account of the climate. It was because Scotia had been the birth-place of so many gallant, noble and great men, and was rich in historic scenes, inspiring memories, and noble scenery.

Song, "Fair Canada," Chief McKinnon.

Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., responded on behalf of "The Land we Live In" The discovery of America was an era in the progress and civilization of the human race. He recounted briefly the history of the discoveries which were made in America by European navigators, and the rivalries between them. Finally Jacques Cartier touched the shores of a country which, though it then appeared unpromising, is destined to take a high place among the nations of the world—the beloved land which was mentioned in the latter part of the toast to which he was responding. After briefly reviewing the early history of the colony, he spoke in terms of high eulogy of the old U. E. Loyalists, who dared to refuse to lift a hand against the flag under which they were born, and did so much to found on a sound basis the nation which is the brightest jewel in Britain's crown. If we could not boast of the ancient romantic memories of Scotia, we were not altogether barren in historic memories. If we had no Barnnockburn, we could look back with pride to some of the deeds of 1812, and though we had no Gladstone and Beaconsfield and Bright, we could boast of our Macdonalds, and Mackenzies and Tuppers. The speaker concluded with a brilliant patriotic peroration.

The next toast was "Our Sister Societies."

Song, patriotic, Mr. Edgar.

The last toast was responded to by Mr. Ross, President of the St. George's Society, and Mr. C. L. Coleman, President of the defunct Native Canadian Society.

Song, comic, Chief McKinnon.

Song, "Green Grow the Rushes, O," Mr. Russell.

Mr. E. McMahon responded on behalf of the Young Men's Irish Society. He declared that his sentiments were, Canadian first, Irish afterwards. But when it came to a choice between Scotch, English or Irish sentiment, his feelings were decidedly Irish. He referred humorously to the haggis of which he had tasted, and stated that if it was the national dish of Scotland, he thanked God he was not born a Scotchman. He thanked the company on behalf of the Society which he represented.

"Burns, and the Poets of Scotland," was the next toast in order.

Song, "Willie Brewed a Peck o' Maut,"—Mr. Runciman.

The toast was responded to by Mr. W. Webster, who spoke in high praise of the works of Montgomery, Hogg, Scott, Burns, Campbell, and other Scottish poets. He concluded by singing "Rantin', Roarin' Robin."

Recitation, "Burns," Capt. Paul.

"The Senate and Commons of the Dominion and the Provincial Legislature," was next proposed, coupled with the names of Senator Read, John White, M.P., and Major Boulter, M. P. P.

Song, "Imphm," Mr. Edgar.

Senator Read responded to the toast of "The Senate." He said, by way of introduction, that, without meaning any offence, he thought that Scotland was at present a good country—to emigrate from. On the contrary, Canada was a good country to emigrate to. He spoke in support of the principle of a body such as the Senate of the Dominion. Such a body was not only expedient, it was necessary to the proper government of the people. It was not swayed by political motives, and was perfectly disinterested in its actions. It was valuable chiefly as a check on the sometimes hasty legislation of the lower house. The Senate, he was certain, was approved by the people. No action which it had ever taken but was in the interest of the country, and no bill which it had of late years thrown out had been brought back again.

Mr. John White, M. P., said that he used to wonder how it was that the Scotchmen were always to the fore in every walk of life; but when he visited Scotland recently and saw the race on its native soil and viewed the grand scenery and studied the noble institutions of the country his wonder vanished. Two Scotchmen, Sir John Macdonald and Alex. Mackenzie, had been chosen by Lord Dufferin to hold the reins of power in this country, and they had acquitted themselves nobly. He spoke in praise of the laws of Canada, which the statesmen already mentioned had done so much to call into existence. He believed that the laws of our country were the best in the world. The statesmen of the neighboring Republic might take lessons from the Canadian statute book, and even English statesmen could not govern successfully the inhabitants of the three kingdoms with their varying interests, whilst the still more varying interests of the inhabitants of Canada were, under the wise legislation of our Canadian statesmen, made to harmonize in the interest of the whole people. Mr. White made a very eloquent address, in the course of which he referred to various public works which had received a great impetus under the rule of the statesmen who now held the reins of power, and dwelt at length on the splendid future which is in store for Canada, chiefly through the development of our North-west.

Major Boulter, M. P. P., responded briefly to the toast of the "Provincial Legislature." He suggested that the best way of settling the Irish question was for the English Government to grant a million or two of the Irish peasants free passes to our Northwest. With reference to the subject of the toast, he said the necessity for a Provincial Legislature was proved by the fact that the average number of bills passed at each session was about a hundred.

The toast of "Our Guests" was drank with great enthusiasm, and was responded to by Rev. Dr. Clarke, who congratulated the St. Andrew's Society on the great success of the dinner. He also took advantage of the fact of many prominent citizens being present to urge the advisability of developing the mineral resources of the country in this vicinity. We had arrived at a point when we must either go backward or forward, and the question whether we will go backward or forward lay altogether with ourselves, especially with men of wealth.

Song, comic, Mr. Runciman.

Mr. Aylsworth, the Warden of the County, Mr. Thos. Holden, and Mr. N. B. Falkiner, replied to the toast of "Our Guests," the latter gentleman making one of his characteristically humorous and witty speeches.

Song, "Hame Cam' our Guid Man," Chief McKinnon.

The remaining toasts were: "The Mayor and Corporation," "The Ladies," "The Press," "The President," and "Host and Hostess," all of which were duly honored and responded to. Songs were also given by several gentlemen, and the company broke up at 3 o'clock by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

NEW MAKE OF VELVET.

We have been appointed Agents for the

"MANCUNIUM" MAKE OF VELVET.

It has never been introduced into this market before. Read an extract from a leading London journal, it speaks for itself:—

"The 'Mancunium" is equal in appearance to silk velvet, and perfectly light and soft. For dresses, trimmings, and indeed all purposes for which silk velvet is required, nothing can form such a lasting substitute as the "Mancunium" velveteen."—Weldon's Journal.

City and Vicinity.

No. 1 express was an hour late to-day.

The cells held two prisoners and one tramp last night.

Some of the prettiest Christmas cards are of Canadian manufacture. Another effect of the N. P.

Cards announcing the birth of a child are now in fashion. An exchange refers to them as "bawl tickets."

Mr. T. G. Hall, President of the Canadian Steel Association, arrived in town last night by the midnight train.

"We won't go home till morning" was the ditty that some roysterers sang on their way home this morning about 4 o'clock.

It is expected that the County Concil will conclude its business by noon on Friday. Progress has been slow so far, however.

Work on the repairs to the old curling rink, which is to be used this winter, a better building being lacking, is now going on.

The light in the lighthouse has not been lit for the past two or three nights, and several vessels were thereby inconvenienced.

Sheriff Hope will this evening entertain the Warden and County Council and the City Council at dinner at the Dafoe House.

Amongst the shareholders in the Upper Ottawa Towing Company, recently formed, are Messrs. E. G. Sills and J. H. Sills, of Frankford.

Posters are out announcing that the annual assembly of No. 2 Hose Company will be held in the City Hall on Monday evening, December 26th.

Fresh bulk oysters, fresh shell oysters, and clams, at Head quarters, Falkiner's block, opposite the Meat market. Clams, 15c. per doz. Bulk oysters 35c. per quart.

Mr. John Butterfield, who has been so long and favorably known in connection with the dry goods trade, has accepted a position with the firm of H. L. Bottoms & Co.

Housewives will be interested in a new discovery. Instead of ironing clothes with a hot iron and cold table, the garments would be better done up by using a cold iron on a hot table.

The time is fast approaching when the home-sick oyster with its pathetic looking countenance will divest itself of its shelly garment and will take its annual hot bath in soup at the church social.

The floral decorations at the St. Andrew's dinner last night were designed and arranged by Messrs. Turner & Kerr, florists, and were exceedingly creditable to this young and enterprising firm.

In consequence of a great pressure on our columns, a pretty full synopsis of the sermon preached by the Rev. Mr. McLean before the St. Andrews' Society has been crowded out. It will, however, appear to-morrow.

Ald. Diamond, Chairman of the Committee with regard to the removal of the railway track from Pinnacle Street, this morning received a telegram from Mr. Geo. A. Cox, General Manager of the Midland Railway, stating that he would meet the Committee at the City Hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

On the 29th Nov'r Belleville stood second on the list of Canadian ports as to the quantity of barley shipped this season to Oswego. Port Hope had at that date shipped 516,855 bus. ; Belleville 392,935 bus. ; Toronto 382,184 bus.; Cobourg 345,982 bus; and no other ports above 300,000 bushels. With the cargoes now on the way, Belleville's shipment for the season will amount to about 420,000 bus.

The Toronto World urges that every family should bake its own bread, and for these reasons :—"Home made bread is honest bread, honest in weight, honest in ingredients, and honest in taste. It is ignorant of potatoes and alum, and never pretends to weigh several ounces more to the loaf than it actually does, and never puts upon itself a fictitious price. It is bread, not a polyglot combination of comestibles, expanded and enlarged by air cells."

Blackwood's Magazine for November has been received. Its contents embrace a number of readable and instructive papers, as follows :—The fixed Period—part II. ; The Land of Khemi—conclusion ; David Scott, R. S. A. ; The Latin Lesson, Boy and Girl ; the Pyrenees ; The Ethics of Gladstonianism ; Alive, and yet dead ; or Some passages in the Life of a French Convict ; Io Victis, by W. W. S. ; The Stump Ministry—Its Second Session. Leonard Scott Co., New York.

Reminder — Bible Study to-night in Bethel Hall, at 7:45. All invited. Subject 'Peace.'

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 1.—Lakes, strong winds and gales from the northwest and west, fair cooler weather.

Inland Revenue.—The collections in the Belleville division during the month of November were :

|---|---|
| Spirits | $8,479.30 |
| Tobacco | 1,565.70 |
| Malt | 272.59 |
| Other revenues | 105.00 |
| Total | $10,422.59 |
| Same month 1880 | 9,235.40 |
| Increase | $1,187.19 |

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Northern Queen, which collided with the Lake Erie of the same line and sunk her, a few days ago, was wrecked in attempting to enter Manistique on the next day.

The tug Sherwood arrived last night with the schr. Mary Foster, which brings coal oil and wood from Deseronto.

Big Bay is full of ice, but there is no ice from Northport down.

The schrs. M. O'Gorman and O.S. Storrs, bound for Rednerville to lay up, are fast in the ice in Big Bay.

The tug Bonar succeeded in getting through the ice with the schrs. Annandale and Fleetwing. The former was dropped at Deseronto and the latter was towed to the Gap.

The tug Sherwood left this afternoon with the barges Active and Industry in tow. They took lumber from the Eagle Mill to the sash factory at Deseronto.

The schr. Wm. Jamieson is at Napanee, stripped for the winter.

The steam barge Reliance, which left here yesterday, cleared this morning from Deseronto with lumber for Oswego and will lay up at Kingston.

The tug Sherwood has been fitted with an ice breaker, which works very satisfactorily.

The Ontario Bank.—At a special general meeting of the stockholders of the Ontario Bank, held in Toronto on Nov. 30th, a statement from the President, Sir Wm. P. Howland, was presented, and the financial report of the manager, Mr. Holland, recommending a reduction of 50 per cent. in the capital stock, was placed before the meeting. Various amendments to the Manager's report were offered. Mr. D. Glass, Q. C., representing a large amount of stock, moved for an entire remodelling of the board. Mr. Barss, of Nova Scotia, moved for a reduction of stock by only 20 per cent., and Ald. Hallam moved that the capital stock be reduced from three millions to one and a half. Mr. Glass subsequently withdrew his amendment and substituted one to the effect that no notice shall be given of an application to Parliament for a reduction of stock till the Board be remodelled. The meeting, which lasted all the afternoon and evening, was a stormy one, and an adjournment was had at 10 p. m. to meet again next morning.

Midland Railway of Canada and Grand Junction Railway.

Peterborough, Ont., Nov. 29, 1881.

The December Heavens.

INTERESTING SIGHTS IN THE HEAVENS DURING DECEMBER—THE APPROACHING ECLIPSE OF THE SUN AND TRANSIT OF VENUS.

Beautiful as the midnight sky has been during the month of November it will not be less so during the month of December. Although the great star Sirius has been visible all the month, it rose too late for those early to bed to see it, but rising earlier every night it will soon be a conspicuous object in the early evening hours. With a powerful glass a companion star can be seen with Sirius. This companion star is believed to be a planet which circles round Sirius, just as the earth circles round the sun. On the 27th of December the opposition of Mars occurs, and this furnishes a good opportunity of observing the tiny moons of that planet. Jupiter and Saturn have now passed opposition, and rising before the sun sets, can be seen well up in the heavens, by the time darkness has set in. Jupiter presents a splendid appearance. The belts are slowly changing, and a dark one is forming in the southern hemisphere of the planet. This belt is close to the great red spot which appears on the planet's disc and touches it at one point. In the northern hemisphere the rose-colored belt still keeps its position, and is gradually growing brighter. Saturn's ring still presents a beautiful appearance, and can be seen with a glass of very low power.

Next year two great astronomical events happen. First a total eclipse of the sun on the 17th of May visible in Europe, Asia and Africa, but not in America. It will be seen best in Egypt, and already the British and American governments are assisting scientists to observe it in that country. It has long been believed by astronomers that Mercury is not the nearest planet to the sun, but that there is one still nearer, and that owing to the intense light of the sun it is invisible to us. A total eclipse of the sun affords a favorable opportunity for hunting for this supposed stranger, and no doubt this will be done next May. Next December the transit of Venus occurs and makes the second great astronomical event of the year.

FROM TORONTO.

ONTARIO BANK DIRECTORS RESIGNED.

Toronto, Dec. 1.

It is just reported that Sir W. P. Howland and the Directors of the Ontario Bank have resigned in a body.

West Northumberland.—The election in West Northumberland is to take place on Monday, the 19th December, the nomination being on the 12th. At the Conservative convention in Cobourg on Nov. 30, Mr. Geo. Guillet was chosen as the party candidate by a vote of 81 out of the 105 delegates present, the other 24 votes being cast for the Hon. Sidney Smith.

A sure means of becoming useful and popular, in this section at least, is to keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. When what people are seized with rheumatism or neuralgia, they use your remedy, get well, praise you and buy some for future use.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when Harvell's Condition Powders are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially vauable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

MORNING DESPATCHES CONDENSED.

Mr. Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, has received a letter from an association called "The President Garfield Avengers," and which claims to be 1,000 strong, threatening that if Guiteau is acquitted or declared insane, the judge, jury and assassin will be lynched.

Subscriptions to the Garfield monument at Cleveland are being taken up at Paris.

General Tcherevene, the Russian General who was recently shot at by a Nihilist, owes his life to the fact that he wore a coat of mail.

Three steel steamers for ocean passenger traffic are to be built at New York.

It is probable that Guiteau will leave the stand to day. Most of the testimony to follow will be that of the experts. About 30 experts are in attendance, the most of them retained by the prosecution. Guiteau showed no lack of shrewdness during his cross examination yesterday.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MARKING THE FATAL SPOT.

Washington, Dec. 1.—A marble tablet was placed in the ladies' waiting room of the Baltimore and Potomac depot yesterday, to mark the spot where Garfield was shot. The inscription is : "James Abram Garfield, President of the United States, July 2nd, 1881."

FATAL FIRE.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 1.—At a fire here early this morning, Miss McCarthy and Mrs. Reed perished in the flames.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Guiteau addressed the audience, saying :—"About two weeks ago I sent out an appeal for money. I did it on my own account, and the day afterwards Scoville publicly announced that it was without his authority. I again invite my friends to send me money, in the interest of the cause of justice, and for my defence. They can send $5, $10 or $15, or a thousand if they wish. If they don't want to be known, they can send it without a name to Scoville."

Judge Porter resumed the cross-examination eliciting from the prisoner that physically he was a coward, and always kept away from personal danger. Morally he was as brave as a lion, when he thought duty was back of him. Duty influenced him to remove the President. In his opinion the doctors killed the President, not he. The acts of Jones and Mason in attempting to kill him were wrong, and they ought to be punished unless they can show that they were inspired by the deity.

The witness soon showed signs of impatient excitability, and striking his open hand upon the desk, emphasized every sentence uttered. When pressed for answers he finally became obstinate, and shouted to Porter, "I know you well, and I know bigger men than you are. I've seen you shake your finger at witnesses in New York, but you can't scare me."

Shortly after, when asked if he believed in the ten commandments, to which he responded in the affirmative, and if he believed the commandment "thou shall not kill," ought to read in his case "thou shalt kill," he became exceedingly violent, and refused to discuss that matter at all. There was no murder in his case, and no killing. It was simply for the jury to determine whether or not his act in removing the President was inspired by the Deity or n, it was all nonsense to split hairs any longer over that word. It must be distinctly understood the removal of the President was the act of the Deity.

Queenstown, Dec. 1.—Arrived, Nevada.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Depression of Mind and Body, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&w1y

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after excrise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at James Clark & Co.'s Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHAPTER LXXI.

ATONING FOR SIN.

The brilliant summer passed, the roses and lilies were dead; the hay that had lain sweet and fragrant in the meadows, stood now in huge ricks, the wheat was gathered into the barns, the butterflies and bees had made the most of their brief season—it was autumn now, with golden hue. The leaves were all red and brown on the trees—the autumn flowers, gorgeous and often scentless, raised their heads; and the autumn, too, was failing. There came chill evenings, when the mantle of darkness fell over the world, bringing cold gloom and desolation with it. There came cold mornings, when the breath of the wind was chill, when the birds found no courage for singing, when the wind wailed mournfully, and the brightness of the world seemed dying away. It was on one of these mornings that Diane rose first from her sick bed, white, weak, and weary, the shadow of her former self. No one who had known her could have recognized her. There was no light in the large, sad eyes, that wandered wearily around the rooms; there was no light, no brightness, in the face that had once been beautiful with such imperial beauty; even the sheen had died from her golden hair, leaving it darkened and dim. It was no longer the magnificent Lady Kerston, before whom peers and princes bowed; but Diane, weak as a child, and humbled even unto death.

The battle had ended at last—her faultless constitution, her natural strength, had carried her through. She had won, although the victory had left her very little but life. When she was able to bear the intelligence they had told her of Bruno's death. It was a great shock to her; naturally enough she remembered that for her that terrible, sudden death had solved the Gordian knot. She was sorry for him, too, and she repented with her whole heart and soul of the wrong she had done him. She had tried faintly and feebly to atone for it by being more than usually kind when grim Miss Hester came to see her, hearing that she was dying. Hester came to the conclusion that she ought to visit her. There must have been a faint glimmer of kindness in the hard heart after all, for Hester went, and bending her stern, wrinkled face over the white one on the pillow she said, gently:

'They tell me you are dying, Diane! In my brother's name and my own, I forgive you.'

And, Diane, meekly bowing her head, owned herself a miserable sinner. Another great comfort to her had been the presence of her son; there was no reason, now, why he should not be with her; and Diane had almost recovered her life, in the sunshine of his presence.

He had heard all her story—she had hidden nothing from him; and when it was all told he had kissed her hands, reverently as though she had been a queen; and had said that, to him she would always be the fairest and noblest of women. It was very precious to her, this honest faith of her son.

Now she sat at the window of her room, from whence, in the far distance, she could see the church-yard, where her husband and father were buried. She had come to her senses now; looking back she felt that she had been mad. She could hardly realize that she had done that which she had done—that which she had wilfully committed such a terrible crime.

The light that shines on the grave had shone fiercely on her. It had shown her sins in their true light; it had shown her that, make it romantic as she would—sentimental as she would—try to make it poetry, romance, or sentiment—sin was sin, fraud was fraud! she had deceived a noble, true-hearted man, by marrying him, while the husband she deserted was living. Look at it now, as she would, the sum made her shudder—it was so terrible a one!

She owned herself, before God and man, a most wretched sinner; all the sophistry about the union of the two souls, that she had once thought so grand, seemed less than nothing to her now. There was the clearly defined law of God, there was the no less clearly defined law of man; she had broken both, and the penalty she had had to pay was a dreadful one.

Diane, with her white face and her widow's cap, looked quite another distinct person from the Diane who had reigned as the most brilliant queen of fashion. She had not seen Lord Kerston since that terrible morning; he had lingered in the neighborhood—he could not leave it while it had that attraction for him. But he had not seen her; she was not his wife. Poor Diane!

On this morning she had received a letter from him—the first since all this horror—and it lay on her feeble hands as though she had barely strength to hold it. Such a letter—so kind, so noble, so generous, so like the writer himself, that Diane wept aloud as she read it.

He told her that he had been thinking over all the circumstances, that he had weighed them well in his mind; he had thought of her youth, her inexperience, her want of training, her ignorance; he had thought how she had been, as it were, almost forced into this marriage, then how she had been treated; he remembered her youth, her loveliness, her despair. He allowed, too, for her great love for himself—the first and only love of her life—and though he condemned her sin, though he laid it before her in the strongest manner, though he condemned it without mercy, he offered her his full pardon, without limit or condition.

'Be my wife, Diane,' he wrote; 'we will forget this miserable past. God is merciful, and takes into account much which men forget. Let us strive by a better, higher, holier life to atone for this wrong; I will help you, Diane.'

She sat pondering long, with this letter before her; it had come like a ray of warm, sweet sunshine to her. How kind, how noble he was! Who in all the wide world could compare with him? Who but himself could have written such a letter—would have offered a pardon so complete and so generous?

Once more Diane held her fate in her hands. He asked her to be his wife; to forget the terrible past with its black shadow; to redeem it by a higher, holier, better life. Should she consent? Was she worthy of this great happiness? No; a thousand times no. Diane bowed her head, and cried out:

'God be merciful to me, a sinner!'

No; she must put it from her, for once and forever; she must give up this one hope; she must be content to spend the remainder of her life in solicitude and repentance—this should be her most bitter atonement.

So, with hands trembling with weakness and sorrow, she wrote her letter, saying how sorry she was that she could not embrace the happiness offered to her; saying how she loved him; but that she was all unworthy; she meant to spend the remainder of her life in atoning for her sin; and that, with a strong hand, she meant to put all earthly happiness away from her. It was a most loving, sad pathetic letter. When it was gone, Diane felt that she had in some measure atoned for her sin. Lord Kerston owned to himself the nobility of soul that had prompted it, but determined to try again.

When Diane was able to be moved she went away to some wild, sweet spot on the southern coast; Lord Kerston followed her. Then he argued his own cause; he told her that, although self-renunciation and self-sacrifice were noble, grand virtues, there was something grander and more noble for her to do still.

And when Diane asked him what it was, he told her to take up again her position as his wife, and lead so good a life that her example might be followed by others.

He explained to her that the world knew little or nothing of what had happened; the truth of the story was confined exclusively to themselves; there had been rumors, but no one knew whether they were true or false, and how she would save all gossip, all scandal; she would atone to him in the only way possible for all the unhappiness she had caused him; in fact he told her that, honestly and before Heaven, he considered that she was bound to fulfill his wishes.

Then he brought Lady Lillian Hay to see her, and to Lady Lillian he confided the whole story. Diane raised her face to the thoughtful countenence of his best friend.

'I shall leave it to you, Lady Lillian,' she said. 'You are a pure and noble woman, whose instincts can never be wrong. You shall decide for me.'

'If I am to decide,' said Lady Lillian, 'I should strongly advise that you read the marriage service over again with Lord Kerston to-morrow, to save scandal and exposure; there ought not to be an hour's delay.'

So it was settled, and in the solemn quiet of a winter's morning, with Lady Lillian Hay and Lawrence Severne as witnesses, Diane became, in all honor and good faith, Lady Kerston.

What more remains to be told? Only that they lived long and happily, that the dark shadow passed away, that Lord Kerston proved his true and grand nobility by never even so much as naming what had passed,—and that Lady Diane strove by every means in her power to make amends for what she had done.

Lord Kerston acted a most noble part by Diane's son. Laurence Severne is now one of the most distinguished painters in England; he married recently, and his bride was the fair, amply dowered daughter of a British peer.

It was strange that in after years the blessing that Lord Kerston had always desired was given to him; he had sons and daughters of his own, and he often declared laughingly that Diane renewed her youth in each one.

She sinned, but she suffered; she did wrong, but she made, as she remembers well, a bitter atonement.

THE END.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.
(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)
FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr., John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Temaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

St. Andrew's Day.

The Annual Sermon by Rev. M. W. McLean.

The following is a pretty full synopsis of the sermon preached by the Rev. M. W. McLean, M.A., before the St. Andrew's Society, in the John Street Church, on the afternoon of St. Andrew's Day:

Taking his text from the 16th verse of the 5th chapter of Matthew, the preacher said:

This day all over the world, throughout the British empire, and in lands that do not recognize the sway of Britain's Queen, there are gatherings such as I see before me, of Scotsmen and the children of Scotsmen, gathered together to revive the memories of the land they have left, and to celbrate the anniversary of Scotland's patron saint. Why is it so?

It must be because "absence makes the heart grow fonder," from the same principle that brings the wanderer who in foreign lands has amassed wealth, back in his old age to the old familiar scenes, that he may lay his bones in the land of his birth.

This certainly must have something to do with the zest with which the Englishman, the Irishman, and the Scotchman consecrate one day of the year to the memories of their father-land; and this must have something to do with the ties which bind fellow countrymen together, when the wide ocean divides them from the home of their childhood.

We find the same principle underlying every man's experience; e. g. the boy who is still under his father's rooftree, sharing its comforts, enjoying its pleasures, does not notice, nor is he, probably, sufficiently thankful for the many blessings he possesses. It is not until he launches out into life—not until he goes into and meets with its stern realities, that he begins to appreciate the happiness and freedom from care, and the sweet amenities of the family fireside. Now in the turmoil of the world, as he faces its difficulties, and has to make his way through the perplexities and temptations and sorrows that spring up at every step he takes, how often does the thought of the dear old home, with its kindliness and peace, rise up in his mind; and he remembers the kindly counsels that guided and the sturdy arms that shielded him, with an appreciativeness he never experienced before. So it is, more or less, with all who have gone exiles from the homes of their childhood. Just as when we stumble on a faded letter written years ago by one whose hand will never grasp ours again, memories of happy days, long gone by, spring up in our hearts. So this day reveals, to those among us who have been born and bred in Scotland, the scenes of our boyhood in fairer colors even than they were wont to beam when our eyes rested on them.

We think on "Auld lang syne." Tender memories surround us of our class mates at school and college. Again in fancy we mingle in the boisterous happy play of schoolboy days. Then the old church; then we stand in the Kirk Yard by the graves of those who shed light on the morning of our lives, whose loving counsel blessed us, and whose protecting care sheltered us. Fancy recalls the busy streets. Again we sail up the beautiful river or stand by the shore of some lovely lake nestling at the bottom of lofty hills; again we climb her mountain sides or wander through her romantic glens.

At times like these an unutterable longing seizes us to tread once more the old familiar spots, to breathe once more the refreshing breeze, and think again of the cool sweet spring that bubbles forth by the home of our childhood.

And such feelings are natural because the heart ever goes back to its home. Its happiest and holiest recollections are there. And this attachment to the land of one's birth is a beneficient sentiment. It results in efforts to make it a land distinguished among the nations, and impels its natives to do nothing that may reflect on its good name. The man who loves his own land best will always be interested in the well being of others.

I am glad to be able to testify that your organization is not a mere name, but a reality manifesting itself in works of faith and labors of love. Many a home has been cheered by your timely and unostentatious aid. Many a fellow countryman in his hour of need and discouragement has had his needs supplied and been sent on his way rejoicing through your kindly help, and I trust that in the future you shall be able, even more than in the past, to let the stranger among you feel that he is not friendless, and to cause the hearts of the sorrowful to rejoice,

Let us for a few minutes direct your thoughts to duties which, as Scotsmen, we ought to consider it our privilege to fulfil.

1. Industry and frugality. Scotland is not naturally a land flowing with milk and honey. Not very long ago the greatest portion of the country was as a wilderness. Her history has been a stormy one. Wars with enemies without and feuds between fellow countrymen within, kept her in a continual ferment. Cultivation of land and other industries neglected, she was chiefly distinguished by her poverty. Yet when opportunity occurred, when peace settled down within her borders, the same persistent, energetic industry with which the arms of her sons were directed against each other or against a common foe, now found a nobler field, the field of nature, science and manufacture. To these fields our fathers directed all their efforts, until at length farms and stretches of land which had long lain waste became as gardens, and the blooming corn fields proclaimed the thrifty energy of her peasantry. But not content with doing well in this respect, they reclaimed vast tracts of seemingly worthless land and by dint of application of scientific principles raised husbandry to the highest degree of excellence. So the same industry manifested itself in the more populous districts. In village and town and city manufactories sprung up. Factories reared their chimneys, coal pits were dug, engineering establishments, shipbuilding, iron works, huge commercial enterprises sprung up with agencies everywhere, So that to day Scotch farmers are synonymous with skilled agriculturists. Her productions are found in every land; her ships sail every sea; while the country itself, if we take into consideration its size and population, is one of the most prosperous in the world. This is one lesson we may gather from the history of our fatherland.

Industry and frugality in the sense exemplified include sobriety, perseverance, energy and honesty, also those virtues which render a man a good member of society, a blessing to himself and others.

2. Another lesson—Fidelity to conviction exemplified in that period of our history relating to solemn league and covenant.

True, our land, like others, had and has its sins and crimes, its faults and failings, but even these will help us to better things. If they be to us as the beacon to the mariner, warning him from the treacherous rocks, we are told how Chas. I, and his Government had long wished to impose a system of religion which was utterly distasteful to the people. That they rebelled against interference with their conscientious convictions, we are told; that this feeling at length broke into open riot, which rapidly became a revolution, the people organized themselves for defence. We are told that four committees were formed—the nobles, gently, clergy and burghers. A solemn fast was called, and a vast assemblage gathered in the church of the Gray Friars. After religious services, we are told the National Covenant, in which they swore by the great name of the Lord their God to be true to the doctrine and discipline of the church against all errors and corruption, that they would be loyal to His Majesty in defence of the laws and true to one another, was produced and eagerly signed by all present, and then sent over the kingdom for signature, the whole people thus welded together as one man, from highest to lowest. The whole country was in a ferment. In spite of laws promulgated against them, yet the people persisted in worshipping God after the dictates of conscience. Although hunted down, punished with utmost severity, they still stood true to their convictions; they might die but could not prove false to that which they believed to be the right. The civil war in England may be said to have been kindled at the fire of religious enthusiasm in Scotland, and as the result of the blood shed by our countrymen has sprung the fragrant flower of religious liberty.

Whatever may have been the faults of our fathers, their fidelity to conviction has been seldom equalled in the history of the world. Nor have we any doubt as to the chief source of their steadfastness and strength—namely, their faith in God and in Christ and their reverence for His revealed will. That their piety was real no one can deny, nor can we question the great benefits that have resulted from their stern adherence to its principles.

Now, we may fancy that in this land of our adoption, the times are so changed that there is no field on which to display the same fidelity to religious conviction, but if that is your idea it is a very mistaken one.

It is true we may not have the same kind of opposition to encounter, but the day is at hand when Scotchmen, as a body, should rise up against what is an insult to their national training and what is calculated to wipe out the results, the heroic self sacrifice of our forefathers in the cause of religion. I refer to the gradual infringement on the sacredness of the Sabbath.

We know how this day is observed on the continent of Europe. We know what it is in a large portion of the neighboring States, and in this our highly governed Dominion there is more than ground for fear that the same evil influence is at work. It first began with running of trains and street cars under plea of necessity and we were grieved and ashamed to know that last summer public excursions left ports in our Dominion on the Sabbath day. Some under the guise of religion, which made the evil tenfold worse, and others without the shadow of reason. Brethren, if we believe that people are blessed whose God is the Lord, then they are blessed because they serve the Lord, and to serve the Lord is to obey the Lord, and obey Him in all His requirements. But the keeping sacred of the Sabbath is a command of God, being on all at all times. If disobeyed then there can be no blessing.

The history of nations in the old Testament proves that God blessed the people who acknowledged Him. In fact, it could be shown that the first step in the decay which ends in national ruin is neglect of observance of the Sabbath. Do away with the Sabbath and you trample on one of the safe guards of society.

There is one form of evil against which all our influence should be exerted. We shall prove ourselves unnatural sons of a soil which has been drenched with the blood of men who gave up their lives for God's cause, if we do not, like them, set our faces as a flint against every effort made to weaken reverence for that revelation of God, obedience to which is the only foundation of individual happiness, and the impregnable bulwark of national security.

Two great factors in the religious life of our fatherland were, the religious home training of the young - and the use of the Bible in her parish schools.

The first of these we all can, and I hope do, carry out in our homes.

The second—the use of the Bible as a text-book in our schools—is one which I trust yet to see accomplished, and to this end earnestly ask your influence and energy. Much of the irreverence and disregard for holy things may be traced to the original carelessness of parents, and the general ignoring of the word of God in our common schools.

The days are gone when Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen directed their powers against one another's welfare. Happily united they have, shoulder to shoulder, many a time beaten back the tide of mad ambition, and kept their country safe from fierce invasions. May we not hope that here in this new Dominion, soon to be a giant among the nations, you will, banded together, apply all the good belonging to your respective countries, dropping their vices and grasping their virtues, bend all your energies to the moulding of the future of this land of your adoption, the land of your children? Let each live and act so that in this western hemisphere we may help to lay the foundation of a nation not only great in material prosperity, but also, and above all, great in the enjoyment of the blessing of God.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel,

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestiible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c, in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

Specimens of Consistency.

As illustrative of the purely factious course of the Globe with regard to the Pacific Railway, the Mail presents these two extracts from the Grit organ, which every one must admit are conclusive:

> "In considering the third and last grand section, we have to bear two or three important matters in mind. It is desired ultimately to build a through line, as direct as practicable, from the south of Lake Nipissing to Fort Garry. It is important that the line should approach as nearly as possible to the waters of Lake Superior."—Globe, 1874.

> "The Premier states that the syndicate have determined to locate the eastern section of the Pacific Railway close to the rocky North Shore, 'looking into the very waters of Lake Superior.' This announcement, which was accompanied by an impudent and hypocritical assertion that the change of route will benefit Ontario, is one which cannot but alarm all who, having the interests of this province at heart, understand how these interests can be served."—Globe, Nov. 28, 1881.

A Mare's Nest.

The Globe publishes, with a flaming heading, a copy of the document containing "private hints to Liberal Conservatives," which was issued at the late Convention, and remarks editorially upon it that

> It is quite clear that our opponents are prepared to resort to practices which will not bear the light of day, and for that very reason they are all the more worth watching.

There is not, that we can find on carefully reading it, one word in the document, as published by the Globe, to warrant such a statement. If there is, will the Globe kindly point out the word, phrase or passage which will bear such an interpretation?

The organ has really found a mare's-nest, for the purpose of the document is to warn Conservatives to watch the voters' lists, particularly where the Assessors are Grits, and generally to take such steps as will prevent that meanest of all the "human devices" of the Grits, the depriving of a citizen of the vote to which he is entitled, by fraudulently leaving his name off the voter's list, or otherwise. There is not, we repeat, even the faintest suggestion of fraud, of "practices which will not bear the light of day," or even of unfairness in the document referred to. Had there been, it would, in view of the ballot box stuffing by their opponents in Jacques Cartier, and of their wholesale bribery in nearly every constituency in Ontario and Quebec, be nothing more than a recommendation to "fight the devil with fire," a practice of which Reformers generally approve.

The Intercolonial.

In his speech at Moncton on the 25th ult. Sir Charles Tupper so fully and clearly showed the effect of his economical management on the Intercolonial Railway, as to convince even the most bigoted Grit that the Minister of Railways is the right man for the important position which he occupies. We quote the Moncton Times' report of Sir Charles' remarks, as follows:

There was one other pledge he had made to the people of Moncton three years ago, and that was of economy. He did not care what the expenditure was so long as it had been made wisely and legitimately and was the lowest that could be made to accomplish the desired result. The I. C. R. was a case in point. The late Government said the expenditure had been made to accomplish the best results, and Mr. Brydges, in his own hearing, had told the President of the Grand Trunk that the annual deficit must be $750,000. Well, the last year Mr. Brydges had charge the deficit had been upwards of $700,000. He (Sir Charles) had come to the conclusion that the road could be made to do better. He had re-organized the staff, and he was glad to say that there was not a man occupying a responsible position on the road but who had previously been in the service. To-day the position of the Intercolonial Railway was one that excited admiration, and instead of deficits there was a small surplus. The road was not excelled on the Continent or elsewhere, and it was the changed policy that made the change in the position of the road. He had been greatly indebted to the officials of the road, Mr. Schreiber, Mr. Pottinger, Mr. Archibald and to Mr. Whitney, who had recently been giving the affairs of the road his best attention, for the proud position he now occupied as Minister of Railways, and if it had not been for their services and the services of the trackmen and all other employees, he would not be able to stand in the proud position he occupied. Never was a Minister more ably sustained than he had been by the great rank and file. Then let me show the record of the business of the Intercolonial Railway:—

| | Earnings. |

| 1878-9, under Mr. Brydges | $1,294,089 |

| Increase in two years | $ 466,294 |
| | Expenses. |
| 1878-9, under Mr. Brydges | $2,010,153 |
| 1880-81, | 1,759,000 |
| Difference | $ 251,153 |

Thus showing a change in the business of the road in two years to the extent of over $717,000.

Then we will go a little further:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Expenditure per train mile, | '78-9 | 95-20 |
| do do do | 80-1 | 62-52 |
| Difference | | 32-62 |
| Expenses per mile of railway, | '78-9 | $2,815 |
| do do do | '80-1 | 2,094 |

In 1878 9 it cost $1.55 to earn $1, and you know how fast a person would get rich at that rate. In 1880 81, a little less than one dollar was required to earn a dollar; in other words the road was earning a small amount. Thus it will be seen the pledge of economy has been redeemed. He had some other further figures. In 1878 9 the train miles run were 2,111,426; in 1880-1, 2,813,723—difference 702,297. In 1878-9 the number of tons of freight carried was 510,861; in 1880-1 it was 725,577—difference 214,716, or enough to fill 21,471 box cars.

This had all been done and the freight charges actually reduced on iron, lime, ship knees, plaster, slate, minerals, ships' rigging, ex. bark, fish, sugar, molasses, etc. With such a showing as he had been able to make, he would be better able to go to his colleagues and ask for increased facilities for the public service.

Editorial Brevities.

The following statement of the arrivals of immigrants at the Ontario agencies during the first ten months of 1881, as compared with the returns for a similar period last year, will be found interesting and satisfactory: Number of arrivals via Halifax and the St. Lawrence, 1881, 19,741; 1880, 21,034. Arrivals via the United States 1881, 49,243; 1880, 41,770. Total number, 1881, 68,984; 1880, 62,854. Went to the United States, 1881, 39,953; 1880, 42,883. Went to Quebec, 1881. 316; 1880, 204. Went to Manitoba, 1881, 1,940; 1880, 2,364. Remained in Ontario, 1881, 16,565; 1880, 17,203. Nationalities of those remaining in Ontario, English, 1881, 7,027; 1880, 7,177. Irish, 1881, 4,271; 1880, 4,140. Scotch, 1881, 2,910; 1880, 2,799. German, 1881, 1,097; 1880, 1,049. Scandinavian, 1881, 139; 1880, 108. Swiss, 1881, 11; 1880, 15. American, 1881, 1,135; 1880, 1,862. Other countries, 1881, 160; 1880, 249.

The London Free Press very happily compares the unsuccessful popularity hunt of the Grit leaders in the Maritime Provinces and in Ontario to that of the "Jovial Huntsmen."

"They hunted and they hollered
Till the setting of the sun,
And they had nought to bring away at last,
When the hunting day was done;
Then one unto the other said
This hunting doesn't pay,
But we've powdered up and down a bit
And had a rattling day!"

The "poor man's" woes under the tariff are continually harped upon by the free-trade press, and yet the Globe has proved by unrefutable statistics that the amount of wealth per head of the population is greater in Canada than in the United States.

The too well known J. D. Edgar—notorious as a picker up of such trifles as the Grit party has from time to time power to bestow—has evidently recovered from the effects of the journey to British Columbia at a fat salary but with an ignominious ending, which Mr. Mackenzie's Government induced him to take. He is now figuring as President of the Reform Association of East York. O tempora, O mores, O Edgar!

Resolution of Condolence.

To Mrs. Philips, Frankford:

DEAR MADAM,—As it has pleased Almighty God in His all-wise providence, to remove by death your beloved husband and our much esteemed brother, thereby depriving you of an affectionate partner in life, and us of an efficient co-worker in our noble order, we, the members of L. O. L. No. 240, of Frankford, do hereby express to you our warmest and most hearty sympathy and condolence in this, your severe trial. We trust that this sad bereavement may be blessed to your good, and that when the Great Master and Ruler of all shall call you from the trials of this life to the rest of the great hereafter, you may take part in the song of the redeemed.

By order of the lodge,

Committee { P. P. PETTIT, JOHN C. ROSE.

Frankford, Nov. 5th, 1881,

DARING ROBBERY.—Burglars entered the house of Melvin Smith, Mountain Street, Montreal, during Wednesday night. The thieves entered Mr. Smith's room, and stole from beside the sleeping occupants a pair of diamond shirt studs worth $4,000, two gold watches and chains belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Smith, respectively, and other articles, the whole loss amounting to $5,000. A diamond ring worth $1,000 was overlooked. The police were notified half an hour after the occurrence.

G. N. W. TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—At the annual meeting of this company in Toronto, on Nov. 30th, the following directors were elected:—William Gooderham, Toronto; O. S. Wood, Montreal; Richard Fuller, Winnipeg; Hon. Wm. Macdougall, C.B., M.P., Ottawa; Adam Brown Hamilton; D. H. Bates, New York; Jas. Hedley, Toronto; A. S. Irving, Toronto; Erastus Wiman, New York. At a meeting of Directors, held subsequently, Mr. Wiman was elected president, Mr. O. S. Wood, of Montreal, vice-president, and an executive committee consisting of the president, vice-president, and Mr. William Gooderham appointed.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

THE SHERIFF'S DINNER.

County and City Councilmen Meet at one Board.

Not Municipal, but Festive.

Sheriff Hope entertained at dinner, at the Dafoe House last evening, the Warden and County Council and the City Council, together with the City and County officials, and a large number of prominent citizens and personal friends. Every seat at the large table was occupied, and the company, owing to the semi-private nature of the occasion, was select and animated by a congenial spirit. In view of these circumstances, it is hardly necessary to say that the banquet was successful in a high degree, nothing occurring to mar the harmony and pleasure of the evening. Sheriff Hope is to be congratulated on the happy result of his bounteous hospitality.

The genial host, of course, occupied the chair, and the vice-chairs were filled by Drs. Farley and Burdett. On the right of the Chairman were seated—Mr. Aylsworth, Warden of the County, Hon. Billa Flint, Col. Prince, U. S. Consul, and Rev. M. W. McLean. On his left were Geo. D. Dickson, Esq., Q. C., Chairman of Finance in the City Council, Hon. Robt Read, John White, M.P., and Rev. Dr. Clarke.

The substantials and delicacies supplied by Mr. Huffman having been amply discussed by the company, the tables were cleared, and the the venerable host rose amid loud applause to propose the first toast on the programme. With a few graceful remarks, he proposed the health of "Her Majesty," which was, of course, enthusiastically honored. "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Royal Family," and "The Governor-General" followed, after "Rule Britannia" had been sung by Mr. Wm. Blaind. The Chairman then proposed "The President of the United States," coupling the toast with the name of Col. Prince, who responded in a most touching and eloquent speech, which called forth repeated bursts of applause. "The Senate and House of Commons" followed, and the duty of responding to it devolved on the two venerable Senators and the members of Parliament present. Mr. Flint mentioned, as proof of the practical value of the Senate, the fact that the Senate amended seven out of every eight of the bills that were sent up to it by the Commons. He did not believe that anyone within the reach of his voice would live to witness the abolition of the Senate. Mr. Read also ridiculed the idea that there was a growing feeling in the country in favor of the abolition of the Senate. He was sure that there were few present who would refuse to take a seat in that body, and accept the chances of losing their seat. Mr. Read's address was pitched in a humorous strain and evoked a good deal of merriment. James Brown, M. P., and John White, M. P., responded on behalf of the House of Commons. The address of the former was chiefly devoted to an expatiation on the grandeur and splendid prospects of our common country. Mr. White delivered a forcible address in response to the toast, dwelling at some length on the great results which would follow the construction of the Pacific Railway. He also referred to the Murray Canal, which, he firmly believed, would be under contract long before another election would take place. With reference to the iron question, he said he was certain that the Government would grant additional protection to the iron industry so that the establishment of extensive works in Belleville to smelt the iron of the north would be a possibility. Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., responded to the toast of "The Provincial Assembly," making a brief but pithy and graceful speech. To the toast of "The Warden, ex-Wardens and Members of the County Council" there were several responses. The Warden made several good points which were much appreciated by the company. He thought that the number of Councillors could be decreased without any detriment to the transaction of public business. He spoke in an encouraging manner of the present condition and future prospects of the county. Mr. A. F. Wood spoke as an ex-Warden. He dwelt at length on the brilliant future which the County had before it. The interests of the County were now in the hands of as good a set of Councillors as he could wish; but he would warn them that it was not always curtailing of expenses, which the previous speaker had referred to, that brought prosperity, and was the evidence of it: the public interests were not always best served by a reduction of the taxes. Mr. Walker congratulated the Sheriff on his recent appointment. Mr. Pearce also responded briefly. "The Mayor and City Council of Belleville" was duly honored, and was responded to (on behalf of the Mayor, who was unable to be present on account of absence from the city) by Mr. Dickson, Chairman of Finance in the City Council. He endorsed the idea expressed by Mr Wood, that it was not cheap taxes that made a prosperous community: it was the wise expenditure of the funds raised by taxation. He claimed that, though Belleville had lost the beneficial results which she once possessed from the lumbering and (to a large extent) the agricultural industries, chiefly on account of railways, she still possessed the elements which might make her a great manufacturing and commercial community. The railways, which had drawn off her past sources of prosperity, would become the source of our city's future prosperity, and would more than compensate for the temporary injury which they had caused. He cherished a firm belief in the future prosperity of Belleville. "The Educational Interests of the City and County" was responded to by Mr. Johnston, Public School Inspector, and Mr Wills, Chairman of the City School Board. The latter speaker thought that the education of the future would be technical and practical rather than theoretical; the youth would be taught the rudiments of the different trades, so that they would be, in a measure, independent, and better qualified to contend with the difficulties and undertake the duties of life when launched on the world. Mr. F. D. O'Flyon also made a few remarks on the subject of this toast, and touched briefly on a variety of other subjects as well. "The Learned Professions" was the toast next in order. It was responded to by Dr. Day, of Trenton, Hon. L. Wallbridge (who humorously declared that, while doctors were a necessity, lawyers were a luxury, and it was only in a high state of civilization that the latter were properly appreciated), Rev. Dr. Clarke (who again urged the necessity of the citizens doing their utmost to develop the iron industry in our midst), Mr. Geo. E. Henderson (who, among other remarks, deprecated the idea of political parties, the necessity of which he thought was gradually being done away with, and which should be forgotten), and Rev. D. Mitchell, who, in a few graceful remarks, proposed the health of the Chairman and Host. Sheriff Hope responded briefly, thanking the company for the hearty manner in which they had honored the toast. "The Ladies" was enthusiastically honored, and was appropriately and ably responded to by Mr. Geo. Hope, Dr. Farley, and Mr. Geo. Sutherland. Dr. Farley made a speech replete with wit and humor, and successfully worked on the risibilities of the company.

"The Press" was the last toast on the programme, and was duly honored and acknowledged. The company dispersed at a seasonable hour (about 1:30). Nearly every speaker alluded to the recent appointment of Dr. Hope to the Shrievalty of the County, and, while congratulating him on the appointment, also expressed their confidence in him and their satisfaction at the appropriateness and wisdom manifested in the appointment.

One feature of the occasion should not perhaps be allowed to pass without a reference. The banquet was purely a temperance affair, all the toasts having been drunk in cold water, no stronger beverage being visible; yet all who were present last night will admit that it does not require the use of wines or other intoxicants to make a public dinner enjoyable and thoroughly successful.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC 3.

To Advertisers.

The Intelligencer has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 copies, and on Saturdays from 1,100 to 1,300 copies. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the Daily and Weekly Intelligencer. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

Three tramps occupied the cells last night.

The County Council adjourned sine die to-day at noon.

The Anglican Synod is to meet at Kingston on Tuesday next.

Manitoba needs 1,000 servant girls. Belleville might contribute a few.

The County Treasurer's adjourned sale of lands for taxes will take place on Tuesday next.

A little boy named Fred Folden fell in the Central School yard on Wednesday and broke his arm.

Vennor predicted that snow would fall yesterday in the Northern States and Canada, and of course he was wrong.

The promised synopsis of the Rev. Mr. McLean's sermon before the St. Andrew's Society will be found on the first page of this day's issue.

Work on the Trent Valley R. R. has commenced. There are about fifty men employed grading north of the G. T. R. R., track at Trenton.

Mr. Spragge, Warden of Prince Edward County, visited the County Council this morning, and was accommodated with a seat inside the bar.

Mr. J. Y. Brown, agent for the Mabel Heath Co., is in the city making arrangements for the above Company, which will appear here next week.

It is evident that the shocking bad sidewalks on the lower bridge are not to be relaid this season. A bill for damages from some unlucky pedestrian is a likely result.

The first public entertainment under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Society will be held in the City Hall, on Friday evening next. An excellent programme will be offered.

The popular story "Wooed and Won," which has appeared in the Intelligencer during several months past, was concluded in our yesterday's issue. At an early date we will commence the publication of another equally interesting continued story.

John Bell, Esq., County Solicitor, in a communication which was read in the County Council this morning, approved of the amalgamation of the Grand Junction with the Toronto & Ottawa, Midland, Toronto & Nipissing and other railways, and gave it as his opinion that the scheme, if carried out, would be a great benefit to the County.

At the annual meeting of the Union St. Andrew's Society, of Trenton the following officers were elected for the ensuing year, viz: R. Weddell, jr., President; A. Young, 1st Vice-President; J. A. McColl, 2nd Vice-President; J. B. Christie, Sec-Treas; K. McKinnon, Piper; Drs. H. W. Day and C. McLellan, Physicians; J. Broatch, Standard Bearer; J. Shunie, Marshal.

A number of young men from this city went down to Napanee on Wednesday evening to witness the performance of the Napanee Dramatic Association. They were well pleased with the way in which the play, "Belphegor the Mountebank," was put on the boards, and especially with the performance of Mr. Madden, the leading actor. There was a very large audience, the receipts being about $200.

Mr. Harford Ashley has imported two waggons of an entirely new construction, the entire waggons being of wrought iron, except the boxes and tongues. Mr. Ashley is so impressed with the merits of these vehicles that he proposes to form a company to manufacture iron waggons in Canada. It is to be hoped that he will succeed in his enterprise, which promises a favorable investment.

There was shipped from the Wallbridge hematite mine, from June 20th to Nov. 16th, 10,008 tons gross of iron ore. The ore was shipped by the Bethlehem Iron Company to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, hence by water to Fairhaven. It is probable that during this winter the Company will ship largely by rail, but next year they will resume shipment by water, and on a larger scale than this season.

If some other educational institutions and business concerns would display as much enterprise as do the proprietors of the Ontario Commercial College, a considerable benefit to the country would beyond doubt result. Messrs. Robinson & Johnson have advertised the College in the newspapers published at St. George and Hamilton, Bermuda, and the result is that a number of young men resident in the Bermudas will come to Belleville next April for the purpose of taking a course in the Commercial College.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 2.—Lakes, moderate south westerly to easterly winds, cloudy to fair weather, stationary or high temperature.

Newspaper Generosity.—An exchange very pertinently says:—"Why any one should expect the newspaper publisher to be more generous in squandering his substance than other business men is something that cannot be accounted for, except on the supposition that some people have an idiotic idea that printers set up type for the love of work, and that ink and type and printing presses are gifts from Heaven to sinful men, who publish newspapers merely for the purpose of soothing the pathway of their fellow-men on the rugged road to fortune, and who hope not for reward this side of the grave."

The Century for December.—The second number of The Century Magazine (Scribner's Monthly) contains, appropriately, material in memory of the late Editor-in-chief, Dr. J. G. Holland. Poems in his memory are contributed by "H. H.," E. C. Stedman, and Washington Gladden. One of his poems is printed in autograph fac-smile. This number affords the first opportunity the magazine has had to make extended mention of the death of President Garfield. "The story of President Garfield's Illness" is told by Dr. D. W. Bliss. With Mr. Smalley's paper are two striking portraits—one "Garfield at sixteen," now in possession of the family. Two other papers of a decided personal interest are "The Early Writings of Robert Browning," by Edmund W. Gosse, and "The Life-Mask of Lincoln and how it was Made," by Leonard W. Volk. "A Cruise in a Pilot-boat." by S. G. W. Benjamin, with illustrations by Burns, was prepared on a special commission from The Century. "A Colonial Monastery" is a paper of a curious interest by Prof, Oswald Seidensticker. "The Hieroglyphs of Central America," by Prof. Edward S. Holden, is an attempt to indicate a basis for the study of the Copan, Palenque, and other inscriptions. "The American Student at the Beaux Arts," by Richard Whiting, is a popular account of the experience which awaits an American at the great art-school of Paris. Mr. W.D. Howell's new novel, which begins in this number, is entitled "A Modern Instance," and is evidently going to deal with marriage in New England. A short story by Stewart Chapin—a new writer—has a decided contemporaneous interest, it is entitled "Mr. Jack's Promotion." The other material is miscellaneous and up to the general standard.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

For Sprains and Bruises.—Rub Perry Davis' Pain Killer well into the wounded parts, taking the medicine internally at the same time.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of those difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph B. Inman, Station D, New York City. [w6m143eod

THE GRAND JUNCTION TRACK.

A Conference with Mr. Cox.

Yesterday afternoon a conference was held between the Committee appointed by the City and Mr. G. A. Cox, President of the Midland and Grand Junction Railways. Mr. Jaffray, one of the Directors of the Railway Company, and Mr. Blackwell, Superintendent, were present.

Mr. Cox said that the meeting would be an informal one, and that Mr. Blackwell had prepared plans of McDonald Street, from which it was found that that route was impracticable on account of the heavy grade; that the Directors of the Company were in favor of the adoption of a more easterly route for freight, with a passenger depot east of Brown's foundry. The difficulty he found that arose was the distance to be built, which would be about three miles.

Ald. Dickson said that the chief obection to the road remaining on Pinnacle Street was the using of the lower part of the street for sidings, which the Company would be required to remove at once.

Mr. Cox said the Company had not yet completed the survey of the route west of the river, but would like a proposition from the Committee to lay before the Directors. He said further that the contract for the line from Peterborough to Omemee was already given out, which addition to the road, when completed, would build up a large business on the line.

After further unimportant conversation the Committee adjourned.

News Condensed.

—Mr. Charles Dawson, Home Rule M. P., has been elected Lord Mayor of Dublin.

—A Dublin despatch says 200 cattle on a farm at Carrowguil have been mutilated.

—The elections for the Legislative Assembly in the Province of Quebec are taking place to-day.

—An extra force of police is once more detailed to protect Mr. Gladstone's residence in Downing street.

—Customs collections at Toronto for November show an increase of $53,788.75 as compared with November 1880.

—Brunet and Prevost, two reprieved murderers, have arrived at the Kingston Penitentiary, where they will be imprisoned for life.

—A despatch from New York intimates that Brecken, the absconding cashier of the Bank of Prince Edward Island, is in hiding in that city.

—Over three hundred fishing boats were destroyed by the recent gale on the northwest coast of Scotland, and the nets belonging to them washed away.

—In the German Reichstag on the 1st an item for the expenses of the Economical Council was rejected by 169 to 83, despite an energetic speech by Prince Bismarck.

—Wednesday's earthquake at Agram, in lower Austria, is reported to have been the severest experienced in that shaky locality since the great catastrophe of 1880.

—The value of the output of coal from the mines of Nova Scotia during the eleven months of this year just elapsed exceeded by $23,000 that of the output for the whole of the year 1880.

—A man named John Doolan was found on Nov. 30, hanging to a tree in the woods about 25 miles from Renfrew. Dr. O'Brien, the Coroner, though notified, did not feel justified under the new Coroners' Act in investigating the matter.

—Mr. Schreiber, chief engineer of the Government Railways, has returned to Ottawa after making a thorough inspection of the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways. Several hundred new freight cars and locomotives will be added to the rolling stock of the Intercolonial.

—Hanlan is determined that Boyd shall have no excuse for backing out, and has cabled to England that he will row him for a thousand pounds a side on the Tyne in March next, taking fifty pounds only for expenses. In other words Hanlan has transferred his offer from the Thames to the Tyne in deference to the wishes of the Englishman.

Marine Notes.

The News of yesterday says: "The Hiram Calvin went to the rescue of the Norseman, and Capt. Donnelly succeeded in effecting her release in a few hours. The Norseman was towed to Port Hope, where the small hole in her bottom will be temporarily repaired. She is now on her way to Kingston, where she will be repaired."

The Ontario Bank.—At the meeting of the Ontario Bank shareholders, on the 1st, the resolution of Mr. Glass, deferring action in the matter of the notice of an application for a reduction of the capital stock until the board had been retired, was carried by a majority of 8,000 share votes. The directors were immediately requested to resign, but they declined, under legal advice, to do so until a meeting regularly called for the reception of their resignation was held.

A sure means of becoming useful and popular, in this section at least, is to keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. Then what people are seized with rheumatism or neuralgia, they use your remedy, get well, praise you and buy some for future use.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially vauable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation. and heals the nervous membrance.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at James Clark & Co.'s Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Free of Cost.

All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at Jas. Clark & Co.'s Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-sized bottle will do.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Long Branch, Dec. 2.—A section master and two other men raised a sail on a hand car on the Jersey Southern Railway. One of the wheels broke while the car was running at terrific speed, and the car and men were thrown down a 15 ft. embankment. John Garrison was killed, and others seriously injured.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says:—One of the Government experts states that the cross-examination of Guiteau has already done more to satisfy the experts of the assassin's responsibility at the time he committed the crime than anything else brought to their attention. Charles H. Reed, of Chicago, has been employed to assist in that part of the defence relating to the examination of Government experts.

The Herald says:—Loring, by the direction of the prosecution, made an ophthalmic examination of Guiteau. The examination was witnessed by Drs. McDonald, of New York, Barksdale, of Richmond, Talcott, of Middletown, N. Y. Judge Porter and Mrs. Scoville conversed yesterday regarding Guiteau. The Judge did not concur with Mr. Scoville in his opinion that Guiteau was insane.

A LONG CONCEALED MURDER.

Harrisburg, Pa, Dec. 2.—There is great excitement in Snider County over the arrest of James Layet, charged with murdering a peddler 15 years ago. The crime was revealed by one of the actors in the murder of Kentzler and wife.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE RUSSIAN NIHILISTS.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—It is stated in consequence of Ignatieff's assurance in regard to the complete discomfiture of the Nihilists, the Emperor has determined to remove from Gatchina to St. Petersburg.

Sankowski's attempt upon the life of Tcherevene caused the greatest consternation at Gatchina, and the return of the Court is now indefinitely postponed. It is rumored the Czar was so incensed with Ignatieff that he dismissed him from his post.

GLASS WORKS BURNED.

Pokeepsie, Dec. 2.—The Pokeepsie Glass works were burned last night, with a large quantity of glass. Loss estimated at $200,000; insurance $150,000; incendiary.

NO HOPE FOR FREE TRADERS.

The Times in discussing the tariff convention of New York says it is unwise for English manufacturers to deceive themselves with the expectation of any speedy movement to free trade in America.

FATAL RESULTS OF A BOILER EXPLOSION.

Daylistown, Ohio, Dec. 2.—A boiler exploded in the Wadsworth Coal Company's mine. One man was mortally and another severely hurt.

BIG STRIKE

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 2.—The laborers of the steel works struck on account of a reduction of wages. The works are stopped and 2,500 men out of employment.

LAND AGITATION IN SCOTLAND.

London, Dec. 2.—The greatest demonstration ever held in Scotland in connection with the land agitation took place yesterday at Aberdeen. Two thousand delegates, representing 40,000 farmers, were present Several Scotch members of Parliament attended Resolutions were passed demanding a general reduction of rents, compensation for improvements, the abolition of the laws of hypothec and entail, and other laws in the interest of tenant farmers. It was urged that the legislative changes required must apply to all existing leases. A Farmers' Alliance for Scotland was formed.

Arrived out, the Bothnia and Devon.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints, If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. MERIT CANNOT BE BOUGHT

Neither could Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam be so generally recognized as a radical cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption and all throat and lung diseases unless this distinction were fully deserved. One of its chief recommendations is that it has cured hundreds whom we know and who are living witnesses of its value in these diseases. For testimonials in its favor it is not necessary to search the world over but every dealer in it for any time is able to refer to many whom it has been the means of restoring to health, sometimes after all hope has been lost.

It is sold in almost every town in the Dominion of Canada at the uniform prices of 25 and 40 cents a bottle,—the latter containing double the quantity of the former.

ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

THURSDAY, Dec. 1st, 1881.

Council resumed at 10 o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

The minutes having been read,

The following communication was read:

From Gilbert Bedford, Reeve of Seymour addressed to the County Surveyor, with reference to a boom swung in the Trent by Messrs. Gilmour and Rathbun in such a manner as to endanger Allan's Bridge.—Received and filed.

BY-LAWS.

Mr. Wilmot introduced a By-law to repeal By-law 227. It was on motion referred to the Committee of the whole on By-laws.

With reference to Mr. Rose's By-law to re-establish police regulations in Frankford, the Warden said a new By-law for this object could not be passed at this session. The regulations could be carried out under the old By-law.

Mr. Wilmot gave notice of a By-law providing for the better preservation of the Frankford Bridge from fire.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges resumed, but as there was no further business before the Committee, it rose and reported. The report was referred to the Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

BY-LAWS.

Council went into Committee on By-law, Mr. Caskey in the chair.

The enclosed memorial from the County Council of Kent, with reference to the compulsory registration of dogs, was considered.

The Warden opposed the idea of asking for the legislation mentioned in the memorial. It would result in vexation and confusion.

Messrs. Gordon, Anderson and Macgregor spoke to the same effect. Mr. Macgregor said that in the northern district which he represented the action suggested in the memorial would be very injurious, for it was necessary for sheep raisers to keep a large number of dogs in order to protect the sheep from wolves.

On motion, it was decided to take no action on the memorial.

The By-law to assume as a County road the boundary road between the township of Tyendina in Hastings and the township of Richmond in Lennox & Addington was introduced.

Mr. White stated that the Township of Tyendinaga had expended large sums on the road in question, with the understanding that Richmond would also do so, which it had not done. The people living in the eastern part of Tyendinaga had been unfairly dealt with by the County. They had been obliged to pay for free gravel roads in their own County some 10 or 15 years before they were made free in Lennox and Addington, and when they went to Napanee they were obliged to pay toll. During this year they had been obliged to travel on the mud roads in order to reach the County gravel road, and now it was only fair that they should have a good road in order to reach the markets east and west.

The By-law for the repeal of By-law 722 was introduced for its second reading.

Mr. Wilmot said there was a feeling in his Township that there should be a dog tax re-established; but it would not be wise for one municipality to establish a tax unless all the municipalities acted in concert, for dogs often cross from adjoining townships in order to commit depredations among sheep. It was very hard for farmers who were trying to raise a good class of sheep to occasionally find some of them killed by dogs. The taxing of dogs by all the municipalities together was something like a mutual insurance plan to protect the owners of sheep. If we returned to the old dog-tax for a year or two, it would have the effect of reducing the number of bad dogs, and obliging the owners of good dogs to keep them at home. He strongly urged the advisability of returning to the old plan of taxing dogs.

Mr. Anderson said if he thought the repeal of the By law would stop the killing of sheep he would support it, but he was confident it would not do so, and he would therefore oppose it.

Mr. Pearce suggested that the consideration of this By-law be laid over till the January session in order to obtain an expression of opinion from the people of the different municipalities.

Mr. Kavanagh opposed the By-law. If the inhabitants of Sidney wished legislation of this kind let them have it for themselves, but he knew that the people of the township he represented would not be in favor of it.

Mr. Wilmot consented to allow the consideration of the By-law to be laid over till the January session.

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Mr. Pearce moved that the Warden be instructed to confer with the County Solicitor and obtain his opinion on the question whether the proposed amalgamation by certain railways with the Grand Junction Railway will act prejudicially against the County as stockholders in the Grand Junction, and report to-morrow.—Carried.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means, Mr. Wilmot in the chair.

A large number of accounts were passed.

On motion of the Warden it was decided to have proper repairs made to the chimneys of the Shire Hall

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

It being 12 o'clock, the Warden left the chair.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 2 o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

The Warden read a communication from the Treasurer, asking for an increase of salary on account of the additional labor which he was called upon to perform. He claimed that the present remuneration was not in proportion to the amount of labor performed.

On motion, the communication was received.

The rules were suspended in order to allow the introduction by Mr. O'Flynn of a By-law to amend the By-law fixing the salary of the Treasurer.

The By-law was referred to the Committee of the whole on By-laws.

Mr. Gilmour moved, seconded by Mr. Shea, that the County Surveyor be instructed to have the stone piers under the covered bridge at Trenton repaired during the winter, and that proper approaches be placed in the iron swing-bridge. Mr. Gilmour urged the necessity of the repairs.—Carried.

Mr. Shea moved, seconded by Mr. Gilmour, that the County Treasurer be authoized to accept from the corporation of Trenton $3,000 and apply the same in part payment of a debenture of $6,000 held by the County against the town of Trenton, maturing in 1883.

The mover said that the amount of the debentures had been applied on the sinking fund, and the chief reason for the motion was the fear that future Councils might misapply the sinking fund.

Mr. Ashley asked the mover if he would consent to pay an additional 1 per cent. on the amount, in order to ensure the county against loss. The debenture in question had borne interest at 7 per cent, whereas the County could borrow money at 6 per cent.

Mr. Shea replied in the affirmative

Messrs. Gordon, Haggerty and White spoke in favor of the motion They thought the County should encourage Trenton in its wish to pay its debts.

In reply to a question, the County Treasurer said that debentures to the amount of $29,000 would fall due in September of next year.

Mr. Wilmot pointed out that by accepting the proposition of the Trenton representatives the County would lose 3 per cent. from the time the money was received to the time it would be used, as 3 per cent. was all that could be obtained for it on deposit in the bank.

Mr. Ashley moved in amendment that the consideration of this matter be laid over until the June session. A more intelligent vote could then be given. If this privilege was granted to Trenton, other minor municipalities would ask the same favor, and the County would then lose to a large extent.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried.

BY-LAWS.

The Committee on By-laws resumed Mr. Caskey in the chair.

The By-law to amend the By-laws fixing the salaries of county officials was introduced. The amendments proposed were, to raise the salary of the Treasurer from $900 to $1,000, to fix the salary of the Clerk at $500, and the auditors at $40 each.

The Warden spoke in favor of the By-law. He pointed out that the duties of the Treasurer had greatly increased of late years, while his perquisities amounted to much less than formerly. Besides, he had to pay his assistant $100 over and above the $250 allowed by the County for that object. He moved the adoption of the clause raising the Treasurer's salary.

Mr. Walker seconded the motion.

Mr. O'Flynn spoke in favor of the motion.

Mr. Vermilyea opposed the motion on the ground of economy. He acknowledged that Mr. Wills was an efficient officer, but he considered that retrenchment rather than increase in the county expenses should be the order of the day.

In reply to a question, the Treasurer said that this year there would probably be a surplus in the county finances, for the first time in many years.

Mr. Robinson would like to know how much the "pickings" of the office amounted to.

The Treasurer said the casual revenue was not more than $40 or $50, and the revenue from the drawing of deeds for wild land was about $100.

Mr. White pointed out how the present Treasurer had saved the county large amounts in various ways—principally in the investments of its funds and the management of the sinking fund. He was certain that all intelligent people in the county would endorse the action of the Council in increasing the Treasurer's salary. He claimed that the perquisites of the office were a very small consideration, considering the labor which it was necessary to expend in order to receive them.

Mr. Wilmot said he did not know before that the perquisites of the Treasurer's office were so small. He believed that the present Treasurer had filled the office worthily and well, and he would support the proposed increase.

The first clause of the By-law carried.

The Warden moved, seconded by Mr. White, that the blanks in the clause fixing the annual salary of the Auditors be filled in with the sum of $40 for each.

Mr. Anderson thought the amount too high for six or seven days' work.

Mr. O'Flynn moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Pearce, that the salary be fixed at $30 each.

Mr. Vermilyea spoke against any increase in the salary of the Auditors, as did also Mr. Shea.

The Warden withdrew his motion in favor of that of Mr. O'Flynn.

Mr. Ashley moved in amendment to Mr. O'Flynn's motion that the salary of the Auditors be fixed at $20 each—an increase of $5 each on the salaries of last year.

Mr. White would favor giving the Auditors $30 this year, and fixing their salaries at $25 for the future. The work this year had been much more onerous than usual.

Mr. Haggerty moved in amendment that the clause be not adopted.

A long debate ensued, in which a number of personalities and recriminations were indulged in. Mr. Vermilyea insinuated that several of the Councillors were prolonging debate for the purpose of drawing an extra day's pay. The insinuation was severely commented on by Messrs. Haggerty, Gordon and White.

Finally, the motions were put in the order in which they were moved, and the motion fixing the salaries at $30 was carried.

The third clause of the By-law, fixing the Clerk's salary at $500, was passed.

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted

WAYS AND MEANS.

The Committee on Ways and Means resumed.

The Warden moved that the Treasurer be instructed to pay the requisitions of the County Surveyor and also sums unprovided for on account of gravel roads.—Carried.

The Warden moved that the Treasurer be instructed to obtain information with respect to certain patented lots, and that the information be inserted in his sale patent book.—Carried.

A number of accounts were considered and passed.

The account of H. O'Rourke, for carting grain during the building of the Trenton bridge, was not entertained.

The Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

The Council then adjourned.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, with no appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Head ache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

A General Stampede.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Graduate of Victoria College, Toronto, also Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, PROPRIETOR.

The only Institute of the kind in the Dominion of Canada, permanently established for the cure of all the various diseases of the Head, Throat and Chest, viz.: Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Catarrhal Ophthalmia (Sore Eyes) and Catarrhal Deafness, also Diseases of the Heart.

Our system of practice consists of the most improved Medical Inhalations, combined with proper Constitutional Treatment. Having devoted all our time, energy and skill for the past fifteen years to the treatment of the various diseases of the HEAD, THROAT AND CHEST (during which time we have successfully treated over 30,000 cases), we are enabled to offer the afflicted the most perfect remedies and appliances for the immediate cure of all these troublesome afflictions. By the system of Medicated Inhalation, Head, Throat and Lung affections have become as curable as any class of diseases that afflict humanity. Consultation free, and the prices of the Institute within the reach of all.

The very best of references given from all parts of Canada from those already cured. If possible by all means visit the office personally for consultation and examination. But if impossible to call personally at the Institute write for a List of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address Ontario Pulmonary Institute, 135 Church St., Toronto, Ontario.

LIFE, DEATH, SLEEP.

The summer sun was brightening
The feathery blossomed grass,
The maple leaves were waving
In a green uplifting mass;—
And one sweet voice was singing
Her last earth-song—Alas!—

A summer storm was raging
And roughening the wild Bay;
One white-sailed boat lay driven
And drifting far away—
And a saint-like face gleamed death-white
Through the dark waves and spray.

The summer moon was shining
Through the quiet, lonely night;
The moving Bay lay shimmering,
And sheening silver bright,—
Like a halo round the pure face
Lying so snowy-white!

The summer dawning lightened
That tender lily face,—
That strange lily, floating
Among the waves, for a space,
Alone in the cold dark water
In that weird enshadowed place!

A new fair soul lies sleeping,
In the land where the Spirits rest,
The bud of a heavenly lily
That shall bloom on Her Father's breast
When he wakes all his sleeping flowers
To live the Life of the Blest!

November 27th, 1881.

SLUMBER SONG.

In the winged cradle of sleep I lay
  My darling gently down;
Kissed and closed are his eyes of gray,
  Under his curls' bright crown.

Where, oh where, will he fly and float,
  In the winged cradle of sleep?
Whom will he meet in the world's remote,
  While he slumbers soft and deep.

Warm and sweet as a white moss,
  His small hand lies in mine,
But I cannot follow him where he goes,
  And he gives no word or sign.

Keep him safe, ye heavenly powers,
  In dream land vast and dim!
Let no ill, through the night's long hours,
  Come nigh to trouble him.

Give him back when the dawn shall break,
  With his matchless baby charms,
With his love and his beauty all awake,
  Into my happy arms!

CORRUPT LITERATURE.

"And the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt. And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt."—Exodus, viii., 6, 7.

There is almost a universal aversion to frogs, and yet with the Egyptians they were honored, they were sacred, and they were objects of worship while alive, and after death they were embalmed, and to-day their remains may be found among the sepulchres of Thebes. These creatures, so attractive once to the Egyptians, at divine behest became obnoxious and loathsome, and they went croaking and hopping and leaping into the palace of the king, and into the bread-trays and the couches of the people, and even the ovens, which now are uplifted above the earth, and on the sides of chimneys, then being small holes in the earth, with sunken pottery, were filled with frogs when the housekeepers came to look at them. If a man sat down to eat, a frog alighted on his plate. If he attempted to put on a shoe, it was preoccupied by a frog. If he attempted to put his head upon a pillow, it had been taken possession of by a frog. Frogs high and low and everywhere, loathsome frogs, slimy frogs, besieging frogs, innumerable frogs, great plague of frogs. What made the matter worse, the magicians said there was no miracle in this, and they could by sleight-of-hand produce the same thing, and they seemed to succeed, for by sleight-of-hand wonders may be wrought. After Moses had thrown down his staff and by miracle it became a serpent, and then he took hold of it and by miracle it again became a staff, the serpent-charmers imitated the same thing, and, knowing that there were serpents in Egypt which by peculiar pressure on the neck would become as rigid as a stick of wood, they seemed to change the serpent into the staff, and then throwing it down, the staff became a serpent. So likewise these magicians tried to imitate the plague of the frogs, and perhaps by smell of food attracting a great number of them to a certain point, or by shaking them out from a hiden place, the magicians sometimes seemed to accomplish the same miracle. While these magicians made the plague worse, none of them tried to make it better. "Frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt. And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt."

Now that plague of frogs has come back upon the earth. It is abroad to-day. It is smiting this nation. It comes in the shape of corrupt literature. These frogs hop into the store, the shop, the office, the banking house, the factory; into the home, into the cellar, into the garret, on the drawing-room table, on the shelf of the liberary. While the lad is reading the bad book, and the teacher's face is turned the other way, one of these frogs hops upon the page. While the young woman is reading the forbidden novelette after retiring at night, reading by gaslight, one of these frogs leaps upon the page. Indeed, they have hopped on the news-stands of the country, and the mails at the post office shake out in the letter-trough hundreds of them. The plague has taken, at different times, possession of this country. It is one of the most loathsome, one of the most frightful, one of the most ghastly of the ten plagues of our modern cities. There is a vast number of books and newspapers printed and published which ought never to see the light. They are filled with a pestilence that makes the land swelter with a moral epidemic. The literature of a nation decides the fate of a nation. Good books, good morals. Bad books, bad morals. I begin with the lowest of all the literature, that which does not even pretend to be respectable—from cover to cover a blotch of leprosy. There are many whose entire business it is to dispose of that kind of literature. They display it before the schoolboy on his way home. They get the catalogues of colleges and young ladies' seminaries, take the names and the post office addresses, and send their advertisements and their circulars and their pamphlets and their books to every one of them. The president of one of the finest young ladies' seminaries on the Atlantic coast being absent one day, one of these miscreants came in and secured a catalogue. The president, returning and hearing of it, had his fears excited, and he reported the case to official authority. For two weeks that man was hunted down, and in his possession were found, not only the catalogue of that institution, but the catalogues of fourteen colleges, and in eight of them already he had done the damning work. In the possession of these dealers in impure literature were found nine hundred thousand names and post office addresses, to whom it was thought it might be profitable to send these corrupt things. In the year 1873 there were one hundred and sixty-five establishments engaged in publishing salacious literature. From one publishing-house there went out twenty different styles of corrupt books. Although twenty-four tons of salacious literature have been destroyed by the Society for the Suppression of Vice, still there is enough of it left in this country to bring down upon us the thunderbolts of an incensed God. What has been very remarkable is the fact that more of these publishers of impure literature lived in the city of Brooklyn than any other city—lived here, did business in New York, had their factories some on this side the river, some on the other side the river, but they dared to have their residences in this City of Churches. All of them now driven out, or for the most part driven out, these vultures will alight in other fields, and they must be pursued and exterminated from Christendom. In the year 1868 the evil had become so great in this country that the Congress of the United States passed a law forbidding the transmission of impure literature through the United States mails; but there were large loops in that law through which criminals might crawl out, and the law was a dead failure—that law of 1868. But in 1873 another law was passed by the Congress of the United States against the transmission of corrupt literature through the mails, a grand law, a potent law, a Christian law and under that law multitudes of these scoundrels have been arrested, their property confiscated and they themselves thrown into the penitentiaries where they belonged. Against that good and wholesome and Christian law no good man could make any objection; but it stirred up the animosity and the indignation of a great many people, and they sent up a petition to Congress to compel that body to repeal that good Christian law. The petition rolled up to the door of the House of Representatives asking for the repeal of the law, and the head name on the petition was Robert G. Ingersol, the champion blasphemer of America. He appealed to the House of Representatives with others. That body refused to grant the petition. Then Mr. Ingersoll made application to the Senate of the United States, and that body also refused, so that both houses of Congress rejected the petition. Here is the report. The committee of the House of Representatives May 1, 1878, sent the following report:

"The Committee on the Revision of the Laws, to whom was referred the petition of Robert G. Ingersol and others, praying for the repeal or modification of sections 1,785, 3,878, 3,893, 5,889, and 2,491 of the Revised Statutes, have had the same under consideration, and have heard the petitioners at length. In the opinion of your committee the post office was not established to carry instruments of vice or obscene writings, indecent pictures, or lewd books. Your committee believe that the statutes in question do not violate the Constitution of the United States, and ought not to be changed. They recommend, therefore, that the prayer of the said petition be denied."

That application for the repeal of that good law against the transmission of corrupt and obscene literature through the mails of the United States only demonstrates what you and I know, that the same infidelity which wipes its feet on the Bible and spits in the face of God is the worst foe of American society. I do not wonder that when Robert G. Ingersol applied to the Mayor of Toronto for permission to lecture in that city, the Mayor of Toronto replied: "No, sir. You may have no God in the United States, but we have one up here in Canada and you shall not stand here and blaspheme Him." One of the filthiest creatures who had been sending corrupt literature through the mails of the United States was arrested, tried, condemned and put in the penitentiary. A petition went to President Hayes asking him to pardon the culprit. President Hayes looked over the whole case, saw there was no excuse for the infamy, that there were no extenuating circumstances, and he declined to pardon the miscreant. Then a company of what are called "Liberalists" got together in a meeting and passed a resolution of "deepest sympathy"—these were the two words, 'deepest sympathy'—for that culprit, and the resolution of "deepest sympathy" for that culprit was offered by Robert G. Ingersol, and the resolution was passed amid great acclamation of the people present. Ah! my friends, the day will come when it will be demonstrated—and if no one else will undertake the work I will—that, while Christianity is the mother of all the virtues, infidelity is the foster-mother of all the vices of this century, not one excepted. Any man who could ask for the repeal of that good law against the sending of corrupt literature through the mails of the United States—any man that could do that is the enemy of every decent home in America, and has offered an insult to every clean-minded man and every pure-hearted woman in Christendom.

Now, my friends, how are we to war against this corrupt literature? And how are the frogs of this Egyptian plague to be slain? First of all, by the prompt and inexorable execution of the law. Let all good postmasters, and United States district attorneys, and detectives, and reformers concert in their action to stop this plague. When Sir Rowland Hill spent his life in trying to secure cheap postage, not only for England but for all the world, and to open the blessing of the post office to all honest business and to all messages of charity and kindness and affection, for all healthful intercommunication, he did not mean to make vice easy, or to fill the mail-bags of the United States with scabs of such leprosy. It ought not to be in the power of every bad man who can raise a one-cent stamp for a circular or three-cent stamp for a letter to blast a man or destroy a home. I was glad when I saw how Jay Gould last week pounced upon the culprit who was desecrating our magnificent post office system. Because the culprit lived on Fifth avenue instead of Elm street only made the matter more outrageous. The New York Post Office never did better work than when they detailed fifty postmen to watch the letter-boxes, and the Police Department of New York city never did better work than when they detailed fifty detectives to make summary arrests. The postal service of this country must be clean, must be kept clean, and we must all understand that the swift retributions of the United States Government hover over every violation of the letter-box. There are thousands of men and women in this country, some for personal gain, some through innate depravity, some through a spirit of revenge, who wish to use this great avenue of convenience and intelligence for purposes revengeful, salacious, and diabolic. Wake up the law. Wake up all its penalties. Let every court-room on this subject be a Sinai, thunderous and aflame. Let the convicted offender be sent for the full term to Sing Sing or Harrisburg, and hurl that Governor from his chair who shall dare to pardon before the expiration of the sentence. I am not talking about what cannot be done. I am talking now about what is being done. A great many of the printing-presses that gave themselves entirely to the publication of salacious literature have been stopped, or have gone into business less obnoxious. What has thrown off, what has kept off the rail-trains of this country for some time nearly all the laprash periodicals? Those of us who have been on the rail-trains have noticed a great change in the last few months and the last year or two. Why have nearly all those indecent periodicals been kept off the rail-trains for some time back? Who effected it? These societies for the purification of railroad literature gave warning to the publishers, and warning to railroad companies, and warning to conductors, and warning to newsboys to keep the infernal stuff off the trains. Cleveland, and Rock Island, and Ann Arbor, and other cities have successfully prohibited the most of that literature even from going on the news-stands. Terror has seized upon the publishers and the dealers in impure literature from the fact that over six hundred arrests have been made, and the aggregate time for which the convicted have been sentenced to the prison is over one hundred and fifty years, and from the fact that over one million three hundred thousand of their circulars have been destroyed, and the business is not as profitable as it used to be. How have so many of the news-stands of our great cities been purified? How has so much of this iniquity been balked? By moral suasion? Oh, no! You might as well go into a jungle of the East Indies and pat a cobra on the neck, and with profound argument try to persuade it that it is morally wrong to bite, and to sting, and to poison anything. The only answer to your argument would be an uplifted head and a hiss, and a sharp, reeking tooth struck into your arteries. The only argument for a cobra is a shotgun, and the only argument for these dealers in impure literature is the clutch of the police and bean soup in a penitentiary. The law! The law! I invoke it to consummate the work so grandly begun.

Another way in which we are to drive back this plague of Egyptian frogs is by filling the minds of our boys and girls with a healthful literature. I do not mean to say that all the books and newspapers in all families ought to be religious books and newspapers, or that every song ought to be sung to the tune of 'Old Hundred.' I have no sympathy with the attempt to make the young old. I would rather join in a crusade to keep the young young. Boyhood and girlhood must not be abbreviated. But there are good books, good histories, good biographies, good works of fiction, good books of all styles, with which we are to fill the minds of the young so that there will be no more room for the useless and the vicious than there is room for chaff in a bushel measure which is already filled with Michigan wheat. Why are fifty per cent. of the criminals in the jails and penitentiaries of the United States to-day under twenty-one years of age—many of them under seventeen, under sixteen, under fifteen, under fourteen, under thirteen? Walk along the corridors of the Tombs prison in New York and look for yourselves. Bad books, bad newspapers bewitched them as soon as they got out of the cradle. Beware of all those stories which [illegible] wrong. Beware of all those books which [illegible] that ends in perdition seem to be the road to Paradise. Do not glorify the dirk and the pistol. Do not call the desperado brave, or the libertine gallant. Teach our young people that if they go down into the swamps and marshes to watch their jack-o'-lanterns dance on decay and rottenness they will catch malaria and death. "Oh!" says some man, "I am a business man, and I have no time to examine what my children read, I have no time to inspect the books that come into my household. If your children were threatened with the typhoid fever would you have time to go for the doctor? Would you have time to watch the progress of the disease? Would you have time for the funeral? In the presence of my God I warn you of the fact that your children are threatened with moral and spiritual typhoid, and that unless the thing is stopped it will be to them funeral of body, funeral of mind, funeral of soul. Three funerals in one day. My word to this vast multitude of young people; Do not touch, do not borrow, do not buy a corrupt book or a corrupt picture. A book will decide a man's destiny for good or for evil. The book you read yesterday may have decided you for time and for eternity, or it may be a book that may come into your possession to-morrow. A good book—who can exaggerate its power? Benjamin Franklin said that his reading of Cotton Mather's "Essay to Do Good" in childhood gave him holy aspirations for all the rest of his life. George Law, the millionaire, now awaiting his burial, declared that a biography he read in childhood gave him all his subsequent prosperities. A clergyman many years ago, passing to the far West, stopped at a hotel. He saw a woman copying something from Doddridge's "Rise and Progress." It seemed that she had borrowed the book, and there were same things she wanted especially to remember. The clergyman had in his satchel a copy of Doddridge's "Rise and Progress," and so he made her a present of it. Thirty years passed on. The clergyman came that way, and he asked where the woman was whom he had seen long ago. They said "She lives yonder in that beautiful house." He went there and said to her, "Do you remember me?" She said, "No, I do not." He said, "Do you remember a man who gave you Doddridge's 'Rise and Progress' thirty years ago?" "Oh! yes; I remember. That book saved my soul. I loaned the book to all my neighbors, and they read it, and were converted to God, and we had a revival of religion which swept through the whole community. We built a church and called a pastor. You see that spire yonder, don't you? That church was built as the result of the book you gave me thirty years ago." Oh! the power of a good book. But alas! for the influence of a bad book. John Angel James, than whom Edgland never had a holier minister, stood in his pulpit at Birmingham and said: "Twenty-five years ago a lad loaned to me an infamous book. He would loan it only fifteen minutes, and then I had to give it back; but that book has haunted me like a spectre ever since. I have in agony of soul, on my knees before God, prayed that He would obliterate from my soul the memory of it; but I shall carry the damage of it until the day of my death." The assassin of Sir William Bussell declared that he got the inspiration for his crime by reading what was then a new and popular novel, "Jack Sheppard." Homer's "Iliad" made Alexander the warrior. Alexander said so. The story of Alexander made Julius Cæsar and Charles XII. both men of blood. Have you in your pocket or in your trunk, or in your desk at business a bad book, a bad picture, a bad pamphlet? In God's name I warn you to destroy it. Have the courage of the young man who, carrying a large package of infidel books and tracts out toward his village, felt the burden getting very heavy, and his knees knocked together. He sat down to rest. He could not unerstand why that burden should so bear him down. He shouldered it again and started on, but was sickened with it. His knees knocked together again. He couln not go on. He sat down to rest. The third time he shouldered the burden, and it seemed to get heavier and heavier, until at last he threw it down, ripped open the bundle, tore up the infidel tracts and the infidel books, and scattered the fragments to the wind. Alas! the power of a bad book.

Another way in which we shall fight back this corrupt literature, and kill the frogs of Egypt, is by rolling over them the Christian printing press, which shall give plenty of healthful reading to all adults. All these men and women are reading men and women. What are you reading? We see so many books we do not understand what a book is. Stand it on end. Measure it, the height of it, the depth of it, the length of it, the breadth of it. You cannot do it. Examine the payer and estimate the progress made from the time of the impressions on clay, and then on the bark of trees, and from the bark of trees to papyrus, and from papyrus to the hide of wild beasts, and from the hide of wild beasts on down until the miracles of our modern paper manufactories, and then see the paper, white and pure as an infant's soul waiting for God's inscription. A book! Examine the type of it, examine the printing of it, and see the progress from the time when Solon's laws were written on oak planks, and Hesiod's poems were written on tables of lead, and the Sinaitic commands were written on tablets of stone, on down to Hoe's perfected printing press. Examine the binding, and think of the progress made from the covers of oak-board on and on until, fifty years ago, Mr. Pickering, the London publisher, invented cloth binding, making a revolution in bookbindery. A book! It took all the universities of the past, all the martyr-fires, all the civilizations, all the battles, all the victories, all the defeats, all the glooms, all the brightnesses, all the centuries to make it possible. A book! It is the chorus of the ages; it is the drawing-room in which kings, and queens, and orators, and poets, and historians, and philosophers come out to greet you. If I worshiped anything on earth I would worship that. If I burned incense to any idol, I would build an altar to that. Thank God for good books, healthful books, inspiring books, Christian books, books of men, books of women, Book of God. It is with those good books we are to overcome corrupt literature. Upon the frogs swoop with these eagles. I depend much for the overthrow of iniquitious literature upon the morality of books. Even good books have a hard struggle to live. Polybius wrote forty books; only five of them left. Thirty book of Tacitus have perished. Twenty books of Pliny have perished. Livy wrote one hundred and forty books; only thirty-five of them remain. Eschylus wrote one hundred dramas; only seven remain. Euripides wrote over a hundred; only nineteen remain. Varro wrote the biographies of over seven hundred great Romans. All that wealth of biography has perished. If good and valuable books have such a struggle to live, what must be the fate of those that are diseased, and corrupt, and blasted at the very start? They will die as the frogs when the Lord turned back the plague. The work of Christianizing will go on until there will be nothing left but good books, and they will take the supremacy of the world. May you and I live to see the illustrious day! Against every bad pamphlet send a good pamphlet, against every unclean picture send an innocent picture; against every scurrilous song send a Christian song; against every bad book send a good book,—and then it will be as it was in ancient Toledo, where the Toletum missals were kept by the saints in six churches, and the sacrilegious Romans demanded that these missals be destroyed and that the Roman missals be substituted; and the war came on, and I am glad to say that the whole matter having been referred to champions, the champion of the Toletum missals with one blow brought down the champion of the Roman missals. So it will be in our day. The good literature, the Christian literature in its championship for God and the truth will bring down the evil literature in its championship for the devil. I feel tingling to the tips of my fingers, and through all the nerves of my body, and all the depths of my soul, the certainty of our triumph. Cheer up, O men and women who are toiling for the purification of society. Toil with your faces in the sunlight. "If God be for us, who, who can be against us?" Lady Husted Stanhope was the daughter of the third Earl of Stanhope, and after her nearest friends had died she went to the far East, took possession of a deserted convent, threw up fortresses amid the mountains of Lebanon, opened the castle to all the poor and the wretched and the sick who would come in. She made her castle a home for the unfortunate. She was a devout Christian woman. She was waiting for the coming of the Lord. She expected that the Lord would descend in person, and she thought upon it until it was too much for her reason. In the magnificent stables [illegible] had two horses groomed, [illegible] saddled, and caparisoned [illegible] for the day in which her [illegible] second, and He on one of t[illegible] other should start for Je[illegible] the Great King. It was [illegible] delusion; but there was [illegible] was splendor, and there was [illegible] [vis]ion in the dream. Ah! my frie[nds] [illegible] earthly palfreys, groomed and [illegible] shod, and caparisoned for our Lo[rd] [illegible] of heaven. The horse is ready in [illegible] mount, and the imperial rider [illegible] and he that I saw, and behold a [illegible] was given unto him had a bow [illegible] quering and to conquer, and [illegible] were in heaven softer, and [illegible] and on his vesture and his [illegible] ten, 'King of Kings [illegible] Horsemen of heaven, mount! [illegible] God, ride on! Charge! [illegible] shall be hurled back on t[illegible] black horse of famine, [illegible] forever, and the pale ho[rse] [illegible]

Pains and Gripings in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for [illegible] ailment which is not alone confined to children. [illegible] can withstand their salutary [illegible] ing influences. They [illegible] and never inconvenience [illegible] are sold everywhere.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much teeth are susceptible of improvement. Defective [illegible] SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to [illegible]ing tooth powders. It preserves, not scra[illegible] the enamel.

Cruelty to Animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, but men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They [illegible] upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the [illegible] of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty, to animals or men? Every house should keep a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy the evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the chaff and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues

owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. These of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and [illegible] digestible form, all the elements necessary to the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell danger of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Holloway's Pills.—Indigestion and Liver Complaints.—The digestion cannot be imperfect or seriously disordered without the effect of such derangement becoming visible on the countenance. These Pills at once remove the disorder and its unpleasant consequences. They stimulate the digestive and assimilative functions, and consequently promote that great blessing—a good appetite. Holloway's Pills most satisfactorily restore all deranged or diseased action of the many organs engaged in extracting nourishment for our bodies from our various diets—as the liver, stomach and bowels, over all of which they exercise the most salutary control. By resorting at an early stage of the malady to these purifying and laxative Pills, the melancholy and jaundiced dyspeptic is speedily restored to health and strength, and his sallowness gradually vanishes.

How Protection Benefits the Workingman and the Farmer.

Like Artemus Ward's kangaroo, the Bobcaygeon Independent is an "emoosin little cuss" [illegible] free-trader, a thorough Radical, a Malthusian—in fact the self-styled organ of free-thought—our back woods contemporary expresses itself with an air of wisdom, a boldness and an originality which render its editorials at all times amusing. In a recent issue the Independent decla[illegible] that the people of the United States [illegible]e crying out for a reduc- [illegible] the d[illegible] on articles of foreign manufacture [illegible]t that in this matter the wish is father [illegible] the thought there is abundant e[illegible]. The disastrous defeat of the Dem[illegible]c candidate in the last Presidential [illegible]on was due to the belief that his party [illegible] in favor of a reduction of the tariff [illegible]a revenue basis. The South, whi[illegible]w years ago had no manufactures, is in consequence in favor of free tra[illegible]rongly declares for protection. There are now extensive iron and ma[illegible]nufactories in that section, while the so-called tariff reform convention [illegible]eld at Chicago, and as to the p[illegible] of this [illegible] which the free-traders to be [illegible] very hopeful, proved so far a[illegible]ctive in its tendencies, man[illegible]oms duties on foreign arti[illegible] concerned. In order to rea[illegible] understanding as to the [illegible] workingmen and farmers of the United [illegible] strongly favor a protective tariff, we give the following extract from the speech made at the Chicago convention, above alluded to, by the Hon. Titus Sheard, a prominent woollen manufacturer of Little Falls, New York :

"I have just been in the woollen market here, and if I could buy my wool in London, or Australia, or Montevideo, I could buy it for at least two thirds of what I pay here for it, and I want the sheep men and all men to know that if they bring about this great hobby of free trade, they will have to sell me wool for the same price that I could buy in those ports that I have mentioned. A thing is worth what it will bring, and they will find that out to their sorrow. Now I want to say as a manufacturer, and I want to say it with a good deal of feeling, having studied up the matter, that I refute the charge that is made against that branch of industry that I represent—the woollen manufacturers—that we are monopolists, and we want this protection for our own pockets. Now I say it is not so. I say to-day that if I could build my mill, invest my money in brick and machinery, under a free trade, and then go and buy my materials under a free trade, I could make just as much money as I do now. Now I say this intelligently and understanding the meaning of the words. It is not a personal thing with the manufacturers of the woollen interests, but they go a great deal further into patriotic feelings when they fight for a tariff upon the stuff that they buy, and ask for a light protection upon the stuff that they produce. Now, having built my mill under free trade, the question comes, can I sell my production? That is the legitimate line of argument. [illegible] get my mill and my wool and my dyestuffs at a low rate, and I must sell at a low rate, I must get my labor at a low rate. This is the legitimate result. [Applause.] And I want to say this, that while I believe a little in the old adage, "That the chewing of the string will be proof of the pudding," I do not fully believe it, and I am inclined to the belief that eating the pudding is rather better proof of it, and I have eaten the pudding upon both sides of the Atlantic. I learned my trade in England, and came to this country twenty-five years ago, and I worked in the mills of this country until I could employ labor myself, and I speak feelingly upon the subject. I came here, and so do hundreds of thousands of people at the rate of seventy thousand a month come here because they can do better. Now, if it were better for the manufacturer it would be better for the laborer, and when the laboring people of the west and through this section of the country, and through all sections of the country, try free trade, and vote it, they are voting the bread out of their mouths. [Applause.] When I came to this country in 1857, as a boy 15 or 16 years old, I worked for 12 York shillings a week. I can hardly hire a boy of that age and pay him much less than almost as many dollars; and why? Because of our tariff. I have boys in my establishment—and I employ about two hundred altogether—I have boys and girls in my establishment that make more money to-day than men and women in the old countries, and I know whereof I speak. I have three brothers, manufacturers in the old country, and I am competing against them, and I say I can do just as well in free trade so far as I am concerned, simply because I know just as much as they do, and have lived in a poorer atmosphere for the last 25 years. The question is the laboring man. If the [illegible]as fully and properly understood; if [illegible] all could make telescopes of our mouths, as suggested by our nautical friend, to bring the points to the surface, we would have more converts to a protective tariff than we have to-day. Now make a comparison of the wages then and now, and twenty five years ago it was just the same as to-day. I am paying boys 14 and 15 years of age from $1 to $1.25 a day for work that men in the older countries—that men, and women with eight or ten children—do, and hence they cannot live as we live; and when I saw the statement made by Mr. Morley, a member of Parliament, in one of our principal papers, day before yesterday, that the mechanic and the laboring man in England were as well off as the mechanic and laboring man of this country I say Mr. Morley did not mean what he said, or he did not know what he was talking about. [Applause.] I do not care if he is a member of Parliament, and has the reputation he has. I tell you the laboring class of England that work in their factories do not have meat once where we have it twenty times, and I know it. I remember my parents buying meat so fat that you and I would not touch it, and the fact that it was so fat and would try out so much grease that they might use upon their bread instead of butter was an indication that it was the kind of meat for them to buy. Where would you get a workingman in this country to do it? It is an old adage, an old saying, over there, when an old lady bought half a pound of fat meat it was because she could get three quarters of a pound of drippings out it. Now, how is it here? We have butter every meal at our tables, and my people live just as well as I do. They have meat three times a day, and I tell you if they did not get it I would know it and there would be a muss. There they buy one piece of meat on Saturday night to last the whole family of ten or twelve for the whole week. I know what I am speaking about. They cannot spin these fine theories around me. I have not only chewed upon the string but I have eaten the pudding, and we will have the people with us, because it is their interest and not the manufacturers' interest entirely. [Applause.]

"No man who has lived in foreign countries, no man who has emigrated from foreign shores, can say conscientiously or with any force that the trade is as good as our protective system. Gentlemen, it brought me here to this country when it was not as good as it is now, and it is bringing thousands upon thousands that we are welcoming to our shores to-day, that are coming because they can do better here; and I tell you sincerely that if ever you convert this country to free trade you will stop emigration, and this country will cease to be an asylum of the down-trodden and poorly fed people of the millions of Europe. Let our farmers understand it; let anybody that has anything to sell or anything to buy understand it. I am paying to-day a dollar a bushel for potatoes in my village. I could come out here and buy them probably a great deal less, and the way it comes is that we have got manufacturing interests and manufacturing men who want them to eat, and have good money to pay for them. [Applause.] Our worthy temporary chairman spoke of the time when you burned corn for fuel, and I tell you if you go back to free trade principles you will go back to just such times as those, and do not forget it. [Applause.]"

Sir John A. Macdonald as an Orator.

Various estimates have been formed of our veteran Premier as an orator. That he can by his addresses sway audiences as no other man in Canada can do, is conceded even by his opponents, who, however, deny that he possesses the attributes of a true orator, and is successful as a public speaker solely because he has a strong personal magnetism and abounds in trickery. In view of this fact, the following estimate of Sir John's oratorical powers by the editor of the Canadian Spectator—himself a speaker of known excellence, and perfectly unbiassed in his opinion—will be found interesting :

But it is beyond all question that at the banquet Sir John Macdonald delivered a remarkably judicious and able speech. It was worthy of the occasion, the man, and his history. To compare it, or the speech of any other of our many political orators, with the speeches delivered on great occasions in England—as many of our critics have lately been doing—is manifestly unjust. In Great Britain, the speaker has the opportunity of dealing with vast international subjects, involving the interests and peace of a continent; in Canada he can only deal with railways, canals and the tariff. And this is not the stuff out of which the higher kind of eloquence is made. Sir John Macdonald made out of the material in his hands all that a brilliant imagination, a ready wit, a correct knowledge, a zealous mind, a fluent tongue, and a strong intellectual grasp upon the subject could compel it to produce. If true oratory is that which commands and influences an audience, Sir John Macdonald is an orator. He cannot utter the well-rounded periods of Mr. Blake; he cannot thunder and lighten like Sir Charles Tupper; at times, when the subject of remark is not congenial, his speech is halting; but when his "foot is on his native heath," and he has mind for the work in hand, by a fine play of imagination which enables him to put himself at once en rapport with his audience; by witticism, dashed with occasional good-natured scorn, and by an overwhelming enthusiasm, he becomes the orator par excellence.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, then they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Editorial Brevities.

The Hamilton Times is informed that Mr. Nimmo, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Statistics, reports that railway freights in that country have declined since 1868 from 2.153 cents per ton per mile to 0.868, or nearly two hundred and fifty per cent. What now of the Times' allegation that the patrons of the railways paid last year $31,000,000 duties on steel rails in higher rates of freight?

The Montreal Star notes the significant fact that the leaders of the Democratic party in the United States, Free Traders in theory, have foresworn the principle, and declare that there is no hope of victory for them so long as they oppose Protection. Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, is the last convert.

The Peterborough Review thus drubs one of the hypocritical humbugs who are always whining over the alleged woes of the poor man: "He (the poor man) pays much more into the treasury, in proportion to his means, than the rich man does." Well, perhaps he does, but if he does so now, he did so to a still greater extent under the Globe's revenue tariff, because then the poor man's tea paid exactly the same as the rich man's, now it pays less; then the rich man's sugar paid just the same ad valorem duty as the poor man's; now the poor man's sugar pays a duty five per cent. less than the rich man's."

The Kingston Whig terms the INTELLIGENCER "an out-and-out party machine," and yet in the same article says that although the Ontario Goverment have carried into effect some very objectionable legislation, against which it protested strongly, that it has not lost even the smallest particle of confidence in that Government. What does the Whig call itself if not a party machine, when assuring the Government that its protests mean nothing, that they are in fact a mere matter of form?

The land question is beginning to assume formidable proportions in Scotland. At a convention of delegates representing 40,000 Scotch farmers, held in Aberdeen on the 1st inst., resolutions were unanimously adopted demanding the abolition of the law of entail and primogeniture, and the passage of an Act affording facilities for the purchase of land, equitable compensation for improvements, and guarantees as fair security for tenure.

The sermon of the Rev. Dr. Talmage on "Corrupt Literature" is very apropos to the discussion of the subject of the provisions of our customs law in regard to the importation of immoral or indecent books. The advocates of the free circulation of salacious literature will find in Dr. Talmage an opponent worthy of their steel.

The Grit organ promises to reply in this evening's issue to the INTELLIGENCER'S article of Thursday night in reference to its false accusation. The subject is a weighty one, you see, and the "able editor" no doubt needed two days in which to cudgel his brains. We have only to suggest that any further apology at his hands is unnecessary. The following, which he has already published, is sufficiently ample and satisfactory :

| THE CHARGE. | THE RETRACTION. |
| Ontario, Nov. 28, | Ontario, Nov. 30. |
| Mr. J. L. Mills, then temporarily on the staff of our contemporary, was instructed to push his way into the room where the convention assembled as soon as the doors opened, and surreptitiously take notes of the proceedings. | WE KNOW NOTHING of the instructions Mr Mills received from the editor. |

The Toronto World—a Liberal journal—concludes an able article on sneak journalism by saying: "If the political parties of this country cannot hold a close convention, or issue confidential circulars to its members without having them 'sneaked,' our party journalism has fallen mighty low. Sneak journalism is discreditable, and what is more to the point, disastrous to the party or paper that employs it." To which all people whose ideas of right and wrong are not badly mixed will readily assent; but to which, evidently because the INTELLIGENCER has been agitating the subject, the local organ of the Grit party says "no."

The Grits of Montreal have at length added arson to their other crimes committed in the interest of party, namely, desk robbing, ballot box stuffing, letter stealing and wholesale bribery. The Witness of the 2nd inst. says :—

The door of the Post newspaper office was this morning flanked with bulletins, one of them announcing the "state of the Poll," while the other, headed "Freedom of the Press" in large letters, stated that the press room of the Post had been burned during the night, and that the fire was the work of an incendiary. At the same time reports were sent flying through St. Ann's Ward that owing to the Post's having championed the cause of the Conservative candidate, political hate had developed incendiaries to burn the newspaper's office. * * * Several bricks are removed from the wall just at the place where the fire is believed to have originated. It is said that an opening was made and that pieces of paper were inserted beside the wooden boarding of the wall and then lighted.

"What next?" is the question that suggests itself. Are Canadian Grits going to continue their course of crime until the political outrages perpetrated in some of the Southern States are paralleled? We trust that the law will be so strictly enforced as to prevent such a consummation.

Cheese.

The Montreal Gazette of the 20th says: "The cheese market remains steady, and holders of fine to choice qualities are firmer in their views. Several lots of French cheese have changed hands during the past few days at an advance of ¼c@½c per lb. Choice September cheese in this market is held at 12c to 12½c, with the sale of 200 boxes reported at 12¼c. At Ingersoll market on Monday 3,540 boxes were sold at 12c@12⅜c and 200 boxes at 11c. The New York market was firm to day, with a good enquiry for fine stock, which has an upward tendency in value. The shipments from Montreal this week amount to 8,414 boxes, and engagements had been made in New York on Tuesday for 30,000 boxes.

THE SHANTIES.—The Madoc Review says: Although men and supplies are almost daily leaving this village for the shanties, yet we learn that the various firms have now in the backwoods a much larger force of men at work than for some years past. In nearly every district work is in full blast, and a good fall of snow is about all that is wanted. The season promises to be an unusually active one for lumberers."

A sure means of becoming useful and popular, in this section at least, is to keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. Then what people are seized with rheumatism or neuralgia, they use your remedy, get well, praise you and buy some for future use.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-billious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially valuable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

A Bonus to Canadian Iron Manufacturers.

From the Mail's Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—At a meeting of the Treasury Board to day an order was passed on the recommendation of the Minister of Customs authorizing the payment of a sum equal to fifteen per cent. ad valorem on the fair market value of English iron fish plates to manufacturers in Canada who have made or may hereafter make such fish plates for use in the original construction of the main line of the Canada Pacific railway. This order is made under the authority of an Act of last session, which provides for the repayment to manufacturers of a sum equal to the duty upon such articles when imported into Canada. In other words, it is a bonus to the Canadian manufacturers to the amount of the duty, and the order is thus calculated to encourage the manufacture in Canada of articles hitherto brought in from abroad.

Hops.

Strictly choice hops hold quite firm, owing to scarcity, and, though some dealers question that as much could be obtained, those who hold the few lots here claim that they will not sell at less than 30c. When it comes to medium goods or even the better grades that are to be had in any considerable quantities, the market is probably a shade easier. Prices are not quotably lower, but in view of more favorable terms in the country markets, together with less encouraging reports by cable from London, the majority of dealers will sell at 25@27c. where they held for somewhat higher figures a short time ago. It is a noteworthy fact, however, that attractive goods offering in the country markets at about 25c. have found ready buyers during the week, and in more than a few instances, it is asserted, purchases were made to cover sales to brewers at 26@27c. If this assertion is supported by facts, and we have reason to believe it is, a fair inference would be that dealers are not so confident of lower prices later on that they will take the slim chances of a further decline. A glance at the receipts and exports thus far will show that the bulk of the heavy buying has been done earlier than customary. The usual lull is experienced earlier as well, and in view of the fact that English brewers have been remarkably tardy in stocking up, there is some basis for anticipating a better conditon of affairs than usual after the holidays: that is providing the estimates of the available supply, and the requirements for export trade are not greatly at variance with the facts.

HOPS.—There is a fair enquiry in Montreal for hops at 20c@23c for good choice lots, the sale being reported of a round lot at 21c. The New York market is firmer, and the prospects are that we shall see lower prices.—Gazette.

PAPER.—Most people are as curious about the manufacture of newspapers as about their contents. The United States Census Bureau furnishes some figures relating to the quantity of paper which the daily and weekly press consumes, and it will be a good thing if similar information find its way into our own census reports. The total consumption last year was 178,000,000 lbs. The State of New York, of course, heads the list with 1,227,602 reams; Pennsylvania follows, next Massachusetts, after that Ohio.

A CURIOUS MIXTURE.—The foreman of a Montreal paper is in trouble. In making up his forms he mixed an article on Catholic advances in Africa with a receipt for making Tomato catsup, and has been dodging the editorial shot-gun ever since. As published the article reads: "The Roman Catholics claim to be making material advances in Africa, particularly in Algeria, where they have 185,000 adherents and a missionary society for central Africa. During the past three years they have obtained a firm footing in the interior of the continent, and have sent forth several missionaries into the equatorial regions. They are accustomed to begin their work by buying heathen children and educating them. The easiest and best way to prepare them is to first wipe them with a clean towel; then place them in dripping pans and bake until they are tender. Then you will have no difficulty in rubbing through a seive, and will save time by not being obliged to cut them in slices and cook for several hours."

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. ## CHANCERY DIVISION

JELLETT VS. JELLETT.

PURSUANT to a [illegible] High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, made in the matter of the estate of Morgan Jellett and in a cause Jellett against Jellett, the creditors of Morgan Jellett, late of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Solicitor, who died in or about the month of September, 1881, are on or before the 5th day of December, 1881, to send by post, prepaid, to Messrs. Denmark & Northrup, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Ontario, the Solicitors of the plaintiff, Sara M. Jellett, the administratrix of the deceased, their christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them; or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefits of the said decree. Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my Chambers in Belleville, in the County of Hastings, on the 7th day of December 1881, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudication on the claims.

TWEEDS.

A Magnificent Line of

WINTER TWEEDS,

Much Below Value,

Just Received at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, DEC. 3.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

Two prisoners were in the cells last night.

No. 1 express was only half an hour late to-day.

THE police found a shop door open again last night.

THE Board of Education will meet on Tuesday evening next.

OVER sixty cars of beef and hogs passed east per G. T. R. this morning.

A MEETING of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will be held on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock.

THE market this morning was the largest one which has been seen for several weeks. Good prices were obtained.

ON Thursday evening next an entertainment is to be held in the lecture room of Holloway St. Methodist Church.

THE boiler which burst at Mr. Geo. Caldwell's farm, Thurlow, on the 23rd of September, is now at Walker & Co's foundry.

REV. M. W. MCLEAN will to-morrow morning preach a sermon in St. Andrew's church, relative to the death of the late Miss Bell.

THIS is the eleventh successive Saturday on which it has rained. The weather prophets will probably succeed in keeping up the little joke for the remainder of the year.

THE children in the south part of the city are looking forward with joy to the City Mission S. School Christmas-tree festival, to be given in the City Hall on Monday, Dec. 19th.

THE entertainment under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Society, which will take place in the City Hall next Friday evening, promises to be a highly successful one. A good programme will be provided.

THE first special G. T. R. train of iron ore, for storage in Rathbun's yard ready for shipment in the spring, will arrive on Monday. Three trains a week will probably be brought in during the winter.

REMEMBER the City mission services at 2:45 o'clock, in Mr. Rathbun's waiting room. S. school at 3:45, and in the even- at 6:30 services at Mr. Thompson's, near the corner of Church and Dundas streets.

MAJOR CROZIER, of the North-West Mounted Police, who commands at Fort McLeod, has again distinguished himself by securing the arrest of seven Indians who had stolen a number of horses from some ranchmen.

[illegible] in receipt of the December number of the [illegible] Journal of the Brotherhood of [illegible]omotive Engineers. It is a[illegible]tractive number, not only in its mechanical get-up, but in a literary sense as well.

MR. W. HOWELL, of this city, who has for some time been engaged in the furniture factory of Gibbard & Son, Napanee, received a severe injury in one of his eyes while working in the factory a few day ago, [illegible] treatment.

A MEETING of the [illegible] British [illegible] inst., in University Church, near Albert College. Addresses will be delivered by Revs. Dr. Clarke, M. W. McLean and A. Campbell.

AT the Police Court this morning, Robt. Cearns appeared on a charge of insanity and was remanded to gaol for a week. James Swan, up on remand for drunkenness, was allowed to go. Lottie Mansfield was convicted of the charge of keeping a disreputable house; but sentence was deferred.

ACCORDING to Mother Shipton, the world has only four weeks more to exist, at the most. Some of those who believe in weather prognosticators and prophets of the Mother Shipton type, should, in view of this great possibility, invest in fans the money that would otherwise go to the purchase of winter clothing.

INTELLIGENCE of the death of Mr. Wm. Owens, of Picton, was received here this morning. Mr. Owens was an old resident of Picton, and had several times filled the position of Mayor of the town. He was very highly esteemed, not only in Picton, but throughout all the Bay of Quinte district, where he was well known.

IN the trial of Lottie Mansfield (charged with keeping a disreputable house) at the Police Court this morning, the evidence of a woman named Dafoe, a witness for the defence, who lived near the prisoner, was telling strongly in her favor, when the Police Magistrate suddenly, by a few pertinent questions, elicited the information that the witness herself had been convicted of a similar charge in Peterborough a short time ago. Her evidence was thus rendered rather worse than useless.

THE annual meeting of Moira Hose Company No. 1 was held last evening. The following is the result of the election of officers:—W. J. Brown, Foreman; 1st Assistant, A. Stratton; 2nd Assistant, S. Cornelius; President, E. Pringle; Vice-President, T. McNamara; C. Lockerty, Secretary; A. McGinnis, Treasurer; Wm. Reeves, P. Smith, R. Wilson, J. Kelly, H. Bonner, Trustees. When the business was concluded the company adjourned to Hambly's, where a very pleasant evening was spent, Assistant Chief Cummings having been elected to preside over the festivities.

A COMPANY of young and well-dressed roysterers, about twenty in number, were engaged last night in the landable exercise of making night hideous with different varieties of cries, when they were suddenly surprised by the police, on Pinnacle St. The names of the parties were obtained, but no further action was taken in the matter. If the offence is repeated, however, they will be treated in the same manner as any one else who disturbs the peace of the community, notwithstanding the fact that they wear good clothes and make pretensions to more than ordinary intelligence and culture.

A TOUCHING sight was exhibited in one of the police cells this morning. A young man, not more than 18 or 19, named Robert Bruce Cearns, sat on a bench pouring forth a ceaseless stream of talk, addressing bits of rags and tin which he had arranged before him, by the names of persons whom he had evidently known. He was, of course, insane. It was learned from his own lips that he came from Liverpool in the spring, and has been wandering about the States and Canada ever since. He came here on a freight train, and was arrested at the station by Constable Cummins, and sent down to the cells.

REMINDER. — Evangelistic meeting in Bethel Hall, to-morrow evening at 8:15 p. m., after the regular church services are over. All are invited.

"CHEEK."—During the absence of the Manager of this journal, a short time since, a communication was published over the signature of "Cheek," reflecting upon the mode and manner in which certain ladies were raising money for certain church purposes. Being a communication, its contents had escaped his attention until called thereto. It is needless to say that had he been at home it would not have appeared. In his opinion it is a matter for commendation, rather than ridicule, for ladies and others to give their time and energies in aiding good works. It is therefore to be regretted that the INTELLIGENCER should have been made the medium of ridiculing those engaged in so laudable a work as assisting in church enterprises.

DEER HUNTING.—The disciples of Mimrod have been unusually successful in Dungannon and Faraday this fall, game of all kinds, more especiall deer, having been very abundant. he weather is mild now, and the snow is nearly gone, but last Saturday there was a snow storm, during which several deer were killed by still hunting. Great numbers of deer have been hounded into the lakes and killed. Messrs. R. Tait and I. Roy one morning, in less than two hours, drove three deer into Bay Lake, each of which they killed. They then went to camp, had dinner, and Mr. Roy went out, still hunting, and killed another. Four deer in less than half a day is certainly good sport in these degenerate times.

"MABEL HEATH."—The beautiful emotional and humorous domestic drama, entitled "Mabel Heath," will be given at the Metropolitan Hall on Wednesday, Dec. 7th. Mis Georgie Gardner will sustain the title role, supported by an excellent company. The play is one which has already met with marked success in the United States, winning flattering notices from the press, and drawing large and gratified audiences. It is said to be a strong play in all respects, being well written, and abounding in strong emotional incidents and highly dramatic situations. The Syracuse Courier, in speaking of Miss Gardner, says:—"Her performance was marvellous in grace and vigor, and there is probably not a woman in the country to-day other than Adelaide Phillips who can equal her."

THE Winnipeg Times of the 28th inst. says:—"Amongst the recent arrivals is John Sutherland, who has been temporarily appointed appraiser at this port. Mr. Sutherland has been for some time in the employment of the customs department, and the wide experience he has gained when stationed in the larger cities, will be of incalculable benefit to those having business with this branch of the department here. The office is pre-eminently one requiring a full knowledge of its duties, and this, Mr. Sutherland's record shows, he is fully possessed of. In fact the appointment is just such a one as will meet the wishes of our merchants and other business men. We understand that R. J. Jones, who has been filling the position for the past few months, resumes his old place in the department."

A VALUABLE SALESMAN.—A salesman having the ability to visit 15,000 persons per week, and who could be hired to say to each one singly just what a dealer would like to have said concerning the goods he has to sell, would be a great traveller, a powerful talker, and a valuable assistant. He would need to travel by [illegible] should have handsome pay for such marvellous work. We offer the services of just such a salesman, and at small cost. The INTELLIGENCER will every week repeat to more than 15,000 persons just what truthful business men choose to say about their goods. Furthermore, this salesman is no dreaded bore. The INTELLIGENCER is so welcome that people pay to have it visit them regularly. They watch for its arrival, introduce it to all the members of the family, and all eagerly listen while it speaks. Hundreds of business men find ample return in having this salesman work for them at the cost of a few dollars per week, according to the amount of talking they want done. Hundreds more have the opportunity to use the same accommodating agency.—Telling Advertisements are Tireless Salesmen.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 3.—Lakes, light to moderate winds, cloudy threatening weather, with areas of light snow, not much change in temperature.

BAZAAR.—The Ladies' Aid Society of Christ Church intend holding their bazaar in the City Hall on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 14th and Thursday the 15th. A large stock of fancy and useful articles will be offered for sale, refreshments will also be supplied. Full particulars will be given in our advertising columns next week.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we [illegible]ssess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

FROM NAPANEE.

Mr Daniel Davy Drowned.

NAPANEE, Dec. 3rd.—Mr. Daniel Davy, of this place, and proprietor of Davy's Summer Resort, opposite Stone Mills, started on Thursday afternoon in a small fishing boat for Picton, to purchase provisions. He was accompanied by Noble Johnston, a fisherman from Bath. Nothing has since been seen of them. The boat was found yesterday in Hay Bay, upside down, and it is the general impression that they are both drowned. Parties from here and Stone Mills are grappling for the bodies, but it is very doubtful if they will be found, as no one seems to have seen the boat capsize.

[This intelligence will be received with deep regret by Mr. Davy's many friends in this city, where also several of his relatives reside. Deceased was a man of very kindly and genial disposition. He was about 33 years of age, and leaves a widow and three children.]

FROM BELMONT.

RAILWAY STATION BURNED.

BELMONT, Dec. 3.—The C. V. R. station here was destroyed by fire about two o'clock this morning. All the books belonging to the company and the American Express Company were destroyed, also considerable freight. Loss about $2,000. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Legal.

The following local cases were before the Queen's Bench in Toronto on the 2nd:

CORPORATION OF THURLOW v. SIDNEY.—Judgment. Rule nisi granted returnable next term.

THE QUEEN v. GRAINGER.—T. Hodgins, Q. C., moved absolute a rule nisi to quash the conviction by the P. M. of Belleville, and order of the General Sessions of Hastings confirming it. The conviction is dated 16th August, 1880, and convicts M. J. Grainger for issuing a tavern license on the 3rd July, he being license inspector, in excess of the number prescribed for the city of Belleville, which is 24. G. D. Dickson, Q. C., and A. R. Dougall, Q. C., showed cause. Judgment reserved.

RAILWAY NOTE.—A cable despatch to the Mail says: "The Great Western Railway Company of Canada has made such arrangements as will enable it shortly to acquire the Credit Valley, and it is the intention of the Great Western to assist in building the Ontario and Quebec line from Ottawa to Toronto without delay. Negotiations to this end have been in progress for several days, and have now been agreed to."

GOLD AND SILVER MINING.—The New York Herald raises the question whether gold and silver mining pays in the United States. It is allowed that a few have made immense fortunes, but it is intimated that the business, as a general thing, is not remunerative. In three States and as many Territories, our contemporary says, the production of the precious metals is almost the sole topic of conversation, and yet only $80,000,000 represents the output. It is queried if men lose their heads when they go in quest of gold and silver.

THE ONTARIO BANK.—At the adjourned meeting of the Ontario Bank shareholders on the 2nd it was decided after a lengthy and acrimonious discussion, to waive the question which had arisen as to the legality of calling another special meeting for the purpose of electing new directors and to give notice of the proposed application to Parliament for a reduction in the capital stock. The notice is not to state the percentage by which Parliament is to be asked to reduce the stock. That point will not be settled until the new board is elected.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&w1y

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

[illegible] Corns, [illegible] all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. SLAVERY IN CUBA.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—Ministers are seriously examining plans for the immediate extinction of slavery in Cuba, with compensation to the planters.

THE IRISH LAND COURT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—There have been 55,000 applications thus far to the Land Court. They are increasing at the rate of five hundred daily. No doubt so soon as the ten commissions which have been appointed get to work the applications will greatly increase. There have been only 178 decisions, as the result of four weeks' work. At this rate it would take over six years to decide the cases already before the Court. Before the year is passed there will be at least 100,000 applications.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

LONDON, Dec 2.—At Bellomullet, Ireland, a coroner's jury found Constable Sullivan guilty of murder in shooting Mary Deane during the riots after the order to cease firing had been given. Sullivan swore he didn't fire at all, and the Crown Solicitor declared that the verdict will be quashed by the Queen's Bench.

An attempt has been made to blow up a lodge-house at Limerick, belonging to a gentleman named Considine. Nearly the whole roof was blown away, and a gable end demolished. The keeper was seriously injured. The outrage is attributed to evictions on the property.

Some civilians attacked a party of soldiers in a Limerick liquor shop to-day. The military were summoned and cleared the streets at the point of the bayonet.

Hugh Sweeney, a Land League organizer, has been arrested at Dublin.

AMERICAN.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 3.—An attempt was made the other day to murder Governor Lido, of Guanajuata, by two men instigated by political enemies.

DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Dec. 3.—The Dairymen's Convention has adjourned, to meet next year at Madison, Wis.

DR. THOMAS EXPELLED.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 3.—The superior court of the Methodist Church has refused to entertain the appeal of the Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Chicago, and expelled him.

FAILURE IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Dec. 3rd.—Paul Swain, drugs and chemicals, has suspended. Liabilities, $150,000; assets large.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Mr. Hamerling, of Williamsport, is assisting Scoville in the preparation of the case and as to authorities upon insanity. It is said Scoville has about a dozen more witnesses. Emory Storrs is one, but the majority are experts. It is probable the expert testimony will occupy the greater part of next week.

Guiteau's testimony has converted many to the belief, not in his entire sanity, but in his entire responsibility. The relatives of Guiteau are reported as feeling keenly the need of a skilled orator to present their theory of the case to the jury.

It is stated Scoville has spent so much money on the case that he is scarcely able to pay current expenses, and thinks of lecturing on Civil Service Reform, as connected with the tragedy, in order to replenish his purse.

THE LUMBER TRADE.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The lumber industry of the north-western States during the past year was unprecedentedly successful. The entire product was 6,500,000,000 feet. The demand was so great that the stock on hand is smaller than a year ago.

MISSOURI LAND FRAUDS.

CLARION, Pa., Dec. 3.—In the trial of Wm. and Addison Burns charged in connection with the Missouri land frauds, one hundred forged deeds have been traced to the defendants. Two notaries swore that they furnished the prisoners with a great number of attested and acknowledged deeds, with the blanks not filled in.

MURDER BY A CHILD.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 3.—Yesterday during the brief absence of his mother, Willie Blake, aged three and a half years, poured kerosene over his baby brother in the cradle, and set it on fire with a match. The infant was horribly burned and soon died.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The Sun says:—It is decided to change the opponent in the Speakership contest. The stalwart element is coming to the front in Kiefer's interest.

The World says:—It is understood that the Government will insist upon the conclusion of early peace between Chili and Peru without dismemberment of the latter, and on terms just and fair to the former.

The Herald says:—W. H. Trescott and Walker Blaine, the commissioners selected by the President to visit Lima and Valparaiso respectively, in regard to the conduct of Hurlburt and Kilpatrick, sail from New York to-day. It is understood at the conference at the President's residence it was decided to sustain the action of the Minister to Peru. This would appear to confirm the report that neither Minister would be recalled.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MURDERERS CONVICTED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Coleman, who shot Coles, her alleged paramour, was found guilty of murder in the third degree.

REFUSING TO PAY RENT.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The tenants of Lord Templemore, in Wexford, and Lord Dunsandle and Clanconal have refused payment until the imprisoned suspects are released.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—At the Guiteau trial the crowd was as great as ever. It was whispered that the defence have subpœnaed Arthur, David Davis, ex-Speaker Randall and Bayard.

Col. Burnside, disbursing officer of the Post Office Department, testified that he formerly lived in Freeport, Ill., and knew the prisoner's family. Mrs. Guiteau was an invalid and he seldom saw her.

Chas Allen lived in Freeport in 1839 and 1840. Mrs. Guiteau was in feeble health and before the birth of the prisoner was some time confined to bed.

Emory A. Storrs knew Guiteau in Chicago by sight as a young lawyer. He met him in Brooklyn, N. Y., five or six years ago. The prisoner overtook the witness and handed him his business card. Did not speak with him above three minutes. The witness saw Guiteau perhaps a dozen times at the National Republican Committees during the late Presidential canvass.

STEAMER ERIN DISABLED.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 3.—The steamer Erin, from Liverpool for New York, [illegible] decks swept.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

[illegible] you will remember this, it will save asking questions as to whether Ozone will preserve th[illegible] that article—it will preserve any thing and every thing you can think of.

There is not a township in the United States in which a live man can not m[illegible] any amount of money, from $1,000 to $10,000 a year, that he pleases. We desire to g[illegible] live man interested in each county in the United States, in whose hands we can place t[illegible] Preservative, and through him secure the business which every county ought to produce.

A FORTUNE awaits any man who secur[illegible] control of OZONE in any Township [illegible] County.

A. C. Bowen, Marion, Ohio, cleared $2,000 in two months. $2 for a test [illegible]kage was his first investment.

Woods Brothers, Lebanon, Warren County, Ohio, made $6,000 on eggs pu[illegible]ed in July, and sold November 1st. $2 for a test package was their first investment.

F. K. Raymond, Morristown, Belmont County, Ohio, is clearing $2,000 a mo[illegible] in handling and selling Ozone. $2 for a test package was his first investment.

D. F. Webber, Charlotte, Eaton County, Mich., has cleared $1,000 a month [illegible] August. $2 for a test package was his first investment.

J. H. Gaylord, 80 LaSalle Street, Chicago, is preserving eggs, fruit, etc., for [illegible] commission men of Chicago, charging 1½c. per dozen for eggs, and other articles in propor[illegible] He is preserving 5,000 dozen eggs a day, and on his business is making $3,000 a month [illegible]r. $2 for a test package was his first investment.

The Cincinnati Feed Company, 498 West Seventh Street, is making $5,000 [illegible]nth in handling brewers' malt, preserving and shipping it as feed to all parts of the count[illegible] Malt unpreserved sours in 24 hours. Preserved by OZONE it keeps perfectly sweet for m[illegible]

These are instances which we have asked the privilege of publishing. There [illegible] scores of others. Write to any of the above parties and get the evidence direct.

Now, to prove the absolute truth of everything we have said in this paper, w[illegible] propose to place in your hands the means of proving for yourself that we have not claimed [illegible] enough. To any person who doubts any of these statements, and who if interested sufficien[illegible] to make the trip, we will pay all travelling and hotel expenses for a visit to this city, if [illegible] fail to prove any statement that we have made.

HOW TO SECURE A FORTUNE WITH [illegible]ZONE.

A test package of Ozone, containing a sufficient quantity to preserve one thou[illegible] dozen eggs, or other articles in proportion, will be sent to any applicant on receipt of $[illegible] This package will enable the applicant to pursue any line of tests and experiments he desir[illegible]nd thus satisfy himself as to the extraordinary merits of Ozone as a Preservative. After [illegible]ing thus satisfied himself, and had time to look the field over to determine what he wishes [illegible] in the future, whether to sell the article to others, or to confine it to his own use, or an[illegible]er line of policy which is best suited to him and to his township or county—we will enter [illegible] an arrangement with him that will make a fortune for him and give us good profits. W[illegible] give exclusive township or county privileges to the first responsible applicant who ord[illegible] a test package and desires to control the business in his locality. The man who secures [illegible]trol of Ozone for any special territory will enjoy a monopoly which will surely enrich him.

Don't let a day pass until you have ordered a Test Package, and if you d[illegible] to secure an exclusive privilege, we assure you that delay may deprive you of it, for the a[illegible]ations come in to us by scores every mail—many by telegraph. "First come first served" [illegible]r rule.

If you do not care to to send money in advance for the test package, we will [illegible] it C. O. D.; but this will put you to the expense of charges for return of money. Our c[illegible]spondence is very large; we have all we can do to attend to the shipping of orders and g[illegible] attention to our working agents. Therefore we cannot give attention to letters which do [illegible] order Ozone. If you think of any article that you are doubtful about Ozone preserving, r[illegible]mber we guarantee that it willl preserve it, no matter what it is.

REFERENCES; We desire to call your attention to a class of references [illegible]ich no enterprise or firm based on anything but the soundest business succ[illegible]nd highest commercial merit could secure.

We refer, by permission, as to our integrity and to the value of the Prentiss [illegible]eservative, to the following getlemen: Edward C. Boyce, Member Board of Public Wo[illegible] E. O. Eshelby, City Comptroller; Amor Smith, Jr., Collector of Inland Revenue; Wul[illegible] & Worthington, Attorneys; Martin H. Harred and B. F. Hopkins, County Commission[illegible] W. S. Cappeler, County Auditor; all of Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio. These [illegible]tlemen are each familiar with the merits of our Preservative, and know from actual obse[illegible]ion that we have without question

THE MOST VALUABLE ARTICLE IN TH[illegible] WORLD.

The $2 you invest in a test package will surely lead you to secure a township [illegible]ounty, and then your way is absolutely clear to make from $2,000 to $10,000 a year.

Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Plurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs, then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry—then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiates and astringent articles, which are of so drying nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

TOBY TYLER; OR, TEN WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS.

BY JAMES OTIS

THE BRAKEDOWN, AND ESCAPE OF THE MONKEYS.

CHAPTER VII.

AN ACCIDENT AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.

Toby's experience of the evening was very similar to that of the afternoon, save that he was so fortunate as not to take any more bad money in payment for his goods. Mr. Jacobs scolded and swore alternately and the boy really surprised him in the way of selling goods, though he was very coreful not to say anything about it, but made Toby believe that he was doing only about half as much work as he ought to do. Toby's private hoard of money was increased that evening by presents, ninety cents, and he began to look upon himself as almost a rich man.

When the performance was nearly over Mr. Jacobs called to him to help in packing up; and by the time the last spectator had left the tent, the worldly possessions of Messrs. Lord and Jacobs were ready for removal, and Toby allowed to do as he had a mind to, so long as he was careful to be on hand when old Ben was ready to start.

Toby thought that he would have time to pay a visit to his friends the skeleton and the fat woman, and to that end started towards the place where their tent had been standing; but to his sorrow he found that it was being taken down, and he only had time to thank Mrs. Treat and to press the fleshless hand of her shadowy husband as they entered their waggon to drive away.

He was disappointed, for he hoped to be able to speak with his new made friends a few moments before the weary night's ride commenced; but failing in that, he went hastily back to the monkey's cage. Old Ben was there getting things ready for a start; but the wooden sides had not been put up, and Toby had no difficulty in calling the aged monkey up to the bars. He held one of the fat woman's doughnuts in his hand, and he said as he passed it through to the animal:

'I thought perhaps you might be hungry Mr. Snubbs, and this is some of what the skeleton's wife give me. I hain't got very much time to talk with you just now; but the first chance I can get away to-morrow an' when there haint' anybody 'round I want to tell you something.'

The monkey had taken the doughnut in his hand like paws, and was tearing it to pieces, eating small portions of it very rapidly.

'Don't hurry yourelf,' said Toby, warningly, 'for Uncle Dan'l always told me the worst thing a feller could do was to eat fast. If you want any more, after we start, just put your hand through the little hole up there near the seat, an' I'll give you all you want.'

From the look on his face, Toby confidently believed the monkey was going to make some reply; but just then Ben shut up the sides, separating Toby and Mr. Stubbs, and the order was given to start.

Toby clambered up on to the high seat, Ben followed him, and in another instant the team was moving along slowly down the dusty road, preceded and followed by the many waggons, with their tiny swinging lights.

'Well,' said Ben, when he had got his team well under way, and felt that he could indulge in a little conversation, 'how did you get along to-day?'

Toby related all of his movements, and gave the driver a faithful account of all that had happened to him, concluding his story by saying, 'That was one of Mrs. Treat's doughnuts that I just gave to Mr. Stubbs.'

'To whom?' asked Ben, in surprise.

'To Mr. Stubbs—the old fellow here in the cart, you know, that's been so good to me.'

Toby heard a sort of gurgling sound, saw the driver's body sway back and forth in a trembling way, and was just becoming thoroughly alarmed, when he thought of the previous night, and understood that Ben was only laughing in his own peculiar way.

'How did you know his name was Stubbs?' asked Ben, after he had recovered his breath.

'Oh, I don't know that that is his real name,' was the quick reply; 'I only call him that because he looks so much like a feller with that name that I knew at home. He don't seem to mind because I call him Stubbs.'

Ben looked at Toby earnestly for a moment, acting all the time as if he wanted to laugh again, but didn't dare to for fear he might burst a blood-vessel, and then he said, as he patted him on the shoulder, 'Well, you are the queerest little fish that I ever saw in all my travels. You seem to think that that monkey knows all you say to him.'

'I'm sure he does,' said Toby, 'positively. 'He don't say anything right out to me, but he knows, everything I tell him. Do you suppose he could talk if he tried to?'

'Look here, Mr. Toby Tyler, and Ben turned half around in his seat, and looked Toby full in the face, as to give more emphasis to his words, 'are you heathen enough to think that that monkey could talk if he wanted to?'

'I know I hain't a heathen,' said Toby, thoughtfully, 'for if I had been, some of the missionaries would have found me out a good while ago; but I never saw any body like this old Mr. Snubbs before, an' I thought he could talk if he wanted to, just as the Living Skeleton does, or his wife. Anyhow, Mr. Stubbs winks at me an' how could he do that if he didn't know what I've been sayin' to him?'

'Look here, my son,' said Ben in a most fatherly fashion, 'monkeys hain't anything but beasts, an' they don't know how to talk any more than they know what you say to 'em.'

'Didn't you ever hear any of them speak a word?'

'Never, I've been in a circus, man an' boy, nigh on to forty years, an' I never seen nothin' in a monkey more'n any other beast, except their awful mischiefness.'

'Well,' said Toby still unconvinced, 'I believe Mr. Stubbs knew what I said to him, anyway.'

'Now don't be foolish, Toby,' pleaded Ben. 'You can't show me one thing that a monkey ever did because you told him to.'

Just at that moment Toby felt some one pulling at the back of his coat, and looking around, he saw it was a little brown hand reaching through the bars of the air-hole of the cage, that was tugging away at his coat.

'There!' he said triumphantly, to Ben. 'Look there. I told Mr. Stubbs if he wanted anything more to eat, to tell me, an' I would give it to him. Now you can see for yourself that he's come for it,' and Toby took a doughnut from his pocket, and put it into the tiny hand, which was immediately withdrawn. "Now what do you think of Mr. Stubbs knowing what I say to him?'

'They often stick their paws up through there,' said Ben, in a matter-of-fact tone. 'I've had 'em pull my coat in the night till they made me as nervous as ever any old woman was. You see, Toby, my boy, monkeys is monkeys; an' you mustn't go to gettin' the idea that they're anything else, for it's a mistake. You think this old monkey in here knows what you say? Why, that's just the cuteness of the old fellow; he watches you to see if he can't do just as you do, an' that's all there is about it.'

Toby was more than half convinced that Ben was putting the matter in its proper light, and he would have believed all that had been said, if just at that moment, he had not seen that brown hand reaching through the hole to clutch him again by the coat. The action seemed so natural, so like a hungry boy who gropes in the dark pantry for something to eat, that it would have taken more arguments than Ben had at his disposal to persuade Toby that his Mr. Stubbs could not understand all that was said to him. Toby put another doughnut in the outstretched hand, and then sat silently, as if in a brown-study over some difficult problem.

For some time the ride was made in silence. Ben was going through all the motions of whistling without uttering a sound, a favorite amusement of his, and Toby's thoughts were far away in the humble home he had scorned, with Uncle Daniel, whose virtues had increased with every mile of distance which had been put between them, and whose faults had decreased in a corresponding ratio.

Toby's thoughtfulness had made him sleepy, and his eyes were almost closed in slumber, when he was startled by a crashing sound, was conscious of a sense of being hurled from his seat by some great force, and then he lay senseless by the side of the road, while the waggon remained a perfect wreck, from out of which a small army of monkeys were escaping. Ben's experienced ear had told him at the first crash that his waggon was breaking down, and without having time to warn Toby of his peril, he had leaped clear of the wreck, keeping his horses in perfect control, thus averting any more trouble. It was the breaking of one of the axles which Toby had heard just before he was thrown from his seat, and when the body of the waggon had come down upon the hard road, the entire structure had been wrecked.

The monkeys, thus suddenly released from their confinement, had scampered off in every direction, and, by a singular chance, Toby's aged friend started for the woods in such a direction as to bring him directly upon the boy's senseless body. As the monkey come up to Toby he stopped through the well-known curiosity of his kind, and began to examine the body carefully, prying into each pocket he could reach, and trying to open the half closed eyelids in order to peep in under them.

Fortunately for Toby, he had fallen upon a mud-bank, and was only stunned for the moment, having received no serious bruises even though he had been thrown such a distance. The attentions bestowed upon him by the monkey served the purpose of bringing him to his senses; and after he had looked around him in the gray light of the coming morning, it would have taken far more of a philospher than ever old Ben was to have persuaded the boy that monkeys did not possess reasoning faculties.

The monkey was picking at his ears, nose and mouth, as monkeys always do when they get an opportunity, and the expression of his face was as grave as possible. Toby firmly believed that the monkey's face showed sorrow at his fall and he believed that the attentions which were being bestowed upon him were for the purpose of learning whether he had been injured or not.

'Don't worry, Mr. Stubbs,' said Toby anxious to re-assure his friend, as he sat upright and looked about him. 'I didn't got hurt any, but I would like to know how I got 'way over here.'

It really seemed as if the monkey was pleased to know that his little friend was not hurt, for he seated himself on his haunches, and his face expressed the liveliest pleasure that Toby was well again—or at least that was the way the boy interpreted the look.

By this time the news of the accident had been shouted ahead from one team to the other, and all hands were hurrying to the scene for the purpose of rendering some aid. As Toby saw them coming, he also saw a number of small forms, looking something like men, hurrying past him, and for the first time he understood how it was that the aged monkey was at liberty, and knew that those little dusky forms were the other occupants of the cage escaping to the woods.

'See there, Mr. Stubbs! see there?' he exclaimed, quickly, pointing towards the fugitives; 'they're all going off into the woods. What shall we do?'

The sight of the runaways seemed to excite the old monkey quite as much as it had the boy. He jumped to his feet, chattered in the most excited way, screamed two or three times as if he was calling them back, and then started off in vigorous pursuit.

'Now he's gone too,' said Toby, disconsolately, believing the old fellow had run away from him; 'I didn't think Mr. Stubbs would treat me this way.'

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

A SAILOR'S YARN.

This is the tale that was told to me
By a shattered and battered son of the sea;
To me and my messmate, Silas Green,
When I was a guileless young marine.

'Twas the good ship Gyactus,
All on the China seas,
With the wind a lee and the capstan free
To catch the summer breeze.

'Twas Capt. Porgie of the deck
To the mate in the mizzen hatch,
While the boatswain bold, in the for'ard hold,
Was winding his larboard watch:

"Oh, how does our good ship head to-night?
How heads our gallant craft?"
"Oh, she heads E. S. W. by N.,
And the binnacle lies abaft."

"Oh, what does the quadrant indicate?
And how does the sextant stand?"
"Oh, the sextant's down to the freezing point
And the quadrant's lost a hand."

"Oh, if the quadrant's lost a hand,
And the sextant falls so low,
It's our body and bones to Davy Jones
This night are bound to go.

"Oh, fly aloft to the garboard streak,
And reef the spanker boom,
Bend a steady sail to the martingale
To give her weather room.

"Oh, boatswain down in the for'ard hold,
What water do you find?"
"Four foot and a half by a [illegible]
And rather more behind."

"Oh, sailors, collar your marlinspikes
And each belaying pin;
Come stir your stumps to spike the pumps,
Or more will be coming in."

They stirred their stumps, they spiked the pumps,
They spliced the mizzen brace;
Aloft and alow they worked, but, oh!
The water gained apace.

They bored a hole below her line
To let the water out,
But more and more with awful roar
The water in did spout.

Then up spoke the cook of our gallant ship—
And he was a lubber brave—
"I've several wives in various ports,
And my life I'd like to save."

Then up spoke the captain of the marines,
Who dearly loved his prog,
"It's awful to die, and it's worse to be dry,
And I move we pipe to grog."

Oh, then 'twas the gallant second mate
As stopped the sailors' jaw.
'Twas the second mate whose hand had weight
In laying down the law.

He took the anchor on his back,
And leaped into the main;
Through foam and spray he clove his way,
And sunk and rose again.

Through foam and spray, a league away,
The anchor stout he bore,
Till safe at last, he made it fast,
And warped the ship ashore.

This was the tale that was told to me
By an honest and truthful son of the sea.

And I envy the life of a second mate,
Though captains curse him and sailors hate;
For he ain't like some of the swabs I've seen,
As would go and lie to a poor marine.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as [illegible] proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world, for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

VEGETABLE
RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Crazy Fits of Elephants.

A SHOWMAN'S RECOLLECTIONS OF KEEPERS KILLED AND THE DESTRUCTION DONE BY THEM.

(New York Sun.)

"Of all mad elephants, Hannibal, I think, was the worst," said Dr. I. A. Graves, the veteran showman at Bunnell's. "Most elephants recover from a mad fit within a few days, but Hannibal—well, he would keep up a tantrum for weeks and months at a time. The longest spell he ever had began one morning in June, 1854, while travelling with Raymond & Waring's menagerie from Pawtucket to Fall River. He broke away from his keeper and ran the highway thirteen miles, smashing everything he could. Talk about elephants being large. Hannibal looked as big as a locomotive that morning. The keeper attempted to check him, and was chased into a swamp. The first vehicle the mad elephant met was a buther's cart loaded with mutton. He smashed the cart, killed the horse, broke the driver's arm and scattered the quarters of mutton along the highway. Two vegetable waggons were upset and the horses were killed, the drivers escaping unhurt. When the fury of the fit was spent, Hannibal was found beneath a tree on the roadside completely exhausted, and for the time submissive. Tusk chains were applied, and for many weeks afterwards he was kept under the strictest surveillance. To approach him during this period was dangerous. On turning out one morning in Burlington, Vt., I found a number of women and children patting him, while he was swinging his ears in evident enjoyment. Then I knew the spell was broken. He was very docile and tractable during the balance of the season.

"Hannibal was the most vicious elephant that ever tramped with a show. In 1839, while we were at Connellsville, Ohio, a stranger gave him a pail of water. He drank the water leisurely, and then, suddenly turning his head, struck the man with his tusks. The poor fellow died. While chained at Williamsburgh, N.Y., in 1857, he took a fit and pursued the keeper into a stoneyard, when he got wedged in among the boulders, and was subdued in this dilemma. Up to 1854 Hannibal was noted for his unchangeable good nature. In those days old 'Put' Townsend used to be his keeper. 'Put had trained him to drive the stake to which it was customary to chain him. One day 'Put' started the stake and handed the sledge to Hannibal to complete the job. Hannibal made a ponderous blow at the stake head, but struck his foot instead. He threw the sledge so for that it required an hour's search to find it, and never would touch one again, Hannibal lived to be 100 years old, and killed twelve men.

"Columbus was another bad elephant. In December, 1849, while with Raymond & Waring's menagerie, Chestnut street, Philadelphia, he killed his keeper, took possession of the show, and retained it for three days, killing in that time two camels a llama, and upsetting a large stove and two animal cages. The doors were barricaded, cannon were mounted in the street, and soldiers paraded the premises in readiness to give him a warm reception should he appear. Finally two keepers entered the building from above, straddled the cross-beams, and dropped a noosed rope to the floor. He walked into the trap, and when he realized that he was caught, submitted quietly to the chaining operation Columbus fell through a bridge at North Adams, Mass., the following summer, and died a few days later.

"Bill Williams, or 'Canada Bill,' as he was professionally called, was Columbus' first keeper. Forepaugh's elephant Romeo killed him in winter quarters at Frankfort, Pa., in 1865. Bill went into the elephant's den to do some chores, and his crushed and mangled body was found a few hours afterward. George Waste was killed in much the same manner by Turner's African Romeo. Before a rescuing party could get his body away from the elephant, it was denuded of everything except one boot. The elephant Pizarro had mad spells oftener than those I have mentioned. In 1850 he killed his keeper and two camels, near New Orleans, and then raided the country for miles around, doing great damage to farm property. Chief, who is the only one of the mad or 'rogue' elephants alive, killed John King, the keeper, with Robinson's show in 1879"

"What causes the madness of elephants?" was asked.

"If you have ever noticed, you may have seen that there are issues from the head of the elephants, just behind the ear. When these are kept open, a thin, watery substance exudes therefrom. I have always remarked that elephants are kindly disposed and easily handled while these issues are open, but just so soon as they become clogged, madness ensues. The insertion of a common tape needle brings relief."

"Is it true that elephants are fond of stimulants and narcotics?"

"Yes, exceedingly so. Now, there's a popular error that should be corrected. It has always been thought that if you gave an elephant tobacco he would never forget it, and years after would kill you if an opportunity presented itself. That is not so. On the contrary, there are but two things which they relish more—appletree boughs and thistles. Their passion for fine cut tobacco is something marvellous. Some time ago when I was travelling with the elephant Conqueror, it was my custom to carry a meerschaum pipe in a particlar pocket in my coat. One day I left my coat within reach of his trunk, and in less time than it takes me to tell it, he had found the pipe crushed it, and swallowed it, case, stem and all. During the few years I was with Conqueror, I reckon he must have eaten several hundred pounds of tobacco. The truth of the matter is, gentlemen, an elephant, like an intelligent person, will eat only what suits his taste, and ne[illegible] [illegible]or harbors any dislike for those [illegible] people who give him disagreeable [illegible] food."

Middlemen of the Arctic Region.

We went ashore on Diomede island and greatly enjoyed a stroll through the streets and houses of the curious Esquimaux village here. It is built on the bald, rugged side of the island, where the slope is almost cliff-like in steepness, and rockiness. The winter houses are wood-lined burrows under ground, entered by a tunnel, and warm and snug like the nest of a field-mouse beneath a sod, through terribly thick and rancid as to the air contained in them. The summer houses are square skin boxes above ground, and set on long stilt poles. Neither the one nor the other look in the least like houses or huts of any sort, but those made of skin are the queerest human nests conceivable. They are simply light, square frames made of drift poles gathered on the beach and covered with walrus hide that has been carefully dressed, and stretched tightly on the frame like the head of a drum. The skin is of a yellow color and quite translucent, so that one feels when in it as if inside a huge blown bladder, the light, sifting in through the skin by the top and all around, yellow as a sunset. The entire establishment is window, one pane for the roof, which is also the ceiling, and one for each of the four sides, without cross sash-bars to mar the brave simplicity of it all.

Most of the inhabitants, of whom there are perhaps about a hundred, had just returned from a long voyage in their canoes to Cape Prince of Wales, Kotzbeue Sound and other points on the American coast, for the purposes of trade, bringing back ivory and furs to sell to the Sschukchis of Siberia, who in turn will carry these articles by a roundabout way nearly a thousand miles to the Russian trading post, and bring back goods to trade back to the Diomede merchants, through whose hands they will pass to the Cape Prince of Wales natives, and from these to several others up the Inland river. The Diomede merchants are true middlemen, and their village a half-way house of commerce between north-eastern Asia and America. The extent of the dealings of those people, usually regarded as savages, is truly surprising. And that they can keep warm and make a living on this bleak, fog-smothered, storm-beaten rock, and have time to beget, and feed, and train children, and give them a good Esquimaux education, teach them to shoot the bow, throw the bird spears and make them, teach them to make use of those marvelous kyacks, kill seals, bears, walrus, hunt the whale, capture the different kind of fishes, manufacture different sorts of leather, dress skins and make them into clothing, build those strange houses, teach them to carry on trade, make fire by rubbing two pieces of wood together—that they can do all this, and still have time to be sociable, dance, sing, gossip and discuss ghosts, spirits, and all the nerve shaking marvels of the Shaman world, shows how truly wild, and brave, and capable a people these island Esquimaux are.—Letter in San Francisco Bulletin.

Large Powers in Bad Hands.

Jay Gould to-day wields, says the Hour, more power than any monarch on earth. The American people, distrustful of their own good sense, suspicious of the officers they elect to legislative and executive positions, will not permit the government which represents them to control the corporations; but they allow four irresponsible individuals the right to tax them at pleasure and the business interests of the country are absolutely at their mercy. In every other nation on earth the telegraph is a part of the postal service and is owned and controlled by the government. In this country the telegraph is practically the property of one man and he the most dangerous and unfit person for such a trust to be found anywhere. The owner of the telegraph is absolute master of the press. Without the news, the journals of the day would be impotent. Jay Gould can issue the order and the offending journal becomes bankrupt. He is also in a position to misquote the markets of the world. A variation of one cent a bushel in grain, of one penny a pound in cotton, is a fortune in one day to him who can make that quotation. Jay Gould has the power to misquote on the markets of the world every product and security dealt in on our exchanges. In any other country than the United States the whole nation would rise and protest against such astounding authority being lodged in the hands of the purest of men.

Electricity as a Motor.

Though no great feat of hauling, or heaving or pushing has yet been performed by electricity, we know the force can be made to push and haul and heave. A man has driven about Paris in an electric tricycle; a girl has sewed a shirt with a sewing machine moved by the same power; a bit of rock has been attacked by an electric borer; a toy boat runs about in a lake, driven by electricity; and, best of all, Messrs. Siemens are now carrying passengers in a "train," which has no other motor than the electric "fluid," or modification of motion, or whatever it ought to be called. It is not only probable, but certain, that many of the difficulties now impeding the application of the force to heavy work will be dissolved, under the pressure of the brain-power now applied to them from every corner of the civilized world; and quite possible that in a year or two a cheap method of generating electricity will be applied—not discovered, for we known already that falling water, in governable masses, is what is wanted—and that the storage of the force will not only be a credible, but an easily accomplished process. That is not supposing more than has occurred in the application of electricity to message-sending, and that accomplished, and cost reduced, as science always reduces it, we should have from the new agent at least two things—a light, full, permanent and cheap, to be used whenever wanted, in the street, workshop and house, as in the mine, and a motor, manageable, tireless light, and as effective for small work in the hands of the individual as for great work in the hands of a mighty company. That which will drive a railway train will drive a girl's sewing machine, or a boy's mechanical horse; that which will urge a rock-borer will help to carve a sixpenny bloodstone seal. Electricity can be made to perform all tasks that can be performed by unintelligent force.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be sa[illegible] of the ever-faithful wife and mot[illegible]er, constantly watching and caring f[illegible] her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

Arcades Ambo.

Charles Lever in his well-known novel Davenport Dunn, describes the leading characteristics of two of the prominent characters as follows: "One grew his facts like raw material, from which the other manufactured the curious wares with which he amused his fancy." A more happy analysis of the distinguishing features in the characters of the "inspirer" and his amanuensis who claims to belong to "the higher intellectual castes" could not have been written than is above given. Detected in their attempt to misrepresent this journal and their untruthful fully exposed, they seek, in their Saturday night's issue, to escape from the dilemma in which they placed themselves, under cover of a fusilade of vile abuse which would do credit to a Dublin huxter, and by the invention of another falsehood, which, however, will not avail them. It is as follows:

> Personally we know nothing about the instructions Mr. Mills received from "the editor," but we have authority for saying that he was directed "to push his way into the room, &c." We will take the word of our informant in preference to that of "the editor of the INTELLIGENCER."

This invention conveys the idea that a third party overheard the instructions given to Mr. Mills, which assertion is a fabrication pure and simple. But, in order to end the matter, we give Mr. Mills' statement in that regard, which he has furnished in a letter dated from Battle Creek, Michigan, on November 30th:—

> On the afternoon of the day of the holding of the convention, after submitting my manuscript to yourself, I asked: Was there anything else I could do outside? You answered in this manner: "There is a meeting of the Reform Association this afternoon; I do not know whether it is private or public; if it is the latter go there and take a report of the proceedings."

With this we leave the literary arcades ambo. Their web of untruth is a tangled one, but it has now been unravelled and nobody who has perused their vulgar personalities will commiserate them in their discomfiture.

Editorial Breveties.

By the aid of English speaking Conservative voters, who voted for supporters of Mr. Joly because of that gentleman's Protestantism and personal popularity, the Rouges returned their candidates in two out of the three divisions of Montreal. This is all the comfort they have in connection with the Provincial elections. Had not Mr. Doherty been a land leaguer, even this small comfort would have been denied them, as in such case the western division would have pronounced against them.

How terribly hard up for a grievance the Toronto Tribune must be when it says of the intention of the Syndicate to build the Pacific Railway close to the waters of Lake Superior:—"By the action of the Syndicate that great country, except within some ten or twenty miles of the Lake Shore, will still remain an unproductive wilderness; while had the original line been built, it would have come in for its full share of immigration and thereby become a source of increased revenue to the Dominion." This is rich, in view of the fact that the Grit press have always previously spoken of the country through which the line north of Lake Superior was to run, as a howling wilderness, and predicted that that part of the line would, in consequence, never be built.

Sir Richard Cartwright seems to be under the malign influence of the bad fairies, as he never opens his mouth but asps, toads and other uncanny things fall from it. His references to the Premier are particularly venomous, and not the least so of the many unmanly attacks which he has made on Sir John was his statement before the Junior Liberals of Kingston, that "he never paid any attention to what Sir John said, but always to what he was doing." Fortunately this rabid renegade cannot injure the object of his hatred, whose great popularity, as evidenced by the magnificent reception given to him in Toronto, has evidently stirred Sir Richard's bile.

The various sections of the Grit party are at variance on all leading questions. To the list is to be added the power of veto possessed by the Dominion Government as to Acts passed by the Provincial Legislatures. The Ontario Grits demand the abolition of the veto power, whilst the Quebec Rouges regard it as their only safeguard against the possible dominancy of the ultramontanes. Some of the little birds that do not agree will fall out of the Grit nest.

The Toronto World (Independent Liberal) has become disgusted with Mr. Blake because of his firm adherence to the Globe wing of the party, and dubs him Edward the Uncertain. It likewise utters the following prophecy:

> "Mark our words, and observe that you may see them come true.
> "If Mr. Blake goes to the country in 1882 upon the Grit platform, nothing short of a second Pacific Railway scandal can save him from defeat.

Under the Cartwright tariff the Londonderry (Nova Scotia) iron works dragged out a sickly existence. Under the N. P. they employ 600 hands and distribute $1,000,000 per annum for wages and materials, including $100,000 for freight to the Intercolonial Railway, and consume 70,000 tons of coal per annum. The works have been extended and their output increased by 30 per cent. since the change in the tariff, whilst a town of 2,000 inhabitants has been built up in the vicinity of the works, thus creating a profitable market for the farmer and trader. No amount of argument can overcome the effect of such facts as these.

ONTARIO SYNOD.—On Sunday at morning service, the proceedings in connection with the nineteenth session of the Diocese of Ontario were commenced by the ordination, as Deacons and Priests, of those who had passed the examination of the Bishop and his Chaplains during the past week. This evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Cathedral, the Synod will be opened in the usual way. On Tuesday morning there will be Holy Communion, and immediately afterwards the members will proceed to St. George's Hall for the transaction of the regular routine business.

APPLICATIONS TO PARLIAMENT.—Applications to Parliament are made by the following for incorporation: Mutual Life Association, Nova Scotia Railway Company, Napierville Junction Railway and Quarry Company, Canadian Mutual Telegraph Company, Quebec Timber Company, Rainy River Improvement Company, Manitoba and Saskatchewan Transportation Company, Winnipeg and Springfield Bridge. Application for Letters Patent is made by the Credit Mobilier. Canadian Letters Patent have been issued to the Dominion Sugar and Syrups Company; to the Black Diamond Steamship Company; to the High River Stock Company.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try a 5 cent sample.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially valuable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, sub[illegible] the inflammation, and heals the nervous mem[illegible].

FOR SPRAINS AND BRUISES.—Rub Perry Davis' Pain Killer well into the wounded parts, taking the medicine internally at the same time.

Funeral Sermon.

Rev. M. W. McLean, in St. Andrew's Church yesterday morning, preached a sermon in memory of the late Miss Bell. There was a very large congregation present. Mr. McLean chose his text in Hebrews iv. 9: "There remaineth, therefore, a rest to the people of God." The following is a condensation of his remarks:

When we take man with all his great intellectual, emotional, and spiritual powers, seeking satisfaction somewhere, and yet tossed about on the sea of life—seeking the right and yet often doing the wrong, planning to avoid sorrow, and yet running into it—and when we look upon homes darkened with disappointment, on blighted and stunted lives, and, at the end, death closing the troubled dream—we cannot help thinking what a mystery is life, what a riddle and paradox is man! We have affections, but they are often misdirected; hopes, but they are often misapplied; our whole being is out of tune; "from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, we are wounds and bruises and putrifying sores." This is the verdict of the inspired writer, who also explains the reason. It is sin which brought sorrow and pain and despair into the world, which did not exist before it came. Hence the blind groping of the soul for peace and rest, and something to ease its weariness and pain. There is a rest for the weary, a rock for the sliding feet to stand on—but it is not found in the way which man looks for it. It cannot be revealed by intellectual researches. It cannot be found until man has made peace with his God: until then the very stars in their course are fighting against him. God loves man, and therefore gives Christ to man to show to him the loving and pitiful attributes of the Divine character in order to win his love and confidence, and thus to enable him to find rest for his soul. Christ has supplies for all our needs. What is that which is most common to all men, but the feeling of need—the sense of something to yearn for, some solid ground to rest upon amid the turmoil of life? This is the secret of the power which Christ has on the hearts of men. He comes to us in the everyday walks of life—when we are discouraged by difficulty, perplexed by doubts, or stricken by sorrow, and pours into each breast that remedy which it most needs. He reveals to us the fact that this life is not all, but that there is a hereafter far greater and nobler, where sorrow will be forgotten, where there will be room for the soul's expansion. He reveals to us, in the hour of sorrow, death as it really is. He tells us of the spirit going back to its God when the dust returns to the earth; he does not tell us that the sleep of death means unconsciousness to the soul. "Absent from the body," he says, "is present with the Lord." There is no doubt that the souls of those who die in the Lord pass immediately into His presence when their bodies are consigned to the dust. True, they may not come at once into the full fruition of their reward: that will be reserved for that great day when all shall be judged for the deeds done in the flesh: but as soon as their souls leave their bodies, they are "forever with the Lord." The text tells us of the permanency of the rest for God's people: "there remaineth a rest." How sweet it will be for those who pass from the transitory and passing scenes of earth, to think amid the rest which they are enjoying, that it "remaineth," will never pass away! There, family circles will never be broken up, friends united in heaven will never again be parted. How comforting are the truths and promises of the Gospel to the stricken heart! They bring to us all motives to inspire us in our every-day lives, to lift us above the commonplace routine of life and enable us to see by faith the glorious things which Christ has prepared for us in the life beyond the grave; they cheer the weary and heavy-laden with the thought of endless rest; they strengthen the doubting heart with the assurance that in that abode of light all mystery will be cleared away and we shall see face to face; they comfort the souls stricken by the sorrow of bereavement by the thought that in that eternal home partings will be unknown, and God himself will wipe away the tears from all eyes.

The preacher said he had been led into these thoughts by the recent sad event which had cut off one of the sweetest and most promising lives that had bloomed in our midst, and one of the members of this church. It was not customary for him to preach funeral sermons, but this was an occasion when, if ever, the usual custom should be departed from. She to whom he referred was the grandchild of one of the original trustees of this church—a sturdy member of the Church of Scotland. The awful suddeness of her death, also, seemed to call for special remark from him, weighted as it was with suggestions of the terrible uncertainty of human life. But it was not these considerations that impelled him to speak, so much as the intrinsic excellence of Miss Bell's character, the value of her life to others, and the varied experiences of her short life. Sorrow had early darkened the household of which she was a member, and only two years ago the mother who had guided and cherished her infancy and youth was taken away. That great calamity instantly developed the good and noble qualities which were latent in her character, and the modest, retiring girl was changed into the thoughtful, self-reliant and noble woman. She undertook unostentatiously and quietly the whole duties of a household—and became the chief comfort and the mainstay of her father. Thus she continued, performing in a cheerful, patient and loving way the duties of her life.

Then came the sudden and awful calamity which shattered her strength and deprived her of her senses, followed by those terrible six days of suspense, during which the whole city and countless friends in distant places were moved with sorrow and sympathy, and watched anxiously, as it were, beside the sick bed—and finally death came and dropped the curtain on the dark and profoundly mournful tragedy. When dwelling in thought on this great calamity, we are too apt to ask ourselves why it was allowed to happen; why was she taken, who was so useful, so necessary to the happiness of so many, and such a great number of the useless were allowed to remain? There were so many lives which could have been better spared, which had lost the vigor [illegible] of youth; it seemed hard to [illegible] and freshness [illegible] been cut off when [illegible] us that her life should [illegible] youth, it just began to fulfil the promise of [illegible]. But, after all, was it wonderful that God should have taken her to Himself in the fresh springtime of her life? It may be that she was taken because she was useful, and God saw nobler, greater work for her to do than she had here. If life was to be measured merely by its length, her life on earth was a failure; but it was far from being a failure. True, her life was only in its spring; but, as a spring flower, when crushed, yielded more fragrance than it would if allowed to attain full maturity, it might be that by her death the beauty of her life and character became better known and wrought a profounder and more widely-diffused influence, than would have been the case if she had been allowed to grow to mature womanhood. All who knew her loved her, and they loved her most who knew her best. By those who were not intimate with her, perhaps, her natural reserve of manner was mistaken for hauteur, and only those who knew her well were acquainted with those delicate touches in her character which awoke their reverence as well as deepened their affection for her. Her time was given up to the practice of self-denial. The chief idea of her life appeared to be, consideration for others. When we thought of all that she might done, all the pleasures of society and travel of which she might have tasted had she chosen to do so, we could appreciate the strength as well as the beauty of her character, and the purity of the motive which impelled her to seek not her own happiness, but that of others. But behind these natural graces of character was the strong religious spirit which inspired her. Her heart was filled with the grace of God. She early consecrated herself to God's work, and had striven, humbly yet faithfully, by the help of the Lord, to live up to her high ideal of what a Christian life should be. The kind, thoughtful, and patient spirit which animated her, the preacher said, might be that of everyone of us if we drank at the same fountain of grace that she did. Then, whenever the call of death came, it would find us ready. The sad calamity which we yet mourned brought home to us with renewed force the awful uncertainty of human life. The same sudden call might come to any one of us to-day. As we recognize the fact that we do not know what a day or an hour may bring forth, we should also recognize God's voice of warning: "We know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh." We should seek, and seek now, the love of God, so that when death calls us we may enter into that "rest which remaineth for the people of God."

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, DEC 5.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

THREE prisoners were in the cells last night.

THE Board of Education will meet tomorrow evening.

MR. HUGH C. KENNEDY, proprietor of the Morrisburg Courier, was in town to-day.

MR. WYNNE, formerly of the Dafoe House, is now bar-tender of the Caisse House, Peterborough.

LOTTIE MANSFIELD was on Saturday afternoon sentenced to a year in the Mercer Reformatory, Toronto.

H. CORBY shipped last Thursday 50 barrels of old rye to Halifax, and 50 barrels to St. John to-day. Another lot of 50 bbls will be shipped to Halifax this week.

MISS GEORGIE GARDNER, who takes the title role in "Mabel Heath" on Wednesday evening, is a sister of Mr. Dick Gardner, who was for some time leading cornetist in the Oddfellows' Band.

YESTERDAY morning, Miss Mackenzie, sister-in-law to Dr. Stewart, slipped on the verandah of her house and fell, injuring her right hip-bone severely. Dr. Eakins is in attendance and does not anticipate any serious results.

THE date of the entertainment under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Society has been changed from Friday to Thursday evening on account of the entertainment in Holloway St. Methodist Church, which has been changed from Thursday to Friday evening.

We have been shown a copy of a new song, composed by Mr. J. S. McMurray, of this city, and published by Gordon & Son, New York, entitled "Our Darling Fast Asleep." Both words and music are very pretty, and it would make an excellent concert song.

THE Sons of St. Patrick of Belleville intend holding a grand assembly on the evening of Monday, the 26th inst. They have already secured the services of the Oddfellows' String Band, and, through the kindness of Col. Lazier, the Ontario Hall will be allowed to be used for the occasion.

AT this morning's Police Court Jimmy Swan was brought up (for the third time within three days) charged with drunkenness. He was sent up for two months. T. H. Bradley, charged with drunkenness, was discharged, and the jug of whiskey which he had with him when arrested was confiscated—for the use of the force.

CONSIDERABLE alterations will be made to the Curling Rink this season. The partition at the east end has been taken out, and by this means thirty or forty feet more have been added to the length of the rink. A platform about eight feet deep will be constructed at each end, and this will leave over twelve feet more ice than there was last year.

CITY MISSION services this week:—This evening at Mr. John Hannah's, Moira Street. On Tuesday evening at Mr. Root's, Everett Street. On Thursday evening at Mr. Kyle's, Church Street, last house east. On Friday evening at Mr. John Haslip's, Albion Street, near St. George's Church. All the services at 7:30 o'clock.

A MAN was seen exposing his person on Saturday night on John St. between Hotel and Queen Sts. The scoundrel was not close enough to enable those who saw him to recognize him again. One would think that the fate of Cronk, who was a week or two ago sent to the Central Prison for six months, would have have been a warning to all creatures of his class.

A STIRLING man had occasion to visit the city on Saturday, and during the day tested pretty freely the merits of Belleville whiskey. About 1 o'clock on Sunday morning he was observed wandering about Front St. trying the door of every shop that had a light in it, with the hope that it was a tavern. Finally, he got disgusted at the lack of enterprise of tavern and saloon keepers in failing to give proper accommodation to thirsty wayfarers, and sitting down on the doorstep of a store, he remarked that he did not give a —— for tavern-keepers: he was independent of them. Unbuckling the strap of a satchel which he had with him, he lifted out a half-gallon stone jug full of whiskey, and was pouring the contents down his throat when a policeman came along, and gently led him to lodgings for the night.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 5.—Lakes, increasing southerly to westerly winds, cloudy to fair weather, followed by rain to-morrow, higher temperature.

MARCHMONT HOME.—The working party will be held at Mr. George S. Tickell's, Albert Street, at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the 8th inst. Bible reading given by Wm. F. Jones, Esq., at 8 p. m. All are invited.

O. T. B. A.—A meeting of the Hotel Trade of Belleville was held on Saturday, for the purpose of forming a branch of the Ontario Trade Benevolent Association and Licensed Victuallers' Association for the County of Hastings, and resulted successfully, Mr. Wm. Docter being chosen Chairman and Mr. P. H. Hambly Secretary pro tem. The meeting adjourned until Saturday afternoon next, when the whole trade of the County will attend, and when officers and delegates will be chosen.

A HUMAN RELIC.—One day last week, while an Indian was under-brushing in Culkeen Swamp, Lot 17, 3rd concession of Tyendinaga, he discovered a human skeleton lying on its back in the midst of the underbrush. The skull had become detached from the rest of the body, and was lying on the other side of a root in a position which proved that the man had died with his neck resting on the root. When found, the bones were covered with clothing, but when it was touched it all fell to pieces; even the boots which encased the fleshless feet, crumbled away when they were taken hold of. It is supposed that the skeleton is that of a hunter who was either injured or was taken sick in the forest, and laid himself down there to die. He must have died over twenty years ago, for the underbrush had grown up high all round the bones, so as to form a complete covering for them. It is thought that the man must have been a stranger, for none of the old residents can remember any one being missed from the vicinity who was not afterward discovered, either alive or dead.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

THE DROWNING ACCIDENT.

No Traces of the Missing Men.

NAPANEE, Dec, 4.—Rathbun & Son, of Deseronto, kindly allowed their tug Sherwood to take a load from here to-day to grapple for the bodies of Davey and Johnston, who were drowned on Thursday. Everything possible was done, but as no one saw the accident no idea can be formed as to where the bodies would likely be found. The tug returned this evening with a load of Davey's household goods. Davey's hat, coal oil can, and several articles drifted ashore along with the boat, which fully satisfies every person that both were drowned. The boat was a good substantial fishing boat, but had no ballast in, and the wind was very high and the sea rough. Davey leaves a wife and two children. Johnston lived in Bath, and was unmarried.

VESSEL LOST.—There seems unfortunately to be no doubt as to the fate of the missing propeller Jane Miller which has not been seen since shortly after leaving Meaford on the 23rd November on her last trip for the season to Michael's Bay. A search among the islands near Wiarton has resulted in oars and other belongings of the vessel being picked up, and there is too little reason to doubt that she foundered in the storm or was driven on the rocks. Her passengers and crew numbered twenty-five persons, nearly all of whom belonged to Meaford, Owen Sound, and Wiarton, and there is consequently much distress in those places.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

A NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—It is announced that Prof. Nordenskjold is preparing for a new expedition to the Arctic.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A Dublin despatch announces that Mr. Dillon is seriously ill.

A bailiff's house at Frankfort, King's county, and two adjoining houses, with much property, have been destroyed by an incendiary fire.

The Court of Queen's Bench at Dublin has quashed the proceedings against sub-inspectors O'Brien and Bouchier, who commanded the police at the Ballyragget riot, and against whom a verdict of wilful murder was returned by a coroner's jury.

Miss Reynolds, who has been conspicuous at Beechaven for her advocacy of "no rent," has been served with a summons charging her with aiding and abetting a criminal conspiracy to prevent the payment of rent.

Rogers, a solicitor's clerk, has been murdered near Rathdowney, where he went to serve writs. His skull was battered in. Some arrests have been made on suspicion.

Four persons were arrested under the Coercion Act.

AMERICAN.

CRISIS IN IRELAND.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The Herald's Dublin special says:—It is generally believed the present crisis is the most important of the whole land movement for the people; thus far it as successfully resisted all the strength of Coercion. It is a startling fact that two thirds of the rents are not being paid, and the tenants have no intention of paying them without heavy reductions, which the landlords refuse. The land courts are so slow that the act is, as yet, no remedy whatever for the troubles. The Government did not expect this delay, believing after a few decisions the landlords and tenants would settle between themselves. The country is experiencing a reign of terror. In the eastern counties the assizes have begun and the Judge spoke of the great increase of crime. He said threatening letters of intimidation were everywhere on the increase, and cases of arson were much more frequent. The opinion that Parnell's arrest was a mistake is being every day vindicated.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Herald states that part of Raum's report relating to the Civil Service was submitted to the President, who said he saw no objection to it.

The Tribune says that 145 members of the House will constitute a quorum, and the Republicans will have that number, White of Kentucky having arrived. Several of the leading Republican Senators have expresse an opinion that the contest for the officers of the Senate will not be renewed, but the present incumbents will be retained until March.

It is understood that the President has informed Scoville that if it was necessary he would testify in the Guiteau trial.

The bills providing for the tariff commission, the radical revision of the tariff and the repeal of the various internal revenue taxes, are already prepared and will be introduced in Congress at an early day.

The World: It is reported that a resolution will be offered in the Senate this week, requesting the transmission of correspondence in the Chili-Peruvian complication with Kiew recognizing the South American difficulties by the Senate, and taking such subsequent action as may be recommended by the foreign relations committee.

TANNERY BURNED.

BALLSTON, Dec. 5.—Sam'l Haight's tannery at Milton Centre was burned last night. The lass exceeds $50,000; partially insured. 140 hands were employed.

NEW YORK NOTES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Arrived, the Wieland from Antwerp.

Seventy-six Ohio editors are now visiting this city. One has been swindled out of nearly all the money he had.

A. V. Perrin, a naturalized American citizen, was arrested in Russia last July on a charge of violating a passport given him years ago on leaving Russia that he would return in a specified time. He escaped from Russia, leaving his business affairs there in the greatest confusion. There has been considerable diplomatic correspondence over the case. Perrin has received letters from Washington stating that, as there is no naturalization treaty between the two Governments, the United States is not in a position to demand that her citizens shall have immunity from arrest on such a charge. Perrin therefore obtained permission from the Russian Government to return to Russia, and will do so.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at James Clark & Co.'s Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source, of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

A DISABLED STEAMSHIP.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Arrived out, the State of Pennsylvania, the Jason and the Spain. The steamer Allemania from Hamburg for New York has been towed to Queenstown; she lost her main shaft. She has some cases of small-pox on board.

ANTI-JEWISH FEELING IN RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 5.—A fresh outbreak of the Anti-Jewish agitation in Russia is considered imminent.

HORRIBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—This morning Frank Banke killed his young son by cutting his throat with a butcher knife, and then cut a great gash in his own throat and stabbed himself several times in the stomach. The wounds are not fatal. Banke has been out of employment and was despondent.

BIG SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A Rochester despatch says that Isaac Waterman and Henry A. Taylor, contractors for building the State Line Railway, sue Vanderbilt, who had the bonds of the road in trust, for one million dollars damages, for alleged breach in the contract.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Arrived the Italy, from Liverpool.

THE NO RENT MOVEMENT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—Six hundred of the Duke of Devonshire's tenants have decided not to pay their rents, except with a reduction of 20 per cent.

STEAMERS OVERDUE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Several European steamships are still overdue, but owing to the long passage made by the vessels which arrived last week the agents do not feel alarmed.

COSTLY IRONCLADS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—There is said to be a prospect of considerable unfavorable comment in Congress upon the report of the Naval Advisory board. It is stated the board has decided to receive no recommendation and see no plans except those presented by its own members. The members of the board are charged with being old fogies. It is said it will be shown that an ironclad as powerful as any in the world can be made in this country for one million dollars, instead of for not less than three or four millions, as the advisory board reports.

News Condensed.

—The assessment of Toronto is over $56,000,000.

—The Court of Appeal will not sit in Toronto until further notice.

—Nine new Queen's Counsels have been appointed for the Province of New Brunswick.

—The balance on hand in the Government Savings Bank on August the 31st was $10,038,825.

—On Saturday the standard gauge was adopted on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railroad.

—Prince Leopold's marriage to Princess Helena of Waldeck is expected to take place at Windsor Castle in March.

—At the Guiteau trial on Saturday Mr. Scoville announced that he had subpœnaed President Arthur as a witness.

—In Russia the trial of crimes against the State, as well as those calculated to excite the people, are to be hence forth conducted privately.

—There seems to be a conflict of opinion as to the rumored transfer of the Credit Valley to the Great Western. Vanderbilt is spoken of as being back of the transaction —The total liabilities on October 31st of the banks doing business in the Dominion, as reported to the Finance Department, was $137,199,400, and the total assets $211,551,265.

—The Grits of West Northumberland on Saturday chose Dr. Waters, of Cobourg, as their candidate in the pending election of a successor to Mr. Cockburn in the House of Commons.

—The Austrian Government has ordered its ambassador at Bucharest to suspend personal relations with the Roumanian Government for the present, on account of the latter's declaration regarding the navigation of the Danube.

—The chief point of interest in connection with Guiteau's trial on Saturday was the evidence of E. A. Storrs, of Chicago, who evidently disappointed the defense by expressing the opinion that Guiteau was not insane, but only wanted common sense. Want of money and lack of pleading talent are causing the defense some anxiety.

—Another disaster, involving serious loss of life and great damage to property, has occurred at Minneapolis. Four large flour mills and one cotton mill were destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, involving a total loss of $416,000, on which there is an insurance of $207,000. An explosion in one of the mills caused the loss of five, and probably more, lives.

—Dynamite plots are not confined to Russia and the Nihilists, but it is rather surprising to hear of one occurring in a Canadian city. An infernal machine, operated by clockwork, and containing some ten pounds of dynamite, was discovered beside the Montreal Court House on Saturday night, fortunately in time to prevent its doing any damage.

—The total value of lumber exported from Ottawa to the United States during the eleven months ended November 30 was $2,069,159, being $87,602 more than during the same period last year. The quantity shipped was considerably less than last year, owing to the scarcity of saw logs on account of lowness of water in the Ottawa, but increase in value is owing to the enhanced price at which this season's cut was contracted for.

A sure means of becoming useful and popular, in this section at least, is to keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. Then what people are seized with rheumatism or neuralgia, they use your remedy, get well, praise you and buy some for future use.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. whom we know and who are living witnesses of its value in these diseases. For testimonials in its favor it is not necessary to search the world over but every dealer in it for any time is able to refer to many whom it has been the means of restoring to health, sometimes after all hope has been lost.

It is sold in almost every town in the Dominion of Canada at the uniform prices of 25 and 40 cents a bottle,—the latter containing double the quantity of the former.

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

Catching Cold—Remedies.

While it is easy to take cold in midsummer, colds prevails, though less in clear, steady winter than during the variable spring and autumn. "Catching cold," is usually the result of inequality of temperature in two parts of the body, especially adjacent parts, which disturbs the uniform circulation of the blood. At the place where this disturbance occurs, "congestion" arises, that is, a rush of blood to a part from one direction faster than it is carried off by the chilled blood vessels in the other direction, and this produces serious results if not speedily remedied. This diseased condition may extend over the whole body, affecting most severely any organ already weak.

Thus a cold may come from damp or chilled feet, from even a slight draft of air blowing through a crack, upon one side or portion of the body and cooling it; from standing near a fire or stove, and heating one side while the other remains comparatively cold; from warmer clothing on one part of the body than on another; from lightly dressing the arms and lower limbs, or leaving them naked; from standing over a hot register; from the chilling evaporation of water or moisture, from a portion only of one's clothing; in general, from any cause producing inequality of temperature.

The causes of a cold, named, indicate how to avoid one. Maintaining general vigor by nourishing, well digested food, gives one power to resist an attack. When to be especially exposed, a little tonic, as a grain or two of quinine, taken in advance, may be useful. Stimulants, like alcoholic liquors are but a temporary aid; the reaction after the first stimulating effects, leaves one more subject to take cold than if the stimulant had been omitted.

Simple remedies will usually remove a cold, if taken promptly, before the congestion has produced serious disorganization. When struck with a sense of chilliness, 15 to 30 drops of Aromatic Spirits of Ammonia, in half a tumbler of water, will often start a uniform circulation all through the body, as this quickly enters the whole blood and is stimulating. Soaking the feet in warm water, gradually adding warmer water as long as it can be borne, draws off the blood from all the rest of the body, and often relieves congestion in any local part. Smart friction upon any part or the whole of the skin surface, or a uniform surface sweating, produces like results. But in these cases, special care must be taken to prevent after-chilling of the feet, or any other part. After the feet heating, wipe, dry quickly and cover them warmly.

The best remedy we have found for a recent cold is a moderate movement of the bowels with castor oil, or caustic or other mild cathartic magnesia. This produces a flow of fluid, drawn from the blood to the alimentary canal, and thus reduces the pressure upon any one congested point, just as drawing off part of the water from a flooded pond relieves pressure upon a weakened dam or embankment. This is to be followed by keeping the body warm and comfortable, and toning it up with good food, or a simple tonic like quinine. "Feeding a cold," prior to taking a cathartic, is the worst possible treatment. It is only adding material to increase the congestion.—American Agriculturist for December.

Shelter Saves Food—'s profitable.

Every keeper of animals would actually profit by a little study of chemistry and physiology. Here is a short lesson: All kinds of food, as hay, grain, bread meat, etc., are, like wood, mainly composed of charcoal (carbon) and water, with considerable nitrogen in some of them. To prove this, strongly heat any of the above food materials in a coal pit, or better under glass. Water, with some nitrogen gas will be driven off and can be found in the glass receiver, while only charcoal will remain. Let in more air and the charcoal itself will unite with the oxygen of the atmosphere, and also go off as a transparent invisible carbonic acid gas. This chemical action sets at liberty heat that was before concealed or insensible, the same as when wood or coal is burnt rapidly in a stove producing an active fire; or as when wood decays, but gives off heat so slow as not to be observed——We must have an ever-burning fire in both the animal and human system. If the surrounding atmosphere is cold, and carries off heat by putting in more food, or by surrounding the body with a covering that prevents the escape of much heat.

Is it not plain, then, that by keeping animals warm, by means of close buildings, or shelter against heat stealing winds, less food will be needed, and there will be less waste of flesh in making heat? Any arrangement of shelter, cover, stable, shed, blankets—anything that will prevent the natural warmth from passing away from the surface of any animal—will be a great saving of food required to keep up the absolutely necessary internal life warmth; will prevent loss of flesh; will allow the food to go more to adding to weight of flesh, or the yield of milk, or of wool. Shelter and external warmth in cold weather are most economical and therefore profitable in the keeping of farm stock.—American Agriculturist for December.

A Food Ration for Milk.

Hay, is not rich enough in protein for the best production of good milk, the addition of roots only makes the matter worse; corn meal while improving the ration somewhat, cannot alone with hay make it what it should be. The best ration is not of course, necessarily precisely the same for all cows, and for all conditions; that which would be profitable feeding in one case might not be so in another. But for a guide to work by until we have one that is proved to be better, we may as well take the standard ration given on the high authority of Emil Wolff, and based on the results of careful experiments, even if we shall not in this way always be led to the best results; it will be better than no guide at all, in trying new methods of feeding and of supplementing the fodder produced at home by importations from without. By this standard a cow in milk should have, per day and per 1,000 lbs. live weight, 24 lbs. of organic matter or vegetable substance estimated as perfectly dry, containing 2.5 lbs. of protein, 0.4 lb. of fat, and 12.5 lbs. of corbohydrates, all reckoned as digestible, that is to say, all fodder contains some indigestible protein, fat, corbohydrates, and other matters, but these are counted out in this make-up of the ration.—PROF. CALDWELL, in American Agriculturist for December.

Little Italy is infected with the standing army fever and has it bad. Perhaps this is explicable for the Italians are good fighters. Napoleon was more Italian than Frenchman. But why Italy, of all the countries of Europe, thinks a superior force necessary to her safety it is not easy to understand. The most obvious explanation is that her new national life finds expression in jealousy of outsiders. The best of feeling does not exist between the Italians and the French. Remembering how the Romans conquered the Carthagenians in days of old, Italy looks with pain, not unmixed with distrust, on the growth of French influence in Northern Africa. "Geographically," says Italy, "as well as by tradition, if the site of historic Carthage belongs to either, it belongs to us." And Italy is right. Feeling that she is right, the Italian Minister of State has made up his mind that the army of 333,000 men which is now enrolled is not large enough—"for the defence requirements of Italy," he naively puts it—and he has accordingly decided to introduce a bill on the reopening of Parliament for the creation of two new army corps, to comprise 90,000 men. Evidently Italy must not be forgotten when the peace of Europe is under discussion.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Bee Keeping in Canada.

BY D. JONES, BEETON, ONT.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

"My establishment is acknowledged to be the headquarters for pure queens. I am the largest importer of pure queens and bees; the first and only importer of Holy Land queens direct from the Holy Land (Palestine and Syria). I have selected them and brought them here myself at great expense. I also engaged at a high salary Mr. Frank Benton, of the Agricultural College, Michigan, taking him with me as far as the Island of Cyprus in Asia. I established a large apiary there which is devoted exclusively to queen raising, and since established a still larger one at Mount Lebanon in the Holy Land, not far from the cedars of Lebanon, and near Beyrout. Both the apiaries are under the charge of Mr. Benton, a most superior and scientific queen raiser and bee-keeper, who ships the queens direct to me. I have shipping and forwarding agents to take charge of and forward all bees with great despatch at the following places: Beyrout, in Palestine; Larnaca, in the Island of Cyprus; Port Said, at the head of the Suez Canal; Alexandria, in Africa; Brindisi and Naples in Italy; Trieste, the head af the Adriatic Sea, in Austria; Paris, in France; London and Liverpool, England; New York and Quebec; and have since established an agent at Ceylon and other important eastern ports. It is only by superior forwarding arrangements and mode of packing and preparing them that they reach here in safety. I also am the only one who furnishes pure imported Cyprian and Holy Land queens to the bee-keepers of Europe. Mr. Benton, at Lebanon, is constantly shipping queens to all parts of Europe.

"My honey and experimental bee farms are in and around Beeton; my Canadian queen-raising establishments are located on the Georgian Bay, far from shore, and a sufficient distance from each other to ensure pure fertilization."

WINTERING IN BEE HOUSE.

To do this successfully, it should be so constructed that the out-door temperature cannot affect that of the bee house; and in order to accomplish this its walls should be packed tightly with two feet of dry sawdust, or three feet of chaff packing overhead same thickness and the bottom so protected that no frost can penetrate. Next it should have a ventilating tube at the top, of not less than one square inch to each colony of bees. It should have sub-earth ventilation by means of a tube laid below the depth frost will penetrate, and from one to three hundred feet in length, coming in contact with outside atmosphere at the other end; as air passes through this it is tempered by distance, and comes into the house at an equal temperature. By means of slides at these ventilators, the temperature can be arranged in the bee-house, which should stand from 42° to 45° and in no case should it fall lower than 40°. Now if a bee-house is constructed in this way it will not change its temperature more than from 1° to 3° during the winter, and can be regulated, as before stated, by means of ventilating slides.

PREPARATION FOR WINTER.

All this must be done in the fall. They should be strong in bees, plenty of young, and should be crowded up to have no more comb than they can cover, and their combs well stored with pollen and honey (say 20 to 30 pounds of the latter). If you have not this quantity of honey, feed granulated sugar and water (2 pounds of the former to 1 of the latter) brought to a boil before feeding. This makes as good and even better feed than the best of honey, and should be fed in time for bees to seal it over. Commence to feed immediately after first frost has killed the flowers. No glucose should ever be fed. Winter passages should be made through combs and allow space of half an inch between combs. The last sunshining days in fall remove the lid and cloth from hive and allow the sun to shine in. This purifies and drys them, then put on a cloth free from propolis, that same evening carry bees carefully into house, placing them on a bench 10 to 12 inches from the floor or ground; this keeps bees out of the carbonic acid gas which sinks to the lowest part of the bee-house, and is given off by the bees in the hive. The lids should be removed and only cloth or cushion of chaff or sawdust allowed to remain on hive.

When one row has been placed 2 to 6 inches apart on branches, put strips 1 to 2 inches wide on the rear and front of hives and upon this place another row, having upper row in such a way as to have space between these below centre of the hive placed above, and so on, taking care to have stronger stocks in lower row, leave entrance wide open.

Two thermometers should be placed in each home—one opposite bottom row and another opposite the top, the former indicating 42° and the latter 45°.

Keep house perfectly dark and let them alone until you set them out in the spring unless they show signs of dysentery by soiling the entrace of their hive, in which case take them out quietly on the first favorable day and give them a fly. Have tight-fitting triple doors making two dead air spaces.

WINTERING IN CELLAR.

The same preparation in the fall and management throughout the winter is necessary here as in the bee house, place them at least two feet from the cellar botton. Temperature same as bee house.

Do not allow any decaying vegetables in the cellar with the bees. If they show signs of dysentery and the weather is fine give them a flight, being sure to always put them on the same stand again after first flight. Never leave them out over night, but put them back in the cellar after they return from their flight. Set out of bee house and cellar the first favorable weather when pollen appears.

An Atlantic Express Ferry.

As already briefly stated by telegraph a movement is on foot in New York, headed by Jacob Lorillard, to start a new American line of steamships to Europe. It is proposed to take a passenger from New York on Monday morning and place him in London before Saturday night. The Company believe they will be able to make the trip across in five days, or in five days and a half at the most. Their vessels will be five hundred feet long, and will be built of steel to reduce weight. They will be provided with power three times as great in their proportion to displacement as is obtained by ships now afloat. They will be divided into water-tight compartments, rendering them absolutely unsinkable. There will be fifty such compartments in each ship. No freight of any sort will be carried. There will be no accommodation for immigrants. Everything to be in first class style. Probably higher rates will be asked than are in vogue on the present lines—possibly an average of of $50 more. Passengers will not be assessed for extras under any circumstances. No charges will be made for wines, or for porterage, nor will the servants be allowed to levy heavy taxes in the way of fees. Three ships will be built to start with. Each ship will have accommodation for five hundred passengers, and each will cost over $1,000,000, probably $1,250,000. The boats will not run to Liverpool. Their landing place will be Milford Haven, in Wales, which is two hundred miles nearer London than is Liverpool. Its harbor, too, can be entered on all sides. It is expected that a start will be made by the spring of 1883.

The Pastors and Patti.

A correspondent writes, asking us to explain the why and wherefore of the names of several eminent pastors of this city being appended to the advertisement of Adelina Patti's concert for the relief of Michigan sufferers.

The explanation is easy, and the moral of the tale is very suggestive. The Mayor of the city was pleased to nominate a committee of pastors, theatre managers, merchants and others, who, he hoped would co-operate in raising funds in their several spheres. Some of the ministers declined serving on the committee, preferring, as they had already done, to act in their own churches in their own way. Suddenly appears on the stage an officious person who arranges with the celebrated singer to give a concert for the benefit of the cause. She had made a failure in her first appearance here, but saw in the proposal to give this Charity Concert an opportunity to gain popularity. The advertisement of the Concert was published in the papers with the names of all the clergymen appended to it without their consent, and as if they desired their people to attend!

No blame can be attached to any of these pastors for the appearance of their names in that connection, mortifying as it must have been to some of them.

The moral to be found in it is this. The whole system of giving concerts and fairs, theatricals and excursions and picnics for benevolent purposes is a delusion and a snare. The people who have the means will give what they ought to give if the object is properly placed before them, and this idea of giving them something to get something, is only an appeal to their selfishness and not to their charity. Christians ought to have no part or lot in it.—New York Observer.

They Cursed God and Suffered.

Two singular cases involving the action of superhuman agencies or the result of a combination of circumstances are reported by a Chicago Times correspondent from Little Rock, Ark., and are vouched for by one of the most reputable ministers in Crittenden county. Robert Nelson, aged seventy, has been terribly exercised over the long-continued drouth and one day became very angry and began cursing the Lord for such an affliction. While thus engaged he suddenly fell backward on the ground stricken with paralysis. He has not spoken since, and it is not likely that he ever will. While this scene was in progress a similar event was transpiring in Union county. Three young men were sitting on their horses in the road, discussing the probabilities of rain from a cloud which just then was rising in the west. The youngest of the group, named John Freeman, referred to the drouth and remarked that a God who would allow his people to suffer this couldn't amount to much. As he was speaking the boys were encircled by lightning and the speaker stunned severely, though his companions were unscathed. Recovering, he renewed the subject, bitterly reviling the supreme power. Instantly a bolt of lightning flashed from the cloud overhead and the young man fell dead in his tracks. Nearly every bone in his body was mashed into jelly, while his boots were torn from his feet and the clothing from his lower extremities. The body presented a horrible appearance, being a blackened and mangled mass of humanity. His companions were stunned and thrown on the ground, but not seriously injured. The funeral of the unfortunate young man occurred the next day, and attracted a large crowd, the larger portion of whom were drawn thither by the rumor of the strange events preceding the death of the deceased. When the body was deposited in the grave and the lose earth had been thrown in until the aperture was filled, and while the friends of the dead man yet lingered in the cemetery, a bolt of lightning descended from a cloud directly over the burial place and struck the grave, throwing the dirt as if a plough had passed lengthwise through it. No one was injured, but those present scattered, almost paralyzed with terror. The incident is exciting a great deal of attention, ministers and religious people generally holding that the young man was the victim of the wrath of an offended God, while others assert that both the cases referred to were simply wonderful coincidences, having no connection with causes, either physical or supernatural.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 364ly

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the tooth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

The Proposed Railway Amalgamation.

A letter from Alderman Dickson on the subject of the proposed consolidation of the Grand Junction, Toronto and Ottawa, Nipissing, Midland, Victoria and Whitby Railways, appears in another column. The matter is one in which our people are deeply interested, and Mr. Dickson's communication, the effect of which is to urge upon the people and their representatives the necessity of looking after their interests, is opportune. This wise counsel will not, we trust, be neglected. In the absence of details it is of course impossible to pronounce upon the merits of the scheme, and it is in the interest of all that these should be forthcoming as soon as possible, in order that a clear understanding as to the position of the City and County under the proposed consolidation may be arrived at.

Some Census Comparisons.

Under this heading the Daily Telegraph of St. John, New Brunswick, makes an interesting comparison between the progress made by the older Provinces of Canada and by the New England States in the matter of population. Our contemporary pertinently remarks: "Some people are never tired of telling us that if Canada had been annexed to the United States its progress would have been greater than it has been; others, when they cross the line from even the least progressive of the New England States, into Canada, profess to be stuck with our want of progress and lament that the influence of monarchical institutions should so depress a people. The true test of the value of this kind of talk is in the census returns, and we propose to use them for the purpose of showing that people who employ such language do not know what they are talking about, and are only repeating the ignorant chatter which they have heard used by others who are as ill-informed as themselves. The growth of a population during a decennial period may be influenced by transient causes, but if we take a period of fifty years, and compare the growth of one country with another, during that period, we shall be able to determine pretty accurately which country has within it the greatest elements of progress."

It might have been supposed that the New England States, as forming part of a great nation of whose wonderful progress its people are never tired of boasting, would have far out stripped Canada in respect of increase of population—unenterprising, unprogressive Canada, as our neighbors are fond of saying and as many of the Grits amongst us are fond of echoing—but the contrary is the case, as the following figures, taken from the census returns of each country, clearly demonstrate:

POPULATION OF THE NEW ENGLAND STATES.

|---|---|---|
| Maine | 399,455 | 648,436 |
| New Hampshire | 269,328 | 346,991 |
| Vermont | 280,652 | 332,286 |
| Massachusetts | 610,408 | 1,783,085 |
| Connecticut | 296,675 | 622,700 |
| Rhode Island | 97,199 | 276,528 |
| | 1,953,717 | 4,010,026 |

POPULATION OF OLDER PROVINCES OF CANADA.

| | 1831. | 1881. |
|---|---|---|
| Quebec | 553,134 | 1,358,469 |
| Ontario | 236,702 | 1,913,460 |
| New Brunswick (1834) | 119,457 | 321,129 |
| Nova Scotia (1827) | 123,630 | 440,585 |
| P. E. Island (1833) | 32,292 | 107,781 |
| | 1,065,215 | 4,141,424 |

Place these results side by side and we have the following remarkable showing:

| | 1830-1. | 1880-1. | Increase in 50 yrs. |
|---|---|---|---|
| New Engl'd States | 1,953,717 | 4,010,026 | 2,056,309 |
| Prov'es of Canada | 1,065,215 | 4,141,424 | 3,076,209 |

It requires no minute calculation, says the Telegraph, to show that while the New England States have merely doubled their population in fifty years, the older provinces of Canada have nearly quadrupled theirs in the same period. In other words, our growth in population has been twice as rapid as theirs.

Such having been the result of a comparison between the older Provinces and the oldest of the States, it is only fair to infer that future comparison between our Northwest and the Western States will be equally favorable to the Dominion. Our great fertile belt is only now being opened to settlement, whilst the best of the lands in the Western States have nearly all been taken up, and, with the combined efforts of the Government and the Pacific Railway Company, the tide of imigration will surely be turned towards the Canadian Northwest.

Editorial Brevetıes.

The dangerous work of ascending Mont Blanc is still a favorite pastime of English and American men and women. The number of ascents was greater during the present year than in any former year.

No less than sixteen constituencies were gained by the Quebec Government in the recent election. Amongst these was Three Rivers, where the renegade Turcotte met the reward of his treachery.

Two men shot a match at ten glass balls each at Cobourg on Friday last. One of these doughty disciples of Nimrod hit 3 of the balls, and the other did not hit even one of the ten. Proud of their achievements, a fellow townsman sent their wonderful score to the Mail. The quantity of game is not likely to be decreased very greatly by such marksmen as those referred to.

The Globe is apparently ashamed of its sneak journalism, as it has allowed a whole week to pass without attempting to defend its action, in face of attacks from journals of all shades of political opinion.

Mr. Mackenzie, in reply to the deputation from East York who tendered him the nomination for that constituency, stated that he would hereafter give his decision. Lambton is no longer to be relied upon, but it is still more Gritty than East York.

The Globe is apparently opposed to any kind of censorship over immoral literature. And yet its friends passed the law as it now stands, and re-enacted it several times. Why, during the thirty-six years that the law has been on the statute books, has the Globe never objected to it, but on the contrary applauded its enforcement when strictly ordered by the Mackenzie Government? The only inference that can be drawn from these facts is, that our contemporary objects at present to the law being enforced because it is a Conservative Government that does so, and with the object of making political capital. If the Liberal organ has turned its coat on this subject, as it has done on others, let it boldly say so, and then its position can be understood. It cannot both approve of the law and object to its being carried out. As to the Department and the officials, they have no option. Their duty is to administer the law as they find it.

Hon. Mr. Mercier, one of the Rouge leaders in Quebec, wished to resign before the election took place, but was induced to forego that intention and was elected by acclamation. Now, in consequence of the defeat of his party, he will carry out his original intention. To outsiders this course looks the reverse of chivalrous—the opposite of courageous, even.

Marmora Correspondence.

MARMORA, Dec. 6.

On the evening of Nov. 10th a social was held in Young's school house, Belmont, for the benefit of Rev. Mr. Pattyson, of Norwood, and was well attended. A series of recitations, dialogues and songs were given by local and other amateurs, and a tableau by ten young ladies in appropriate costume, representing the five wise and five foolish virgins, with vocal accompaniment "Too late" by Mr. Canfeine. Total receipts over $10,

Capt. D. D. Johns had a conflict with a pack of racooons on the night of Nov. 24th as they were plundering some peas in his barn, and at last, after a severe engagement, succeeded in killing two of them with a pitchfork, but the rest escaped.

Messrs. E. D. Boyd and R. Johns are seriously ill and part of Mr. G. W. Bleeker's family are very low with malarial fever.

Mr. D. Bentley, postmaster, met with a severe injury one day last week from falling out of his hay loft, but is now able to get out to his business again.

About 300 men are now employed at the Canada Consolidated mine. A post office has been opened also, bearing the name of Deloro, and a large boarding house, kept by E. Claremont, which accommodates 60 men.

A daily stage now runs between Marmora and Madoc, starting at 7 a. m. and calling at the Gatling mine, and arriving in Madoc at noon. Leaving at 2 p. m., and returning at 7 p. m.

Mr. John Downey, who has been for some time on a survey with Mr. T. Bolger in the N. W. T., has returned home and gives a very favorable account of the country and its farming capabilities. The only drawbacks he considers are the extreme cold in winter and the lack of fuel. Messrs. J. W. and B. Campion, jr., and Jas. Wilkinson, jr., who were with the same party, remain through the winter and are also well pleased with it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pinneer and family, who went more than a year ago to Whitehall, Mich., have returned and are fonder of Ontario than ever, as is so often the case with those who depart from Canada to dwell beneath the shades of the starry flag.

A fire took place in the village on the afternoon of Nov. 29th, during which a tenement house, occupied by two parties named J. Acker and E. Smith, was totally consumed. Origin, a chimney caught fire and burst. Very little saved. Mrs. Smith also lost $12 in cash.

The Slaver.

A BRITISH CAPTAIN KILLED IN AN ATTACK UPON A DHOW.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A Zanzibar despatch says:—On the 3rd inst. Capt. Brownrigg, of the British man-of-war London, with ten men in a steam pinnace, attempted to capture a dhow flying French colors and loaded with slaves. The Arab crew resisted fiercely. Capt. Brownrigg, a seaman, the stoker, and a supernumerary were killed, one man severely and two slightly wounded. The dhow escaped.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Railway Consolidation.

BELLEVILLE, 5th Dec, 1881.

SIR:—Mr. Bell, in a written opinion to the County Council, says: "As to the effect of the proposed consolidation of the Grand Junction, Toronto & Ottawa, Nipissing, Midland, Victoria and Whitby Railways into one Company, that the idea is to give each shareholder in each of the above Companies an equal number of shares in the Consolidated Company, so that the Company will hold as many shares in the Consolidated Company as they now hold in the Grand Junction, if the consolidation is carried out." And he says, "With regard to the effect of the arrangement upon the County and upon the City, my own impression is that it will be beneficial." * * * "I believe it will have the effect of developing railway communication with the rear of the County to an extent and in a way which the Grand Junction Railway as a separate concern could not be in a position to develop."

The letter from which the foregoing quotations are made is evidently intended for the City of Belleville as well as for the County of Hastings. Indeed, the interests of the two municipalities in the Grand Junction Railway as an undertaking are identical; but their proprietary interests are very different. The County is a stockholder; the City is not, but has given upon certain conditions $150,000 to the road, and pays $6,000 interest on the debentures issued therefor.

Without questioning in the slightest the soundness of Mr. Bell's belief, I would respectfully ask him if he will at an early day favor the citizens through you, or the Council at its next meeting, on the 12th instant, with the details of the proposed amalgamation.

The Grand Junction Railway is an undertaking in which this community must necessarily take a deep interest, and it is somewhat mortifying to see its trains run in the interest of a town which did not give a shilling towards its construction, and to find that its patronage is exercised for the benefit of the same place.

I may add that the City Solicitor, in pursuance of a resolution of the Council, applied to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly for a copy of the proposed Amalgamation Bill, and was informed that it had not yet been filed, and that when filed it was private and could not be copied until printed for the House.

Your obedient servant,

GEO. D. DICKSON.

—The forty-seventh Congress of the United States opened on the 5th. Keifer was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives. Among the important Bills either introduced or promised are one to restrain Chinese immigration, two to appoint Commissions of enquiry on the subject of the tariff, one to incorporate the Garfield memorial hospital, and one to place General Grant on the army retired list.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

FOR SPRAINS AND BRUISES.—Rub Perry Davis' Pain Killer well into the wounded parts, taking the medicine internally at the same time.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially vauable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

Dancing Academy.

MR. RAYMOND will commence his second course of Lessons in Robertson's Block, on Thursday the 8th inst. For young Ladies and Juveniles, from 4 to 6 p.m; young men, from 8 to 10, p.m.

The GREATEST LIVING AUTHORS such as Prof. Max Muller, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Jas. A. Froude, Prof. Huxley, R. A. Proctor, Edw. A. Freeman, Prof. Tyndall, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Frances Power Cobbe, Prof. Goldwin Smith, The Duke of Argyll, Wm. Black, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Mulock-Craik, Geo. McDonald, Mrs. Oliphant, Jean Ingelow, Thos. Hardy, Matthew Arnold, W. H. Mallock, W. W. Story, Tourgenieff, Ruskin, Tennyson, Browning, and many others, are represented in the pages of

Littell's Living Age.

THE LIVING AGE has been published for nearly forty years, and has met with continuous commendation and success. In 1882 it will furnish to its readers the productions of the most eminent authors above named, and many others; embracing the choicest Serial and Short Stories by the Leading Foreign Novelists, and an amount in the world, of the most valuable Literary and Scientific matter of the day, from the pens of the foremost Essayists, Scientists, Critics, Discoverers and Editors, representing every department of Knowledge and Progress.

UNAPPROACHED BY ANY OTHER PERIODICAL

THE LIVING AGE is a weekly magazine giving more than double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a satisfactory completeness attempted by no other publication, the best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Tales, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature.

It is therefore invaluable to every American reader, as the only satisfactorily fresh and COMPLETE compilation of an indispensable current literature,—indispensable because it embraces the productions of the ABLEST LIVING WRITERS.

"No other periodical can compare with THE LIVING AGE in interest and value. A veritable thesaurus of the best work of the most celebrated writers of literature, science, politics and art."—Boston Traveller.

"It supplies a better compendium of current discussion, information and investigation and gives a greater amount and variety of reading-matter, which is well worth while to read, than any other publication."—Boston Journal.

"It contains not only the best solid literature, but also the best serial stories of the day. Its pages are sufficient to keep any reader abreast with the best printed thoughts of the best of our contemporary writers."—Episcopal Register, Philadelphia.

"The ablest essays and reviews of the day are to be found here. We know of no investment of eight dollars in the world of literature that would yield equal return."—The Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

"It is indispensable in every household where any attempt is made to keep up with the current thought of the day. It is a thorough compilation of what is best in the literature of the day, whether relating to history, biography, fiction, poetry, wit, science politics, theology, criticism, or art."—Hartford Courant.

"It enables its readers to keep fully abreast of the best thought and literature of civilization,"—Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

"It being a weekly publication, is, comparatively speaking, the cheapest magazine published."—Commercial Advertiser, Detroit.

"No reader who makes himself familiar with its contents can lack the means of a sound literary culture."—New York Tribune.

"An indispensable visitor."—New York Observer.

"The oldest and best."—Courier-Journal, Louisville.

"As much a necessity as ever."—The Advance, Chicago.

"The best and cheapest periodical in America,"—Evangelical Churchman, Toronto.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, DEC. 6.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

THE cells were empty last night.

THE postponed sale of County lands for taxes took place to-day.

MEETING of the Yacht Club at Hambly's to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

THERE was a comparatively small market this morning, and prices ranged somewhat high.

IT is now in order for people to spend in Christmas cards what they should use for beef and bread and boots.

A GOOD programme has been prepared for the entertainment to be given in the Holloway St. Church on Friday evening next.

A HUNDRED cars of ballast have been put on the Grand Junction line between Belleville and Stirling within the past week.

THE meeting of the hotel keepers of this city and county is to be held on Friday next, at 2 p. m., instead of on Saturday, as we stated yesterday.

"POULTRY scarce and high," says the market report. Therefore you should start earlier and take a long hooked pole with you, so that you may reach the roost.

"MABEL HEATH," which will be performed in the Metropolitan Hall to-morrow evening, is said to be equal in many respects to the celebrated "Hazel Kirke."

THE posters for the annual assembly of Independent Hose Co. No. 2, which is to take place in the City Hall on the evening of the 26th inst., have been published.

WE regret to learn that the City Clerk is very ill, having been confined to his bed by a severe attack of jaundice of a virulent type, and his recovery is very doubtful.

THE only case before the Police Magistrate this morning was a charge against Thos. Cheevers for selling liquor without license. The case was adjourned till Thursday.

THE Histrionic Society are actively rehearsing W.S. Gilbert's comedy "Engaged," and will no doubt be able to put it on the boards with gratifying success within two or three weeks.

A RUMOR was current this afternoon that Mr. Patrick Turley, of Frankford, had died to-day. A telegram from Frankford at 3. p. m. informs us that Mr. Turley was not dead at that hour, but was dying, the doctors in attendance saying that he would not last long.

AT a full meeting of the Ministerial Association the following resolution was unanimously passed :—"That having considered the principles underlying the formation of the Anti-Treating Society, this Ministerial Association expresses its full sympathy with the movement and strongly recommends it to the public."

THE Madoc train while on its way to town yesterday afternoon, and while a mile or two on the other side of West Huntingdon station, overtook eight head of cattle which were disporting themselves on the track. Six of them were struck and killed, and the remaining two escaped.

THE contract for the lining of the large water tank in Coleman Ward with Portland cement has been let to Mr. T. Gardner. It is not probable that he will be able to go on with the work before spring, as the tank is filled with water, which flows in almost as fast as it is pumped out.

OWING to unavoidable circumstances, it has been found necessary once more to postpone the first entertainment under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Association. It will certainly come off one day next week, and will no doubt be all the better for the delay when it does take place.

ABLEST, most comprehensive, brightest and best of all American journals devoted to field sports is Forest and Steam, of New York. The subscription price is but $4 per year, which, for a sporting journal that can be read in the family circle and enjoyed by all the members of a household, is very low.

WE regret to learn that Mr. Isaac Blair, formerly of the Victoria foundry, is very ill and reported to be sinking fast. Mr. Blair, who has long been a sufferer from asthma, went to Manitoba last year, but returned some months ago in very ill health, since which time his ailment has increased, and he is now in the dangerous condition above reported.

MISS MACKENZIE, who was injured by a fall on Sunday last, is much better to-day. The injury she received is not so serious as was at first feared. It is rather a remarkable coincidence that Miss Mackenzie's sister, just about a year ago, on a Sunday, fell and was injured in precisely the same manner. She, however, died from the effects of the injury which she received.

IT is hardly necessary to go to Winnipeg to find the best varieties of mud ; it can be seen on any of our streets just now in all its different varieties as well as in vast abundance. The practical value of high heels may now be perceived by watching ladies crossing from one side of the street to the other. They nearly all walk on their heels, and are greater adepts at it than any man.

THE current St. Nicholas is a Christmas number and has a specially designed cover, an impressionist view of the patron saint dashing out of a snow-storm in a very impossible sleigh, which surely could hold no sacks of presents. But there are plenty of presents inside the cover, where begin serials by Mrs. Dodge, the editor, and Edward Eggleston, besides several other good things. Mrs. Dodge's story is not of foreign climes, like her delightful "Hans Brinker," which has been turned into several languages and seems destined to appear among the classic juveniles; but it concerns America, and the lives of attractive twins, "Donald and Dorothy," and it opens attractively with a chapter in which the title says none of the characters appear,—which is surely an injustice to the dog Nero. Dr. Eggleston's story is of "A Hoosier Schoolboy," and begins not very unlike other narratives of school-life. The first half of one of Frank Stockton's felicitous fairy tales, "The Poor Count's Christmas," is given, and a series is begun of Norse legends which is chiefly notable for an illustration by Blum at once vague and vigorous. Harry Keiffer's narrative of a drummer boy in the war of the rebellion is a worthy contribution to making that time real to the children of to-day. Among the pictures of this number these particularly merit notice : The fine engravings of "The King's Favorite," by Zamacois, and of Raphael's portrait of himself and his madonnas "Della Sedia," and "di San Sisto."

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 5.—Lakes, strong winds and moderate gales from the south west and west, cloudy weather, with occasional rain to-morrow.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING.—The meeting of the Belleville Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in the University Chapel last night, and was well attended by residents in the neighborhood and by members of the University. After devotional exercises, the President, Thos. Ritchie, Esq., gave a clear and able statement of the object of the parent Society, and the work it is doing in translating the Holy Scriptures and disseminating them over the world. Rev. Dr. Clarke and the Rev. Messrs. Maclean, Hollowell (Hillier) and Campbell followed and presented the claims of the Society in thoughtful and earnest addresses. Dr. Clarke chose as the principal subject of his remarks the historical and internal evidence of the genuineness and authenticity of the Scriptures, and Mr. Maclean dwelt at length on the superiority of the Scriptures as an agent for the suppression of evil, as compared with legislation, science, art, culture, &c. An efficient choir contributed materially to the success of a gathering the proceedings at which must have been most interesting to all who were present.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

A STEAMER FROM MONTEAL ABANDONED AT SEA.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 6.—The steamer Germanic brought twenty-five of the crew of the British steamer Hurworth, from Montreal, abandoned at sea. The Hurworth drifted about and was unmanageable for eleven days. The crew sighted two vessels, one within three miles, but neither took any notice of their signals. The crew were nearly exhausted, and were rescued with difficulty.

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Herald says the President declined an invitation to visit Boston during the holidays and be entertained by the Merchant's Association. He stated that he had no disposition now, while the country was still in mourning over the death of the late President, to engage in public festivities.

The probability is the total appropriation for the next fiscal year will be nearly $180,000,000. This includes the present deficiency of $20,000,000.

One of the oldest inhabitants here says that for nearly fifty years he has not known the first Monday in December, the day of the meeting of Congress, to be unpleasant.

There is a lively curiosity about the contents of President Arthur's first message. Representatives and Senators have been engaged ever since their arrival here and ever since his accession in taking his measure. The universal verdict of those who speak their minds is that Mr. Arthur is an uncommonly, and, to most Congressmen who did not know him, an unexpectedly able man. The people who can come near to Mr. Arthur say he shows remarkably skill in dealing with men of all kinds ; and with this and a certain amount of patience with bores and office-seekers and intriguers, the general impression is that Mr. Arthur will conduct the public business on business principles and by business methods.

It is believed that several nominations to important places will be sent in to the Senate during the present week, and Frelinghuysen will be the only new Cabinet name given this week, or for some weeks to come.

The new Speaker got through with his first day very well. He is not a polished orator, nor ready or quick to move, but he showed himself easily able to control the House.

The World says that it is known that Folger recommends, in his annual report, the discontinuance of the coinage of silver dollars.

The Tribune says: Garfield's seat in the House was yesterday vacant, as at last time. Superstitious Congressmen declare that under no consideration would they occupy it.

Yesterday Scoville and Reed called on the President, and urged the desirability of his appearing as their witness. The President told them kindly but firmly he did not agree with them. They told him finally they would make no further effort to secure his attendance.

A distinguished Government expert says : The experts in Guiteau's trial yesterday were simply asked whether if a man was insane, they would pronounce him insane ? Those who chose to answer the question said, "Yes, of course." He calls attention to the fact that the defence did not try to elicit conclusions derived from personal examinations of Guiteau. It is seen therefore that there is nothing in the testimony the experts touched upon as to the question of responsibility.

The Sun says that the President has taken very great care to guard the message. It is in type, but the only copy struck off is the one he has. The type is locked in a safe and one stands on guard. Every person who handled the copy is held personally responsible for its safety. It is understood that a large sum was offered for one copy.

DIED FROM GRIEF.

EGERTON, Dec. 6.—Clara Snell died yesterday, making five deaths in the family due, it is alleged, to shame and grief on account of the murder of Nathan Andrews by Clay Snell in September. This leaves of the family only Clay, who is in gaol.

A RELIGIOUS CRANK.

SARATOGA, Dec. 6.—Prof. Shievely, claiming to be the true Messiah, who was arrested in Washington yesterday, is a resident of Saratoga. He came originally from Virginia. His wife says he has suffered from neuralgia in his head and at times conducted himself in a peculiar manner, but is perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shievely has communicated with friends in Alexandria, Va., to look after her husband.

THE KEELY MOTOR.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—There is considerable gossip concerning the suit of the Keely Motor Stockholders against Keely, to compel him to give them information regarding the apparatus. Keely's nephew, who is his companion in the workshop, is sceptical as to his uncle's invention, and says he often heard him say there was more money put in a thing than can be ever got out. His nephew says it has never yet been run by vibratory power, during the recent exhibition a sort of quick-silver was used.

CHARGE OF FRAUD.

Stephen S. Price is under $90,000 bonds to answer in a civil suit for property amounting to $700,000 belonging to relatives and entrusted to him for management, which they charge him with having embezzled and dissipated.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles ; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

DEATH OF MINISTER KILPATRICK.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Consul at Valparaiso telegraphs that Minister Kilpatrick died at Santiago on Sunday.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Arrived out, the Edam.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6th.—The President's message has been sent to the Senate and House.

FAILURE AT CAPE TOWN.

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 6.—The liabilities of McKenzie & Co., failed contractors, are £400,000.

WALKING MATCH COLLAPSED.

CHICAGO Dec. 6.—The Dobler-Rowell walking match has collapsed, owing to the illness of Dobler.

FATAL RESULT OF A COLLISION.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The tug Howard ran into the scow Baxter of the Wrecking Company of Port Morris this morning. John Furst, a workman on the scow, was killed, and another workman seriously hurt.

Desperate Fight with a Convict.

A BRAVE WOMAN AND COWARDLY MEN.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Henry White, sentenced to 39 years for robbing the stage in New Mexico, has been brought here by United States Marshal Wilcox. On the train, near Pokagon, White picked the lock of his handcuffs with a tooth pick and attacked Wilcox with the handcuffs. A fierce struggle ensued and Wilcox was knocked down. Seventeen men in the car left the officer to struggle alone. White seized Wilcox's revolver and tried to shoot him. Mrs. Smithson, wife of the engineer, the only woman in the car, sprang upon the seat behind and caught the convict's arm. The men in the car then came to the officer's assistance and White was again secured. Mrs. Smithson declined a reward, but the Marshal will send her $500. White is a notorious stage robber.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1882.—This widely-known weekly magazine has been published for nearly forty years, and during that long period has been prized by its numerous readers as a thorough compendium of the best thought and literary work of the time. As periodicals become more numerous, this one becomes the more valuable, as it continues to be the most thorough and satisfactory compilation of the best periodical literature of the world. It fills the place of many quarterlies, monthlies and weeklies, and its readers can through its pages easily and economically keep pace with the work of the foremost writers and thinkers in all departments of literature, science, politics and art. Its importance to American readers is evident; in fact it is well-nigh indispensable to those who would keep informed in the best literature of the day ; and its success has therefore been uninterupted. Its prospectus is well worth attention in selecting one's periodicals for the new year. New subscribers remitting now for the year 1882 will receive the intervening numbers gratis, and its clubbing rates with other periodicals are worthy of notice. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

—The German Government intends to place a bill before the Reichstag in the spring to restrict emigration.

—The O'Donoghue, M. P. for Tralee, intends to accept the Governorship of Ceylon, and will resign his seat in the House of Commons.

—Parish priest McCarthy, of Greenfield, Mass., was fatally shot, on the 2nd inst., by David McMillan, whose wife was the priest's house-keeper.

—The spinning mills of Black and Wingate at Glasgow have been burned. Damage, £50,000. One thousand persons are thrown out of employment.

A sure means of becoming useful and popular, in this section at least, is to keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. Then what people are seized with rheumatism or neuralgia, they use your remedy, get well, praise you and buy some for future use.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. The Causes of Colds are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after excrise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

Free of Cost.

All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at Jas. Clark & Co.'s Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-sized bottle will do.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at James Clark & Co.'s Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE BRIEFLESS BARRISTER.

An Attorney was taking a turn,
In shabby habiliments drest;
His coat, it was shockingly worn,
And the rust had invested his vest.

His breeches had suffered a rent,
His linen and worsted were worse,
He had scarce a whole crown to his hat,
And not half-a-crown in his purse.

And thus as he wandered along,
A cheerless and comfortless elf,
He sought for relief in a song,
Or complainingly talked to himself:

"Unfortunate man that I am!
I've never a client but grief;
The case is, I've no case at all,
And in brief, I have never a brief!

"I've waited, and waited in vain,
Expecting an opening to find
Where an honest young lawyer might gain
Some reward for the toil of his mind.

"'Tis not that I'm wanting in law,
Or lack an intelligent face,
That others have cases to plead,
While I have to plead for a case!

"Oh! how can a modest young man
Ere hope for the smallest progression,
The profession's already so full
Of lawyers so full of profession?"

While thus he was strolling around,
His eye accidentally fell
On a very deep hole in the ground,
And he sighed to himself, "It is well!"

To curb his emotion he sat
On the curb-stone the space of a minute;
Then cried, "Here's an opening at last!"
And in less than a jiffy was in it.

Next morning twelve citizens came ('Twas the coroner bade them attend)
To the end that it might be determined
How the man had determined his end.

"The man was a lawyer, I hear,"
Quoth the foreman, who sat on the corse;
"A lawyer? alas!" said another,
"He undoubtedly died of remorse."

A third said he "knew the deceased,
An attorney well versed in the laws;
And as to the cause of his death,
'Twas, no doubt, for the want of a cause."

The jury decided at length,
After solemnly weighing the matter,
"That the lawyer was drowned because
He could not keep his head above water."

Working off his bad Coins.

'I can't take that nickel,' said a horse car conductor to a German saloon-keeper who got in at the City Hall.

'Vot vos de matter mit dot goin?' asked the passenger blandly.

'It's no good; its got a hole in it,' replied the conductor, gruffly.

'Ist dot so? Off you please you show me dot holes.'

'Look at it. We can't take any such money as that.'

'Oxcuse me,' smiled the passenger, and he handed over a dime.

'That's worse yet,' growled the conductor.

'Vos dot dime full of holes, too?' asked the passenger, looking up innocently.

'Here is a whole side chipped out. We ain't allowed to take mutilated money,' and the conductor handed it back.

'So?' inquired the passenger. 'Hav you got change for a heluf a tollar?' and he passed over another coin.

'What's this?' asked the conductor, contemptuously. 'It's as bald as a deacon. There ain't a scratch on it to show whether it's an overcoat button or skating rink. Havn't you got any money?'

'Vell, I should make smiles?' said the passenger, good-humoredly. 'Here is five tollar, and you can baste it together ven you got some leisures. Haf you got changes off dot fife tollars?' and he handed over a bill torn in four or eight pieces.

'I don't want no more fooling,' said the conductor. 'If you can't pay your fare, get off.'

'Vell, don'd make so many droubles. I vill pay you,' and he pulled out a Mexican quarter. 'Gif me bennies,' he suggested.

'Look here, are you going to pay your fare or not?'

'Of gourse. May be you vas vaiting for dot moneys,' and he took back his quarter and substituted an English sixpence.

'Now you get off this car!' roared the conductor.

'Vere has dese cars got by?' asked the passenger, rising to obey.

'Fulton Ferry!' said the conductor.

'Den I may as well go owit. You dell dem gompanies dot somedimes dey make more money as oder dimes off dey took vot-effer dey got instead of going mitout nodings, don't it?'

And the smiling passenger, having ridden to the end of the line, crossed the ferry observing to himself: "Dot vos petter off I safe such moneys, and some somedimes go owit to East Nyarick and it don't gost me no more as nodings at all.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Wit and Humor.

When Milo carried the ox ox on his shoulders, he thought he was doing a bos thing.

An agricultural exchange says: 'Pumpkins are said to be fattening for hogs, but we have never tried them ourselves.'

Said the lecturer, 'The roads up these mountains are too steep and rocky for even a donkey to climb; therefore I did not attempt the ascent."

Darwin has become a millionaire by the death of his brother Erasmus. Darwin now points to this fact as an unanswerable argument in support of his doctrine of the survival of the fittest.

TERRIBLY SARCASTIC FATHER—'Now, I must bid you good-night, Mr. John, for I have an engagement. But say, why don't you stop and take breakfast with us some morning? You always go away an hour or two before it is ready.'

'Few people,' says an exchange, 'realize what a wonderfully delicate structure the human ear is.' That's a fact. They bang away at the ear drum as though it were a brass drum, and bore into it as they would bore into an oaken plank.

'Who did the churning last week?' asked Farmer Fouro'clock. 'I did,' said Bill. 'Then you can do it again this week,' said the old man; 'one good churn deserves another.' Covert expressions of joy by all Bill's brothers and sisters.

'Blew great guns last night,' said the milkman, as he poured out the day's supply. 'Blue milk, too, Mr. Chalk,' said Spicer, who had just come down for his boots, and wandered why the man of cans slammed the back gate so hard.

CHRISTMAS CARDS grow larger, more artistic and more expensive. In a few years a young man that has only a couple of hundred dollars to spend during the holidays will be undecided whether to buy his girl a Christmas card or a gold watch and chain.

'Vat Post Club is dose?' asked old Baron Oisterstoupan at Yorktown, pointing his cane in the direction of the United States Navy, which lay in the harbor. The baron can't have a very elaborate idea of the size of our American boat clubs.

'Fellow citizens,' said the street corner orator, standing on a dry-goods box amid the glare and smoke of many torches, 'my position on this question is a peculiar one.' And just then, when the box caved in and let him down in the shape of a letter V, gripped by the neck and heels, the crowd rather thought it was.

In an account of the death of a man by an elevator accident a Milwaukee despatch says that 'the body fell with a dull thud to the floor.' This is right. A casualty in which there is no dull thud should not be reported. The fact that the sad event cast a gloom over the entire community was for some unexplained reason, however, not stated.

'Few people,' says a writer, 'realize what a wonderfully delicate structure the human ear is.' It's a remarkable organ, that's a fact. Ask a man for the loan of ten dollars, and the chances are that his ear won't hear you. Softly whisper, 'Come and take something,' and the ear manifests an acuteness that is truly marvellous.

The bulldog, my son, is a noble animal and an intelligent one. He is very absent-minded and very forgetful. When he has locked his jaws in the calf of your leg, ten chances to one but he forgets the combination and loses the key. Beware of the bulldog. He will cling to you closer than a brother, and longer than the smell of onions. But beware of him.

An exchange says: 'A first-class French cook readily commands a salary equal to that of a bank president, but this fact does not appear to stimulate Americans to enter the culinary field.' Of course not, replies the Norristown Herald. An American may become a good cook, but the process of becoming a Frenchman is wherein he would be apt to fail. It is next to impossible for an American to become a French cook.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.
(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)
FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr, John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tomaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Daily Intelligencer.

Paul De Cassagnac's Seventeenth Duel.

WITH DIFFICULTY HE AVOIDS KILLING HIS ANTAGONIST.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The duel fought yesterday between M. Paul de Cassagnac and M. Adrien de Montebello is, after the Ministerial crisis, the event of the day. There has been for some time a bitter grudge between the two, which was aggravated by M. de Montebello's attempt during the elections to wrest the constituency of Mariande, originally represented by M. Granier de Cassagnac, from his son. The contest was keen, but the Bonapartist triumphed nevertheless. For some weeks there seems to have been a sort of truce, but M. Paul de Cassagnac took offence at M. de Montebello's congratulating M. Clemenceau on his attack on the Government, and on the following day the Pays appeared with a furious article against M. Leon Say's chief secretary from its impetuous editor's own pen.

The insult was too gross to be passed over, and M. Adrien de Montebello accordingly at once despatched two of his friends, the Viscomte de Saint Pierre, Senator, and M. Casimir Perier, Deputy to M. Paul de Cassagnac, for the purpose of arranging the preliminaries of a hostile encounter. These gentlemen were promptly joined by M. Georges Brame, Deputy, and Commandant Blanc, acting for M. de Cassagnac, and it was settled that the duel should take place on Saturday afternoon at 1:30, at M. Buloz's estate at Epinay sur Seine.

Punctual to the minute principals and seconds appeared at the trysting place, but it was soon perceived that the ground selected would not suit, and an hour was spent in search of a better arena. Finally a spot was found that answered every requirement, and the adversaries were soon face to face with each other. It was a battle of giants. M. de Cassagnac is a big, heavy man, rather over than under six feet in height, but he is small in comparison to M. de Montebello, who actually towers above him, though of a very square build. Both are very strong and admirable fencers, but the Bonapartist proved himself the better man of the two.

After a pass or two, a blue vest worn by M. de Montebello was pierced by his adversary's sword, and he exclaimed that he thought he was touched in the breast. The doctor examined the place, but found no wound, and the combat was continued. It was at the fifth pass that M. de Montebello was wounded in the right arm, M. de Cassagnac's weapon penetrating to the very bone. He dropped his sword, and M. de Cassagnac, turning to his seconds, remarked that he thought it was all over, as he felt that he had struck bone. His prediction proved correct, the doctor refusing to allow the combat to be continued.

M. de Cassagnac has declared that, although he had already fought sixteen duels, he had never had such trouble with an adversary before. Although hardly a match for him, M. de Montebello was very energetic in his attack, and M. de Cassagnac needed all his address to defend himself, and to avoid inflicting a mortal wound on his opponent. "It is lucky," he remarked to a friend, "that I have been practising every day for some time, as, had I been a little rusty, I should have been less sure of myself, and the duel might have terminated in a tragic manner." Curiously enough, a rumor was current for several hours last evening that M. de Cassagnac had been severely wounded, and that his life was despaired of. Some even went so far as to assert that he was dead. As for M. de Montebello, he returned to the Petit Luxembourg at 5, and found many of his friends anxiously awaiting his arrival. His wound is not serious, but a few days' rest and care are needed to set him to rights.

Tornadoes and Architecture.

ARCHITECTS WHO DECIDED THAT THEY CANNOT BUILD AGAINST A CYCLONE—SOME OF THE PECULIAR EFFECTS OF THE WESTERN WINDS.

An enquiry was lately set on foot by the American Architect to ascertain the characteristics of the numerous tornadoes for which this year had been remarkable, and to obtain practical suggestions from scientific men and architects as to methods of construction which would enable buildings to withstand their fury. Many answers have been received which present interesting facts regarding tornadoes or cyclones, but so far as concerns the main purposes of the investigation, the devising of means to make buildings proof against such storms, they are very unsatisfactory. In truth, the general opinion expressed in the letters published by it seems to be that no structure can be devised strong enough to withstand a tornado or cyclone when once the wind is blowing in full fury. One of the writers from Storm Lake, in Iowa, says: "Out here in this country of tornadoes, we think a hole in the ground about the safest place to retreat to when we hear one approaching." A Kansas architect replies that he tell his clients that he "will not attempt to build against a cyclone, but only against steady heavy winds from any one direction." "The cyclone proper," he says further, "has a whirling motion, and sometimes goes bounding and skipping over the surface of the earth." Among the tornadoes in the United States during the year, that at New Ulm, Minn., was the most disastrous. It occurred on the 12th of last June, and in a few minutes wrecked one thousand buildings and killed thirty persons. The buildings destroyed moreover were not flimsy structures of wood. Indeed, the wooden buildings, especially those of what is known as the balloon frame, outlasted the gale, while brick edifices, of which the town was largely composed, were demolished as if they had been pasteboard. Whole business blocks were destroyed, and every metal roof in the city was blown off. On the 25th of September, during two minutes, a hurricane, preceded by an earthquake, did great damage in Elmira, in New York State. The spire of a church was blown across the street, about two tons of brick were deposited in the organ of another church, and several brick buildings had holes blown clear through them. On the following day a tornado, lasting only five minutes, laid waste the village of Camden, Ill., all the houses except two being more or less injured, and two churches completely demolished. Trees were torn up, and corn was blown out of the husk and scattered far and wide. Two days later, Stanton, in Nebraska, was nearly destroyed by one of these cyclones; and on the next day another completely devastated a space eighty rods wide and five or six miles long in the neighborhood of Wantoma, in Wisconsin. At the same time a terrific tornado caused widespread damage in the country about Omaha, in Nebraska. On the 11th of this month two passenger cars of the Colorado Central Railway were blown from the track near Georgetown, in that state. This is a list of only a few of the disastrous tornadoes which have occurred in the United States, during the present year, a year memorable for its storms, its floods and its droughts. During the tornadoes, wind velocities of 80 miles per hour have been recorded; and inasmuch as velocities of 180 miles an hour have been observed in hurricanes, it is reasonable to suppose that the wind may be equally furious in tornadoes. From the destruction of brick buildings, wind pressure of from 58 to 84 pounds per square foot have been demonstrated, and from the lifting up and transportation of loose objects, such as a barrel of tar, a locomotive, a stove, cattle, and the like, wind pressures of from 52 to 112 pounds per square foot may be calculated. An engineer describing one of these storms near Fort Ridgely, speaks of a boy who "was carried into the air and cast to the ground lifeless. When found, the only article of dress he had on was his shirt collar. Ducks, prairie chickens and all kinds of birds were found skinned as for a pot-pie. The wind tore the harness off the hores into shreds." The subject offers an inviting and prolific field of study.

The Direct Line to Brazil.

(From the Halifax Herald.)

On Boak's wharf Monday afternoon at a quarter to four o'clock, was hoisted the flag of "the Societe Postale Francaise de L'Atlantique, the owners and operators of the direct steamship line between Canada and Brazil and Canada and France. It is of blue, 12 feet long by 8 feet wide, with 5 white stars—one inch in corner, and one in centre. The unostentatious hoisting of this flag, will, it is believed mark a new era in the commercial history of Halifax. The pioneer steamer of the line, the Comte d' Eu, has left Rio Janeiro, and is expected to arrive in this port about the 15th or 18th of next month. After leaving Rio Janeiro, she calls at Bahia, Pernambuco, Ceara, Maranham, and Para; and also at St. Thomas—thus opening up steam communication with all those parts. She is believed to have a full cargo, the greater part of which is through freight for the upper provinces. This, with her mails, will be landed at the new deep water Terminus. She will immediately take in her outward cargo and leave for her return voyage within a week. A large quantity of upper province manufactured goods and produce will comprise her first outward cargo. The head quarters of the company in Halifax will be Boak's wharf—which will hereafter be known as the West India wharf. The gentlemen in charge of the Halifax office, under Mr. Bentley, will be H. Philippin and G. J. T. Templer Powell. The Comte d'Eu is an iron boat, built in Liverpool, 1,561 tons gross, and classed 100 at Lloyds. It is believed that this enterprise is now fairly launched, and another promise of the Liberal Conservative Government redeemed. The future success of the venture is now in the hands of the manufacturers, merchants and fishdealers of Canada. An enormous trade with the West Indies and Brazil is now within the grasp of our people. The grand old trade of former times may now be doubled and trebled. All that is required is energy and enterprise on the part of our people. The new line has our best wishes for its success.

City of London.

London is the greatest city the world ever saw. It is the heart of the British Empire and of the world. It covers within the fifteen mile radius of Charing Cross nearly seven hundred square miles. It numbers within these boundaries 4,000,000 inhabitants. It comprises 1,000,000 foreigners from every quarter of the globe. It contains more Roman Catholics than Rome itself, more Jews than the whole of Palestine, more Irish than Dublin, more Scotchmen than Edinburgh, more Welshmen than Cardiff, and more country born persons than the counties of Devon, Warwickshire, and Durham combined. Has a birth in every five minutes and a death every eight minutes. Has on an average twenty-eight miles of new streets opened, and 9,000 new houses built in it every year. Has 128 persons every day and 45,000 added to its population every year. Has 1,000 ships and 9,000 sailors in its port every day. Has 117,000 habitual criminals on its police register, increasing at an average of 30,000 per annum. Has more than one third of all the crime in the country committed in it. Has as many beef shops and gin palaces as would, if placed side by side, stretch from Charing Cross to Portsmouth, a distance of seventy-three miles. Has 38,000 drunkards annually brought before its magistrate. Has as many paupers as would more that occupy every house in Brighton. Has upwards of 100,000 habitual neglectors of public worship. Has sixty miles of open shops; every Lord's day has need of 900 new churches and 200 additional city missionaries. Has an influence with all parts of the world represented by the yearly deliverance in it of 238,000,000 letters.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

The Guiteau Trial.

The announcement that the trial of Guiteau for the murder of the late President Garfield will be brought to an end within a few days will be welcome to the public of Canada as well as to the people of the United States. The length of the proceedings in a case at which there has been since the first day but one issue, namely the insanity, or at all event the accountability for the acts of the prisoner, at well as the interruptions of the assassin, have disgusted every one who had read the daily reports of the trial. On the part of the prosecution the evidence was not specially directed towards showing the prisoner's sanity, hence the amount of testimony was not very large, the onus of proving lack of accountability being left to the defence. Not until the last day or two have the prisoner's counsel addressed themselves to this task, and not, it must be said, with any great degree of success. The experts who were summoned to testify did so on general grounds, not as the result of personal examination of the prisoner, confining themselves to the statement that, if there was, as alleged, a taint of hereditary insanity in the Guiteau family, the prisoner was insane. Evidence of such a character as this ought not to weigh even with a jury such as the absurd jury law of the United States compels the Courts there to summon, and as the weight of evidence and his own conduct in court have shown, he is perfectly capable of distinguishing between right and wrong, a verdict of "guilty" will in all probability be recorded. The greater jury outside the court room have made up their minds that Guiteau is a responsible being and should suffer for his crime, and this will be the verdict of posterity.

Editorial Breveties.

The Winnipeg Free Press—the leading Reform newspaper in the North-west—thus sharply reproves the Globe for condemning the change of location of a portion ot the eastern section of the Pacific Railway :—"We can conceive of no motive, other than an infatuated desire to abuse the Pacific Railway Company under any and all circumstances, that can animate the Globe in attacking the Company."

The total population of the United States is shown by the recent census to be 50,155,783. The increase during the decade was about 30 per cent., and the population by States and Territories, is as follows :—Alabama, 1,262,505; Arkansas, 802,521; Arizona, 40,440; California, 864,694; Colorado, 194,327; Connecticut, 622,700; Dakota, 135,177; Delaware, 146,608; District of Columbia, 177,624; Florida, 269,493; Georgia, 1,542,180; Idaho, 32,610; Illinois, 3,077,871; Indiana, 1,978,301; Iowa, 1,624,615; Kansas, 996,096; Kentucky, 1,648,690; Louisiana, 939,946; Maine, 648,936; Maryland, 935,943; Massachusetts, 1,783,085; Michigan, 1,636,937; Minnesota, 780,773; Mississippi, 1,131,597; Missouri, 2,165,804; Nebraska, 452,402; Nevada, 62,266; New Hampshire, 346,991; New Jersey, 1,131,116; New Mexico, 119,565; New York, 5,082,871; North Carolina, 1,399,750; Ohio, 3,198,082; Oregon, 174,768; Pennsylvania, 4,282,891; South Carolina, 995,577; Tennessee, 1,542,359; Texas, 1,591,749; Utah, 143,958; Vermont, 332,286; Virginia, 1,512,565; Washington territory, 75,116; West Virginia, 161,845; Wisconsin, 1,315,497; Wyoming, 20,789.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption, are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try a 5 cent sample.

FOR SPRAINS AND BRUISES.—Rub Perry Davis' Pain Killer well into the wounded parts, taking the medicine internally at the same time.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City. [w6m148eod

Synod of Ontario.

The nineteenth session of the Synod of Ontario opened in St. George's Hall, Kingston, on the 6th.

At half-past 11 o'clock His Lordship took the chair. On his left was seated Dean Lyster, and on his right Ven. Archdeacon Jones and Canon Bleasdell.

After prayer by the Ven. Archdeacon Jones the roll was called, and 54 clergymen and 28 delegates answered to their names.

His Lordship declared a quorum to be present.

Archdeacon Jones moved that the Rev. Mr. Spencer be re-elected Clerical Secretary.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Crawford, the election of officers was postponed until after the auditors' report was received and adopted.

His Lordship then delivered his charge.

The total number of candidates for confirmation was 891, of whom 824 received at the same time their first Communion.

Four deacons have been ordained, and one promoted to priesthood.

A petition was read by Canon Bleasdell from Trinity Church, Frankford, County of Hastings, asking for authority to survey and lay out in cemetery lots the land given to the Church by the late Mr. J. R. Forsyth and Mr. Crooks. The petition also asks leave to sell the lots referred to for burial purposes, and to invest the money in ornamentation.

Rev. W. C. Clark presented a petition from Christ Church, Belleville, asking permission to sell the old Christ Church, to enable them to mature a loan in accordance with a motion passed by the Executive Committee last May.

The petitions were referred to a Committee composed of the Revs. Bogert and White, Dr. Wilson and Mr. Matheson.

The report of the Mission Board was read, showing receipts to have been $10.094 and disbursements $9,334.31, reducing the overdrawn balance by $759.69. The appropriations for the year 1881-2 amount to $10,200.

Tweed Correspondence.

The Presidents of cheese factories are now paying the patrons their dividends for the past season. The average is good.

The water in the Moira here is quite high and the ice has all disappeared.

Mrs. Joseph Elliott, who has been so ill for some time, is in a fair way for recovery, which her many friends will be pleased to hear.

A report has been circulated lately that Mr. Adam McGowan, first Deputy Reeve of Hunford, is going to oppose Mr. Gordon for the Reeveship. Such is not the fact. On the contrary Mr. McGowan is one of Mr. Gordon's warmest supporters, and will do all in his power to elect him at the coming election. Mr. McGowan will again be a candidate for first Deputy Reeve.

The Rev. Mr. Gardner, of the Parish of Roslin, has gone to Kingston to attend the meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario. The Church Association in this parish is doing a good work; the meetings are well attended and the workers are all in earnest. Preparations are being made to have a great meeting in Tweed on the 26th inst. The Sunday School is increasing in numbers every Sunday.

A suprise party took place at the M.E. Parsonage on the anniversary of the birthday of the Rev. D. Brill. The guests passed a pleasant evening, and Mr. Brill was the recipient of some nice and useful presents.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

AMELIASBURG, Dec. 6th, 1881.

The warm spell has enabled many to finish ploughing who could not on account of the cold snap.

The roads throughout the township are in a very bad state, in some places too heavy for one horse.

The first entertainment of the season was held in the Dempsey Church on Friday evening last and was as usual a success. The programme was entertaining and reflects much credit upon those in the neighborhood. The parts acted by Mr. Peck's little boys in "Would Be School Teacher" and "That's what the Ledger says" caused forth a good deal of applause. A little girl about 9 years of age from the Marchmont Home, an adopted daughter of P. C. Dempsey, sang two pieces that would have done credit to any one of older years. "Woman's rights" were defended well by Misses Way, Onderdonk, Bonter, Bryant and W. Dempsey, of O. C. C. Belleville. Two fine selections upon the organ were rendered by Master Frank Dempsey. The readings by Mrs. S. Dempsey, Jas. Mikel and Miss Way were good. Wm. Hawkins sang a solo in fine style, Miss Onderdonk playing accompaniment. The closing dialogue "Aunt Hester" gave all a good hearty laugh. It is stated that an entertainment will be given monthly for the benefit of the Sabbath School.

Capt. Yott's two boats, the M O'Gorman and O S Storrs, have put in for winter quarters at Rednerville.

The Rev. Mr. Scales' prize (Revised version of the New Testament) for committing to memory the most of Catechism No. 2 was won in the Rednerville S. S. by Miss Lillie Snider, on Sunday last. The Superintendent presented Miss Lottie Snider with one also, she marking only two below.

Mr. Wm. Peck has water-melons yet in his cellar, he says they kept good until Christmas last year.

The Grange has not all gone down, as the correspondent for the Gazette from this place said a short time ago. The members are only busy making bins to store away their barley.

Grand Political Demonstration.

HONORS TO THE PREMIER OF QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Dec. 6.

One of the grandest political demonstrations that has ever taken place in this city was that of this evening on the occasion of the arrival Premier of the Province the Hon. Mr. Chapleau. Fully three thousand people assembled to see and congratulate the Premier. He was met at the station by the Hon. Messrs. T. McGreevy, Loranger, Garneau and Paquet, and Messrs. Carbray, M. P. P., Amyot, M.P. Faucher de St. Maurice, M. P. P., Delgrave, Marmette and several other leading men of the party. On alighting from the train the Premier was received with deafening cheers, the band playing "See the Conquering Hero Comes." On being conducted to a platform at the head of the station, beautifully decorated with flags, he addressed the assemblage, thanking them for being present to welcome him, and rejoiced with them at the success of the Conservative party in the recent election After a few remarks by other speakers the honorable gentleman drove to his hotel, escorted by four hundred torch-bearers and two bands of music, whilst hearty cheers went up from the vast assemblage who had gathered to do honor to their chief.

At a Foe's Mercy.

THE U. S. NAVY PRACTICALLY USELESS FOR DEFENSIVE PURPOSES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Rear Admiral John Rodgers, President of the Naval Advisory Board, is reported as saying: "Our navy is capable of neither inflicting material harm nor affording adequate protection from the assaults of either Chili, Brazil or Buenos Ayres to say nothing of England, France, Germany, Italy or Spain. There are complications in Chili which possibly might lead to war. In that event, San Francisco and New York are practically at the mercy of Chili's ironclads. At best, it would be years before we could construct a vessel capable of opposing the Invincible, the Inflexible or any one of the dozen English ironclads. What we want are fast cruisers that would threaten the merchant marine of any country with which we are likely to come into collision." Mr. Rodgers is doubtful as to the expediency of building ironclads and is not sure whether we are not approaching the time when ships-of-war will throw off armor and fight in the lightest rig. Rear-Admiral C. P Rodgers thinks, even if we have no war, the ships proposed by the Advisory Board are needed for the present uses of the navy. Chief Constructor Easby, head of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, thinks if the proposed appropriation of $30,000,000 were immediately available the vessels recommended by the Board could be built in about four years or less.

The Late Dairy Markets.

CHEESE.—Trade for the week has been more active in New York than at any time in two months past. So far as values are concerned, however, there is very little change. The best September and October stock has sold readily at 12½c., and grades just below that have sympathized to a certain extent. Considerable stock in the country has been closed out during the week at private sale, the best late-made cheese selling at 10⅞. In this section stock is becoming pretty well reduced. While the export trade seems to have been more active than usual of late, there has been a falling off in home trade. Two factors during the season just past have operated favorably for cheese makers. One is the extremely low freights, which will probably never again be so high as they have been previous to this year; and the other is a large expansion of the cheese trade in our own country. But for these, we might have seen as low prices as ruled in 1879.

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1881

CHEESE.—The fact that there was so little doing on the board of trade to-day was owing mostly to the reason that the majority of the salesmen are holding off until the last day, in order to cure up all their cheese and sell it in a lump. Since the opening market of the season there have not been so few salesmen on the board as there were to-day. Transactions, therefore, lacked animation, and buyers had things pretty much their own way. Those who were ready to sell took whatever was offered for their every-other-day cheese and closed it out entirely. Next Monday will be the final day of sale for this season, and there will be the usual meeting of the board to hear the result of the season's trade.

Transactions for to-day are slender and of small account. They were as follows; 763 boxes at 11c.; 300 at 11¼c.; 75 at 11⅜c. and 28 at 11½c, Sales, 1,146 boxes; consignments, 300 boxes; total, 1,446 boxes. Leading price 11c.—Utica Herald.

The Utica Hop Market.

Buyers in this city have been quiet during the past week, purchases not having exceeded 225 bales. Prices range all the way from 15c. to 25., but purchases at 24c. and 25, were confined to the early days of the week. Twenty-two cents is all that the best hops can now command and 20c. is the more general price even for the finest. Considerable many hops have been sent to New York on commission, a fact which is looked upon as a weakening on the part of growers. Many regard it as a permanent decline, but others consider it only temporary, and hold on with a firm grip.—Herald.

The President's Message.

President Arthur's first message, presented to Congress on the 6th, is in many respects an important document. Much of it is occupied with details of the country's foreign relations, which may be summarized in the remark that it is living in friendship with many and at peace with all. The surplus for the year was over $100,000,000, and the excess of exports over imports, which is steadily increasing, last year reached the enormous figure of $259,713.718. A sweeping repeal of internal revenue taxes is recommended, and measures are urged for the care of the Indians, the efficiency of the army and navy, the settling of the question of presidential "inability," and the suppression of polygamy. Civil Service reform comes in for a long discussion, without any very radical suggestion. The topics treated of most important to persons outside the States are the Panama Canal and Chili-Peru affairs. As to the canal the President maintains the perfectly indefensible doctrine that the building and control of the canal concerns the United States and not the European Powers. If this doctrine is insisted upon, and the United States attempts to enforce it, trouble is inevitable. None of the European nations can consent to any one Power dominating so important a highway as this canal will be. As to the Peruvian difficulty, the President alludes to the troubles brought about by the differing instructions said to have been sent to the American Ministers at Lima and Valparaiso respectively, and mentions that a special envoy has been despatched with power to treat with both Government.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.—The Canada Gazette contains the following statement of the revenue and expenditure on account of the Consolidated Fund of the Dominion as by returns furnished to the Finance Department to the 30th November, 1881: Revenue—Customs, $1,719,109; excise, $602,020; post office, $135,440; public works, including railways, $299,398; bill stamps, $19,469; miscellaneous, $81,907; total, $2,857.344; revenue to 31st October, 1881, $10,943,998; total, $13,801,342. Expenditure, $2,452,454; do. to 31st October, 1881, $7,646,699; grand total, $10,099,153, cents omitted.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

A dose of Dr. Wilson's Anti-billious and Preserving Pills contains more life preserving properties than any other cathartic pills made. They will act quickly on all diseases of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys, and are especially vauable to those who have to use medicine frequently.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City.

GENTLEMEN.—Having been defeated by a few voter last year for the Mayoralty, and having now been offered support by many who opposed me then, I beg again to solicit your suffrages for the Mayoralty of 1882.

Although defeated last year, I have not neglected the schemes in the interests of the City which I had on hand when in the Council.

Your light house has been completed—a graceful and substantial structure highly prized by the vessel and steamboat men trading to our port. Owing, however, to the greater altitude of our city clock, I shall urge upon the Government the necessity there is that the clock should be lighted also to complete our wants in this respect.

As to the Murray Canal—a scheme revived by me when in the Council and never lost sight of—I am happy to be able to state that tenders will very soon be asked for by the Department for its construction, and that such work will be begun as can be done during the winter and the whole pushed on with vigor in the spring.

The reasons for the delay that has occurred in this matter are, the exhaustive nature of the final surveys, and the illness of the Chief Engineer.

As to our Railways, the construction of the "missing link" as it is called, from Peterboro to Omemee, and the erection here of one or more elevators, are portions of the amalgamation scheme which, if it is carried into effect, cannot fail to be of benefit to our City—as then the all rail route to the Georgian Bay will have been completed, being the shortest route by far from the cities of Chicago, Milwaukie and Duluth, and our own great North-west, to the sea-board, via the Midland Railway to Belleville, and thence by steam barge to the sides of the ocean going vessels.

Further, the construction of our Railways has made the establishment of Smelting Works here almost a certainty; and it must be gratifying to those who have labored to this end to find that two offers are now before the Council for the erection of blast furnaces, provided suitable encouragement is given to these enterprises.

I would advocate the greatest liberality in the consideration to be given to the promoters of those most important industries, so that we secure them; for they are not only valuable in themselves, but they bring in their train other iron manufactories—thus adding largely to our population and resources.

In conclusion, I shall, if elected, endeavor in the future, as in the past, to secure the best interests of the city; and if, from the nature of my calling I am not an employer of labor myself, I have been instrumental in some degree in bringing to our city work for our laboring men and mechanics, and trust that the day is not far distant when other opportunities for the employment of labor will be afforded to our people, to secure which I have been humbly working (together with others), and I shall continue to do so, until success crowns our efforts. You all know me from my boyhood, and you have my views on these few public matters.

I respectfully solicit your support.
I have the honor to remain
Your obedient servant,
D. B. ROBERTSON,
Belleville, Dec. 6, 1881.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 7.

To Advertisers.

The Intelligencer has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 copies, and on Saturdays from 1,100 to 1,300 copies. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the Daily and Weekly Intelligencer. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

Only one prisoner, a drunk, was in the cells last night.

Remember "Mabel Heath" in the Metropolitan Hall this evening.

Why doesn't someone advertise new Christmas rubbers, rubber overcoats, and umbrellas!

To-morrow evening a concert is to be given in Trenton, at which several Belleville musicians will take part.

Two trains of the ore which is to be brought down for storage in Rathbun's yard through the winter, have arrived.

The City Clerk is somewhat better to-day and his physician, Dr. Abbott, now entertains lively hopes of his recovery.

Mr. John Wood, one of the members of the Board of Education for Foster Ward, is very ill and appears to be growing worse.

The teachers of our public schools are complaining at not having received their last month's salary, which is already some time overdue.

We have received from the publishers, Spear & Dehnhoff, 717 Broadway, N. Y., a new piece of instrumental music, "Young Ladies' Lanciers."

The police have received their new winter overcoats. They are made of heavy Irish frieze—which, strange to say, is to prevent the wearers from freezing.

Mr. D. B. Robertson has come before the electors as the first candidate for Mayor for 1882. His address will be found in another column, and will well repay perusal.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will meet this evening at Hambly's for the despatch of important business. Every member of the Club, who can do so, should make it a point to be present.

Some of the worst curves on the Grand Junction are being straightened. This is an important work, and will go far to lessen the wear and tear on rolling stock, and to enable trains to get up a higher rate of speed.

A young lady, speaking the other evening of a certain gentleman's hirsute adornments, said: "He has such a pretty moustache, and oh, what a beautiful little guitteau!" If that man has a young Guitteau he should drown him at once.

A meeting of the St. George's Society is called for Friday evening next, in the Society's Hall, Robertson Block, partly for the purpose of discussing the advisability of organizing a mutual benefit association called "The Sons of England."

The light in the lighthouse has been kept lit ever since it was possible to get from the shore to the house. The reason why it was not lit for two or three days was that the floating ice made it impossible for Mr. Covert to cross over in his boat.

Having heard that there were forty men in Manitoba to every one woman, a young lady declared that she would go there at once; "for," she said, "when it is so nice to have one fellow, how pleasant must it be to have 40!"

The Church of England lately erected on the 8th line of Rawdon will be opened for Divine service on Thursday, 15th inst. Hours of service, 11 o'clock a. m. and 2:30 p.m. The Ven. Archdeacon Bedford Jones and Rural Dean Baker, will be present for the occasion. A collection will be taken up at each service for the building fund.

A new musical organization has been started in the city under the direction of Mr. Fotherstone. It is to be called "The Mendelssohn Choir." A preliminary meeting was held on Monday evening, which was well attended, and the new society promises to be very successful. Already three or four fine pieces have been placed in rehearsal.

At the last meeting of the Literary Society in connection with the Sons of St. Patrick, held last evening, the subject of debate was: "Resolved, that the fear of punishment is a greater incentive to virtue than is the hope of reward." The question was ably argued on both sides, and resulted in a victory for the affirmative. The next subject for debate is to be the advisability of the abolition of the Senate.

Grain testers have for some time been objects of special interest here on account of the litigation of which they were the cause, and it will be interesting for our readers to learn that a new Order in Council has been passed which provides that the grain tester to be hereafter in use shall correspond in capacity to the standard quart measure, and that the depth of such shall approximately equal its diameter. The former grain measure, the depth of which was equal to its diameter, was shown by experience to be inadequate.

An exchange gives the following good advice to advertisers:—"In regard to holiday advertising, and all advertising as for that matter, business shrewdness will always point to the selection for that purpose of the newspaper of largest circulation, the newspaper of marked superiority over others, the newspaper that gives all the news and is thoroughly edited in all departments, the popular newspaper of the town or city wherein it is published, that is read by everybody. The advertiser makes a good bargain by paying five times more for advertising in a journal that is read by ten times more people than he would be required to pay for similar space in the inferior journal. Bearing this fact in mind, be sure that advertising will certainly pay if the investment for it is made as suggested."

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 7.—Lakes, clearing colder weather, north westerly gales, with snow squalls to-day followed by southerly winds and rising temperature to-morrow.

Election of Officers.—The election of officers of L.O.L. No. 727 took place on the 5th with the following result: Jas. Richards, W. M.; Wm. Thompson, D. M.; Thos. Thompson, Chap.; Geo. Thompson, Treas.; Jas. Macoun, Secty.; John D. Corbett, D. of C.

About Canaries.—All birds at this season require extra food. Canaries should have all through the year, German summer rape, Sicily canary, and millet seeds mixed in equal parts, and care should be taken to have the seeds fresh and of the best quality. In addition to the seeds, feed canaries daily one fourth part of a hard boiled egg, both yoke and white, and mix with it as much cracker dust as can be taken on a ten cent piece. Fresh water, both for drinking and the bath, and plenty of coarse, washed gravel daily, will usually keep a bird in health. Twice a week give it a piece of sweet apple or lettuce. If the bird has not yet finished moulting, keep him in an even temperature of about 65 or 70 degrees, and let him hang where there is no possibility of a draught blowing on him. If not yet in song, hang a half-inch strip of raw, fat salt pork in the cage, and let him pick at it for a week or so.

Another Infernal Machine.

The Witness of the 6th says:—"Before people can make up their minds about the infernal machine, another is found. This morning about ten o'clock Detective Gladu set off with the two young men who had made the first discovery, to inspect the spot, and when they arrived, what should they see but a second machine of the same character. It was close to where the other was found, about three feet from the Court House wall, and had evidently exploded. Half way down the sides of the box had been burst, the lid was burst and wrenched off, the clockwork was twisted out of shape and thrown to a distance of some feet, and the iron tube which contained the explosive which connected with the dynamite below had been split into pieces. But the terrible material underneath, a white stuff like putty or ointment, had not felt the explosion in the least. The nature of the explosion is being carefully looked into. It is supposed to have been imported from Europe."

Railway Sale.—The attempted sale of the Credit Valley Railway to the Great Western is not likely to be consummated without a vigorous protest by the municipalities which have liberally bonused the road on the understanding that it should remain independent of rival lines. A deputation from Halton and Oxford waited on the directors yesterday and informed them that steps would be taken to prevent a sale, if the sale has not been made. It is also reported that an effort will be made to compel the refunding of the municipal bonuses in case the Credit Valley directorate yield to the inducements offered by the Great Western.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Sun says that the Government expects to have six or seven new indictments against prominent members of the Star route ring within ten days. The portion of the President's message urging vigorous prosecution has cheered up the officers of the Government.

A determined effort will be made this session to provide Alaska with some form of Government. M. D. Ball, who claims to have been elected delegate from Alaska, seeks to be admitted to the House.

The Tribune says it can be now positively stated that James will remain in the Cabinet at least till the end of the present fiscal year, if business engagements permit. The matter will be soon decided.

Congressman Farwell has selected the seat formerly occupied by Garfield.

In the decision over-ruling the points of order brought up by Randall and Cox yesterday, Keifer showed unexpected strength as a Parliamentarian.

The World says:—Several of the most important recommendations of the President's messages meet with the approval of the Democrats, notably the President's attitude in the Spanish American affairs, and his suggestion touching the increased navy.

The Herald says: It is remarked by many shrewd observers that the tone of the President's message and Folger's report will not fail to raise our President abroad still higher, because those documents will show the ablest financiers that the Administration is in the hands of men who are soundly instructed in finance, and are able to advise Congress and the country in clear language concerning subjects about which previous Presidents and Secretaries have been too crudely informed to give either definite or valuable advice. Senator Sherman said: The general views on finance are in accordance with those held by the Republican party, as well as my own. I agree with the President's ideas about the repeal of all internal revenue taxes except those on spirits, tobacco, and beer. I am decidedly of opinion that Congress should adopt some decisive measure for bringing about a better mode of appointment and removal in the civil service.

NEW YORK MISCELLANY.

New York, Dec. 7.—During the past eleven months plans have been filed in New York and Brooklyn, for new buildings and alterations, involving an aggregate cost of fifty-five million dollars.

Frederick Race, of Bath, N. Y., conductor on the Hudson River Railway, was killed by his head striking a bridge here yesterday.

A company has been organized for supplying cities in the eastern, middle, southern and western States with gas, manufactured in the coal mines of Western Pennsylvania, and conducted to the places of consumption through pipes.

The Board of Review of the National Trotting Association, yesterday reinstated S. H Pope, owner of "Edward H," expelled at Thaca, 2 years ago; Wm. Sargent, Goshen, N. Y., expelled for pulling the stallion "Tariff," at Boston, reinstated.

A MURDERER LYNCHED.

Fortress Monroe, Dec. 7.—The negro Allen, who murdered Schlatter near Newport, was taken from jail by 25 masked men on Monday night and hanged.

THE STAR ON THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

New York, Dec. 7.—The Star says that the first message of President Arthur will be a great disappointment to the country, which expected so much, and which will receive in this message so little of practical value or good.

GUITEAU'S DEFENCE BROKE DOWN.

New York, Dec 7.—The defence of Guiteau closed yesterday somewhat unexpectedly, by making clear the fact that the assassin's case has been completely broken down. Drs. Dimon, (late of the Criminal Asylum at Auburn, N. Y.,) Falcott, of New York State Homoeopathic Asylum at Middletown, and other experts who were summoned for the defence, have not been put on the stand. It is understood that they intimated to the defence that their evidence would not be advantageous to the assassin. Most of these have been cited to appear for the Government. The defence has closed practically without any expert support for the theory of insanity. One of the Government experts in speaking of Guiteau would not even admit that he had any mental disorder. The expert would only say that the assassin had not one of the best kind of minds. He expressed his belief that much of the boisterous behavior of the prisoner in court was for the purpose of simulating insanity. The new year may open before the verdict is rendered.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

AMERICAN MISSIONS.

Durban, Natal, Dec. 7.—The Rev.'s Richards and Jourdan, who were sent on a mission by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to Umzeila, a powerful chief in the country north of Delogа Bay, have returned. Umzeila will permit the American Board to establish missions in his country.

New York, Dec. 7.—Arrived, the Labrador from Havre.

LONDONDERRY ELECTION.

London, Dec. 7.—Londonderry County elects Liberal members to Parliament to succeed Liberals.

Arrived out, the Caledonia, Vaderland and Cimbria.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Among those present at the Guiteau trial were General Sherman, Rev. Talamage, and several senators and members of Congress. Guiteau in the stand to-day said: May it please your honor—American people do not desire this case shall be tried again, and I do not desire it. I say with utmost respect to this court and jury and my counsel, Scoville, that I am not satisfied with the political situation as developed here in this case. This is the gist of this alleged offence. The President of the U. S. would never have been shot if it had not been for political situation which existed in May or June and I say I have the right, as matter of law appearing as my own counsel to ask your honer, Grant, Conkling, Platt and Arthur, and those kind of men who were so down upon Garfield that they would not speak to him on the public street, and would not go to the White House, shall be put on stand.

Doing its Work in Ottawa.

To see anything taken hold of and vigorously pushed to its determinate result is, to us, a very gratifying sight. For some time past there has been no little commotion in our midst in view of a very persistent struggle going on between two mighty well-matched adversaries. The old established one had been enjoying a sort of monopoly in our midst, afflicting whom it would, and yielding to no influence whatsoever. The later arrival simply comes upon the same ground occupied by the old resident and very quietly insinuates itself, and is at once acknowledged master of the situation. The following specific illustrations, imparted to one of our representatives, will convey a clearer idea than any amount of abstract reference. Mr. Alexander McKechnie, Rochesterville, Ottawa, Ontario, said:—"I was a perfect cripple with rheumatism in my arm and my feet for more than two weeks, when I was advised to try St. Jacobs Oil. I did so; in two days I went to work, and at the end of a week I was as well as ever. I consider St. Jacobs Oil a "dead sure" cure for rheumatism in every form." Mr James Dempsey, Cobourg St., Ottawa, was pleased to remark: "Having suffered for some time past with rheumatism in the back, I am gratified to say that I have been completely cured after a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, and can confidently recommend it to any one suffering in like manner." Mr. William Cherry, of Ottawa, thus spoke:—"Having tried several preparations for the removal of aches and pains, and found none to equal St. Jacob's Oil, I fully recommend that wonderful substance as a sovereign remedy for that purpose." It would be superfluous for us to indicate that the "aged inhabitant" is rheumatism, and his "thorn in the flesh" is St. Jacobs Oil, which is doing splendid service towards insuring his removal from our midst.

News Condensed.

—Lord Lorne will sail for Canada in the Parisian on Jan. 11.

—The police claim to have found an import clue to the robbers of Earl Crawford's grave.

—Col Hance, who has been Chief of Police at Kingston since 1875, has tendered his resignation.

—All the Ministers of the Crown, with the exception of Sir Charles Tupper and the Hon. J. C. Pope, are in Ottawa.

—The Times says the Czar and the Austrian Emperor will certainly meet, but neither time nor place has yet been arranged.

—A strike by which five thousand families will be affected is threatened by the nailmakers at Rowley and Cradley, England.

—The Rev. Dr. Cramp, one of the oldest clergymen in the Dominion and for many years head of the Baptist College at Wolfville, died at Halifax on the 6th.

—Acting under instructions from the Foreign Secretary, Lord Dufferin will demand of the Porte necessary reforms in Armenia. A commission to investigate will be appointed by the Porte.

—The first result of the death of Captain Brown of the man-of-war London, who was killed by the Arab crew of a slave dhow, which he was attacking, is that the man-of-war Philomel has been ordered to blockade Pemba Island, East Africa, near which the affray occurred.

—The sale of timber limits by the Ontario Government on the 6th was successful, prices averaging very nearly $600 per square mile, against only $200 at the last sale, and aggregating $717,176. The limits sold cover 1,281 square miles, an area about equal to that of the county of Wellington.

—Tobin, of Bradford, in whose house suspicious documents were found, is charged with treason. He has been remanded for a week. The judge at the Munster Assizes gives his testimony also to the alarming increase of crime. Dempsey retired from the contest in Londonderry, it is believed in obedience to a voice from Kilmainham. It is stated that Dillon, the suspect M. P., will be released.

"Why, bless my stars!" said Mr. Wm. G. Denniston, 1924 South Tenth street, Philadelphia, Pa., "after bathing my limb thoroughly with St. Jacobs Oil, I was relieved of the pain of my rheumatic gout, and was soon well. It cures every time."

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. ## NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Parliament of Ontario at its next sittings for an Act to authorize the construction of dams and other works upon the river Moira where it passes through the townships of Tudor, Madoc and Marmora, in the County of Hastings. The said dams to be situated in Concession A and Concessions 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13 of the said township of Tudor, and at such points and places and in such concessions of the said townships of Madoc and Marmora as may be found most expedient. The said dams to be used for the purpose of getting timber, logs and other stuff down the said river.

N. H. DOWNS' VEGETABLE BALSAMIC ELIXIR

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

FOURTH DAY.

Friday, Dec. 2, 1881.

The Council met at 9 a. m., the Warden in the chair.

The minutes being read and approved,

Mr. Wilmot introduced the By-law providing for the better preservation of Frankford bridge from fire. It was referred to the Committee on By-laws.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. McGowan, "that this Council lately read with great pleasure in the public prints that Sir Charles Tupper, Minister of Railways and Canals, assured Messrs. A. Robertson, M.P.P., and John White, M.P., on their late visit to Ottawa, that, as soon as he received the report of the Engineer now employed in the survey of the Murray Canal, the said work will be put under contract; that this Council is confident that the said promises will be carried out, as the construction of the Canal is a work in which this County and surrounding Counties are much interested, as it will be a great benefit to the agricultural, mineral and commercial interests of the said Counties; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Warden and Clerk to Sir Chas. Tupper."

The motion was carried unanimously, without discussion.

The Council went into committee on By-laws, and took up for consideration the By-law relating to the preservation of Frankford bridge.

On motion of Mr. Wilmot, the further consideration of the By-law was laid over to the January session of 1882.—Carried.

The Committee rose and reported.

Mr. Vermilyea asked for the yeas and nays on the clause of the By-law fixing the salaries of the County officials, respecting the Treasurer's salary. They were taken as follows:

Yeas—White, Anderson, Wilmot, McGowan, Gordon, Robinson, Haggerty, Corrigan, Faulkner, Walker, Vandervoort, Gilmour, Shea, Clare, Tuttle, Hurley, Vankleek, O'Flynn, Caskey, Gunter, McDavitt, Pearce, Aylesworth, McGuire—24.

Nays—Bleecker, Rose, Ashley, Vermilyea—4.

The yeas and nays were also taken on the clause of the By-law fixing the salaries of the Auditors, with the following result:—

Yeas—White, Corrigan, Gordon, McGowan, Gilmour, Shea, Hurley, Caskey, Vankleek, O'Flynn, Pearce, Gunter, McDavitt, Macgregor, Aylesworth—15.

Nays—Tuttle, Ashley, Vermilyea, Anderson, Wilmot, Bleecker, Rose, Haggerty, Robinson, Clare, Vandervoort, Walker, Faulkner—13.

Both clauses were declared carried, and the remainder of the report was adopted.

The Committee on Ways and Means resumed.

Mr. White moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that, whereas in the years 1879-80, owing to instructions received by the Indian agent from the Government, lands leased by whites from Indians were exempted from taxation, the township thus lost a large amount of taxes,—therefore, the Warden and Treasurer be instructed to ascertain the amount thus lost to the township, and refund it.

After considerable discussion, the motion was carried.

A number of accounts were considered and passed.

The matter of compensation to Geo. Arnott for injuries received to a horse owned by him, resulting from defective planking in a county bridge, was referred to the County Surveyor and the Deputy Reeve of Trenton, to deal with as they see fit.

The Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

The Warden read a communication from John Bell, Esq., County Solicitor, setting forth his opinion as to the effect of the proposed amalgamation of the Grand Junction Railway with other lines on the interests of the County as stockholders. The communication was as follows:—

W. R. Aylsworth, Esq.,
Warden, County of Hastings.

My Dear Sir,—I understood from you last night that the County Council desired to know from me my opinion as to the effect of the proposed consolidation of the Grand Junction, Toronto & Ottawa, Nipissing, Victoria and Whitby Railways into one Company, and also what effect it would have on the county's shares in stock in the G. J. R. Company. The idea is to give to each shareholder in each of the above companies an equal number of shares in the Consolidated Company, so, that the county will hold as many shares in the Consolidated Company as they now hold in the Grand Junction, if the consolidation is carried out. With regard to the effect of the arrangement upon the county and upon the city, my own impression is that it will be beneficial. Everything I possess is in the city and county, and looking at it from a personal point of view only, I am anxious to see it carried out. I believe it will have the effect of developing railway communication with the rear of the County to an extent and in a way which the Grand Junction Railway, as a separate concern, would not be in a position to develop. I believe it will have the effect of bringing traffic for shipment to Belleville, which otherwise would find an outlet at some other point, and generally I am quite satisfied in my own mind that it is for the interest of all concerned that the consolidation agreement should be carried out. This I give as my personal opinion and for what it is worth.

I remain,
Yours truly,
Belleville, Dec. 6 1881. John Bell.

The communication was received and filed.

The By-law to assume a part of the boundary road between Tyendinaga and Richmond was, on motion of Mr. Ashley, read a third time, passed and numbered.

The By-law fixing the salaries of County officials was read a third time passed and numbered.

On motion, the Warden left the chair, and it was taken by Mr. Walker.

Mr. O'Flynn moved, seconded by Mr. Pearce, "that whereas it is presumed that this is the last meeting of the County Council for this year, we think it is a fitting opportunity for expressing the esteem in which we hold the Warden as an efficient, faithful, painstaking and courteous officer, — the thanks of the members of this Council are due to the Warden for the able and impartial manner in which he has uniformly performed his public duties, and his constant willingness to give to other (especially new) members the benefit of his experience in Municipal law; that he carries with him, in leaving the position which he has so satisfactorily filled, the regards and earnest good wishes of every member of this Council; that whether in or out of the Warden's chair, we sincerely hope that he may long be spared to have a seat at the Council Board, thereby being in a position to give to future Councils the benefit of his long experience and matured municipal knowledge."

The motion was supported by Mr. Ashley, Mr. Wilmot, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Vermilyea, Mr. White and the Chairman, all of whom spoke in terms of high praise of Mr. Aylesworth, in his capacity of Warden.

The motion was unanimously carried.

The Warden replied in an appropriate manner, thanking the Council for the cordial sentiments with reference to himself which were given expression to in the resolution. It was satisfactory for him to know that his endeavors to discharge his duties as Warden had been appreciated by the Council, as they evidently had been. He denied the report which had somehow got abroad, that political partyism was introduced into the deliberations of the Council; looking back over the votes given during the past year, he could conscientiously say that he believed the members had on every occasion voted according to their opinion on the subjects under consideration, independent of their political opinions. The sessions of the year had been most harmonious, and it had been a pleasure as well as a duty to preside over the deliberations of the Council. He thanked all the members for their gentlemanly demeanor and the courtesy which they had exercised towards him during the year.

The minutes having been read and approved,

The Council adjourned sine die.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Racked by Innumerable Pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Respect.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix Harvell's Condition Powders occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)

FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr, John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tomaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of The Century Magazine will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with The Century Magazine for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

English News.

NEW RULES OF PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE.—The Speaker, in conjunction with Sir Erskine May, is busily occupied in framing, with the Prime Minister, the new rules for the procedure of the House of Commons, which, it is proposed, shall be suggested from the Treasury Bench on the opening of the next session of Parliament.

EXTENSIVE GARDENING.—A Gloucestershire nobleman, owning large estates, is making a novel experiment to render land more remunerative. He has planted 13 acres with gooseberry and currant trees, 11 acres with strawberry plants, and 35 acres with plum trees; while a large portion of park and wood of 200 acres has been converted into rabbit warrens, and surrounded with iron fencing.

THE PRIMATE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.—The Archbishop of Canterbury presided recently at the opening ceremonies connected with the new home of the Church of England Sunday School Institute at Serjeants' Inn, Fleet street, when the Bishops of London, St. Alban's and Bedford, the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, and others were also present. The report indicated that the Institute has at present 200 local associations connected with it, and 350 agents for the sale of its publications in Great Britain and the colonies. The Archbishop, after declaring the building open, said that everything that had taken place during the last few years in reference to the general education of the country, pointed most distinctly to the absolute necessity of all members of the Church of England exerting themselves heartily to maintain their Sunday-schools. Most of the religious difficulties about education were, he said, created by a sectarian spirit, through which men thought more of their own fleeting definitions of Christian truth than of the great Christian truths which God has revealed.

A REMINISCENCE OF CHARLES DICKENS.—The thousands of readers of the late Charles Dickens's Christmas tales must have heard with regret of the proposed abolition of the charity known as "Watts's Poor Travellers' House" at Rochester, made famous by the novelist in his "Seven Poor Travellers," one of the most popular of his Christmas stories. Recently the trustees appointed an inspector to investigate the characters of the applicants for and recipients of the charity, and his report has just been presented to the trustees. The meeting was a private one, but it may be stated that the inspector reported that, during the ninety-two evenings covered by the investigation 1,258 men applied for admission, and 505 were actually admitted, of whom the great majority were wayfaring mechanics answering to the description of the founder of the bequest, viz., "poor travellers." The general feeling of the trustees appears to be in favor of the retention of the charity, the chairman (Alderman J. B. Foord) expressing his conviction that the Poor Travellers' House was answering the purpose of its founder.

THE CASE OF REV. S. F. GREEN.—According to the Law Journal nobody, not even the Queen, can release Mr. Green from prison except Lord Penzance; and if the Cabinet desire to open the prison doors of the recalcitrant clergyman, it can only be done by an Act of Parliament. The prerogative of mercy, our contemporary says, is exercised by the Queen through her Home Secretary, but is confined to cases which are purely criminal. A prosecution of a clerk in orders before an ecclesiatical court is sometimes called a criminal prosecution, but his position much more resembles that of a defendant in an action who has been sent to prison for refusing to obey the injunction of a civil court, than that of a man who has been convicted of a public offence. There is, in fact no deus ex machina available. Having been appealed to use his influence in promoting the release of the Rev. S. F. Green, the Bishop of Manchester states that he has been in communication with the Prime Minister, to see if the Crown's prerogative of mercy might be exercised in the case; but he has little hope of success without some concession on Mr. Green's part.

A FIGHTING EAGLE.—Dr. Torrington, who is seventy years old and by no means athletic, was hurriedly summoned the other afternoon to the house of a neighbor, Mrs. S. Hadlock, of Peak's Island, Me. When he reached Mrs. Hadlock's he found that he was expected to kill with a gun instead of with his medicine chest. An eagle of sweeping wing and fierce scream was circling about the Hadlock poultry yard, and the good woman was protecting her thanksgiving turkeys by means of brickbats hurled with amazonian courage. The doctor was amazed and amused, for he never before had heard of such boldness on the part of the bald-headed things, however big their beaks. He was about to take aim when the bird swooped down at him. At that moment a six year old child, a grandson of Mrs. Hadlock, toddled out of the house, and the eagle pounced upon the little fellow. Mrs. Hadlock struck frantically at the eagle with a large roller towel, and, releasing the boy, it flew to a neighboring oak. Dr. Torrington put a double charge in the Hadlock shotgun and fired. The eagle flew upward and away over the sea, and its flight showed that it was wounded. Dr. Torrington's shoulder was dislocated by the recoil of his gun. Before night some fishermen found the eagle's body a half mile from shore.

Scotch News.

A VICTIM OF THE ROYAL REVIEW.—Alexander Barron, a member of the Linlithgowshire Constabulary, stationed at Boness, has died from the effects of exposure on the day of the royal review in Edinburgh.

SALVATION ARMY MOBBED.—For the past two months the Salvation Army have been holding meetings in Junction Street Hall, Leith, and these have occasionally been characterized by most unseemly conduct on the part of a number of roughs, notwithstanding the efforts of the police to prevent any disturbance arising. On a late Saturday night the army were as usual parading the streets, and while proceeding along the Kirk Gate, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the town, they were attacked by a mob and rather severely jostled.

CULLODEN BATTLE FIELD.—As the last tragic scene of the unfortunate struggle between the Houses of Hanover and Stuart, this field must retain undying interest and we are glad to learn that Mr. Forbes, of Culloden, is continuing the work of directing and inscribing granite blocks to mark the positions of the combatants, &c. The blocks have been placed in position, and suitable inscriptions are now being cut out on them.

SIR DAVID BREWSTER'S CENTENARY CELEBRATION.—The centenary of the birth of Sir David Brewster occurs on the 11th of December, and the Border Counties Association, of which Sir David Brewster was vice-president, have resolved to anticipate their annual January meeting by holding the dinner on Friday, 9th December, with a special view to commemorating the centenary. The Right Hon. Lord Moncrieff, President of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, has agreed to preside at the dinner, which will take place at the Masonic Hall, George street, and various gentlemen have already intimated their intention of being present.

TEMPERANCE DEPUTATION TO LORD ROSEBERY.—A deputation representing the Temperance Committees of the Free and United Presbyterian Churches recently waited on Lord Rosebery and the Lord Advocate, in the chambers of the latter, Parliament House, for the purpose of urging the Government to bring in a bill in favor of the earlier closing of public-houses in Scotland, and giving to the ratepayers the control of the licenses. The deputation was favorably received by their Lordships, who fully elicited the feeling of the deputation on the different phases of the question under discussion, and promised to lay their views before the Government.

THE SQUIRREL IN SCOTLAND.—Mr. J. A Harvie-Brown has followed up his interesting monograph on the "Capercailzie in Scotland" with a kindred book on the squirrel, into which he has gathered a great deal of novel information. It would seem that, although indigenous in some portion of our country, the squirrel could barely hold its own even in the more favorable localities; it did not thrive or extend itself over a winter area untill about a hundred years ago, when the replanting of woods became general. Before that it had actually become extinct in Argylshire and it was fast disappearing from the forests of the Spey. Its recovery in Ayrshire and the re-stocking of Argyll form features of the work that will specially interest West of Scotland readers. The testimony seems to be unanimous as to the destructive character of the squirrel. On many estates a systematic warfare is carried on against it, so serious has been its depredations; on the Cawdor estate thousands have been slain. In some places a price is paid for each tail produced; and a story is told of a factor seeing a bunch of squirrel tails arrive at the railway station addressed to one of the keepers. A day or two afterward they were coolly presented to be paid for!

Ireland.

FEMALE EMIGRATION.—Under the heading "Irish female Exodus," Mr. Vere Foster, of Belfast, has issued an appeal for funds in aid of his scheme for assisting the emigration of young Irish men and women of good character. Mr. Foster says that he has already assisted the emigration of "ten thousand Connaught girls."

A verdict of wilful murder has been returned by the coroner's jury against Woodhead and Northmore, privates of the 76th and 107th Regiments respectively, stationed at the Curragh, for the murder of Jas. Humphrey, a bandsman of the Rifles. The accused were passengers from Newbridge to the camp by omnibus, which broke down, and the soldiers demanded their fares back from the conductor whom they knocked down and would have killed. Humphrey cried shame upon them, whereupon they turned upon him and kicked him to death.

Massacre in Zululand.

The Daily News Durban correspondent says:—John Dunn admits that massacres are taking place in Zululand, and that they are causing a famine which will probably be severe and prolonged. The country, he says, is so unsettled that the people are afraid to plant mealies, and until some supreme chief is appointed the evil will continue. John Dunn has proposed to the Government that the kinglets should be called upon to elect a supreme chief. In the meantime he has canvassed for his own election. More Zulu representatives have arrived at Maritzburg begging, is is reported, for certain headmen to be allowed to share Cetewayo's captivity. They are represented as persistently stating that the majority of the kinglets pray for Cetewayo's return. The policy of granting this prayer may be debated, but many people maintain that the wish is strong throughout Zululand. John Dunn admits, it is said, that some of the kinglets and many of the Zulus wish it. In the last fight many women and children were massacred in spite of the British Resident, who is powerless.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestiible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, DEC. 8.

Railway Consolidation.

The operations of the railway managers have of late years displayed a power of combination, a degree of prescience, a fertility of resource, a courage and skill in face of adverse circumstances which would have placed not a few of those gentlemen high on the roll of fame as great captains had they chosen the military profession and directed operations involving the slaughter of their fellow men, instead of, as some sour cynic or caustic satirist might be led to say, directing their talents to the less noble occupation of aiming at the wealth, instead of the lives, of their fellow-men. For ourselves, we cannot fully endorse this cynical view of the subject, although the operations of some of the so-called "Railway Kings;" or "Modern Highwaymen," as they are variously styled, according to the humor of the writer, in recent years have been of such a character as to warrant the use of strong language. To this class belonged Fisk, and Drew and a few others of less note, but it would be unjust to place such men as Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr Jewett, of the Erie, Mr. Hickson, of the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Stephen, of the Canada Pacific, who, with Mr. Jay Gould, (whose status is not very clear,) are the greatest railway magnates on the continent, in the same category.

All are able strategists, loyal to the interests they represent, and thoroughly capable of making the most of the resources at their command. The means which they resort to in order to secure victory are not always of a character that would secure the approval of the strictest moralists, but neither are those of the military commander, and so the public, taking into account the necessities of the case, overlook to a certain extent the moral view of the subject and behold the (not always bloodless) contests of the great strategists and applaud the successful commanders. To review, (even in the form of an outline sketch, the operations of the gentlemen named would require an amount of space much greater than can be profitably devoted to a newspaper article, so we propose to confine the remaining remarks which the subject at present calls for, to the notable contest going on in our midst at the present time, and in which the Managers of the Grand Trunk and of the Canada Pacific respectively are the principals.

It is but a few months since an astute friend made the prophecy that ere the lapse of many years the small Railway Companies in Canada would be wiped out, and that there would be but two great Railway Corporations left in the Dominion. That this prophecy is in course of rapid fulfilment, the following facts will show: The Grand Trunk, with the object of securing a portion of the trade of the Western States and such part of that of Manitoba as passes over the American lines, have secured the Midland, Grand Junction, Toronto & Ottawa, Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay, Toronto and Nipissing, and several lines in addition. Thus that Company will be enabled, by the construction of a line to the Sault St. Marie, to form a connection with an American line to be built to that point, and, by the Manitoba South Eastern, to secure a large share of the trade of the Western States and of Manitoba.

The Pacific Railway Company, with the object of defeating the proposed enterprise of the Grand Trunk, are also carrying on the war upon a large scale. They possessed the line formerly known as the Canada Central, between Brockville and Ottawa. To this they added the road connecting Ottawa with the eastern section of the Canada Pacific proper, the St. Lawrence and Ottawa, connecting Ottawa with Prescott; and now they propose to purchase the Great Western, Toronto, Grey, and Bruce, Northern and North-Western, Credit Valley, Ontario and Quebec, and the Montreal, Ottawa, and Occidental. Thus they will secure a through line to Quebec, where they will have a summer port for ocean shipments and will be able to exchange traffic with the Intercolonial during the greater part of the winter. Besides these great schemes the Syndicate will probably seek connection with the United States lines by means of a bridge at Coteau Landing, and in the mean time will oppose with all their power the Manitoba South-eastern, which the Grand Trunk will do all they can to foster, at the same time fighting for the possession of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce.

This railway war is a struggle between giants, and war to the knife at that. All that money and brains can do will be done on either side, and the people will watch the varying phases of the contest with great attention, because their interests are deeply involved. Let us hope that the pockets of the public will not suffer through the hostilities of the great Railway Companies.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with food of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

Editorial Brevities.

The Montreal Herald is very much annoyed that the INTELLIGENCER should have given credence to the rumor published in the Witness, that the press room of the Post had been set fire to by Grit incendiaries, but considering the antecedents of the party, our belief had ample warrant. The Herald says:

> If any had an interest in the destruction of the premises, it was Mr. Doherty's own friends, who were desperate over the disappointment of the hopes which the paper in question had led them to entertain.

This attempt to show that its friends had no motive and to throw the odium upon the Conservatives is thus effectually disposed of by the Post:

> Now, considering that the fire took place on Friday morning, seven or eight hours before a single vote was cast, the friends of Mr. Doherty could not have been "desperately disappointed" at the result.

The failure of the Herald's attempt to exculpate its friends has left them in a worse position than before.

"But after all," says the Globe, in a clumsy attempt to account for the defeat of its party in Quebec, "the strongest card Mr. Chapleau had to play was the backing of the Dominion Government and the use he was enabled to make of the Syndicate projects." How comes it, then, that in Montreal—the very centre of the Syndicate's influence—two of the three divisions were carried by the Rouges?

It is evident that the inspection of the hulls of steam and sailing vessels will have to be undertaken by the Government. Loss of life and of property owing personally to the weakness or rottenness of steamboats and other vessels have been so great this season, that public sentiment has been strongly aroused in favor of compulsory inspection by Government officials.

Some of the Grit papers have of late been reviving the exodus question. As an instance of what will hereafter, no doubt, be used as proof of the exodus of Canadians to the United States, a friend who recently visited Toronto informs us that on the train upon which he travelled were some twenty persons removing from Boston to Chicago, and about an equal number of men from the Eastern States destined for the lumber region of Michigan. These people had simply chosen the route through Canada as the best and cheapest by which to travel, but beyond doubt the United States officials at Port Huron will enumerate them as emigrants from Canada, and such statistics, so made up, will be quoted by the Grit press as evidence of an exodus from the Dominion, in order to sustain an argument against the N. P.

Some doubt has been expressed as to whether the Mondays following Christmas and New Year's day will be bank holidays. Section 8 of the Act relating to banks and banking settles the question, however, the clause reading as follows:

> "Any day appointed by proclamation for a public holiday, or for a general fast, or a general thanksgiving throughout the Dominion; and the day next following New Year's Day, and Christmas Day, when those days respectively fall on Sunday."

Thus the 26th day of the present month and the 2nd day of January next are legal bank holidays.

Synod of Ontario.

TUESDAY, Dec. 6.

The report of the special Committee appointed to consider the accounts of the late Clerical Secretary was ordered to be printed.

Mr. R. T. Walkem presented the auditors' report, which stated that there has been a return in the Clerical Secretary's office to something like system. The Mission Fund balance of the late Clerical Secretary has been cancelled, and his Assessment Fund balance has been reduced to $410.71. His debit balances are now:

|---|---|
| Rectory Lands | $ 5,681 06 |
| Divinity Students | 234 15 |
| Windows and Orphans | 789 43 |
| Episcopal | 2,251 55 |
| Sustentation | 1,361 20 |
| Total | $10,317 30 |

The balance due the Clergy Trust Fund is $3,998.20. The securities belonging to the Sustenation Fund, which are mentioned in the last report at p. 1,748, are still held by the Bank of Montreal as security for the overdraft of the Mission Fund account.

Rev. Mr. Lewin, Chairman of the Trust Fund Committee, reported that on the 1st May, 1881, there were twenty-three mortgages covering a principal sum of $27,220.12; twenty-three debentures, $19,350; cash in the Bank of Montreal, $7,791.87; premium of 9½ per cent. on Brockville debentures, $427.50, a total of $54,771.49.

The Committee on Foreign Missions reported that contributions amounting to $970.10 had been received by them during this year ending April 30, 1881, from 51 parishes in the diocese. Of this amount the sum of $646.45 was paid as directed by the parishes to the Algoma Diocesan Fund. A further sum of $250.46 was forwarded to Rev. E. F. Wilson in aid of his Indian Homes, an amount mainly contributed by Sunday Schools. The receipts from the various deaneries are as follows: Frontenac, $196.02; Leeds, $99.04; Lennox and dington, $44.15; Hastings and Prince Edward, $109.43; Grenville, $134.30; Stormont, $100.68; Carleton, $160.15; Lenark and Renfrew, $125.73.

The Rev. A. Spencer was re-elected Clerical Secretary.

Mr. R. M. Moore was re-elected Treasurer.

The motion of the Rev. C. P. Emery came up, for the appointment of a Diocesan Building Committee, for the supervision of church and parsonage building plans and for restraining of parishes not in a position to build without creating an unwise debt.

After some discussion, during which Rev. Dr. Clarke urged that congregations should not be restricted in their tastes or designs to build, the motion was withdrawn.

The proposed Canon on parochial disputes was laid over, though Rev. Mr. Burke urged its consideration.

A motion of condolence, on the death o Rev. Mr. Carroll, was passed.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 7.

The report of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund was presented by Rev. J. J. Bogert. It stated that the capital had been increased $21,918 82. There has been a falling off in subscriptions of $65 during the year.

The Clergy Trust Fund Committe reported that the invested capital was $262,346.93, having decreased $2,949 during the year.

The election of Provincial delegates was then proceeded with, with the following result:

Clerical—Rev. Messrs. J. J. Bogert, J. W. Burke, F. W. Kirkpatrick, W. Lewin, Ven. Archdeacon Jones, G. W. White, C. B. Petit, Ven. Archdeacon Lauder, Revs. E. H. M. Baker, H. Wilson, H. Pollard, Dean Lyster. Substitutes—Rev. Messrs. A. Spencer, C. P. Emery. C. P. Crawford, A. C. Nesbitt, W. Blessel and G. J. Low.

The Consolidated Bank Robbery.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED IN ITALY FOR CIRCULATING THE STOLEN NOTES.

An event has taken place which will revive interest in this robbery, which was committed in 1876. It will be remembered that in that year four thousand notes for $10 each, signed by the President, Sir Francis Hincks, but not countersigned by the cashier, Mr. Renny, were stolen, and attempted to be circulated both here and in the States. The guilty parties were never discovered. Now it appears that five men are in gaol at Turin, Italy, charged with attempting to circulate some of these very notes. The Italian consul in Montreal, Mr. Angelo Gianelli, has been communicated with by the Turin officials requesting him to send proof that Mr. Renny's signature, which appears on the notes, is forged. This Mr. Gianelli has done to-day, testifying, together with Mr. Kinnell and another late officer of the Bank, that not only is the signature not Mr. Renny's, but that he was never authorized to sign other than $4 or $5 notes.

A Scandalous Revelation.

The Toronto papers of the 7th inst. contain the result of an inquiry by a Government Commissioner into the financial condition of the township of Sombra, County of Lambton, which reveals a very disgraceful state of affairs. As one or both of the officials concerned were formerly residents of this locality, the matter possesses a certain degree of local interest. The Commissioner reports that by the illegal acts, mismanagement and imprudence, or inability and neglect of duty by the Council and officers of the township, a large sum, amounting to $2,355 86, will probably be lost to the municipality. That public works had been undertaken and moneys paid to commissioners for such works, when it has been ascertained that some of the said works were not, nor have they been, commenced. That U. C. Maybee, the late Treasurer, was often drunk and incompetent; that he had not sufficient sureties for several years; that his books had not been examined by the Council; that the collection was not made within the time prescribed by law; that no account of rates was kept; that the Treasurer paid out money without the authority of the Council; that he carried the Township moneys in his pocket; and that he has absconded and is a defaulter in the sum of $2,355 86.

The Commissioner also reports:—"There yet remains to be investigated the accounts of one P. W. Merritt, of Port Lambton, a Commissioner for expending the moneys received from the Provincial Government under the Act for the distribution of the Municipal Loan Fund surplus. He writes me that he will be in Belleville for the next six weeks, and that he is unable to give any account of his expenditure, not having kept any detailed account. The amount of the surplus due Sombra was $6,000."

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City.

GENTLEMEN.—Having been defeated by a few voter last year for the Mayoralty, and having now been offered support by many who opposed me then, I beg again to solicit your suffrages for the Mayoralty of 1882.

Although defeated last year, I have not neglected the schemes in the interests of the City which I had on hand when in the Council.

Your light house has been completed—a graceful and substantial structure -highly prized by the vessel and steamboat men trading to our port. Owing, however, to the greater altitude of our city clock, I shall urge upon the Government the necessity there is that the clock should be lighted also to complete our wants in this respect.

As to the Murray Canal—a scheme revived by me when in the Council and never lost sight of—I am happy to be able to state that tenders will very soon be asked for by the Department for its construction, and that such work will be begun as can be done during the winter and the whole pushed on with vigor in the spring.

The reasons for the delay that has occurred in this matter are, the exhaustive nature of the final surveys, and the illness of the Chief Engineer.

As to our Railways, the construction of the "missing link" as it is called, from Peterboro to Omemee, and the erection here of one or more elevators, are portions of the amalgamation scheme which, if it is carried into effect, cannot fail to be of benefit to our City—as then the all rail route to the Georgian Bay will have been completed, being the shortest route by far from the cities of Chicago, Milwaukie and Duluth, and our own great North-west, to the sea-board, via the Midland Railway to Belleville, and thence by steam barge to the sides of the ocean going vessels.

Further, the construction of our Railways has made the establishment of Smelting Works here almost a certainty; and it must be gratifying to those who have labored to this end to find that two offers are now before the Council for the erection of blast furnaces, provided suitable encouragement is given to these enterprises.

I would advocate the greatest liberality in the consideration to be given to the promoters of those most important industries, so that we secure them; for they are not only valuable in themselves, but they bring in their train other iron manufactories—thus adding largely to our population and resources.

In conclusion, I shall, if elected, endeavor in the future, as in the past, to secure the best interests of the city; and if, from the nature of my calling. I am not an employer of labor myself, I have been instrumental in some degree in bringing to our city work for our laboring men and mechanics, and trust that the day is not far distant when other opportunities for the employment of labor will be afforded to our people, to secure which I have been humbly working (together with others), and I shall continue to do so, until success crowns our efforts. You all know me from my boyhood, and you have my views on these few public matters.

I respectfully solicit your support.
I have the honor to remain
Your obedient servant,
D. B. ROBERTSON,
Belleville, Dec. 6, 1881.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE,
CHANCERY DIVISION.

MORTON v. PONTON.

PURSUANT to the decree made in this cause, and bearing date the Thirteenth day of February, A.D. 1879, there will be sold by Public Auction, with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esquire, Local Master at Belleville, at his Chambers, in the Shire Hall, in the said City of Belleville, on Tuesday, the 13th day of December next,

at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon, the following lands and premises, in two parcels, as follows:

PARCEL NO. I.—Part of Lot No. 5, in the 1st concession of the Township of Thurlow, now in the City of Belleville, containing by admeasurement 28 acres, 3 roods and 16 perches, situate on the south side of the Kingston road, which land is more particularly described in a certain Indenture of Mortgage from one Jacob Bonter to the Trust and Loan Company of Canada, bearing date the 10th day of November, A.D. 1851.

PARCEL NO. II.—Lot No. 7, on the west side of Pinnacle Street, and Lot No. 7 on the east side of Front Street, in the City of Belleville.

Parcel No. I. includes the property better known as the Cricket field. On this parcel is a comfortable stone dwelling, with a very large garden, well adapted for a market garden, and having also an excellent pasture field of about fifteen acres, with a stream running through.

The Parcels will be offered for sale separately, each subject to a reserved bid, which has been fixed by the Master.

Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid down at the time of sale, the balance within thirty days from the day of sale.

The plaintiff is not to be called upon to produce any title deeds, or any copies of title deeds, other than those in his possession.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery.

Further particulars can be had on enquiry at the Law Offices of Messrs. Bell & Biggar, Denmark & Northrup, and W. N. Ponton, Esq., Solicitors, Belleville.

Dated at Belleville, this 14th day of November, A.D. 1881.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, DEC. 8.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

THE Steamship Sardinian arrived at Halifax this morning.

REMEMBER the meeting to-night at Bethel Hall at 7:45—you are invited.

FOUR men were in the cells last night—two prisoners and two tramps.

THE Aylwards were hanged at the Court House here just nineteen years ago to-day.

THE steamer Armenia arrived this morning from Wolfe Island with a load of baled hay for Rathbun's shanties.

THE sale of County lands for taxes will be concluded to-morrow morning. Only a small quantity remain, to be disposed of.

THE storm last night put a veto on the proposed meeting of the Yacht Club. A meeting will, however, be held on Monday night next.

IT is the intention of the Telephone Company to establish telephonic connections between Belleville, Napanee, Trenton and Deseronto next summer.

REV. D. MITCHELL, of this city, lectured on "Sir Walter Scott" in Colborne one day last week, and the Express says the lecture was "highly interesting."

THE temperature last night did not go below 7° above zero. But the heavy wind that prevailed during the night and early this morning made it feel at least ten degrees colder.

THE ferry steamer had to break her way through the ice this morning before she could get out of the slip ; but she was successful in making a channel, and has been running all day.

A LONG shed is being erected on the ground to be occupied by the Government Building, for the use of the stone-cutters who will, during the winter, prepare the Ohio stone for use in the spring.

Two cases, both drunks, were before the Police Magistrate this morning. J. Gibson was fined $10 and costs or two months in gaol. Wm. J. Morrison was allowed to go, this being his first offence.

THE Toronto Mail, speaking evidently with authority, says that the Grand Trunk intend improving their line between Toronto and Belleville shortly. The steep grades will be reduced and the short curves straightened.

MR. WM. S. HUNTER, inventor of the Hunter Cattle Car, has received from the editor of the New England Farmers' Journal a request to furnish a description of his car, as it has been pronounced the most successful of the many hundreds which have been patented. The description, together with a large cut of the car, will appear soon in the Journal. This is one of the most gratifying compliments which Mr. Hunter has received, for it is equivalent to a complete endorsation of his car from the highest agricultural authority in the United States.

THE G. T. R. station was literally thronged last evening by people waiting for No. 2 express. The unusual throng was accounted for by the fact of there being three wedding parties present. If there had been a fourth, some of them would have been obliged to wait outside in the cold.

MR. S. MCCULLOUGH, foreman of the news-room of the INTELLIGENCER office, was happily united in the bonds of wedlock, yesterday afternon, with Miss Carrie Roenigk, daughter of Mr. L. Roenigk, of this city. The happy couple left last evening for Toronto, and were accompanied to the station by a great number of friends.

As an evidence of the kindly feeling towards Christ Church entertained by the masons lately employed on the building, we are informed that Messrs. Jas. Woodley sen., Jas. Shephard, Thos. Thompson, C. E. Woodley, Jas. Woodley, and others have volunteered to finish many jobs in and about the church, free of charge.

MR. NEWBERY was not so well this morning as he was yesterday. He at times lapses into semi-unconsciousness, and is very weak. At last reports he was sinking.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Newbery was totally unconscious and sinking fast. The physicians have abandoned all hope of his recovery. His two sons, who are in business in the West, have been sent for.

THE cheque of $3,000 which was given by the Chairman of the Finance Committee to the Board of Education for teachers' salaries and other necessary expenses, was again presented at the Bank of Commerce yesterday, and refused on the ground that the city's account was already overdrawn. It is said that all other cheques presented by the City have been honored by the Bank. A meeting of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education will be held this evening, when, it is possible, they will take steps to issue a mandamus against the City in order to secure the amount asked for.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 8.—Lakes, increasing southerly to westerly winds ; fair to cloudy weather, with light snow in some localities ; higher temperatures.

L. O. L. No. 425.—The following officers have been elected for 1882 :—W. M., Bro. Wm. Tummon ; Dep. M., Bro. James Downey ; Chaplain, Wm. Chambers ; Sec., Sam'l Tummon ; Treas., John Tweedy ; Dir. of Ceremonies, Richard Downey ; Committeemen—John Lancaster (Sen. Com.), Francis Reynolds, Thomas Tummon, James Harvey, George Francis. This Lodge meets on the first Tuesday in every month

THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.—To-day is the festival of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary—one of the great feasts of the Roman Catholic Church. This belief (that the Virgin Mary was in her conception exempt from all stain of original sin) was held in the eastern and western churches from a remote antiquity, but was not defined as an article of faith until Dec. 8th, 1854, when Pope Pius IX. formally and solemnly defined the doctrine, with great pomp, in the basilica of St. Peter's, in the presence of more than 300 Archbishops, Bishops and Prelates. In September, 1857, a monument was inaugurated by the Pope at Rome in commemoration of the decree. High mass was celebrated in St. Michael's this morning. Grand Vespers will be celebrated this evening at 7 o'clock, and a sermon will be preached by Mgr. Farrelly.

THE 15TH BATTALION INSPECTION.—It is now more than two months since the date was fixed for the official inspection of the 15th Battalion, and yet the inspection has not taken place. The companies have long ago finished the period of drill required of them, and some of them have almost become disorganized on account of the members leaving town to work in the shanties and elsewhere. No cause has been assigned for this neglect on the part of the inspecting officers, and why the battalion has been thus neglected is a mystery to the officers. Of course no pay can be drawn before the inspection takes place, and a number of the poorer men who have sacrificed considerable time in order to attend drill feel that they cannot afford to lose the allowance of $6.00, and they are consequently discontented. The officers of the battalion are thoroughly disgusted, and it is probable that unless the inspection takes place soon several of them will resign.

Terrible Disaster.

FALL OF A BUILDING—FOUR CHILDREN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 6.—Three boys, whose names were Bliss Martin Charles Doig, and Harry Farrell, were playing on the basement of St. Mary's Church Sunday school, which was recently damaged by fire, when the main floor fell and crushed them to death. One little boy who was with them escaped and gave the alarm. The firemen were called to the scene to assist in clearing away the debris. The three bodies were found, but the men are still hard at work, as it is feared others might have been in the ruins when the floor fell. It was some time before the parents of the children became aware of the terrible accident, and when they arrived the scene was heartrending. Great excitement prevails in the vicinity. The Coroner will hold an inquest to-night.

ST. JOHN, Dec. 7.—The body of a lad named Kelly was found in the ruins of St. Mary's Church building this morning. Men were working at the ruins all night. Kelly is the fourth victim of yesterday's accident.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says :—David Davis said last night the President's message was very able as a state Paper. It is the first important message in forty years that has not referred to the "south" as a distinctive section of the country. Could there be a more auspicious moment for the dissolution of the two old political parties and the formation of two new parties divided on the living issues of to-day?

Representative Jones, of Texas, will resign his seat in the House before the expiration of the present term to become an independent candidate for Governor against Roberts, the present incumbent, whose renomination is said to be assured. This movement will be the beginning of an attempt to Mahonize Texas.

The Herald says that the Japanese Government propose to constitute a court for the ultimate hearing of cases where foreigners are offenders or parties to the suit. The court will be composed of citizens of a number of the most prominent powers having treaties with Japan. There will be one judge from each and a number of native judges, the majority of the court to be foreigners. It is understood that United States Minister Brigham will be offered the first position in the new court.

The clerk in the pension office was arrested yesterday on a charge of using Government franking envelopes for private business. He made a partial confession indicating a conspiracy with several others in the pension office, and other departments to pass fictitious claims, and also to take money for attention to paper claims under consideration in the department. Sensational developments are promised.

Since the decision of Count Lewen Haupt, umpire in the Buzas case, that the Spanish claims commission had a right to go behind the regularly issued naturalization papers of a claimant of a State, the defendant has withdrawn all cases of naturalized citizens from the commission. These cases, and the principle on which they rest, will be decided by negotiations between the two Governments.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Young People Come to Grief on their way to Singing Practice.

ONE LADY KILLED ; ANOTRER BADLY BRUISED.

VICTORIA HARBOR, Dec. 7.—The terrible accident of Saturday last has cast a gloom over the neighborhood where it occurred. The following are the particulars of the sad affair :—The young people belonging to the families of Mr. Geo. Widdess and Mr. T. Robinson were on their way to singing practice at Vasey, in preparation for the new Methodist Church opening. The wheels of the waggon—which was crowded—passed over a root, and Mr. W. J. Robinson, who was driving, was thrown violently to the ground. The horses becoming alarmed at the confusion which ensued, started off on the run, dragging Mr. Robinson along the road. Miss Margaret Widdess attempted to recover the lines, when she also was thrown out and dragged some distance, sustaining injuries which led to her death in about half an hour after the occurrence. Miss Robinson was rendered insensible for some time from bruises which were inflicted on her head and shoulders, but she will, it is believed, recover.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles ; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. # AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PARNELL ILL.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—Parnell was taken suddenly ill yesterday with chills and shivering fits.

DEATH OF A JUDGE.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Harvey Jewell, formerly a judge of the Alabama Claims Commission, is dead.

JOHN W. FORNEY UNWELL.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—John W. Forney is very ill. The physicians have hopes of his recovery.

FATAL FIRE.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Dec. 8.—There was a fire in a boarding house here this morning. Five persons were rescued from the windows. It is supposed that Mrs. Anna Walsh and Lizzie Ketch were burned to death. One body was recovered.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Guiteau shouted : "A crank in Chicago says I talked with him about this case; I don't know the man, its false."

Corkhill called Mrs. Julia Wilson, of Leadville. She knew L. W. Guiteau from her earliest recollection ; he was her uncle. Witness gave a most feeling account of the life and character of her mother, Mrs. Maynard, who, it had been alleged by the defence, died insane, but who really died of pneumonia in 1856 ; her mother was noted for a lovely disposition and christian character ; witness was her nurse and constant attendant up to her death, and never saw the slightest indication of flightiness or insanity.

The witness was questioned in relation to the evidence of Davis, one of the witnesses for the defence. Davis had testified that he was one time in Mrs. Maynard's room during her last illness, and she was very flighty and incoherent, and continually charged Davis to look out for her husband and children, for she feared they would go to the poor house. Mrs. Wilson smiled incredulously while the question was being put, and replied that she did not even remember Davis, and thought it very improbable that he was ever in the presence of her mother at that time. She was constantly with her and never saw or heard anything of the kind.

Corkhill—"This man Davis testified in regard to your sister Abbie, 'We used to call her foolish Abbie.' Do you know anything of this ?"

Answer—"It may be possible, sir. I don't know who Davis is. He may have been one of those rude boys to be met most everywhere."

The deposition of Mr. Turner was read, in which he said, "I have heard her husband say that she died insane."

The witness was questioned with regard to it.

Scoville objected to the reply, "I never heard of it."

A lively discussion ensued between Porter and Scoville.

Guiteau became enraged at Proter, and shouted, "New hold your thunder till you get to a jury. Judge, you are doing this sort of thing too much." Foster, without noticing the outburst, continued in the most impressive manner to argue his point.

News Condensed.

—Snow fell heavily in parts of the Province of Quebec yesterday.

—Mr. Joseph Rymal, M. P., is recovering from a recent severe illness.

—The first of the regular line of steamers under the Chinese flag reached England yesterday.

—Admiral Bird, commander of the Investigator in Sir John Ross' expedition in search of Sir John Franklin, is dead.

—The national memorial statue to Daniel O'Connell has been completed. It will be erected in Sackville-street, Dublin.

—An engine house at Fredericton, N. B. containing a locomotive, a box car, a flat car and other material, was burned on the 7th.

—The Orangemen will appeal from the decision of the Superior Court in Montreal in the case involving the question of their right to walk in procession.

—Word has been received in Montreal, that the Government has refused to commute the sentence of Hayvern under sentence of death for murder.

—The steamship City of London is now 24 days out from London, and grave fears are entertained for their safety. She has few, if any, passengers, but a heavy cargo.

—It is stated that Sir E. J. Reed, the well-known English engineer, who was expected to visit Toronto some time ago, has indefinitely postponed his visit, owing to pressing business engagements.

—Two schooners are being prepared by the Imperial Government, and will be ready in a week to proceed to the Zanzibar coast, off which the contest with a slave dhow occurred, in which Capt. Brownrigg, of the man-of-war London, lost his life.

—Messrs. Stephen and Angus, of the Syndicate, deny the statements with regard to the purchase of the Credit Valley road by their company. They acknowledge, however, that negotiations are in progress in connection with both the Credit Valley and Great Western.

The Fly and the Watch-dog.

When John Ruskin, in one of his uniquely expressed and incomparable essays, holds up the house fly as the embodiment of true earthly liberty, he uses an illustration that all can appreciate. But when he would convey the idea of the most abject slavery by citing the watch-dog as the truest representative thereof, we must dissent from the opinion of our friend of art and beauty. If, in all this world—in its varying circumstances and changeful conditions, there can be found a degree of serfdom more exacting and remorseless than that imposed by sickness, we would be pleased to discover such. And when it partakes of that nature where the nerves vibrate with pain of neuralgia at the slightest touch, and the body is made unshapely by the cruel energy of rheumatism, then is it slavery indeed. However, with the bad runs the good, and with the disease is to be found near by the antidote, as the following illustrations will show: Mr. Thomas Clayden, Shelburn, Ont., writes :—"I have been suffering with a lame back for the past thirty years, and tried everything I heard of without success. Not long ago I was persuaded by I. F. Se'fry, druggist, in Shelburne, to use a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. I purchased a bottle, and, strange to say, before I had used it all, I was perfectly cured. I must say that it has rendered me a great service, and I can confidently recommend it to any one afflicted. No one can speak too highly of its merits." Mr. W. E. Weeckley, also of Shelburne, thus mentions a matter of his experience :—"I have been a sufferer with rheumatism for years. I was laid up with a severe attack a short time ago, and I can truly say that St. Jacobs Oil produced the quickest relief that I ever experienced. I cheerfully recommend it to every sufferer." Such the disease—such the antidote.

The last candidate for the office of county treasurer, Mr. Charles A. Miller, of Cummisville (Cincinnati), Ohio, says : I have had occasion to use St. Jacobs Oil several times for horses, and always found its workings wonderful enough to surprise me. St. Jacobs Oil never fails to cure, and no owner of a livery stable should be without it."

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

A Fair Shepherdess.

THE ROMANCE OF A BEAUTIFUL PHILADELPHIA GIRL AND A PITTSBURG MINER.

(San Antonio Express.)

A reporter of the Express learned from Mr. James Holt of Concho the particulars of a history that properly handled would make the web and woof of as romantic a novel as ever was written. It is the story of a beautiful girl who voluntarily leaves all the luxuries and elegancies of a beautiful home in Philadelphia to follow a lover to the wilds of Texas. Blanche Thomas, was the only daughter of parents who lavished upon her all that wealth could purchase. Her dresses from Worth, her equipages, her brown stone house on Chestnut street, were the envy of many and the ambition of a few. Her father took her with him to Paris, where she soon became the rage in the American colony there. Many admirers had aspired to her hand many wealthy noblemen had offered themselves in marriage, but all in vain. When pressed by her father for an explanation of her conduct she reluctantly acknowledged she was in love and had been since her childhood with the son of the manager of her fathers's coal mines, near Pittsburg. This so enraged her father that he forbade her even to mention the young man's name again, and unthinkingly told her she must select some eligible party within six months or cease to be his daughter. Thinking him to be in earnest, and knowing him to a man of his word, the poor girl packed up a few clothes, and, taking what money she had in her purse at the time, took passage on an outward bound steamer for New York. Arriving there she telegraphed to her lover in Pittsburg, who did not even stop to change his mining clothes, so afraid was he that he would miss the fast express that was to carry him to the object of his affections.

There was a quiet little marriage at Grace Church the next day, and the spoiled child of fortune was the wife of a brawny muscular miner. After much thought and a great amount of planning it was decided to come to Texas, and here build for themselves a home. He pre-empted and purchased land and sheep in Taylor County, built a house of two small rooms, and while she cooked, washed and attended to her humble avocations of household drudgery he looked after the sheep and cultivated a few acres of land. A year of perfect but quiet happiness passed by, when the husband broke his leg and the work of watching devolved upon the wife. One afternoon, as she was walking towards the house in her simple country dress a party of gentlemen rode up and one them was her father, who had been searching for his daughter since her departure from Paris. Calm reflection had taught him that her's had, after, been the better choice, and he was only too glad to recognize in her husband a son-in-law. He persuaded them to give up their home in Texas for a time and return with him to Philadelphia.

A Silver Mine in Ireland.

A Cork correspondent says:—It may not be generally known that a limited liability company has been formed for the purpose of working a silver mine near Bantry. Yet such is the fact, and already operations have been commenced for carrying out the work. Some twelve years ago, when a new line of road was being constructed on the north side of Bantry Bay, it was found there was a vein of silver ore running through the stone. Captain Thomas, who was working another mine in the district, had his attention directed to the matter, and he gave it as his opinion that the mine might be worked with advantage. Since then a Company has been formed in London, and all the arrangements have been made for working the mine. On the occasion of our visit to the place recently men were engaged in tunnelling the rock. Over 100 feet of the tunnel had been bored, and a shaft some 20 feet deep had been sunk in connection with the passage under ground. When these preliminary measures are completed it is intended to carry on the mining operations from three different points. Parallel with the silver vein, and about 100 feet distant, copper of very good description has been found. The silver ore is stated to be of a very rich quality, bearing 400 ounces to the ton, in addition to which arsenic and other mineral products can be extracted. It is gratifying to notice that, notwithstanding the outcry that has been raised in the country, Englishmen are prepared to invest their capital in an eligible investment, and we trust that this venture may realize the expectations of its promoters. Mr. Eddy, who has had some experience in mining operations, has been appointed "captain," or manager, of the mine.

Fish as Food.

Pound for pound fish is fully as nutritious as butcher's meat. It may not seem so satisfying, but that is because the sense of satisfaction we experience in eating is the result of supplying the stomach with food, and in no direct or immediate way related to the nourishment of the organism as a whole. Very few of the solid substances we eat are digested even so far as the stomach is concerned, in less than an hour, and nutrition cannot commence until after digestion has proceeded for some time. It follows that the feeling of satisfaction produced by solid food during a meal must be due to the appeasing of those cravings which are set up in the stomach rather than the supply of the needs of the system. Inasmuch as butcher's meat is less easy of suggestion than fish and it gives the stomach more to do, it is easy to see why it seems, at the moment, more satisfying. Looking to the ultimate purposes of nutrition, fish is the better kind of food; it is more readily and completely reduced in the stomach, and it nourishes the organism more thoroughly, and with less physical inconvenience, than flesh of warm-blooded animals. A common error in regard to the use of fish is a failure to recognize there are two distinct classes of this staple, looked at as food. In one class which may be represented by the mackerel and the salmon, the oil and fat are distributed throughout the flesh, while in the other, of which the cod and whiting may be taken as examples, the oil and fat are found almost exclusively in the internal organs, notably the liver. Now the oil and fat are necessary, and if the fish is not cooked and eaten whole, or nearly so, these most important parts are wasted. In cleaning fish as little as possible should be removed. This is a point of the highest practical moment. Fishmongers and cooks need to be instructed afresh on the subject. To omit any portion of the liver of a cod in preparing the fish for the table is to throw away a great delicacy. A cod's liver properly dressed is a dish for a gourmet. It is inexplicable how anything so nauseous of the "cod liver oil" of the chemist and druggists can be prepared from any thing so nice as the liver of cod.—Good Words.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Important to Farmers, etc.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)

FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages.

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr., John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tomaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

—:o:—

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, yours very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Daily Intelligencer.

Our Judicious Tariff.

A LATE OPPONENT NOW STRENUOUSLY SUPPORTS IT

VIEWS THAT ARE UNANSWERABLE.

A special correspondent of the Boston Daily Advertiser, who, it seems, is making a trip to the American North west in company with a party of gentlemen belonging to the Boston Produce Exchange, writes to the Advertiser a letter dated from Cedar Rapids, Ia., Nov. 30, in which he relates a conversation he had with a Canadian on the subject of Canadian affairs. He says: At Montreal a gentleman joined us with whom the next day I enjoyed a long conversation. Withholding his name, I will merely say that he is the largest miller and exporter of flour in the Dominion, owning mills in Montreal and elsewhere, making several thousand barrels daily. He brings wheat in the summer from Duluth to Montreal at a cost of nine cents per bushel, and he has also one mill on Lake Huron which turns out 900 barrels daily, the product of which is mostly exported, the freight from Goderich to Glasgow, via Boston, being 38 to 39 cents. On arriving in Chicago I had an opportunity to still further converse with my Montreal friend, and this time I led him to the topic of the protective tariff policy for Canada. We were in the grand rotunda of the Palmer house, and lighting a cigar he took possession of one of the large easy chairs, and said, "Now, I'm ready for you," and as I pulled out the familiar yellow paper of the Boston craft, and my pencil, facing my huge Canadian friend, who was over six feet and broad-shouldered in proportion, I could not help thinking that such a man would be ready in another sense for any ordinary man, and would make short work of him too. But that has nothing to do with protection the reader will say, so revenons. "I was just the bitterest foe to protection that can possibly be imagined," said he with emphasis, "and I actually went to a leading member of the Government and besought him with tears to save me from ruin, and not try it. I had up to that time depended upon the States for my supply of wheat, and with a duty it would be shut out. I was in despair. And yet to-day the tariff has no stronger friend than myself. I can see that it is developing the industries of the country beyond all expectation, and instead of ruining my business it has been developed by it in common with all other interests. Our cotton mills are paying immensely, where we formerly imported all such goods from the States; and such has been the internal development here, that, while years ago we were feeding the States with immigrants, we are now attracting them here to our own North-West. The revenues of the Government have also increased, and for the first time we have a surplus revenue. The tariff permits me to grind American wheat in bond for export, and provided I ship an equivalent in flour for the bushels of wheat imported that is all that is required. I can obtain flour from the line of the Grand Trunk and other Canadian roads, at all of which points I have agents buying, wheat enough to supply the local demand, and the local consumption has been greatly increased by the tariff. The farmers, who thought they would be ruined by the tariff, are enjoying a better market, and higher prices for there produce. I think that in a short time longer the benefits of the tariff policy will be so apparent to all that it will be impossible for us to turn back. There will be no reciprocity treaty now. The time has gone by for that, and the annexation agitation is at an end. The Dominion of Canada through the tariff is on the high read to prosperity, and its development is now assured, I certainly would not have believed it possible, but I give in, and freely acknowledge how mistaken I was." He spoke highly of the leading men of the Canadian Government, who had inaugurated that policy; and, altogether, not since Mr. Finlayson's (of Glasgow) speech, at the Boston Merchants' Association dinner, on the tariff a year ago, when he acknowledged that he was a free-trader at home and a protectionist in Massachusetts, where he had just established a thread mill, paying the skilled hands he had imported with him twice as much as on the other side—not since then have I heard such a powerful and unanswerable argument for protection.

RIVAL TELEGRAPH LINE.

Progress of the Canada Mutual Telegraph Company.

An Office to be Shortly Opened in Toronto.

(From the Mail.)

The Canada Mutual Telegraph Company, which is looming up in the distance as a rival of the amalgamated company, is making rather slow progress in the construction of the lines. The primary object is to connect the chief places of business in the Dominion, as Montreal, Toronto, and Ottawa, with the lines in the United States of the North American Mutual, the father of the Canada Mutual. In pursuance of that object a line has almost been completed from Ottawa to Montreal, whence it will be carried to connect with the United States lines in Albany, and offices will be opened in those two cities in probably less than a month. Last week a number of men began at Lambton Mills constructing a line towards Buffalo, with the object of connecting Toronto with the lines there. This line, it is expected, will be completed by the first of January, when an office will probably be opened here.

The above are all the connections that will be made before next spring. Then, however, it is understood, the company will attack the work at every point in the Dominion, and it will be carried forward so vigorously that before the following winter sets in every line of the Great North-Western from Sarnia to Halifax will be duplicated by its rival.

The head office of the company will be in Montreal.

Shipwrecks.

Few people have any idea of the immensity of the loss by shipwreck every year. Not that the wrecks as they occur are not brought before us; the trouble seems to be that we are told of so many day after day, that we have come to read of them as a matter of course and without appreciating the meaning of such accounts. One day's late telegrams, for instance, report the loss of seven schooners wrecked at Magdalen Islands, one sunk in the Downs and twenty-one lives lost, a Natal steamer foundered and ten persons drowned, a collision on the Thames in which a steam yacht sunk, and seven persons were drowned, two steamers and a schooner lost on the coast of Australia, all the hands of the latter being drowned. This is this morning's record, and not a very noticeable one, there being no widely prevailing and extraordinarily severe storm reported. Every day has its tale of its losses, sometimes smaller and sometimes larger than to-day's, but the smallest all too large. We are startled at the immensity of the loss when it is presented to us in the shape of statistics, but they are so great that we cannot grasp their meaning. Take Lloyd's figures as they are published weekly in the Times. For the week ending October 20th last, sixty-seven vessels were wrecked, the approximate aggregate loss being thirty million dollars. For one week that is not bad, or rather, that is very bad, and then it was not an extraordinary week for this season of the year. During the preceding week but one the estimated loss was forty million dollars, or greater by ten millions. One week in April the aggregate loss was placed at forty-seven million five hundred thousand dollars; one week in February fifty millions, and, to cap the climax, during the week ending January 22nd a hundred and thirty-three vessels were wrecked, the aggregate loss amounting to sixty million dollars. The record for twenty-six weeks during the first nine months of the year shows a list of eight hundred and eighty-three wrecked vessels, the aggregate loss being $675,000,000, of which $457,900 was British alone. The entire number of wrecks from the beginning of January to the end of October was 1,581, the aggregate loss upon which, calculating by the average loss of the 883 vessels wrecked during the twenty-six weeks, the full records of which we have, would be $1,209,465,000. There is room for the hope that the losses have been over-estimated, as the total loss for 1880 was placed at $350,000,000. Still the losses this year have far exceeded those of any other year, and at the lowest have been simply incomprehensible in their immensity. The loss of life is not given—in cannot be very well estimated.

Dr. Holland as a School-Master.

The experience of the late Dr. J. G. Holland as Superintendent of Schools at Vicksburg, is thus recounted by Edward Eggleston in the December Century:

At the end of the tedious river voyage, he found that the public schools which he had been called to superintend had not yet been organized, and that, beyond a department for girls, they had no existence. Dr. Holland was warned that discipline was out of the question—that if he exacted obedience he would be put out by the larger boys. There ensued a stern fight for supremacy between him and his rebellious pupils, in which his quick decision of character gave him the mastery. Even at a later day than this, such a thing as the shooting of a school-master for whipping a boy was not unknown in the South-west, and it is a wonder that Dr. Holland escaped violence. Nothing but his superior quickness and unfaltering courage saved him. Once, the larger boys resolved on revenge. One who had suffered a sharp punishment at his hands provided himself with a club, and, backed by a crowd of burly, overgrown school-fellows, waited to attack the teacher on his way to the post office. Seeing the crowd, and knowing its meaning, Dr. Holland fixed his steady dark eyes on the one who held the club, clenched his fists, and walked straight forward through the very midst of the group, which melted slowly away at the approach of the terrible master. When the rebels had dispersed, the teacher found the prints of his nails in the palms of his hands. Though he stayed in Vicksburg but fifteen months, he wrought a revolution in its educational system. In less than a year from his coming, the private schools were all given up, except one which derived its support from out-of-town pupils. The schools were graded, and were taught in one building under his supervision.

An Extraordinary Correspondence.

A correspondence with hair was once attempted between a notorious Parisian thief in durance vile and his comrades outside. A letter was sent to the prisoner from his sweetheart, containing merely a look of hair wrapped in the leaf of a book. The gaoler did not consider the souvenir important enough to be delivered; but in a few days there came a similar enclosure, and yet another. This aroused suspicion, and the governor took the matter in hand. He examined the leaf of the book; it was that of a common novel, twenty-six lines on a page Then he studied the hair and noticed the small quantity of the gift. Counting the hairs, he found them of unequal length, and twenty-six in number, the same as the lines on the page. Struck with the coincidence, he laid the hairs along the lines on the page which they respecttively reached, beginning at the top with the smallest hair. After some trouble he found that the end of each hair pointed to a different letter, and that these letters combined formed a slang sentence, which informed the prisoner that his friends were on the watch, and that the next time he left the prison to be examined, an attempt would be made to rescue him. The Governor laid his plans accordingly. The attempt was made, but the rescuers fell into their own trap.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Cruelty to animals

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 9.

Clerical Influence.

The Globe, having in an attempt to excuse and account for the defeat of its party in Quebec, asserted that the Roman Catholic clergy of that Province had used undue influence in favor of the Conservatives, the Montreal Witness denies the allegation and sharply rebukes its confrere for making it. The Witness says:—"This is going too far. The ministers of any denomination would give political instruction if any matter were under discussion in which their people were as a body interested. The Nonconformists of England, for instance, have never failed to speak loud enough when the question of Church Establishment was to the fore. It is generally unwise for ministers to take any part whatever in party disputes, and for that reason most of them in this country avoid doing so, but there are matters of principle on which every citizen is bound to use all his influence. What makes the political attitude of the Roman Catholic clergy a matter of peculiar interest and their advocacy of either side particularly offensive is their power to exert an occult and undue influence by their assumption to exercise control over men's eternal destinies. People who claim this power and to whom it is conceded by the voters cannot enter in any way into the political arena without arousing feelings on the part of those whom they oppose that they had much better not arouse. This fact has led both the last Pope and the present one to lay very close restrictions on the political action of their clergy. The papal warning on this point was read more than once in all the Roman Catholic churches before the recent elections. When we speak of undue influence, however, we should mean by it something more than mere pulpit advocacy."

Editorial Brevities.

According to the free-trade prophets, the N. P. was to have wiped out the lumber industry, but the timber berths sold in Toronto the other day realized $600 per square mile against $200 per square mile realized at a similar sale in 1873.

Trouble is evidently brewing in Zululand, the people there desiring the return of Cetewayo. Whether to return the cunning old king to his native heath, is a question that the Imperial Government is considering.

President Arthur's message is, minus a little spread-eagleism, on the whole an able state paper and has greatly elevated Mr. Arthur in the opinion of his fellow countrymen. His declaration in favor of removing internal revenue duties shows that he is strongly impressed with the advantages of protection to home manufactures.

Sundry of the Grit newspapers are very indignant that the incendiarism in the office of a Montreal newspaper which was strongly opposing them in the recent election, should be charged against any member of their party, although such charge was strongly rumored in Montreal and reported in one of their organs. They were equally angry when the letter stealing, the ballot box stuffing, the desk robbing, the "big push" and wholesale bribery in many constituencies were laid at their door; but all these things were proved against them. Therefore, let our Liberal friends not be too liberal in their denials, but await the result of the investigation which is to be held concerning the matter in question.

The Opposition candidate in West Northumberland seems, so far as we can gather from our exchanges, to be confining himself to the discussion of the coal duty. The Pacific Railway contract and the tariff, in general,—the latter of which has largely benefitted the industries of Cobourg—and all other matters which the party organs term "iniquities," "jobs," and so forth, do not figure prominently in the campaign literature, and oratory of the Grits. Natheless, although parties are very evenly divided in the constituency, we expect to see Mr. Guillett returned by a good majority.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for them.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT NEWBERY, ESQ., CITY CLERK.

After a severe illness of over two weeks' duration, Mr. Robt. Newbery, City Clerk, died last evening a few minutes after 8 o'clock. Up to Wednesday noon it was hoped that his naturally strong constitution would enable him to withstand the constant drain on his vitality; but his system had become too thoroughly jaundiced, and Wednesday afternoon his condition began to grow worse, and he steadily sank since that time. Is is now known that he retained his consciousness almost up to the very moment of death, but was unable to speak and was even too weak to make his wishes known by signs. He passed away painlessly, peacefully, and without a struggle.

The deceased gentleman was born in Colyton, Devonshire, England, in June, 1825, and was consequently in his 57th year at the time of his death. While little more than a lad he came out to Canada to push his fortunes, and was for several years engaged as a teacher in Marysburg, P. E. County, in Fredericksburg, Ernestown, Newburgh and Waterloo, and at times he also engaged himself as bookkeeper to business men in Kingston and Picton. He was quite celebrated at that time as an efficient teacher, and Dr. Hope, who was then Chairman of the School Board of Belleville, determined to secure his services for the old Pinnacle Street School. Accordingly, in 1851, Mr. Newbery came to Belleville from Waterloo, and was installed as teacher in that school, and speedily became the most popular teacher in the town. He continued in that position for several years, and many of our middle-aged citizens received the foundation of their education from him. In after life he retained a peculiar interest in and affection for the Pinnacle Street School, and delighted to recount his early experiences as a teacher there. After several years of hard and faithful work as a pedagogue, Mr. Newbery was engaged as assistant by Mr. Henry Bull, who kept a large general store; but he soon launched out into business for himself as an insurance agent. After this he was employed by Mr. Aikens, as manager of his lumber business, and was shortly afterwards appointed Superintendent of the County Roads. In 1858 he received an appointment in the Customs and Excise Department here, as Inspector of Excise. He was afterwards employed as clerk by the late W. A. Foster, Esq., and remained with him for several years. In 1873, on the death of the late R. M. Roy, Esq., he was appointed Clerk of the Municipality, which position he has since retained, discharging the onerous duties of the office with acknowledged ability, care and faithfulness.

Mr. Newbery naturally evinced a lively interest in educational matters, and has of late been a valuable member of the Board of Education. He was also a member of the St. George's Society, of which he has been President, and was also a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity.

In 1855 Mr. Newbery married the eldest daughter of the late Geo. Benjamin, Esq., ex-M. P. for North Hastings, by whom he has had a numerous family.

The deceased gentleman was widely known in this part of the country, and his many excellent qualities of heart and head made him a general favorite. As an official, he was specially distinguished for his courtesy and kindness, and no one—no matter if he were the humblest and poorest citizen—who ever came to him for advice or information, was allowed to leave until all could be done for him that was in the Clerk's power to do. His courtesy, moreover, was not merely on the surface; he had many of the sterling qualities of the English gentleman, and many of our city's poor will miss the generous hand from which they have often received substantial assistance. If he had faults, they are the faults which are common to generous natures, and they were atoned for by the real and numerous virtues of the man.

The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. on Sunday, and will be conducted with full Masonic ceremonial.

Synod of Ontario.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 7.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, Q. C., moved that it be inexpedient to grant permission to mortgage any church edifices. He held that securing debentures was the better way of securing money.

The motion was carried after debate.

The motion of Arch. Jones, that the Synod of this Diocese concur in the petition to the Commons by the Bishop against the the bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister, was withdrawn.

Rev. Mr. Lewis moved that seven members be appointed to examine the mortgages belonging to the Sustentation Fund; also for the appointment of two auditors to examine all Synod accounts and report thereon annually. He stated that under the present system the accounts had been in a bad state.

Mr. Walkem moved for the appointment of two professional accountants, which was carried.

Messrs. R. T. Walkem and James Reynolds were appointed Synod Auditors for the ensuing year.

Rev. Mr. Lewis moved that a Committee be appointed by the Bishop to enquire the amount realized by the sale of lands in each Rectory, and whether the capital has decreased and the cause, and report to the Synod.

The Bishop—Would it not be well to leave that matter to the Rectory Land Committee? I have been asked to name it, and will do so now: Revs. E. Loncks, Jemmett, Carey and Grout; Messrs. R. V. Rogers, R. T. Walkem and J. Reynolds.—Confirmed.

The Assessment Committee reported the scale of assessment for 1882, the local assessments being as under:—Ameliasburgh, $5; St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, $24; Christ Church, Belleville, $12; St. John's Church, Belleville, $5; Hillier and Wellington, $8; Madoc, $5; Napanee, $15; Picton, $15; Roslin, $5; Shannonville, $5; Stirling, $4; Trenton, $8; Tyendinaga, $5; Marmora, $3.

THURSDAY, Dec. 8.

A Committee on Foreign Missions was appointed. It is composed of the same members of the Synod as last year. The name of Dr. Wilson, of Ottawa, was added.

The Divinity Students' Fund report was received.

Rev. E. P. Crawford moved that missionaries be remunerated according to length of service in the Diocese. The matter was referred to a Committee.

Mr. Shannon proposed the Canon on parochial disputes. It was an important one.

Mr. Walkem moved the adoption of the Canon, which he read. The matter was deferred until next Synod.

Rev. Canon Bleasdell moved that the action of the Synod of 1879, relative to Frankford Endowment Fund, be rescinded.

An amendment was passed and the fund placed on its original basis.

Archdeacon Jones introduced a motion to organize a Clergy Superannuation Fund, and appoint a committee to consider the formation of the same.—Carried.

The following Committee was appointed: Revs. Messrs. Crawford, Muckleston, Cooke, Jones, Dr. Henderson, Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Matheson.

Rev. C. P. Emery moved that the names of the several parishes neglecting to make parochial and quarterly returns, and the names of clergymen neglecting to send their annual subscriptions to the Widows' and Orphans' Fund, be read out in Synod by the Clerical Secretary.

Dr. Clark strongly objected to the motion. Other members did likewise.

The motion was altered. The names of the clergymen who had paid their subscriptions were put in the places of those who had not, and then it passed.

The Infernal Machine.

SOME MORE DETAILS AS TO ITS CONSTRUCTION—PUTTING THE LOADED NAILS OUT OF HARM'S WAY—DANGEROUS THINGS TO EXPERIMENT WITH—AN EXPLOSION AND A NARROW ESCAPE.

(From the Witness, Dec. 8.)

The discovery of such fearful engines of destruction in this city produced an interest, to say the least, which, as matters are further investigated, does not decline. The contents of the second box were placed in the hands of Mr. John A. Finn, chemist and druggist, for analysis. He found the body of the machine below the clock work very much the same as the other. It contained twelve cartridges and twenty-four spikes. These spikes are hollow, and are loaded with powerful explosives. On the head of each is a cap, by which it might be exploded.

The clock work occupies the upper section, which is separated by a partition. It was not upright but lying sideways. It controlled a clamp which held the spring which was to strike the cap. The cap was inserted in a tube, this tube containing powder and running down into the body of the machine. It connected there with some fulminate of mercury at the top of another tube containing some guncotton. Each of these cartridges contain over three ounces and a half of a terrible explosive, of which electro-glycerine forms the greater part. The lower part of the machine is divided by a partition of California red wood. The nails are a most fiendish invention; they are formed of small plates of iron, with deposits of nitro-glycerine between, so that from top to bottom there are several charges of the explosive running through the spike. On each of them there is a cap on the head, by which it would be exploded. The intention thus apparently was to use the machine in a crowd, where it would prove most destructive, and not for the purpose of blowing up a building. These spikes would be rent into small pieces and prove most deadly missiles.

The machine opened from the top. The cartridges and spikes were both tightly packed in an explosive composition.

Last evening Mr. Finn was examining one of them which had been frozen, and had thus lost much of its explosive power. He removed the cap with his pen-knife, but immediately there was a terrible explosion, and the nail was rent in two. Fortunately only one section exploded, and even that had lost much of its power. It was almost miraculous that no one in the office was injured at the time. The remainder of the material will be exploded on Saturday on Fletcher's Field. Those who have been working about the machine are nearly all more or less sick to-day from the poisonous fumes.

Mr. Finn this morning received a threatening letter to the effect that he would suffer for having had anything to do with exposing the infernal machine. The spelling was bad, and the signature was "Cartridge." Mr. Finn regards it as a joke.

The Chief of Police had sixteen of the loaded spikes in his possession, and, desiring to put them out of harm's way, gave them to Detective Lafon to have them dropped into the current outside the harbor. Our reporter accompanied him down to Joe Vincent's boat-house. The snow was shaken from a skiff and the deadly articles were soon borne over the water and scattered in the current, so that even if a dredge should strike one of them it could not receive much damage.

Bishop Fauquier.

HIS LORDSHIP DROPS DEAD WHILE VISITING TORONTO.

The Globe of the 8th says:—"Yesterday afternoon about two p.m., Frederick D. Fauquier, Bishop of Algoma, died suddenly in this city. He had arrived on the preceding afternoon from Drummondville, where he had been resting for a few days, and was staying at the residence of Mr. Frank Arnoldi, 161 John street. For some time past he has been ailing slightly, but not to such an extent as to occasion any uneasiness to his friends; and yesterday morning on rising he expressed himself as feeling better than he had felt for some time. He took his breakfast heartily, and spent the forenoon in doing some of his diocesan work. About half-past one he was preparing to leave the house to keep an engagement, when he dropped down in the hall and expired in a few minutes. Dr. Temple, who was on the spot within a very short time, pronounced life extinct, and expressed his opinion that death was caused by disease of the heart. The only relations in Toronto are his niece, Mrs. Arnoldi and Miss Fauquier."

The deceased prelate was in his sixty-fifth year. He was a native of England, where he received his education and was prepared for the ministry by the late Bishop Bethune, and was a D. C. L. of Trinity College.

THE GALLOWS.

Hugh Hayvern hung at Montreal for Murder.

THE PRISONER CONFESSES.

FULL PARTICULARS.

MONTREAL, Q., Dec., 9.—At four minutes past eight o'clock this morning Hugh Hayvern expiated his crime of murdering Wm. Salter, a fellow convict in the St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, on the 26th of May last, at the hands of the public executioner, and within the precincts of the common gaol here.

The prisoner had been constantly attended to for some time past, by Rev. Father Lavalle, the Chaplain of the prison; but yesterday evening that gentleman was relieved from his incessant labors by the Rev. Father Knox, and Rev. Father Caseau, who sat up with the unfortunate criminal all night and celebrated the offices of the church. At an early hour this morning in the condemned cell, where an altar had been erected by the Sisters of Charity, for the benefit of the culprit, Bishop Fabre visited Hayvern yesterday, for the second time and exhorted the condemned man to look to the Almighty for strength to enable him to pass through the dreadful ordeal that was before him.

Before his Lordship took his departure the prisoner gave the good Bishop assurances of his full preparation for the future state and his determination to meet his doom without fear. During the night he slept but little, being apparently much disturbed in mind and body. He conversed freely during his waking moments with the guards and others in attendance. He admitted his guilt of the horrible murder for which he was to suffer. He expressed the deepest contrition for committing the dreadful deed, and said he did not know what impelled him to the act. He denied having any cause for revenge against his victim, and said that poor Salter's soul was in Heaven. Seeing that he had given him no time to prepare for death, he acknowledged the justice of his sentence, and remarked that if any man desired to be hanged he did.

With respect to his alleged aberration of mind, he said he thought he was sane, but at times he thought he must have been insane. "It is pretty hard to die, seeing that life is sweet," he said, but if it were not for the disgrace entailed upon his family, he would as soon be dead as alive.

At an early hour a light breakfast was furnished, which he partook of sparingly. Before daylight the officials began to assemble in the gaol. Mr. Deputy Sheriff Sanborn was the chief in the absence of High Sheriff Chauveau, who is at present in Quebec. The Rev. chaplain, Father Lavalle, was present with the other Rev'd gentlemen already mentioned. The last rites of the Church were administered, and a most affectionate exhortation given to the doomed man on the brink of the grave to be ready.

A procession was then formed, the Sheriff in a black gown leading the way. The prisoner was supported by two Wardens, and he appeared physically weak, and pale as death. The scaffold had been erected in an angle outside the prison, but within the outer walls, on the north-east side.

On emerging from the door facing the steps ascending to the scaffold, Hayvern gave a frightened glance at the spectators who were collected outside a fence about a hundred feet off. The executioner was directly behind, clothed in a black mask, no part of his features being visible. The Reverend Fathers were also in attendance with soothing words of comfort up to the last.

It was expected that Hayvern would say something on the eve of being launched into eternity, but those present were disappointed, as he only bid adieu to those who had been so kind to him during his confinement inside the gaol. His arms had been strapped to his sides, so the only further preparation was to tighten the straps up on his legs. Everything being adjusted, but without a cap or covering of any kind being thrown over his face, the lever was touched with his foot by the executioner, the bolt sprang out and the body of Hugh Hayvern was dangling down below. With the exception of the stretching out of his legs to their fullest length, there were no convulsive movements of the body, beyond some very slight nervous twinges of the muscles of the neck and shoulders. The physicians of the jail pronounced him dead in eleven minutes after the bolt was drawn. Hayvern was 28 years of age, and was brought up to no business. His parents are Irish, but he was born in Montreal. His mother stated in the witness box that he had never earned a dollar by honest labor. He was convicted twenty-three times, for all the offences in the criminal calendar, in our local courts. During the brief period he was out of prison, his mother stated in court that he was never sober. At the time of the murder for which he has paid the last penalty of the criminal law, he was serving his time for highway robbery with violence upon a man who had previously treated him generously. One of his most frequent offences was brutal assaults upon the police. Physically he was not a powerful man; he stood about 5 feet 9 inches, and was rather slimly built.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City.

GENTLEMEN.—Having been defeated by a few voter last year for the Mayoralty, and having now been offered support by many who opposed me then, I beg again to solicit your suffrages for the Mayoralty of 1882.

Although defeated last year, I have not neglected the schemes in the interests of the City which I had on hand when in the Council.

Your light house has been completed—a graceful and substantial structure highly prized by the vessel and steamboat men trading to our port. Owing, however, to the greater altitude of our city clock, I shall urge upon the Government the necessity there is that the clock should be lighted also to complete our wants in this respect.

As to the Murray Canal—a scheme revived by me when in the Council and never lost sight of—I am happy to be able to state that tenders will very soon be asked for by the Department for its construction, and that such work will be begun as can be done during the winter and the whole pushed on with vigor in the spring.

The reasons for the delay that has occurred in this matter are, the exhaustive nature of the final surveys, and the illness of the Chief Engineer.

As to our Railways, the construction of the "missing link" as it is called, from Peterboro to Omemee, and the erection here of one or more elevators, are portions of the amalgamation scheme which, if it is carried into effect, cannot fail to be of benefit to our City—as then the all rail route to the Georgian Bay will have been completed, being the shortest route by far from the cities of Chicago, Milwaukie and Duluth, and our own great North-west, to the sea-board, via the Midland Railway to Belleville, and thence by steam barge to the sides of the ocean going vessels.

Further, the construction of our Railways has made the establishment of Smelting Works here almost a certainty; and it must be gratifying to those who have labored to this end to find that two offers are now before the Council for the erection of blast furnaces, provided suitable encouragement is given to these enterprises.

I would advocate the greatest liberality in the consideration to be given to the promoters of those most important industries, so that we secure them; for they are not only valuable in themselves, but they bring in their train other iron manufactories—thus adding largely to our population and resources.

In conclusion, I shall, if elected, endeavor in the future, as in the past, to secure the best interests of the city; and if, from the nature of my calling. I am not an employer of labor myself, I have been instrumental in some degree in bringing to our city work for our laboring men and mechanics, and trust that the day is not far distant when other opportunities for the employment of labor will be afforded to our people, to secure which I have been humbly working (together with others), and I shall continue to do so, until success crowns our efforts. You all know me from my boyhood, and you have my views on these few public matters.

I respectfully solicit your support.

I have the honor to remain
Your obedient servant,
D. B. ROBERTSON.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 9.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

THE Finance Committee will meet this evening.

THERE were only two tramps in the cells last night.

A COMMUNICATION from Hon. Mr. Flint has been crowded out, but will appear to-morrow.

A PARLOR concert is to be held at the residence of A. L. Geen, Esq., next Tuesday evening.

THE flag has been hoisted at half-mast on the tower of the city building out of respect to the late City Clerk.

A NEW crossing has been laid down on Front St. opposite the Commercial House, where it was greatly needed.

THE tug Sherwood arrived here this morning with a barge and schooner in tow. They brought wood for Rathbun.

A LITERARY and musical entertainment is to be given this evening in the lecture-room of Holloway St. Methodist Church.

BATTERSBY'S Dominion Railway and Travellers' Guide for December has been received. It is a handy little publication.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—Members of this Society and Englishmen generally are reminded of the adjourned meeting to-night at 8 o'clock. See adv.

THE hand-sleigh nuisance was in full swing on sundry of the streets—Church Street in particular—last night. No policeman appeared to put a stop to it.

A SALE of useful and ornamental articles will be held in the basement of St. Andrew's Church, on Monday the 12th inst., at 8 p. m. All are cordially invited. 3td

WE regret to learn that the accident which befell Miss Mackenzie last Sunday has resulted more seriously than has been anticipated. She is now very ill, and her recovery is more than doubtful.

THE BAZAAR in connection with Christ Church will be held in the store lately occupied by the Customs Department in Robertson's Block, instead of in the City Hall, as previously announced.

THE concert which was given last evening in Trenton under the direction of Mr. Fetherstone, assisted by prominent amateurs from Belleville and Trenton, was fairly attended and came off with gratifying success from an artistic point of view.

THE attention of the proprietor of the Dafoe House is called to the fact that his employees frequently leave the sidewalk on the Bridge Street side of the hotel partially blockaded for hours at a time with heavy trunks. Last night the blockade lasted for about two hours. If the baggage taken to this hotel must remain on the street, let there be a platform erected outside of the sidewalk, on which it can be placed without incommoding pedestrians as at present.

ALDERMAN ST. CHARLES announces himself as a candidate for the Mayoralty.

AN assistant physician for the Deaf & Dumb Institute has been engaged. Dr. Begg, the new physician, is a man of large experience and acknowledged ability.

THERE was no Police Court this morning, the Magistrate adjourning the business out of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Newbery, who was Clerk of the Police Court.

LOOK out for the bankrupt stock of over $50,000.00 from London, of general dry goods, bought at 65c on the dollar, opening this day at the Syndicate, Harrison Block. You should go and examine their stock at W. & D. Patterson's. [2t

THE Christmas tree festival in connection with the City Mission Sabbath School to be held in the City Hall on Monday, Dec. 19th, promises to be a success. Already a number of useful articles have been given for the girls, and the boys will not be forgotten. The money raised by 10 cts. admission fee, is for the benefit of the Sabbath School.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 9.—Lakes, fresh to brisk westerly to north-westerly winds; fair, colder weather.

BAY OF QUINTE R R.—The Whig says: "The first passenger train passed over the B. of Q. R R. on Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that trains will run regularly on and after Dec. 12th. "Deseronto" is the name of the locomotive which arrived at that village yesterday. A Grand Trunk Railway passenger car will be used for a time until the Company's own coach is finished. A Government official inspected the road yesterday."

REMARKABLE MORTALITY.—The death of Mr. Newbery reminds us of the fact that death has been busy among municipal officials during the past few years. Within the past five years the following municipal officials and ex-officials have died:—F. McAnnany, W. A. Foster and H. Corby, Sr., ex-Mayors; Geo. Neilson, ex-Chief of Police; A. Diamond, Police Magistrate; J. H. Hambly, A. E. Proctor, M. Jellett, Aldermen; P. Lawlor, W. Daly, H. C. Snider, Police-officers—and doubtless others whom we cannot at present call to mind.

MURCHISON SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY.—At the meeting of this society on the 6th inst., the Vice President, Thos. Wills, Esq., in the chair, Mr. W. R. Smith, Secretary, read a paper on some of the social and physical aspects of concentration of population. He contended that concentration of population was against the best interests of the country, both socially and physically, and that it tended to degrade mankind when carried out to too great an extent, and that one of the great causes of concentration at the present day was discriminating rates on railways, which fostered the cities at the expense of the country. He further remarked that the time he thought would come when the concentration of population would become the question of the day and the government would have to take up the matter of charges on railways and fix uniform distance rates between all places in the Dominion, as being more conducive to the interests of the country than the present system. A lively discussion followed the reading of the paper, the majority agreeing in the main with its contents.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Sun says that many politicians at Washington believe that the tariff issue will provoke a great deal of important discussion this winter. It is known that Voorhees expects before the session closes to make a speech which it is said will create a sensation.

There is reason to believe that the lady who will do the honors for the President at the White House is Mrs. John Davis, whose husband, it is understood will be the President's private secretary. The lady is Frelinghuysen's daughter.

A United States Senator intimate with the Administration, said yesterday the President has stated it was definitely settled that Hawe be Secretary of the Interior.

The Tribune says: John W. Guiteau said yesterday, "I don't want to be put in the position of doing anything which seems to be against my brother's interest in this case. I believe he is insane, but my father was not insane. My aunt Julia was never insane. I believe my brother should have every chance which a man on his trial can have. I propose to stand by him with all my power as long as he has any life to defend, but I want the truth—no trumped-up evidence. I don't want to see injustice done to the dead and to their living children. The fact is, Scoville is entirely warped in his judgment by personal enmity towards my father. He believes everything he is trying to prove, but he is mistaken as to facts. He would not try to put anything into the case he does not believe."

The Hérald says that the nomination of Frelinghuysen to be Secretary of State was made out at the State Department yesterday and sent to the President.

It is stated on the best authority that there is no ulterior motive in sending the United States steamer Despatch to Samana Bay. Her mission is simply to thoroughly survey the bay.

The Tribune says that the Missouri legislature requested Senators and members of the house that the State use influence to secure the passage of a bill removing duty on salt in the interest of our export trade in bacon and beef.

A GENERAL DYING.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 9—Gen. John H. Martindale, who was elected Attorney-General for the State in 1866, is reported dying in Nice, France, where he recently went to recruit his health, which had been shattered in the army.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

STEAMER SUPPOSED TO BE LOST.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—It is supposed that the British steamer Saxon Monarch, one month overdue, foundered in the Bay of Biscay. It is also feared that all hands, numbering 40 persons, are lost.

ABATEMENT OF RENT REFUSED

CORK, Dec. 9.—The Duke of Devonshire has refused the abatement of rent asked by his tenants.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

DUBLIN, Dec. 9.—Seven persons in the vicinity of Castle Island were arrested on suspicion of attacking houses.

THE NO RENT MOVEMENT.

The tenants of the Marquis of Drogheda, the Marquis of Downshire and Lords Massereen and Cloncarry have joined the no rent movement. They had received midnight visits and threatening notices.

DOUBLE MURDER AND ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—This a. m. in a Thompson street tenement, Pacsquali Tacucito, aged 21, shot and killed his wife, aged 14, fatally shot his mother-in-law, aged 32, and then shot himself through the neck. Bespattered with the brains of his victims and dripping with blood, he went to the police station. He has no chance for recovery. There is the greatest excitement in the Italian colony. The murderer said he shot himself once, then his wife, then his mother-in-law, and afterwards shot himself twice. The murderer was unreasonably jealous, and often abused his wife, which caused his mother in-law to interfere. He died soon after reaching the hospital.

A GREAT SWINDLE.

TOPEKA, Ks., Dec. 9.—Great frauds on the A. T. & S. F. R'y. discovered. It was a combination between boss section men and boarding house keepers, and others along the entire line. Fictitious names were carried on the pay roll. It is supposed 200 men were engaged in the swindle, and $100,000 to $200,000 stolen; 18 men were arrested. The swindlers include 50 prominent rich men. Attachments amounting to $80,000 have been issued and a large amount of property levied upon.

THE WHITTAKER CASE.

The Graphic's Washington special says, it is rumored in army circles that advocate General Swain has affirmed the finding of the court in the Whittaker case. It is said that the court convicted Whittaker of mutilating his own ears. It is believed he will be dismissed from the army.

Arrived, State of Nebraska, from Glasgow.

FEARFUL TRAGEDY IN VIENNA

A THEATRE BURNED.

Four Hundred Lives Lost.

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—The Ring theatre, formerly the Comic Opera house, the second finest theatre in the city, took fire to night just before the beginning of the opera. The fire was caused by the fall of a lamp on the stage. The house was tolerably full and the loss of life is very great. Up to 9:30 p. m., seventy bodies had been recovered. Many persons were injured. Sixty were saved with ladders, and by jumping into clothes held below. The greatest efforts were made to save life. The scene was terrible, the flames shooting up through the roof and eventually gutting the entire building.

11 p. m.—A hundred and forty-five bodies have been brought out of the theatre, but the dead therein are still numerous, many bodies having been consumed in the galleries and other elevated parts of the building. The chief cause of the catastrophe was that in the confusion the iron partition separating the stage from the auditorium was not lowered. Thousands of people assembled in the neighboring streets, where they could hear the cries of agony of the people at the windows of the theatre praying to be saved. The rapidity of the flames prevented the people from taking advantage of the ordinary exits. Only a small proportion of the audience saved themselves, which they did by leaping from the windows, three stories high, into cloths held below.

MIDNIGHT.—The taking out of the bodies from the theatre continues. It is estimated that 300 persons perished. Some of the bodies are fearfully disfigured. Several persons were injured springing from the windows. Among the missing are Fife, Court Musical Director, and Hellmersperger. Most of the bodies identified up to the present are those of tradesmen and minor officials. On the spreading of the news of the disaster the performances at the other theatres were stopped.

VIENNA, Dec. 9—The loss of life by the theatre fire is estimated as high as 400.

The latest reports say that the crowds in the galleries pressed towards the door and crushed each other, thus preventing most of the number from escaping. The smoke and fumes completed the work of death within five minutes after the first alarm was given.

The dead in the uppermost gallery lay in great masses.

It is believed that there are no Americans among the dead.

VIENNA, Dec. 9.—270 bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Ring Theatre. The fourth gallery has not yet been explored. It is believed that not a person escaped from that gallery and very few from the third gallery.

The bodies last recovered are little more than charred fragments.

The law prescribes the use of oil lamps in the corridors of theatres, so that the exits shall be discernible in the event of the failure of the gas. This precaution was utterly neglected.

The person in charge of the iron curtain between the stage and auditorium fled at the first alarm.

"We have sold St. Jacobs Oil for about a year. Have sold more of it than of all other liniments. It has given unusual satisfaction in every instance. We consider it the best remedy for rheumatism ever offered to the public." D. J Pratt & Co., North Brookfield, Mass.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

N. H. DOWNS' Vegetable Balsamic ELIXIR!

N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

Scientific Miscellany.

A Neapolitan gardner, after years of experiment, has produced a camelia with a delicate perfume, and he thinks it probable that these flowers may in the near future be so cultivated as to rival the rose in the fragrance of its odor.

A new theory of the so-called fascination of birds by snakes is that the bird mistakes the snake's tongue, which the reptile keeps in rapid and constant motion, for a lively worm, and watches it intently with the anticipation of devouring it.

Two Leipsic chemists have devised a process for obtaining sugar in a permanently liquid form. This result is said to be effected by adding to a purified sugar solution a small quantity of citric acid, which combines with the sugar and deprives it of its tendency to crystallize.

Some experiments by M. Gautier appear to prove that human saliva possesses, in a milder degree, the same poisonous property as that of serpents. The human saliva injected under the skin of a bird caused death, with symptoms very closely resembling those resulting from serpent bites.

Late investigations of German scientists have shown that the electric light is not only healthier than other methods of illumination in leaving the air purer, but that it increases the power of vision in some respects, especially in distinguishing colors. Red, blue, green and yellow are much more distinct under this light than by day light.

Mr. Pasteur has resolved to extend his studies in vaccination to yellow fever, with a view of determining whether or not the disease is due to parasites and can be guarded against by inoculation. A broad field of investigation is open to Pasteur, as it is suggested by his discoveries thus far that all contageous maladies may be due to parasitic growths, the virulence of which may be so reduced by his method of inoculation as to render this class of disease no longer a matter of dread.

Mr. C. Shaler Smith has given the results of extensive observations in relation to the pressure exerted by the wind. The most violent gale recorded by him was at East St. Louis, in 1871, when the wind overturned a locomotive, the force developed in so doing being no less than 93 pounds per square foot. At St. Charles a gaol was destroyed in 1877, the pressure required being 84 pounds per square foot. At Marshfield, in 1880, a brick mansion was levelled, the force necessary being 58 pounds per square foot. Below these extraordinary pressures, Mr. Smith instances numerous cases of trains blown off rails, and bridges, etc., blown down by gales of 24 to 31 pounds per square foot. In all the examples the lowest force required to do the observed damage has been taken as the maximum power of the wind, although of course, it may have been higher.

Enthusiasts who make a special study of sun-spots and attendant phenomena believe that the corner-stone of a new science is being laid by discoveries pointing to an intimate connection between solar and terrestial meteorology. Just what the connection is they are not yet able to define, although electricity is suspected of being the agent through which the effects are manifested upon our planet. It is known that the gaseous envelope of the sun is affected by eruptions of such prodigious magnitude as to be utterly beyond our power of conception, these disturbances appearing to us in the form of rapidly changing spots and protuberances. The eras of the spots—or sun-storms—occur at remarkably regular intervals, a complete cycle of the various stages of activity from maximum to minimum and again to maximum being performed in about eleven years — and so-called "sun spot period." The sun spot physicists claim a coincidence of the periods of maximum spots and years of great atmospheric and physical disturbance in the earth. The present has been a year of great solar disturbances, while it has been marked by violent storms and earthquakes upon our globe, Further than this, these scientists claim to have recently detected by simultaneous observation minor atmospheric changes as the result of corresponding movements in the sun. Many difficulties attend these observations, but the Astronomer Royal for Scotland and others believe that the state of the sun will some day become an important factor in weather forecasts and like calculations.

Gambetta's Greatest Rival.

PEN AND INK SKETCH OF M. CLEMENCEAU, LEADER OF THE FRENCH RADICALS.

The single oratorial power which Gambetta will have to fear in the House of Deputies is Clemenceau, who is unquestionably one of the first debaters of the time. Clemenceau was a good deal in America, and has acquired the direct home-thrusting style of those American orators who think out well the subjects on which they are to speak, and do not trouble themselves about the manner of the delivery. He has a wholesome contempt for fringe, bombast and rhetoric. But he is a man of taste; he has an eager, an active mind; he thinks and dominates his defects of character. Results, a wonderfully chaste and brilliant style, in which there is no surplus phraseology. Even men who hate him said, it was a treat to listen to him, after the labored, special pleading of Jules Ferry. He spoke with precision, firmness and method; he saw where he was going to and all the obstacles that lay upon the road. Figures of speech and images he discarded, but he scattered darts of irony with suddenness, profuseness and a sure aim. Clemenceau does not attudinize. His single aim is to hit the mark. Although he heads a party which likes violent words, he knows how to bridle his tongue and insinuate, when parliamentary forms do not admit of plain speech, Clemenceau's physiognomy is striking. It has the handsome sort of ugliness that Murillo so well loved, and it expresses extraordinary intellectual vivacity, force of reason, and brightness of wit. The features are plain but well proportioned; the skin sallow; the nose retrousse and round at the end; and the forehead massive, full, strongly modelled, and projecting over black eyes which are all life when he is lively and sombre as a dark winter's night when he is agitated by hatred or indignation. Although a very amiable man, he is a terrible hater. Clemenceau is a Vendean. He goes to war with Gambetta in the same spirit as his native Province waged war upon the Blues at the end of the last century. Clemenceau's oratory admits of a comparison with a fine tree in winter. Every detail is distinctly brought out, and yet does not confuse the outlines of the trunk and main branches.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Racked by Innumerable Pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dysspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix Harvell's Condition Powders occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)

FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages.

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr, John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F.D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tomaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E L Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of The Century Magazine will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with The Century Magazine for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

LLE, SATURDAY, DEC 10.

To Advertisers.

The Intelligencer has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 copies, and on Saturdays from 1,100 to 1,300 copies. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the Daily and Weekly Intelligencer. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity.

The cells were empty last night.

There was no Police Court this morning.

The City Council will meet on Monday evening.

There are about a dozen candidates for the position of City Clerk.

This is the proper time to plant holiday advertisements.

County Court will open here on Tuesday next, the 13th inst.

The adjourned meeting of the Yacht Club will be held on Monday evening.

The Kingston Presbytery will meet in this city on Tuesday, the 20th inst.

The Finance Committee of the City Council did not meet last night, owing to the death of the City Clerk.

The City Council and Board of Education will attend the funeral of the late Mr. Newbery to-morrow, in a body.

There is some talk of establishing in Belleville a branch of the Toronto Liberal League, a free thought organization.

Aldermanic candidates are rather backward in coming forward this year. Can it be that they all have an eye on the City Clerkship?

A sale of useful and ornamental articles will be held in the basement of St. Andrew's Church, on Monday the 12th inst., at 8 p. m. All are cordially invited. 3td

The anniversary of St. John the Evangelist, 27th Dec., is to be celebrated by the Masonic fraternity of Napanee with considerable pomp. The committee have invited, among others, S. S. Lazier, Esq., P. D. D. G. M., of this city, to be present and deliver an address.

Mr. Chas. Wilkins, Inspector of Fisheries, desires us to say that he has received an anonymous letter calling his attention to the fact that a certain fisherman has been violating the law by seining on Sunday, but that he will not take action on information thus anonymously received. If the sender gives his information in good faith, he should append his name.

There are many different kinds of smiles, said Secrates; some are perennial, some periodical; some fixed, some spasmodic; some habitual, some occasional. The most common, perhaps, of those which bloom but once a year is the candidate's smile. It playeth up and down the countenance continually, like summer lightning, and stretcheth the mouth of the candidate from one ear even unto the other.

At the meeting of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education which was held last evening it was decided to take steps to issue a mandamus against the city in order to secure the $3,000 which is due the Board—the cheque for which, from the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council, the Bank of Commerce refused to honor on account of the City's overdrawn account.

When the late Mr. Newbery was leaving his house to attend the funeral of ex-Mayor Foster, he glanced at the flag which was flying at half-mast over the tower of the City Hall, and, turning to Mrs. Benjamin, his mother-in-law, who was standing near by, said, "Ah, mother, God only knows who the next one will be for whom that flag will be at half-mast!" This remark, little thought of at the time, has proved prophetic.

To give Vennor his due, it must be admitted that his predictions for the latter half of this week have been remarkably verified. From the 7th to the 10th he prophesied "a cold and wintry change generally, with cold weather west and northwest." His "heaviest snow-storm so far", has however yet to come. His predictions for next week are as follows :—12th, 13th and 14th, milder weather. An abrupt rise of temperature ; rain in western and southern sections, and storms on [illegible]s.' 15th and 16th, colder and stormy ; snowstorms."

Only 132 dogs and bitches have been registered out of the four hundred odd that have been reported by the assessors.

The total amount realized from the sale of County lands for taxes at the public sales in November and this week was $3 212.

On Thursday evening, the 29 h inst., an entertainment is to be given at Rednerville in aid of the Methodist Sabbath School.

The Coleman Ward tank has been covered over, and there is about five feet of water in it. The work of construction will be delayed till spring.

This morning's market was the largest which has been seen here for months. The farmers had little difficulty in disposing of their produce at good prices.

We noticed this morning two fine illustrations of Darwin's "Descent of Man." It was on the south side of Bridge St. The sidewalk is very slippery there.

Look out for the bankrupt stock of over $50,000.00 from London, of general dry goods, bought at 65c on the dollar, opening this day at the Syndicate, Harrison Block. You should go and examine their stock at W. & D. Patterson's. [2t

Is it not rather premature to advertise "rooms to rent" in the new Government Buildings before the foundations have been completed? The advertisement may be seen on the high fence near the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Sts.

Remember the City Mission service to-morrow at 2:45, and the Sunday School at 3:45, in Mr. Rathbun's waiting room, and also the service at 6:30 at Mr. Thompson's, near the corner of Church and Dundas Streets.

As Prof. Davis is about leaving the city he offers by private sale his furniture, consisting of parlor suite, bed-room suites, sideboard, coal stove, organ, dining room and kitchen furniture, &c. Residence, corner of Geddes and Evans Sts., near Albert College. [2t

The bay was frozen over last night, and there was over an inch of tough india-rubbery ice for the ferry steamer to break through this morning. She made a channel for herself, however, and Capt. Jellett did the best day's business that he has had for months.

The funeral of the late Mr. Newbery will leave the family residence at 1:45 p. m. sharp to-morrow, and proceed to St. Thomas' Church, where the usual services will be held. If the weather permits, the ferry steamer will convey the funeral party to the cemetery.

The date of the entertainment under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Association has been definitely fixed for next Thursday evening, the 15th inst. It will come off in the City Hall. A capital programme is being prepared, consisting of instrumental and vocal music by the best local talent, readings, short speeches, &c. In order to defray expenses an admission fee of ten cents will be charged.

The Histrionic Association have fixed upon Wednesday, the 21st inst., as the date of their next public performance, which, as we have already announced, will be W. S. Gilbert's deliciously ludicrous and keenly satirical comedy, "Engaged." The caste is a very strong one, and the performance will be, in some respects, the most enjoyable which this talented organization have ever placed on the boards. It will, of course, take place in the Metropolitan Hall. Further particulars will shortly be published.

The entertainment which was held in the lecture-room of Holloway St. Church last night was a pronounced success in every respect. The attendance was very great, the room being completely filled. All the selections on the programme were performed in a manner that called forth the hearty applause of the audience. When all did so well it would be invidious to award special praise to any. The entertainment was generally regarded as the best which has been held in connection with this church.

Two countrymen ran a foot-race at noon to-day, starting from in front of the Windsor Hotel and running westward on the roadway a hundred yards. The contest was to be decided in three heats. One of the contestants was very tall and one rather short ; but, as a set-off against the little fellow's size, he was allowed to run in underclothes. The big fellow's long legs, however, more than made up for the trousers with which he was handicapped, and he won two heats. The race was well contested and caused considerable excitement, a large number of spectators (friends of the contestants) having assembled to witness it.

The Philomathian Society of Albert College elected its officers last evening for Hilary Term. After much disquisition and a hot contest the following members were elected :—Governor—A. W. Bannister, B. A. ; President—E. B. Smith; Vice-President—G. W. Morrison ; Secretary—J. R. Bairstow ; Assistant Secretary—W. Mikel ; Treasurer—A. Saunders ; Chaplain—W. H. Kennedy ; Chorister—J. F. W. Sanderson ; Librarian—A. L. Massey Attorney—W. Wallbridge ; Court — J. Holden, D. G. Bleecker and A. L. Campbell.

We were this morning shown in the County Treasurer's office a quantity of water taken from a well on Taylor's Hill. It had been standing in a tumbler only several hours, and yet the vegetable ferment with which it was impregnated had collected in a jelly-like mass, which could be raised with the point of a knife. This ferment is a prolific cause of typhoid fever and dysentery. When examined under the microscope it reveals beautiful vegetable forms, resembling the stems of vines, and creeping plants. The presence of this ferment in water is a certain proof of its impurity, because it cannot exist in pure water. In the water referred to several living animalcules, belonging to the family of infusoria, were also observed, which, Prof. Bell informs us, cannot exist without nitrogenous food, the presence of which is further proof of the impurity of the water.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 10.—Lakes, light to moderate winds, fair, cold weather, with snow flurries in some localities, followed to-morrow by southerly to south westerly winds and rising temperature.

A Very Sad Affliction.—It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of two fine boys, sons of Mr. W. J. Crothers, Kingston and brother of J. B. Crothers of this city, one on the 8th and the other on the 9th inst. Their names were Harry and Albert Ernest, aged 5 and 2 years respectively. They died of inflammatory croup, all the efforts of skilful physicians proving of no avail in saving life. The parents have the sincere sympathy of their friends in the sad bereavement.

Sons of England.—At a meeting of Englishmen held in the St. George's Hall last evening it was decided to ask the Grand Master to come to Belleville and organize a Lodge of the Sons of England, to be known as the 'Oxford Lodge.' It is expected that the organization will take place on the 19th inst., but a meeting of those interested will be held on Friday evening next, to decide who shall be the first office bearers and to arrange other details. The meeting last night was well attended and about 30 have already paid their joining fees.

Election of Officers.—At the annual meeting of Best's L. O. L., 517, held at Eldorado on the 1st inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year :—Joseph Richardson, W. M. ; Mark Sandford, D. M. ; Sylvester Fox, Treasurer ; Joseph S. Pine, Secretary. Committee—T. M. Bateman, James Dickson, W. P. Bateman, Henry Shaw and George Sandford.

Barns and Shed Destroyed.—A despatch from Picton on the 9th says : The barn and shed of Mr. Peter Benson, 4 miles east of Picton, were burned, together with the contents, consisting of farming implements, threshing machines, &c. There was no insurance on the building ; the contents were insured in the Royal for $400. There were six cows in the barn ; five were so badly burned that they had to be killed. The loss is from $1,500 to $2,000.

"Rooms for Rent."—This new and highly successful comedy will be produced at the Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening of next week, the 16th inst. The puffs of the American press on new plays are, it must be admitted, seldom to be relied on ; but such a substantial authority as the Montreal Gazette speaks in the following complimentary terms of the play itself and of the company which will perform it here on Friday next :—"The piece, which is a new farcical comedy in four acts, is full of interest. It illustrates the ludicrous situations incidental to establishments in which apartments are let out indiscriminately, and the genius of the play has enabled the author to introduce a number of amusing characters. The company is a strong one, and the singing of Miss Genevieve Reynolds was particularly well received. She succeeded immediately in gaining the favor of the audience, and was the recipient of several outbursts of well merited applause. Mr. Edward Holst sustained an entirely new Danish character, and in his ballet dance he received a deserved double encore. The other parts were played with effect, and the piece is one which must commend itself to the patrons of the drama."

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

Resolution of Sympathy.

At a meeting of the St. George's Society, held last night, the following resolution of sympathy was passed :—

Whereas it has pleased the Almighty God to remove from among us our late Vice-President,

Resolved, That St. George's Society learn with profound sorrow of the death of Bro. R. Newbery, Esq., and place on record their high estimate of his worth, and unite in expressing their deep sympathy with Mrs. Newbery and her family in their great and irreparable affliction, and that the Secretary be requested to forward a copy of this resolution to her.

It was also decided that the members of the Society should assemble at the residence of their late brother to attend the funeral.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles ; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&wly

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

Respect.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this. It clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exorise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Pains and Griping in Children.

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

NEW YORK HAPPENINGS.

New York, Dec. 10.—The Standard Oil Co purchased the property of the Long Island Co. at Green Point for $700,000.

On Tuesday night Henry Nelson, colored, a Government employee, hired Peter Mead, a boatman, to take him from the Battery to Staten Island Nothing has been heard from the men since; they are supposed to be drowned.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Tribune says that early in January, General and Mrs. Grant will visit the President, and remain guests at the White House for a month. It is understood that a state dinner will then be given. The occasion is expected to be of much interest in official society.

Scoville is apparently paying more attention to preparations for demanding a new trial in case of conviction. Justice Cox's rulings are clearly and promptly made always, and with entire fairness towards the prisoner.

The Herald says that the President yesterday told Brady, of the Virginia Republican State Committee, that he did not intend to interfere in behalf of any candidate for the Senate, but he hoped that the result would not affect the future usefulness of the movement inaugurated by Mahone.

The World says that at a Cabinet meeting yesterday there was a general expression of hope that a satisfactory adjustment of the difficulty between Peru and Chili might be brought about through the kindly intervention of this Government, and without loss of territory by Peru. In view of the impending withdrawal of Blaine from the Department of State, the instructions given to the Commissioners sent to South America were drawn up under the direct supervision of the President.

Arrived, the Wisconsin from Liverpool.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Queenstown, Dec. 10,—Arrived, the Republic.

ARRESTS IN IRELAND.

Cork, Dec. 10.—Two prominent members of the Land League were arrested here.

FREIGHT RATES.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The inability of railroads leading east to secure the business at present except at losing rates, is causing much apprehension among the managers. The Mississippi barge lines are taking grain from St. Louis to Liverpool at 11 to 12 shillings.

TO REORGANIZE.

Boston, Pac., Dec. 10.—The National Bank has decided to reorganize.

ELEVATOR BURNED.

Willmar, Minn., Dec. 10.—Davidson's elevator and 3 stores were burned. Loss $28,000.

HOTEL AND STORES BURNED.

Hinsdale, N. H., Dec. 10th.—A street of houses were burned, and Holland's store damaged last night. Loss $20,000. One Davenport ejected from the hotel, was arrested on suspicion of arson.

THE VIENNA DISASTER.

The Mortality List Swelling.

One Thousand Lives Lost.

The Fire Department Utterly Inefficient.

Vienna, Dec. 10.—It is now feared that nearly 1,000 persons have perished in the theatre fire.

Among the dead is one Carr, described as from America.

Owing to the fire telegraph on the stage not having been put in operation, the firemen did not arrive until 25 minutes after the beginning of the fire. They came partially without apparatus, and then their work was much retarded, and the excitement and confusion largely increased. The fire department proved utterly inefficient. There was only one steam fire engine giving a small stream, and it could not reach the upper portion of the house. The engines were only fed from water butts filled from barrels driven to the ground. There were no fire escapes, the ladders came late on the ground and much time was lost in planting them. Among the missing are a member of the Bourse, two bank officials, and twenty members of the fruit exchange. A score of medical students are among the victims. Several people who escaped have become insane.

Mr. Brown, of Brown Bros. & Co., New York, with his wife and entire family, visited the theatre on Thursday afternoon and left about an hour before the catastrophe. Brown says the stairways were narrow and winding leading from the lobby to the parquette The seats were scarcely wide enough to let two persons pass, and he vowed he would never take his family into such a death trap again.

There seems to have been no American medical students at the theatre on the night of the fire.

Among the victims is an entire family of 7, who arrived home Thursday after six months' absence, and celebrated a birthday by taking the family to the theatre.

Fifty persons who jumped from the windows were caught in sheets and saved These included some naked, half naked, and strangely dressed artistes.

Vienna, Dec. 10.—Count Trafe, President of the Austrian ministry, and several Archdukes, assisted the sufferers at the fire. In one passage of the theatre without an outlet, 40 persons lost their way, and being unable to return, were suffocated. The Emperor has subscribed 25,000 florins for the sufferers.

Many of the dead appear to be ladies of the better classes. On the fingers of one are brilliant diamonds.

The scenes outside the burning theatre were awful. Three grand-dukes, present at the finding of the dead, wept bitterly.

The third gallery had few victims. One man maintained order at an open door, and after entering the dark passage lighted a wax taper, and led the people out of danger.

The stairs to the third and fourth galleries were found barricaded with such a mass of overcoats, umbrellas, jackets, shawls and bonnets that the workmen had to clear these away before they could proceed. In a narrow stairway between the second and third galleries the firemen discovered a confused mass of human bodies writhed together. The corpses taken out of the galleries were so mangled and so entwined that it is not doubted that the unfortunate sufferers fought each other in order to gain the door. Three of the corpses could not be separated.

There will be a strict official inquiry into the cause of the fire.

The Allgemeine Zeitung demands that all the theatres of the city with the exception of the Opera house be [illegible] to reopen until entrances, exits from galleries and passages are rebuilt, so as to secure safety to audiences.

ANOTHER HOLOCAUST.

Sixteen Men Burned to Death in a Boarding House.

A Large Number Fatally Burned.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 10.—At Rock Cut, seven miles from here, this morning a fire occurred in a house where nearly fifty workmen boarded. Sixteen men were burned to death, and a large number were fatally burned.

Burke & McTaggart

—PATENT—

BARLEY DRESSER

—AND—

DISTRIBUTING BOARD

FARMERS and Grain Buyers acknowledge it to be the best and only machine the world has produced for dressing Barley for market, as it cracks no grain nor injures it in any way for malting purposes.

Farmers that have used it have given testimonials, stating that they realize from ten to fifteen cents more per bushel than they otherwise would if they had not cleansed their Barley through our machine.

It can be attached to any common Fanning Mill, and we warrant it to do first class work if properly managed, dressing forty and fifty bushels per hour and suits any kind of grain, removing white caps and smut from Wheat and Oats, making them better for grinding and feeding purposes ; removing must to a great extent from Barley and makes it brighter, if colored.

Important to Farmers.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of farmers in general to Burke & McTaggart's patent Barley Dresser, for cleaning grain. It is the best machine known. We speak from experience, having cleaned over four thousand bushels through one, making it weigh two pounds per bushel more, and vastly improving its color, makes it worth more in a foreign market. Farmers will do well to buy it for we can give more for clean grain.

TOBY TYLER; OR, TEN WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS.

BY JAMES OTIS.

CHAPTER VIII.

CAPTURE OF THE MONKEYS.

BRINGING BACK THE RUNAWAYS.

The boy tried to rise to his feet, but his head whirled so, and he felt so dizzy and sick from the effects of his fall, that he was obliged to sit down again until he should feel able to stand. Meanwhile the crowd around the waggon paid no attention to him, and he lay there quietly enough, until he heard the hateful voice of Mr. Lord, asking if his boy was hurt.

The sound of this voice affected Toby very much as the chills and fever affect any one, and he shook so with fear, and his heart-beat so loudly, that he thought Mr. Lord must know where he was by the sound. Seeing that his employer did not come directly toward him, the thought flashed upon his mind that now would be a good chance for him to run away, and he acted upon it at once. He rolled himself over in the mud until he reached a low growth of fir-trees that skirted the road, and when once he was beneath their friendly shade, he arose to his feet, and walked swiftly toward the woods, following the same direction that the monkeys had taken.

He no longer felt dizzy and sick, the fear of Mr. Lord had taken all that from him, and made him as strong as he ever was in his life.

He had walked rapidly for some distance, and was nearly beyond the sound of the voices in the road, when he was startled by seeing quite a procession of men emerge from the trees, coming directly toward him.

He could not understand the meaning of this strange company, and it frightened him so that he attempted to hide behind a tree, in hope that they might pass without seeing him. But no sooner had he secreted himself than a strange, shrill chattering came from the foremost of the group, and in an instant Toby was out from his place of concealment.

He had recognized the peculiar sound as that of the old monkey who had left him a few moments previous, and he knew now what he did not know before, owing to the darkness. The new comers were the monkeys that had escaped from the cage and had been overtaken by the old monkey, who seemed to have the most perfect control over them.

The old fellow was leading the band, and each one had clasped hands with the others, which gave the whole crowd a most comical appearance, as they came up to Toby, half hopping, half walking upright, and all chattering and screaming like a crowd of children out on a holiday.

Toby stepped toward the noisy crowd, held out his hand gravely to the old monkey, and said, in tones of heart-felt sorrow,

'I felt awful bad because I thought you had gone off an' left me, when you only went off to find the other fellows. You're awful good, Mr. Stubbs; an' now instead of runnin' away as I was goin' to do, we'll all go back together.'

The old monkey grasped Toby's extended hand with his disengaged paw, and, clinging firmly to it, the entire crowd followed, without breaking the line, chattering and scolding at a most furious rate, while every now and then Mr. Stubbs would look back and scream something which would cause the confusion to cease for an instant.

It was really a comical sight, but Toby seemed to think it was the most natural thing in the world that they should follow him in this manner, and he chattered to the old monkey quite as fast as any of the others were doing. He told him very gravely all that he knew about the accident, explained why it was that he conceived the idea of running away, and really believed that Mr. Stubbs understood every word he was saying.

Very shortly after Toby had started to run away, the proprietor of the circus drove up to the scene of the disaster, and after that the wagon was being rapidly fixed up so that it could be hauled to the next town, he ordered that search should be made for the monkeys. It was very important that they should be captured at once, and he appeared to think more of the loss of the animals than of the damage done the wagon.

While the men were forming some plan for the search, so that in case of a capture they could let each other know, the noise made by Toby and his party was heard, and the men stood still to learn what it meant.

The entire party, who were waiting to learn the reason of the confusion, burst into shouts of laughter as Toby and his companions walked into the circle of light formed by the glare of the lanterns, and the merriment was by no means abated at Toby's serious demeanor. The wagon was now standing upright, with the door open, and Toby led his companions directly to it, gravely motioning them to enter.

The old monkey, instead of obeying stepped back by Toby's side, and screamed to the others in such a manner that they all entered the cage, leaving him on the outside with the boy,

Toby motioned him to get in too, but he clung to his hand, and scolded so furiously that it was quite apparent he had no idea of leaving his companion. One of the men stepped up, and was about to force him into the wagon, when the proprietor ordered him to stop.

'What boy is that?' he asked.

'Job Lord's new boy,' said some one in the crowd.

The man asked Toby how it was that he had succeeded in capturing all the runaways, and the boy said gravely:

'Mr. Stubbs an' I are good friends, an' when he saw the others runnin' away, he just stopped 'em, an brought 'em back to me. I wish you'd let Mr. Stubbs ride with me; we like each other a good deal.'

You can do just what you please with Mr. Stubbs, as you call him. I expected to lose half the monkeys in that cage, and you have brought back every one. This monkey shall be yours, and you may put him in the cage whenever you want to, or take him with you, just as you choose, for he belongs entirely to you.'

Toby's joy knew no bounds; he put his arm around the monkey's neck, and the monkey clung firmly to him, until even Job Lord was touched at the evidence of affection between the two.

While the wagon was being repaired, Toby and the monkey stood hand in hand watching the work go on, and those in the cage scolded and raved because they had been induced to return to captivity. After a while the old monkey seated himself on Toby's arm, and cuddled close up to him, uttering now and then a contented sort of a squeak as the boy talked to him.

That night Mr. Stubbs slept in Toby's arms in the band waggon, and both boy and monkey appeared very well contented with their lot, which a short time previous had seemed so hard.

When Toby awakened to his second day's work with the circus, his monkey friend was seated by his side, gravely exploring his pockets, and all the boy's treasures were spread out on the floor of the waggon by his side. Toby tried to remonstrate with him on this breach of confidence, but Mr. Stubbs was more in the mood for sport than for grave conversation, and the more Toby talked, the more mischievous did he become, until the boy gathered up his little store of treasures, took the monkey by the paw, and walked him toward the cage from which he had escaped on the previous night.

'Now, Mr. Stubbs,' said Toby, speaking in an injured tone, 'you must go in here, and stay till I have got more time to fool with you.'

He opened the door of the cage, and the monkey struggled as well as he was able, until Toby was obliged to exert all his strength to put him in.

When once the door was fastened upon him, Toby tried to impress upon his monkey friend's mind the importance of being more sedate, and he was convinced that the words had sunk deep into Mr. Stubbs's heart, for, by the time he was concluded the old monkey was seated in the corner of the cage, looking up from under his shaggy eyebrows in the most reproachful manner possible.

Toby felt sorry that he had spoken so harshly, and was about to make amends for his severity, when Mr. Lord's gruff voice recalled him to a realizing sense that his time was not his own, and he commenced his day's work with a lighter heart than he had had since he stole away from Uncle Daniel and Guilford.

This day was not very much different from the preceding one so far as the manner of Mr. Lord and his partner toward the boy was concerned; they seemed to have the same idea that he was doing only about half as much work as he ought to, and both united in swearing at and cursing him quite as much as possible.

So far as his relations with other members of the company were concerned, Toby stood in a much better position than he did before. Those who had witnessed the scene told the others how Toby had led in the monkeys on the night previous, and nearly every member of the company had a kind word for the little fellow, whose head could hardly be seen above the counter of Messrs. Lord and Jacob's booth.

THE NOBLEMAN.

I deem the man a nobleman
Who acts a noble part,
Who shows alike by word and deed,
He hath a true man's heart;
Who lives not for himself alone,
Nor joins the selfish few:
But prizes more than all things else,
The good that he can do.

I deem the man a nobleman
Who stands up for the right,
And in the work of charity
Finds pleasure and delight;
Who bears the stamp of manliness
Upon his open brow,
And never yet was known to do
An action mean and low.

I deem the man a nobleman
Who strives to aid the weak;
And sooner than revenge a wrong,
Would kind forgiveness speak;
Who sees a brother in all men,
From peasant unto king;
Yet would not crush the meanest worm,
Nor harm the weakest thing.

I deem the man a nobleman,
Yes! noblest of his kind,
Who shows by moral excellence,
His purity of mind;
Who lives alike through good and ill—
The firm, unflinching man;
Who loves the cause of brotherhood
And aids it all he can.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Racked by Innumerable Pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix Harvell's Condition Powders occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold everywhere.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

Fourteen Additional Pages

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr., John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tomaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of The Century Magazine will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with The Century Magazine for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Great Humorist in Montreal.

A CHARACTERISTIC SPEECH.

Mr. Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain"), the great American humorist, was entertained at a banquet in Montreal on the night of the 8th inst. He spoke as follows in reply to the toast of his health:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—That a banquet should be given to me in this ostensibly foreign land, and in this great city, and that my ears should be greeted with such complimentary words from such distinguished lips, are eminent surprises to me, and I will not conceal the fact that they are deeply gratifying. I thank you all, gentlemen, for these marks of favor and friendliness, and even if I have not really and sufficiently earned them, I assure you that I do not any the less kindly enjoy and esteem them on that account. (Cheers.) When a stranger appears abruptly in a country—no warning, no apparent business to be there, and at an unusual season of the year, the judicious thing for him to do is to explain. This seems peculiarly necessary in my case, on account of the series of unfortunate happenings here which followed my arrival, and which, I suppose, the public have felt in a manner compelled to connect with that fellow Twain. I would most gladly explain if I could, but I have nothing for my defence but my bare word—nothing whatever but my word alone, and so I simply say, in all sincerity and with my hand on my heart, so to speak, that I never even heard of that diamond robbery. I knew absolutely nothing about it until I saw it in the papers, never heard of it before that. Everybody will tell you what I tell you of it. And I can say, with perfect truth, that I never heard a word or never saw that box of dynamite. I never saw and never heard about it until the police came around to ask me if I had any more of it. I am innocent of this—as innocent as any other babe that ever was born or never was born. These are mere assertions, but they are all I have to offer for my defence, and you heard what our Consul-General said—I am a historian of the greatest accuracy and my words come from the lips of one who has never told an untruth—never in this world, except for practice, and I could not so far stultify the traditions of an upright life as to utter one now, in a strange land, in such a presence as this, and when there is nothing in the world to be gained by it, and I do not want any practice. I brought with me to this city a friend—a Boston publisher; he has got away in the meantime. I brought him here—and even that does not sufficiently explain these dark and bloody mysteries. If I had brought along a Toronto publisher it would have been different. And yet I do not know—I have my doubts, because you know the burglar took the diamond shirt-studs and left the shirt, and that is the weak place in it. No, it could not have been a Toronto publisher, and of the whole thing I say simply I am innocent. I know all about it—the publisher that I speak of has gone, and he left me in this position. I am in a pretty hard case, but I have been there before. But to continue my explanation; I did not come to Canada to commit crime—not of that kind—but to prevent it. I came here to place myself under the protection of the Canadian law, and secure a copyright, and that is all. I have fulfilled the requirements of the law, I have followed the instructions of some of the best legal minds in the city, including my own, so my errand is accomplished, at least so far as any effort of mine can aid in the accomplishment. It is true that this is a rather cumbersome way to fence and fortify one's property against the literary buccaneer; still, if it is effective it is an improvement on the condition of the past, and correspondingly welcome. But it makes me hope and believe that a day will come when in the eye of the law literary property will be as sacred as whiskey or any other of the necessaries of life. In our age, if you steal another man's label to advertise your own brand of whiskey you will be heavily fined and otherwise punished for violating the trade mark; if you steal the whiskey without the trade mark you go to gaol sure. But if you could prove that the whiskey was literature you could steal them both. No sir, the law would not say a word. Now it grieves me, it pains me, to think how far more profoundly reverent would be the laws respecting literature if you could only get drunk on it. Still the world moves, and the interests of literature on our continent are improving all the time. Let us be content, and wait. Now, we have with us a fellow-craftsman, born on our own side of the Atlantic, who has created an epoch in the literary history of this Continent of ours, an author who has earned, and worthily earned, the vast distinction of being crowned by the Academy of France. And this is honor and achievement enough for the cause and the craft for one decade assuredly. Now, if I may have the privilege of throwing in a personal impression or two, without prejudice. I would remark that my stay in Montreal and Quebec has been exceedingly pleasant, entertaining and interesting, but I have been a good deal disappointed in the weather. I would not say such a thing as that outside, in my own country, but only criticise your weather in a promiscuous gathering right here, among friends. Before I go further, I will say that no discourtesy is meant—I apologize for it if it is so—but Canada has a reputation far and wide for magnificent winter weather and she has a prophet, who is bound by every sentiment of honor and loyalty to furnish it. But the result this time has been a mess of the most insipid and characterless weather that every right feeling Canadian is probably ashamed of, and ought to be. And yet only the country is in fault, only the country is to blame; you have no right to blame the prophet, for this is not the weather he promised. But, no matter, what you lack in weather you make up in the means of grace. I never was in a city before where you couldn't throw a brick-bat without breaking a church window. (Loud cheers). And yet I was told you were going to build another. Another church in Montreal! But I said—of course it is a good scheme, excellent, but where are you going to find the room? They said they were going to build it on top of another church. Yes, they are going to do that, and have an elevator. Now, that shows plain to my mind that the gift of lying is not not dead in this land. I suppose one must come in the summer to see Canada at the best advantage. Now, a man—a cabman he was—I cannot use adjectives here, but never mind, he was a cabman, and he drove me two miles up a perpendicular hill in a sleigh and showed me an admirable snowstorm from the heights of Quebec. The flakes were so thick I could see nothing else but snowstorm; the man was an ass. I could have seen that from the hotel window just as well, and saved my money. I may have been the ass myself, but at any rate there was an ass in the party. I suppose that when a mercenary cabman and a gifted literary character are gathered together there is bound to be an ass among them; it has always been so in my case. And I have always been elected, but I do not mind; I had rather be the ass than the cabman at any time—except in the summer, and then I guess I would be both and take all the business. Well, I saw the heights of Abraham—I did not see Abraham; he was sick. I saw the heights of Abraham anyway, and I saw the spot where the man Wolfe stood when he made the memorable remark that he would rather be the author of "Gray's Elegy" than take Quebec. Why did he wish so rash a thing as that? Why, because he thought we were going to have an international copyright. Otherwise there would be no money in it. And I saw the place Sir William Phipps stood when he said he would rather take a walk than take two Quebecs. And he took a walk; he did not take Quebec. I saw the spot; I did not see the walk; of course he took the walk. And I have looked, with emotion not easy to suppress, in your city here, upon the monument which makes forever memorable the spot where Horatio Nelson did not stand when he fell, and it is a great thing. You cannot have too many monuments, and I will always remember just the exact spot where Horatio Nelson did not fall. I saw the cab which Champlain employed the time he came overland to Quebec; I saw the horse which Jacques Cartier rode when he discovered Montreal, and I used him too—but I will never do it again. Oh, yes, I have been all round; I have seen all the historical places, and the locality has been pointed out to me where the scenery is warehoused for the season. I have gathered together a great many more or less ornamented facts, and if they are not high-flavored enough, I guess I can fix them up. I have behaved myself—perhaps that is too strong a term—but I have sort of behaved myself, with propriety and discretion; though not without some resort to extravagance, I am sorry to say. I have not meddled in anything except the elections. I could not help that; I am used to voting and it is my habit. I am from a town where—if you can judge from the local newspapers—there are only two conspicuous industries—committing burglaries and holding elections, and, to keep my hand in, I voted a good deal here. I voted against McShane. I do not know Mr. McShane; I had not anything personally against him at all. I had nothing against his principles because I did not know what they were. There has been a kind of family feud between our tribe and the McShanes, and wherever I catch one of them out I vote against him. Now, where so many of the guests are French gentlemen, the propriety will be recognized of my giving a portion of my speech in their beautiful language, in order that I may be partly understood. I speak French with timidity. I do not speak it flowingly—except when excited. When using that language I have often noticed that I am never mistaken for a Frenchman, except, perhaps, by horses. No human being would do so. I had hoped that a mere French construction—I mean with English words—would answer. But that is not the case. It would not work when I tried it. When I was in Quebec I called at a house to see a gentleman. I was met at the door by a girl who said, "What would Monsieur?" I said, "Monsieur so-and-so is he within himself?" She did not understand, and I said, "Is it that he is still not returned of his house of merchandise?" And she did not seem to understand that, so I said, "He will desolate himself when he learns that his friend American has arrived, and he not within himself to shake him at the hand." Well, she did not even understand that—I don't know why, but she lost her temper. Some one in the rear called, "Qui est la?" and she said, "C'est un fou," and shut the door. Well, now, that remark greatly surprised me because she had never seen me before, but I suppose she was right. But, as I said before, I will close this oration with a few sentiments in the French language. I have not ornamented them. I have not burdened them with flowers of metaphor, because I hold that that literature is best and most enduring which is characterized by a noble simplicity. J'ai le bouton d'or de mon oncle, mais je n'ai pas celui du charpentier. Si vous avez le fromage du' brave menuisier, c'est bon; mais, si vous ne l' avez pas, ne vous desolez pas. Prenez le chapeau de drap noir de son beau frere malade. Tout a l'heure. Savoir faire. Qu'est ce que vous dites. Pate' de foie gras. Revenons a nos moutons. Pardon, messieurs, pardonne moi. Plaise a la cour. This is a mighty excellent phrase. I got it in the Court room, in Judge Johnson's Court, where they were trying a case in seven languages. It was either seven or eight, I forgot which. It was ever so interesting. It was about eleven cords of wood, so you can calculate that and see what it comes to. If there had been 100 cords of that wood, there would not have been enough languages in any university. When I heard the expression, "Plaise a la cour," repeated so often that I supposed it meant, "Come out and take a drink." I suppose it was not so, because when I went out I found that I was the only one in the procession. But it is a lovely phrase. If you cannot say anything else you can say, "Plaise a la cour." If French was all like that I could talk it. Mais esayant a parler la belle langue d Ollendorf strains me more than you can possibly imagine, and I shall have to drop it. I thank you for your indulgence, and I thank you for sparing my life. And, to thank you all again,—Plaise a la cour.

Mr. Clemens then resumed his seat in the midst of a perfect storm of the cheering which had broken out in a slightly lesser degree at every sentence of his speech.

Get out Doors.

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

BARLEY DRESSER

—AND—

DISTRIBUTING BOARD

FARMERS and Grain Buyers acknowledge it to be the best and only machine the world has produced for dressing Barley for market, as it cracks no grain nor injures it in any way for malting purposes.

Farmers that have used it have given testimonials, stating that the realize from ten to fifteen cents more per bushel than they otherwise would if they had not cleansed their Barley through our machine.

It can be attached to any common Fanning Mill, and we warrant it to do first class work if properly managed, dressing forty and fifty bushels per hour and suits any kind of grain, removing white caps and smut from Wheat and Oats, making them better for grinding and feeding purposes; removing must to a great extent from Barley and makes it brighter, if colored.

Important to Farmers.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of farmers in general to Burke & McTaggart's patent Barley Dresser, for cleaning grain. It is the best machine known. We speak from experience, having cleaned over four thousand bushels through one, making it weigh two pounds per bushel more, and vastly improving its color, makes in worth more in a foreign market. Farmers will do well to buy it for we can give more for clean grain.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, DEC. 10.

The Tariff and Woollens.

The Finance Minister having been accused of untruth in stating that woollen goods are as cheap now as previous to the increase of the duty, the Kingston News has obtained authoritative evidence bearing on the point which fully sustains Sir Leonard Tilley's appointment. Our contemporary says: "In order to test the matter we wrote lately to the Almonte Woollen Company, manufacturers of almost every variety of woollen cloths, for information, and we have received a reply, which is substantially as follows:—"There is no duty on fine wools such as we use, but there is an advance in the price of some of them, and the prices of articles manufactured from them are a shade higher in consequence. At the same time the increase in the prices of such goods are not as great in proportion as the advance in the cost of raw material. You ask us for a comparison between 1877 and 1881. In the former year we were bothered with applications for employment; to-day we scarcely get sufficient hands to do the work. Then it was difficult to get orders; now we have enough orders ahead to keep us going till April next. Then short time was of frequent occurrence; now it never happens. In addition we pay from 20 to 25 per cent. higher wages than we did four years ago."

"Such is the testimony of Mr. Bennett Rosamond, President of the Company, and it bears out fully the representation of the Finance Minister that the tariff has added nothing to the cost of woollens. In the few articles where there has been an advance in price it has been caused by the increased price of the wools purchased abroad. In several lines, on the other hand, goods are sold more cheaply than before and tweeds just as cheap. These facts are a strong testimony in favor of the National Policy."

Editorial Brevities.

The Globe is trying to prove that the imposition of a duty on oats decreases the price of those of home growth, just as it has been doing as to wheat—a task which is simply impossible of fulfillment. If the organ's contention were correct, what would become of its argument that other articles—coal, for instance—are increased in price by the amount of the duty? The Globe, in trying to prove too much, often confutes its own arguments.

The London Advertiser suggests that: "The 'infant industries' that are to be fostered by the N. P., are old enough to vote." So they will, and on the Conservative side, too.

The Montreal Journal of Commerce—itself a free-trader—makes the following important admission: "It has been truly said by the organs of the Conservative party, that even the Opposition in Quebec is favorable to the commercial policy of our Dominion Government. The successful candidate for Montreal Centre, Mr. Geo. Washington Stephens, is an avowed Protectionist, and when Mr. Joly was in the Dominion Parliament there was not a more pronounced advocate of Protection in the House of Commons than himself."

The Globe wants a rubber factory established in Toronto. A contemporary suggests that if it would take what still remains of the article of conscience in the possession of editors of the Grit persuasion, it would have more stretching material than a dozen rubber factories could turn out.

Senator Morill, who is one of the foremost authorities in America on the great trade question, said in a speech in the United States Senate on the 8th inst.: "Our nearest approaches to free trade had been seasons of national disaster, and the further we receded from free trade the better had labor fared and the greater had been the material, and he did not hesitate to say educational advancement of the country. Free trade with foreign nations afforded no buoyancy to life at home, but, like a patent life-preserver wrongly adjusted, would put our heads under water and our heels uppermost." This free trade is what the Grit party would—in the face of the experience of all other countries—fasten upon Canada. All other issues must be subservient to that one in the election of 1883.

Grain Testers.

The following is the full text of the Order-in-Council with regard to grain testers:

His Excellency, by and with the advice of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, has been pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the regulations respecting the Inspection of Grain Testers, established by Order in Council of the 20th August, 1881, be, and the same are hereby cancelled, and the following Regulations substituted in place thereof, viz:—

1. Grain Testers shall only be admitted to verification when—

1. The cup or vessel for containing the grain is cylindrical, the diameter being approximately equal its depth, and its capacity some authorized submultiple of the gallon, not less than one quart.

2. There is marked on the cup in clearly legible characters its true capacity in standard measure.

3. The counterpoise is arranged so that it can be sealed and stamped in such manner as will prevent its being tampered with or removed from the instrument to which it belongs without destroying or breaking the seal or stamp.

4. It gives true indications of weight according to the purport of the figures and divisions marked on the beam and is in equilibrium when the empty cup is attached and the counterpoise is at zero.

5. The knife edges and other working parts are in conformity with Section B, of the Order in Council of the 14th of August, 1879.

6. It is accompanied by a hopper or apparatus for automatically filling the weighing cup identical as to form and dimensions with the one deposited in the Standard Department of Ottawa, of which a sketch drawing with figured dimensions and instructions for use, will be given to each Inspector of Weights and Measures.

K. The fee chargeable for verifying and stamping each grain tester shall be one dollar.

Heavy Customs Seizures.

A despatch from Montreal says the Customs department there has made two extensive seizures. One is of two thousand demijohns of spirits belonging to Hartland, Smith & Co., which it is alleged were returned in the entry as containing vinegar. The amount involved is about $20,000. The second is some $30,000 worth of furs belonging to McLean, Shaw & Co., an extensive firm, which was entered as undressed, the Customs authorities claiming that they are dressed furs. The owners dispute the claim and are resisting it.

CAUGHT IN A BLIZZARD.

Dreadful Experiences of Manitoba Surveyors.

THREE MEN FROZEN TO DEATH.

A special despatch from Winnipeg says:—News was received at the Canadian Pacific Railway offices to-day (Friday) that the party surveying the route of the Saskatchewan branch had been caught in a blizzard, that Douglas, the engineer in charge, had been severely frozen, and that three of his men had been frozen to death. When last heard from on November 15th, the party had crossed the South Saskatchewan, and were running in the direction of Edmonton. The party were well provisioned, and additional supplies were sent them recently. The Dominion lands survey party, which left Moose Mountain recently for Winnipeg, were caught in a furious storm on the plains. Brodie, the surveyor in charge, and others were severely frozen. They suffered dreadful privations, their provisions giving out. When reduced to semi-starvation they killed a pony for food.

BALLOON ACCIDENT.—A horrible balloon accident, involving the loss of the life of Mr. Walter Powell, M. P. for Malmesbury, has occurred in the west of England. This gentleman, in company with two others, ascended at Bath, but the balloon subsequently came down with great force near Bridport, throwing out Mr. Powell's companions, and then ascending drifted out to sea, where it was subsequently seen to descend with its occupant. No trace has since been seen either of Mr. Powell or of the balloon.

THE VIENNA DISASTER.

Five Hundred and Eighty Bodies Found.

FUNERALS OF THE VICTIMS.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.

On account of the danger of the walls falling the work of removing the bodies from the ruins of the theatre has been suspended until supports are erected. In the Reichsrath today, the President of the Council said vigorous measures should be taken against any one proved guilty of culpable negligence in the case. He presented a credit of 500,000 florins for the sufferers, which was voted. The Government ordered two policemen to go to each theatre an hour before the commencement of the performance to see that all proper precautions had been taken to guard against fire. The report that the number of missing persons is 1,300 is an exaggeration. The theatre was only capable of holding 1,760, and some portions were empty. At one o'clock this afternoon the staircase on the left side collapsed. The fire again broke out this evening at the corner of the Ring, close to the theatre ruins. The engines immediately played upon the flames and subdued them. A large grave has been prepared for the burial of the unidentified, which will be maintained for all time at the expense of the municipality. The members of the Reichsrath will take part in the funeral on Sunday in a body. Solemn services will be held in all the churches on Tuesday. The relief fund now amounts to 50,000 florins.

VIENNA, Dec. 11.—The interment of victims commenced this morning. The Hebrew dead were conveyed to the Jewish portion of the cemetery. The scenes at the graves were painful to witness. The Common Council have issued a notice that the funeral of those victims who cannot be buried by their friends will take place on Monday.

The bodies of the victims of the theatre disaster will be quietly transported to the Central Cemetery to-morrow, where the funeral services will be celebrated with great pomp before a colossal catafalque, on which the coffins will be placed. All the Vinnese Corporations and the civil and military authorities will be invited to attend the funeral. A list of 580 victims is published.

The work of removal of the debris from the theatre has been resumed. The hall where the bodies are laid out presents agonizing scenes. The official list gives the number missing at 917. It is feared as the debris is removed hundreds of bodies will be found in the passages. The captain of the fire brigade states that all the inside of the theatre is a heap of human bones and charred remains. Fraulein Pawlik, the daughter of a well known member of the Chamber of Deputies, who succeeded in escaping whilst urging the people outside to attempt to rescue those inside, was treated as mad by the police and forcibly made to cease her importunities, the guards declaring that everybody had been rescued. A relief committee has been constituted. The municipality will contribute 500,000 florins.

The Pittsburg Holocaust.

Nine Men Burned—Eleven Seriously Hurt.

A telegram from Pittsburg on the 10th gives the following further particulars of the fatal fire near that place on that day:—"The building was a rude board structure. Forty-three laborers slept in the loft formed by the sloping roof. Two openings for light were closed at night by sliding doors. The loft was filled with straw and other combustible material. The stairs leading to the loft were little better than a ladder. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the kitchen. The keeper of the house, who was up, aroused his wife and the servant girls, and they all escaped. The keeper shouted to the men upstairs, but the flames, which spread with great rapidity, enveloped the stairway, cutting off all means of escape that way. Twenty-three of the occupants of the loft succeeded in squeezing through the openings, some with their underclothing on fire. Others rushed frantically about the room, uttering agonizing cries, but the smoke speedily suffocated them. The survivors writhed in pain and shivered in the frosty air. The sufferers were cared for as soon as possible, and brought here by special train.

Six bodies were found this morning in a heap in a corner of the ruins of the burned building.

LATER.—An investigation shows that only nine persons were burned. Eleven were seriously hurt, three of whom will die.

THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN.—The total French loss in the Tunisian campaign so far 1,100 men. Gambetta hopes by February to bring in a Bill for the administration of Tunisian affairs. He said it was possible to recognize Tunis without depriving her of her independence.

A POLITICAL RUMOR.—The latest political on dit in Montreal is that Hon. James Ferrier, the oldest member of the Legislative Council of that province, has resigned, and that the position has been offered to and accepted by Dr. Cameron, M.P.P. for Huntingdon, Mr. C. P. Davidson, Q.C., who was lately defeated in the West division of Montreal, and who is a native of Huntingdon, will stand as the Conservative candidate in the room of Dr. Cameron.

A LUNATIC NEWSPAPER.—There has been in existence in England for many years a periodical called the New Moon, the contributors of which are inmates of lunatic asylums. As a rule, the articles display marked ability, and no one would suppose that the writers were suffering from mental aberration. On one occasion the editor of the New Moon received complaints from several subscribers that the contents of the journal, although well enough in their way, were lacking in distinctive flavor, and did not betray their origin; so in the next number he gave free play to his refractory contributors. There appeared astounding political revelations; a paper on evolution, with wood-cut illustrations of the shape of the human soul at different stages; the designs of a machine to facilitate bodily ascension into heaven in the manner of Elijah; and the first canto of an epic, which, when not utterly incoherent, was anticipatory of Alice in Wonderland. One number of this character was sufficient. The discontented subscribers expressed themselves satisfied, and begged that they might have no more of Bedlam broke loose in prose and verse.

To Advertisers.

THE INTELLIGENCER has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 COPIES, and on Saturdays from 1,100 TO 1,300 COPIES. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH B. INMAN, Station D, New York City. [w6m143eod

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Clergymen and those who speak in public, are apt to suffer from hoarseness and dryness of the throat. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam relieves this, it clears the voice, relieves the aching throat, subdues the inflammation, and heals the nervous membrance are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

Cruelty to animals

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

That was a happy suggestion of our friend Jones' four-year-old hopeful, who instantly prescribed St. Jacobs Oil for his grandmother, who was limping around with rheumatism.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City.

GENTLEMEN,—Having been defeated by a few votes last year for the Mayoralty, and having now been offered support by many who opposed me then, I beg again to solicit your suffrages for the Mayoralty of 1882.

Although defeated last year, I have not neglected the schemes in the interests of the City which I had on hand when in the Council.

Your light house has been completed—a graceful and substantial structure highly prized by the vessel and steamboat men trading to our port. Owing, however, to the greater altitude of our city clock, I shall urge upon the Government the necessity there is that the clock should be lighted also to complete our wants in this respect.

As to the Murray Canal—a scheme revived by me when in the Council and never lost sight of—I am happy to be able to state that tenders will very soon be asked for by the Department for its construction, and that such work will be begun as can be done during the winter and the whole pushed on with vigor in the spring.

The reasons for the delay that has occurred in this matter are, the exhaustive nature of the final surveys, and the illness of the Chief Engineer.

As to our Railways, the construction of the "missing link" as it is called, from Peterboro to Omemee, and the erection here of one or more elevators, are portions of the amalgamation scheme which, if it is carried into effect, cannot fail to be of benefit to our City—as then the all rail route to the Georgian Bay will have been completed, being the shortest route by far from the cities of Chicago, Milwaukie and Duluth, and our own great North-west, to the sea-board, via the Midland Railway to Belleville, and thence by steam barge to the sides of the ocean going vessels.

Further, the construction of our Railways has made the establishment of Smelting Works here almost a certainty; and it must be gratifying to those who have labored to this end to find that two offers are now before the Council for the erection of blast furnaces, provided suitable encouragement is given to these enterprises.

I would advocate the greatest liberality in the consideration to be given to the promoters of those most important industries, so that we secure them; for they are not only valuable in themselves, but they bring in their train other iron manufactories—thus adding largely to our population and resources.

In conclusion, I shall, if elected, endeavor in the future, as in the past, to secure the best interests of the city; and if, from the nature of my calling I am not an employer of labor myself, I have been instrumental in some degree in bringing to our city work for our laboring men and mechanics, and trust that the day is not far distant when other opportunities for the employment of labor will be afforded to our people, to secure which I have been humbly working (together with others), and I shall continue to do so, until success crowns our efforts. You all know me from my boyhood, and you have my views on these few public matters.

I respectfully solicit your support.

I have the honor to remain
Your obedient servant,

D. B. ROBERTSON,

Belleville, Dec. 6, 1881.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, DEC. 10.

City and Vicinity.

The City Council will meet this evening.

There was only one occupant of the cells last night.

The County Court opens to-morrow at noon, before Judge Lazier.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will meet this evening at Hambly's, at 8 o'clock.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held to-morrow evening.

The upper ferry is yet running, having succeeded in breaking a channel for herself.

Messrs. F. Lingham and Geo. H. Pope are in the city. Mr. Pope leaves for Boston this evening.

There are at present fourteen prisoners in the County Gaol—eleven males and three females.

Prof. Macoun lectured a few days ago before the Literary and Scientific Society of Ottawa, on the subject of "The Great Northwest."

In this day's issue appears the first instalment of a short continued story, "The Spendthrift's Daughter," which will be found highly interesting.

People were crossing the bay yesterday on foot, pushing boats before them. Navigation may be said to have closed. The ferry steamer Prince Edward has been laid up for the winter.

A parlor concert, for which an excellent programme has been prepared, is to be given at the residence of Mr. A. L. Geen, West Bridge St., to-morrow evening, in aid of St. John's Church.

Vennor is right again. He prophesies that there would be, "on the 12th, an abrupt rise of temperature, with rains." The mild weather will, according to him, continue until the 15th, when it will grow colder and stormy.

The Minister of Customs has now under consideration the case of the steamer Armenia which plies between Deseronto and Ogdensburg, and which was recently detained by the Customs authorities at Prescott for failing to report at the Customs House at that port on one of her trips.

Mr. Chas. D. Macdonald, City Clerk of Peterborough, was an intimate friend of the late Mr. Newbery, and received his early education from him. He was not able to attend the funeral yesterday, but sent his son, Mr. Jas. Macdonald, of the Peterborough Review, to represent him.

Two liquor cases were tried at the Police Court this morning—those of Thomas Cheevers and Wm. Palmer. The charge against the former was brought by M. Grainger, License Inspector for West Hastings, and that against the latter by Mr. Lally, Inspector for East Hastings. Cheevers' case was laid over till to-morrow and that of Palmer was dismissed.

The City Mission Services this week:—This evening at Mr. John Hannah's, Moira St.; on Tuesday evening at Mr. Root's, Everett St.; on Thursday evening at Mr. Bonar's, opposite the ferry landing; on Friday evening at Mr. J. Haslip's, near St. George's Church. All the services at 7:30 o'clock.

Robert Bruce Cearns, who was committed to gaol a week ago as a lunatic, was brought before the Police Magistrate this morning and discharged. He has, apparently, completely recovered. He attributes his mental aberration to protracted hunger and exposure, and all that was necessary to restore him was a few days' warmth, food and care, which he received at the gaol. Cearns appears to be an intelligent and well educated young man. He is an Englishman from Liverpool, and has only been in this country since last spring.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 12.—Lakes, strong winds, and moderate gales, gradually shifting towards the westward, cloudy, mild weather, with local rains.

Public Holidays.—It is understood that in consequence of Christmas Day and New Year's day falling on Sundays, a proclamation will be issued by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario declaring the succeeding Mondays to be public holidays.

A new City Clerk will be appointed by the Council this evening.

Amongst those present at the unveiling of the statue to the late Col. Cumberland at Allandale, was Mr. W. C. Nunn, representing Mr. Wm. Gooderham, President of the Toronto and Nipissing Railway.

A report got abroad this morning that Mr. Isaac Blair was dead. So far from this being the case, Mr. Blair is much better to-day than he has been since his recent illness, and there are now some chances in favor of his recovery.

The annual missionary meeting of John St. Presbyterian Church will be held to-morrow evening. The proceeds are likely to prove unusually interesting. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. M. W. McLean, of St. Andrew's, and Rev J. S. Black, of Erskine Church, Montreal, one of the leading churches in the eastern metropolis.

A Curling Club has been organized in Picton. At a meeting held on Friday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—"R. J. B. Crombie, president; Lieut.-Col. Bogg, vice-president; D. J. Baker, secretary and treasurer; committee, Major White, Andrew Irving, J. J. Belle, F. M. Getman, Dr. Bedford, W. H. Orchard, C. G. Shannon. A rink has been opened in the yard of Charles Garner, and now it only wants a keen frost to make ice.

The notorious Dave Connors, who, it will be remembered, was charged a year or two ago with having attempted to poison Mrs. Frizone, was brought to town yesterday morning and committed to gaol on two separate charges. One is for selling in Hungerford on the 8th inst. a horse, waggon, harness, buffalo-robes, &c., the property of Matthew Warmworth, and appropriating the proceeds to his own use. The other is for obtaining money under false pretences from a man named Edward McLaughlin. Connors, with a folly which does not usually characterize him, sold Warmworth's horse, waggon, &c., to McLaughlin for $13, and then drank the money. He will be tried to-morrow at the County Court.

Will Not Keep Her.—The Kingston News of Saturday says:—"This morning a woman called on the Magistrate and asked that a warrant be issued for her husband at Belleville, who, she stated, was living with another woman, and neglected to contribute to his wife's support. The man's name is Rumbler, and he is engaged as a blacksmith at the city named. Mrs. Rumbler is a very respectable looking woman. She was informed that she would have to go to Belleville to get out the warrant required."

How the N. P. Works.—"At this office recently," says the News, "we received instructions from a Cincinnati firm to insert an advertisement respecting a certain manufactured article produced in that city, which they were on the eve of introducing into Canada. On the 1st the same firm write us cancelling the order, they in the meantime having ascertained that in order to secure the Canadian market they will be obliged to establish a branch house in Canada." We had a like experience with the same firm. The manufacture of this article will be another new industry for Canada, because of the N. P.

Mr. Newbery's Funeral.—The funeral obsequies over the remains of the late Mr. Newbery, City Clerk, were celebrated yesterday, and were participated in by an immense crowd of people, many of whom came from a distance in order to be present. The funeral was perhaps the most numerously attended of any which has yet been seen in Belleville; it reached considerably over half a mile in length. The order of the procession was as follows:—The Police Force; St. George's Society; the local Masonic lodges; the City Council and City officials; the Board of Education; the Hearse; mourning coaches; citizens on foot and in carriages. The bearers were—Ald. Dickson, D. McLean, J. McKeown, Jas. Macoun, Geo. H. Pope, and J. P. Thomas; the pall-bearers—Ald. Dunnet, Ald. Henderson, Thos. Kelso, Hon. Robt. Read, Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., Jas. Brown, M. P. The funeral cortege proceeded from the house to St. Thomas' Church, where the usual funeral service was held, conducted by Rev. Dr. Clarke, assisted by the Rector, Rev. J. W. Burke. The order of march was again taken up and the procession moved down Bridge street, and proceeded by road to the Cemetery—the ice in the bay preventing the ferry from being used. The religious services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Clarke, and in addition, the remains were buried with full Masonic ceremonial. The chief mourners from a distance who came to attend the funeral were—Wm. Newbery, eldest son of the deceased, who came all the way from Nebraska to be present; L. N. Benjamin, of Montreal; E. R. Benjamin, of Chicago; and R. F. Benjamin, of Port Perry, brothers-in-law of the deceased.

A Shannonville Scandal.—The good people of Shannonville are at present very much exercised over a scandal of sufficient dimensions to serve as a sole topic for conversation in a much larger community. A wealthy miller who has for several years been carrying on business in Shannonville, but living in a village in Prince Edward County, was sitting in his office one day, about a month ago, when a lively and good-looking young woman entered for the purpose of making change. The miller, notwithstanding the frosts of threescore years and five, and in spite of the fact that he was a prominent church official and "local preacher," could not smother the amorous flame that awoke in him as he gazed on the young lady. He made overtures to her, which she scornfully repelled. Her refusal, however, only served to fan his amorous flame to a greater heat, and he laid hold on her. A desperate struggle ensued, the result of which was that youthful vigor triumphed and the lady escaped from the loving embrace of her ancient lover. An attempt was at first made to hush the affair up, but it gradually leaked out, and became almost the sole theme of conversation among the fashionable society of Shannonville. The husband of the lady had only been married to her some three months, and was naturally indignant at the attempted usurpation of his conjugal rights. He came to Belleville shortly after he heard of the affair, and instructed a lawyer of this city to institute proceedings against the would-be disturber of his family peace. But, worse than that, the church officials met in solemn conclave, deprived their erring brother of his official dignities, withheld from him the privilege of preaching and incontinently turned him out of the church. Unable to bear the weight of these humiliations, and dreading the legal troubles which were threatened, the unhappy old gentleman disposed of his milling property at a sacrifice last week, and left on Saturday night for parts unknown, one more illustration of the woes that wait upon all those "who love not wisely, but too well."

INEFFICIENT RUSSIAN POLICE EXILED.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—In the trial of police officers accused of having neglected to take necessary precaution in the matter of Little Sadowaliro, it was revealed that there were four instead of three assassins concerned in the life of the late Czar. The fourth assassin, Emilanoff is not tried yet for state reasons. He states that each of the assassins got into the quay of the canal without sighting a single policeman, and when the second bomb burst under the Emperor's feet and he fell bleeding, Emilanoff rushed up and held his Sovereign until other help came. Under his arm he had all the time a bomb, similar to that used by the assassin. Emilanoff says that none of the police dared approach the wounded Emperor until he took him in his arms. This revelation has caused intense excitement. Three officers were found guilty and sentenced to exile in Archangel for three years.

LOOKING OUT FOR THE CZAR'S SAFETY.

All persons going by train to the frontier, and consequently passing by Gatchina, are searched. A man has been placed in every train to watch for letters placed in the mail boxes. Passports are taken from travellers coming into Russia at the frontier, and they are sent directly to the place mentioned as the end of their journey.

A FEMALE PLOTTER ARRESTED.

The party who has placed threatening letters and proclamations in the Emperor's prayer-book and pocket-handkerchiefs has been discovered to be a woman who has been in the service of the Empress for eight years. When detected, she was putting a letter in the prayer-book, reminding the Emperor that he had only a few weeks of life before him. The woman said she had done this out of gratitude and with the conviction that she was averting catastrophe to the Sovereign, whom she loved so well. She refused to give the name of the man who supplied her with the letters and proclamations.

AMERICAN.

New York, Dec. 12.—Arrived, Servia from Hamburg, Nederland from Antwerp, Lake Champlain from Liverpool, Persian Monarch from London.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says that sixteen of the experts summoned on either side of the Guiteau case, have held a consultation and all agreed that the assassin is sane, and legally responsible for the murder of Garfield. This includes practically the whole body of experts now attending the trial. The fact of this pratically unanimous agreement may have an important effect in the closing of the trial. A few experts in attendance believe in the so-called moral insanity. An expert says that neither the physical tests nor the facts of his career, indicate Guiteau as insane. The most of the experts think he is feigning insanity. His imitations are clumsy, and show that he knows nothing of insanity.

It is announced that the President is determined to appoint no women to offices. This rule will apply to post offices, pension agencies, &c., but will not have any bearing on positions in the departments.

Beginning 1st January, the charters of more than 100 national banks all over the country expire. Within a short time the question whether they shall be renewed must be met by Congress.

SLAUGHTERED BY JAPANESE.

Yokohama, Nov. 25.—Natives of one of the Aleutian Isles fired on the crew of the schr. Diana. Several of the Japanese crew were killed. One of the foreign officers received eight balls in his body, and another was badly wounded.

DEATH OF A HELIOGRAPHIST.

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Col. T. R. Shaffrer, a Louisville millionaire, who introduced the heliographic system into Russia, died here last evening.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

New York, Dec. 12.—Arrived, the Egypt, from Liverpool.

THE IRISH LAND TROUBLES.

Cork, Dec. 12.—Forty farms seized under execution for rent were offered for sale. 21 purchased for landlord. In 10 cases tenants settled rent.

FAILED AND FLED.

London, Dec. 12.—A Leicester correspondent says a sensation is caused by the bankruptcy disappearance of Charles Francks, feather merchant, whose liabilities are estimated at £20,000 to £100,000. Francks is an American. It is supposed he has crossed the Atlantic.

AMERICAN SHIP WRECKED.

Hong Kong, Dec. 12.—The American ship Humboldt is wrecked on Lincoln Island. Clinton, 2nd mate, and Chinese steward and cook drowned.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Washington, Dec. 12.—With the consent of the prosecution, Scoville called for the defence Dr. Edward Charles Spitzka, of New York. The witness has made the study of nervous and mental diseases a specialty, and had been called to testify as an expert about twenty-five times. The witness examined the prisoner in jail yesterday and is satisfied that he is insane. He examined his eye and pulse and found both of them healthy. He did not consider these examinations relevant but made them simply as a matter of record.

Witness considered the main features in prisoner's case to be tending to constant delusive opinions, morbid projects, and a strong indication of imbecility in judgment—and while, said witness, I have no other evidence than the expression of his face, I should have no doubt he is a moral imbecile or moral monstrosity.

Scoville read to witness a hypothetical question based upon the prisoner's erratic life and conduct, and his assertion that there was no other adequate motive for his act in shooting the President than from a delusion that it was necessary for the good of the country, and asked if in witness' opinion prisoner was sane or insane on 2d July?

Witness declined to answer any hypothetical question in the case where he had made personal examination. Witness considered prisoner insane when he examined him. He believed he must have been in more or less of a morbid mental state throughout his life, and that he was probably insane on the 2nd of July.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. ## The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

CHAPTER I.

"Frugality is a virtue which will contribute continually and most essentially to your comfort. Without it, it is impossible that you should do well; and we know not how much, or how soon, it may be needed."

So writes Southey to his son, Cuthbert, just then starting at Oxford.

The proposition might have been expanded from the particular to the universal. Southey might have said, that in no condition of life, from that of her who sitteth upon the throne, to that of the handmaiden who grindeth behind the mill, can frugality—In other words, system and self-denial as regards the expenditure of money—be dispensed with. Self-denial and diligent attention in the management of this great talent are necessary in all.

No one of the gifts of Providence appears to the casual observer to be bestowed with less regard to individual merit than wealth. It would almost seem, as an old divine has written, as if God would mark his contempt of mere material riches by the hands into which he suffers them to fall. Although, fall where they will, and on whom they will, one thing is certain—that they will prove but a delusive snare to those who know not how to order them—when to husband, and when to spare; when to spend, or when to bestow.

These reflections arose from a story with which, not long ago, I became acquainted. A common tale enough—one among a thousand illustrations of what Butler affirms to be the indispensable condition upon which it has pleased our Creator that we should hold our being—that of controlling our own actions; either by prudence to pass our days in ease and quiet; or, by rashness, ungoverned passion, wilfulness, or negligence, to make ourselves miserable.

He is sitting on the bottom stone of a magnificent flight of steps, which lead up to a handsome door, situated in the centre of a large many windowed house, which, fronted, with handsome iron rails round the area, is built of fine brick, and ornamented with abundance of stone work, in cornices and architraves. This house stands in one of the best streets in the neighborhood of Grosvenor Square.

He is clothed in garments that once were fashionable; but now are discolored with much wear and long exposure to wind and weather; so much so, that in several places they are falling into tatters. His face, the features of which are very finely cut, and still bear the traces of a once very remarkable beauty—is wan, attenuated, and begrimed with dust, dirt, and neglect. His eyes are haggard; his hair dusty and dishevelled, his beard ragged and untrimmed.

He is the picture of physical decay, and of the lowest depths of moral degredation. He sits there upon the stone, sometimes watching the street sweeper—a little tattered boy cheerily whistling over his work—now and then casting up his eyes at the closed windows of the handsome house, upon which the beams of the rising sun are beginning to shine; but to shine in vain at present; for it is only about six o'clock in the morning, and life has not yet begun to stir within the mansion.

His cheek rests upon his thin, withered, and unwashed hand, as he casts his eyes first upwards, then downwards, then slowly, and with a sort of gloomy indifference, around.

He looks upward. Is it towards the sky; where the great lord of earthly light—type of the more glorious Sun which should arise "with healing on its wings"—is diffusing the cheering effulgence of the dawn, calling forth the fresh and wholesome airs of the morning, and literally chasing away the noisome spirits of the night? Is he looking there?

No; he is no seeker of the light; he feels not its blessed influence; he heeds not the sweet fresh rising of the morning as it breathes over the polluted city, and pours, for a few short moments, its fresh, crisp, and cheering airs into the closest and most noisome of her quarters. He cares not for that delicious brightness which gives to the vast town a pure and peculiar clearness for a few half hours, whilst all the world are asleep, and the streets are yet guiltless of sin and sea coal.

What has light; the pure breath of the morning; the white rays of the early sun; and the soft, quiet, and refreshing stillness of the hour, to do with him? He only lifts up his eyes to examine a house; he only casts them around to observe what goes on in the streets; he is of the earth, earthy,—the sacred odor exists not for him.

Yet, in the deep melancholy, the expression of harrowing regret with which he did look up at that house—even in the very depths of his moral degradation and suffering—the seeds of better things might be germinating. Who shall say? He has sounded the very base-string of misery; he touches ground at last—that may be something.

The sparrows chirped in the rays of the sun, and the little sweeper whistled away. Different figures began sparingly to appear, and one by one crept out; objects of strange aspect who seem to come, one knows not whence;—the old clothes man, with his low and sullen cloak; country carts; milkmen, rattling their cans against area rails; butcher-boys swinging their trays. Presently were heard, immediately below where the man was sitting, the sounds of awakening life;—unlocking of doors, opening of windows, the pert responses of the women servants, and the surly responses of the men; shutters above began to be unfolded, and the eyes of the large house gradually to to open. The man watched them—his head resting still upon his hand, and his face turned upwards—until at length, the hall-door opened, displaying a handsome vestibule, and a staircase gay with painting and guilding. A housemaid issued forth to shake the door-mat.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

(SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)
FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number begin the new series under the title of The Century Magazine, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved Scribner. The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages.

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A new novel by Mrs. Burnett (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through Our Administration," a story of Washington life.

Studies of the Louisina Creoles. By Geo. W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illustrated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A novel by W. D. Howells (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc.), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

"Ancient and Modern Sculpture." A "History of Ancient Sculpture," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

"The Opera in New York," by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

"Architecture and Decoration in America" will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

"Representative Men And Women Of The 19th Century." Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits, of George Eliot Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

"Scenes Of Thackeray's, Hawthornes, And George Eliot's Novels." Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dicken's novels.

"The Reform Of The Civil Service." Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

"Poetry And Poets In America." There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

Stories, Sketches, and Essays may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr., John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming, "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Temaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

The Editorial Departments throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE will remain at $4.00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5.00 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by the publishers, and by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir,--I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Montreal and the Fenians.

THE OTTAWA PARLIAMENT HOUSE DOOMED—ANOTHER GUY FAWKES—PLOT TO MURDER THE BRITISH MINISTER TO THE UNITED STATES.

The Rossa gang, as is their habit, are taking full responsibility for the infernal machines which have been found at Montreal, though whether they have really anything to do with them is another question. A "prominent Irish agitator" has been interviewed by a reporter of the New York Times, and has been dilating on the enormous plans and power of the Irish "Nationalists" in America. Asked about the telegram received by the Chief of Police of Montreal—"Sorry for failure; will do better next time; Redmond McNamara"—the agitator said that McNamara returned from Canada on Tuesday night. "He is a determined fellow, as brave as a lion and as true as steel. Six months ago he shot a landlord in Ireland and came to this country. In Ireland he was a gentleman and kept a pack of hounds, but he was in full sympathy with the poor peasantry. His father is a solicitor in the county of Kerry, and he is descended from 'Fireball' McNamara, of the county Clare, the greatest duellist Ireland ever produced. Every Irish agitator is proud of him. He is a large, handsome fellow, about thirty-five years old—but I will not describe him too minutely for fear of his detection." McNamara was accompanied to this country by three other trusted men and brought about $10,000 with him. The real purpose of the four men was to kill the British Minister at Washington. The conspiracy was a deep laid and desperate one, but it failed. The plot was for 50 men to row out to the vessel when the Minister returned to America, and for a number of them to board the ship with explosives. Bombs would have been hurled at the Minister, and he would have been killed, but he saved his life by landing at Philadelphia. Possibly some of the men themselves might have been killed, but they were prepared to lay down their lives. When this plot failed, MacNamara and his associates prepared for the trip to Canada. The advanced Irish Nationalists gave them four infernal machines, and these they took with them to do the work. McNamara told me that the machines were defective and would not work, the spring-hammer not being strong enough to explode the dynamite. But the agitator goes on to say that the machines are simple but perfect. His description of them hardly coincides with the reality. "The clock-work, five hours after it is started running, causes a lever to swing round a half circle and drop into a slot, striking a cap made of fulminate of mercury, which explodes the dynamite. These machines were made in New York. They are contained in a small iron box, and the statement that they are harmless is preposterous. Why, each machine represents in force 1,000 pounds of gunpowder. The intention was to blow up the Court House in Montreal, the House of Parliament in Ottawa, and the arsenal in Quebec. And this will yet be done. Our object is not only destruction but death, and the work now fairly begun will not be stopped until Parnell and every Irish leader is liberated. $5,000 is offered by the Advanced Irish Nationalists for the killing of Forster, and $5,000 more for the killing of Gladstone. Eight good men are now seeking their lives, and sure as there is a living God, of the two, Forster certainly will not be alive the 1st of February.

An attempt—as he said—was to be made to blow up the Houses of Parliament at Westminster, though the Queen was to be spared. An order was given in New York to burn every vessel in the harbor flying the British flag, but it was countermanded. Two of the men, however, could not be restrained, and they set fire to the Bothnia.

O'Donovan Rossa is at the head of four combined Irish societies with 10,000 men under him, and secret meetings are held in New York. The speaker asserted that $500,000 could be raised as a skirmishing fund. He claimed that Woodstock, N. B., was burnt by Rossa's men, inflicting $200,000 to English insurance companies. The man who fired the bomb at the Czar was in their employ, and whatever chemistry could do would be done. The agitator concluded thus: "I can tell you that whatever English Government rules or English institutions exist a reign of terror will be instituted, and the power will know no peace until the condition of Ireland is ameliorated. I have told you a great deal more than I intended to, but the future will bring forth things that the English tyrants do not dream of."

The discreet reporter took the precaution to call on "another well-informed Irishman," who said that while there was some foundation for the story given above, the facts were very much exaggerated. O'Donovan Rossa had only a small party behind him, and the allegation that large sums of money are coming in weekly are not true. The Irish Nationalists in this country, with few exceptions, repudiate all connection with Rossa's society, and they have no sympathy with his plans."

The Dutch Captain's Device.

"Sail on the starboard bow!"

"What is she?" asked Captain Martin Pieterzoon, looking anxiously in that direction for in the Eastern seas, two hundred years ago, every strange sail was a terror to the captain of a well-laden Dutch merchantman.

"Can't quite make her out yet," answered the lookout on the mast-head, "Looks like a brigantine—very rakish cut, altogether." The Captain's face darkened and his lips tightened. They tightened still more a few moments later, when the lookout hailed again, "She's an armed brigantine, bearing right down upon us."

Every face among the crew seemed to harden suddenly, but no one spoke. Indeed, what need was there of words? All on board understood in a moment what was before them. They were about to be attacked by pirates; and there was not a single cannon, not even an old musket, aboard the vessel.

It was a terrible moment for them all, more terrible still for the poor captain. For years he had been toiling and saving, bearing every kind of hardships and facing every kind of danger until he had made money enough to become part owner of the ship that he commanded. He had made three successful trips in her, and was now going home for good to settle himself in a snug little house on the great canal at Amsterdam, with rosy cheeked Grodel Voort, his old neighbor's only daughter, for his wife. And now, all in a moment, he found himself face to face with a hideous peril, which threatened the loss of all he had in the world, and his life to boot.

The crew stood looking moodily at the approaching vessel, which came sweeping over the bright blue sea, with its huge sails outspread like the wings of a swan, a perfect picture of beauty, though it brought death along with it. Some of the bolder spirits were beginning to mutter that it would be better to set fire to their own ship and die like men than to be flung into the sea like dogs, when the captain's gloomy face suddenly lighted up as nobody had ever seen it light up yet, and he burst into such a loud, hearty laugh that the doomed men stood amazed to hear him. "Cheer up, lads," he cried, still laughing, "all's not over with us yet. Come, knock the head out of that cask of butter, and smear the deck with it. Look sharp, now."

The men only stared blankly at him, thinking he had gone mad; and even the stolid mate opened his heavy mouth in amazement. "Do you hear?" shouted the captain. "Look sharp, will you? There is no time to lose. Grease the whole deck, fore and aft, and the rigging too, as high as you can reach. We'll give the rascals a slippery job of it, anyhow."

Then the sailors began to understand, and the shout of laughter that broke forth would have mightily astonished the pirates had they been within hearing. In a twinkling, the deck was greased until it fairly shone, bulwarks and all. "Now, boys," cried the captain, "on with your sea boots, and put sand on the soles to keep you from slipping, and then each of you take a handspike and be ready."

The pirate was now so near that they could see plainly the rabble of gaunt, sinewy Malays, woolly-headed negroes, and sallow, black haired Portuguese that crowded her decks. A few minutes more and she ran alongside; and almost before the two vessels had touched, three wild figures leaped from the pirate's rigging upon the merchantman's deck. But it was a very unlucky jump for all three; the first man spun across the slippery deck as if it had been a skating rink, and went right out on the other side. The second tumbled head foremost down the hatchway into the cook's galley, where the black cook considerately piled the heap of iron pans on him to keep him quiet.

"Aha, Massa Pirate," said he, grinning, "dis ship not de 'Flying Dutchman;' him de Sliding Dutchman."

The third pirate had leaped on board as fiercely as if he meant to kill the whole crew at one blow; but the only man he hurt was himself, for he hit his head against the mast so hard that he almost knocked his brains out, and fell down roaring with pain. All this so frightened the other pirates that they thought the ship must be bewitched, and rushed back to their vessel with a howl of dismay as fast as possible. For many years after, one of the familiar sights of Amsterdam was a portly old gentleman with a jolly red face, at sight of which the boys used to begin singing.

"Captain Martin Pieterszoon Made his ship a buttered bun."

And his wife was never tired of showing the huge silver butter-dish presented to him in honor of his repulse of the pirate with a cask of butter.

Will it be Murder?

AN OLD MAN HITS HIS WIFE WITH A LIGHTED LAMP—THE WOMAN IN A DYING CONDITION.

Ralph Stuthers, an old man living in a lane off Claremont street, is in the custody of the police for a very serious crime. On Saturday night Stuthers and his wife were drinking together. About 11 o'clock they began to quarrel. In a moment of passion the old man seized a lighted lamp and hurled it with great force at his wife, striking her on the head. The lamp broke and the oil, which spread all over the woman, became ignited and set fire to her hair and clothing. The poor old creature suffered terrible agony, but could do nothing for herself, having been stunned by the blow, and the brute of a husband turned her out on the street and locked the door. Mrs. Stuthers managed to get into a neighbor's house, when the flames were extinguished, but not until she had been terribly burned about the head, neck and shoulders. At this time Sergeant Carr happened along on his visiting rounds and sent for Dr. McCullough who alleviated the old woman's pain as much as possible. The officer then arrested Stuthers, taking the broken lamp along with him to the station. Subsequently the victim of the prisoner's fury was removed to the general hospital where she lies in a precarious condition, her recovery being extremely doubtful.—Toronto World, Dec. 12.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Child Stolen by an Indian Turns up After Fifty Years.

SHE MARRIES HER ABDUCTOR'S SON.

BECKWITH, Dec. 10.

Some fifty years ago, more or less, Mr. Nicholas Garland, farmer, then living on Lot No. 20, in the 6th Concession of the Township of Beckwith, in the County of Lanark, had a child, a little girl. Some of the children had wandered to the back part of the clearance, which was then but small, and this little one never came home. All the neighborhood turned out next day and searched the woods all round, and every nook and corner where she might have fallen and perished; but not the smallest clue or trace of her could be found, and the inhabitants concluded that a bear had carried her off and devoured her. It now appears that she was stolen by an Indian, who brought her up in his own family, and got her married to one of his sons, and they lived latterly in the county of Bruce, where some of her brothers and sisters are living. The old Indian, her abductor, died lately, and before his death made a full confession of the nefarious and cruel deed.

Who need despair after this of at least hearing of their lost ones?

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Fellows' Hypophosphites makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, DEC. 13.

The City Clerkship.

The appointment of Mr. D. B. Robertson as City Clerk will give general satisfaction. Mr. Robertson's qualifications for the position are undeniable, his legal education, his long and intimate acquaintance with municipal affairs, and his experience as Secretary to the Grand Junction Railway Company having peculiarly fitted him for the satisfactory discharge of the duties of the office. Besides, his affability and courtesy will render him popular with all with whom he will come in contact. We therefore congratulate Mr. Robertson on his appointment to the City Clerkship, and the City on having secured so competent an officer to succeed the late efficient Clerk.

Mr. W. J. Diamond, who received the largest vote of any of the unsuccessful candidates, would have made an efficient officer, and there can be no doubt that many aldermen found it difficult to make a choice. In fact, there was much good material to choose from, and it is no reflection upon any of the other candidates to be passed over in favor of so popular a man as Mr. Robertson.

The Mayoralty.

The appointment of Mr. Robertson to the office of City Clerk nullifies the candidacy of that gentleman for the Mayoralty. The electors will, however, note with pleasure that Alderman Nelson Lingham has consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty. His card appears in another column.

The claims of Mr. Lingham upon the electors are very strong. A native of the near vicinity of the city, of which his parents were amongst the earlier settlers, an enterprising and successful business man, a municipal representative of long experience and of proved ability and integrity, and without a stain upon his character, Mr. Lingham is the right stamp of man to fill the highest civic office with dignity and ability. We therefore commend him to our friends and trust that they will at once rally to his support and elect him by a triumphant majority.

The Ontario Legislature.

When, some three or four years ago, Mr. Mowat postponed the meeting of the Ontario Legislature until January, the statement was put forth in his behalf that the postponement was necessary because the revision of the Statutes had not been completed, and that as there was a great deal of work for the Legislature in connection therewith, it was of no use to convene its members until the report was ready.

We held at the time that the apology above referred to was a mere excuse, and the event has proved the correctness of that belief; for on no subsequent occasion has the Provincial Parliament been summoned earlier than January. The chief objection to this course of procedure is that the session of the Legislature is thereby of necessity prolonged to such a late date that a portion of it must run concurrently with that of the Dominion Parliament. The latter, being a greater body than the Legislature, and having more important interests to deal with, public attention is almost wholly devoted to it. In consequence the leading newspapers fully report the proceedings of Parliament and give but meagre summaries of those of the Legislature, and thus the Ontario Government, backed by an overwhelming majority, are enabled to pass such measures as they wish without having to face the scrutiny of the public to more than a very small extent. That a desire to escape public criticism has actuated Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in this matter, the numerous and serious encroachments on popular rights—the persistent efforts which they have made and are making to centralize power in their hands—shows unmistakably.

Did the Legislature meet in November, or early in December, as formerly, the business would be completed by the middle of January, a fortnight at least in advance of the meeting of the Dominion Parliament, and the public would know exactly in what manner the affairs of the Province were being conducted. That it is otherwise is simply owing to the desire of the Provincial Government to keep the electors in the dark as to their proceedings. The day of reckoning is not, however, far distant, and then, it is to be hoped, the people will reward the authors of such proceedings as they deserve.

Get out Doors.

Editorial Brevities.

The Whig alleges that the INTELLIGENCER "is emerging fast from moderate party service into gorilla warfare." A gorilla is a very formidable antagonist, however, and fights fairly. We thank the Whig for the unintended compliment, which cannot be reciprocated—for, whilst it berates the Ontario Government in one issue, it assures them subsequently that its strictures are really love-taps, mere marks of affection.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"Tory and Liberal leaders are on the stump in England, and the Liberals have very decidedly had the best of it. Sir Stafford Northcote is as weak as water and Lord Salisbury is as hot as raw whiskey, and neither has gone down with the country." Then it is only necessary for Sir Stafford Northcote and the Marquis of Salisbury to make joint addresses—to mix the whiskey and water, as it were—in order to produce a very marked effect on the stimulant-loving voters. Doubtless when they read the Telegram's paragraph with this addendum, the gentlemen referred to will take the hint.

The Montreal Witness commences an article under the portentous heading "Protection doomed," with the singular announcement that "the protectionists (of the United States) find that their policy is in imminent danger of being abolished." Well, considering that General Garfield was enabled to carry New York in the presidential election of 1880 solely because the Democrats were supposed to be favorable to a reduction of the Customs tariff; that the recent tariff conventions in New York and Chicago advocated the reduction of internal revenue taxation in the interest of protection to home manufactures; that President Arthur makes a similar recommendation in his message to Congress; and that a large part of the South has declared in favor of protection, we fail to perceive that "doom" for protection in the United States which the scribe of the Witness sees mirrored in his too lively imagination.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 12, 1881.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR.—I saw last week in the INTELLIGENCER an account of Mr. Ashley importing an iron lumber waggon, with the intention to form a company to manufacture. The waggon in question is being inspected and closely commented upon, and quite a number of farmers seem to think that it being iron, must be superior; but, sir, our best practical men know that they are not to be compared to our present waggon, for all kinds of roads, and which has stood the test, and will last from 25 to 30 years. Some will say, why, well, wood will spring on rough roads, or in frosty weather, while iron will break. Iron axletree waggons have been made both here and in the States for the past 50 years, and are now nearly out of date. Many other articles have been made of iron, such as harrows, cultivators, buggy gearings, iron hubs, etc. and been found not equal to wood and iron combined. Experience has taught us that bolts and nuts screwed on iron, such as are used on a waggon, will soon become loose and the waggon will become a rattlebox. Does Mr. Ashley wish to close our many waggon shops and let our timber, not surpassed by any on the continent, go to waste, and import iron to manufacture waggons? If Mr. Ashley could be induced to turn his large enterprising mind, to manufacture the iron here first, railway cars, engines and agricultural implements, and many other articles not manufactured here, which are in great demand, I think it would be better than interfere with a branch already much overdone in Ontario.

Mr. D. Kelly has obtained the contract to supply the Dufferin mine with beef.

Mr. S. McMullen has obtained from Mr. M. O'Connor a contract to furnish large quantities of railroad ties.

Owing to the absence of snow and the rugged state of the roads business is rather dull.

At the last meeting of L. O. L. No. 319, on the 8th inst., the following officers were duly elected for the ensuing year:—Robt. Lough, W. M.; W. F. Paget, D. M.; Jas. Bailey, Treas.; F. Beddome, Sec.; John R. Outwater, Chap.; John Bell, D. of C.; Committee—1st, John Wiggins; 2nd, Robt. Bell; 3rd, Thomas Broadworth; 4th, Samuel Kelly; 5th, Alexander Boyd. The regular meeting night is the second Thursday in each month. Visiting brethren cordially welcomed.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for the

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening.

PRESENT.—Ald. Smith, Ostrom, Dickson, Lingham, McIninch, Diamond, Holden, Dunnet, Vandusen, Starling, St. Charles, Farley, Durand, Frost, Campion, Niles, Costello, Clarke, Petrie, Henderson—all the members of the Council, with the exception of the Mayor, who is not in the city.

In the absence of the Mayor, Ald. Henderson, on motion, was elected Chairman.

The duties of the Clerk were performed by the City Solicitor.

The minutes of the last two regular meetings were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

The following were presented and read:

From Mrs. H. A. Thompson, asking to be relieved from paying her taxes.

From Mrs. A. Tompkins, asking for a reduction in her assessment.

Applications for the position of City Clerk from the following parties were handed in and read: John McCoy (who offered to do the work for one-half the salary that was paid the late Clerk), D. B. Robertson, Geo. Adams, T. B. Bentley, and James D. Clarke (who offered his services for $500).

From Thos. H. Cheevers, asking that one-half of his taxes be remitted—amounting to $58.

From Wm. Blaind, applying for the position of Returning Officer for Foster Ward.

From Stephen Garratt asking to be appointed Returning Officer for Murney Ward for 1882.

From Mrs. M. Fahey, complaining of errors in her assessment, and asking for their rectification.

A number of accounts were also read.

A motion of Ald. McIninch, nominating Ald. W. J. Diamond to the position of City Clerk, was allowed to stand as a petition.

The petitions with reference to the City Clerkship were allowed to remain on the table. The remainder were referred.

REPORTS.

The various standing Committees reported. The Industrial Committee reported, recommending that the City Council purchase suitable sites for any Iron Companies which may be established in the city, providing that such conditions be incorporated in the grant as will protect the city's interests; that the works and property of such companies be exempted from taxation for a period of ten years; and that one gentleman be deputed to enter into the necessary negotiations for the purchase of the sites.

Ald. Dickson reported verbally on behalf of the Hospital Site Committee and Special Ferry Committee.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Dickson asked whether the By-law Committee had considered the Salaries By-law.

Ald. Diamond replied that the consideration of this By-law had been unavoidably delayed, chiefly on account of the illness of the late City Clerk.

In reply to Ald. Campion, Ald. McIninch explained that the reason that the tank opposite the Canifton Road was not supplied with water was that Mr. A. L. Smith tapped the supply.

INTRODUCTION OF BY-LAWS.

Ald. Dickson moved the suspension of the rules for the purpose of introducing a By-law for the appointment of a City Clerk; also a By-law for the appointment of Deputy Returning Officers for 1882.—Carried.

The By-laws in question were introduced.

On motion, the Council went into Committee on By-laws, Ald. Lingham in the chair.

Ald. Dunnet moved that the By-law re-organizing the Standing Committees be taken as read a second time, and be discussed on the third reading.

Ald. Dickson contended that the By-law could not be read in Committee. By-laws were considered in Committee and read in Council.

Ald. Diamond contended that it was perfectly in order to do so.

A slight discussion ensued, and the Chairman's ruling was asked for. He decided in favor of Ald. Dickson, that the motion should be introduced in Council.

The By-law appointing Deputy Returning Officers for 1882 was considered.

The following officers were appointed:—

COLEMAN WARD.—Henry F. Pringle.
FOSTER WARD.—Wm. Blaind.
SAMSON WARD.—Francis Clarke.
KETCHESON WARD.—Geo. Adams.
BALDWIN WARD.—Richard Taylor.
BLEECKER WARD.—Jos. Northcott.
MURNEY WARD (No. 7).—Stephen Garratt.
MURNEY WARD (No. 8).—Peter Maybee.

THE CITY CLERKSHIP.

The By-law appointing a City Clerk was considered.

Ald. Dickson nominated D. B. Robertson to the vacant position.

Ald. McIninch nominated Ald. W. J. Diamond.

Ald. Holden pointed out that there were several applicants for the position. It was unfair to these not to allow their names to be brought forward. He favored allowing all the names to be considered together, and take a ballot on the whole.

Ald. Henderson pointed out that the names of applicants were not properly before the Council until they were nominated.

Ald. Dickson explained that the applications had been referred to the By-law Committee by the Council, and were therefore properly before the Council.

Ald. St. Charles thought, in justice to all the applicants, that the vote should be taken by ballot.

Ald. Holden moved that the vote to be taken by ballot—the lowest name of each ballot be struck off—Carried.

An application for the position of City Clerk from Col. Campbell was read; also, one from Geo. H. Pope.

On motion of Ald. Diamond, the acting Clerk, Ald. Starling and McIninch were appointed scrutineers.

Ald. Dickson moved that the Committee agree to make unanimous the election of the candidate who obtained the majority vote of the committee—Carried.

A ballot was then taken.

The result of the first ballot was as follows: Robertson, 10; Diamond, 7; Clarke, 2; Pope, 1. Total vote, 20.

Ald. Dickson claimed the election for Mr. Robertson, on the ground that there should have been only nineteen ballots cast, Ald. Diamond having no right to vote because he was an interested party. He appealed to the Solicitor.

Ald Diamond claimed that he had a right to vote. No one knew how he voted. He might have voted for Mr. Clarke or any other candidate.

Ald. Dickson claimed that no one who was personally interested in a question could give a disinterested vote on that question.

Ald. Diamond pointed out that it was the custom to allow the Mayor to vote on the granting of his annual remuneration; the Warden of the County was also allowed to do so

Ald. Henderson said that Ald. Diamond had a right to sit at the Council Board until he accepted the position of Clerk. He had no right, however, to vote for himself. But who could tell whether he had voted for himself, seeing that the vote was secret?

Ald. Frost thought that, for the sake of propriety as well as legality, Ald. Diamond should refrain from voting. He contended, however, that Ald. Dickson's point of order should have been raised before the ballot was taken.

It was decided to allow another ballot to be taken—Ald Diamond this time refraining from voting.

The result of the second ballot was as follows; Robertson, 12; Diamond, 7.

On motion of Ald. Dickson, the blank in the By-law was filled in with the name of D. B. Robertson, and his election was made unanimous.

The Committee rose and reported.

Ald. McIninch moved, seconded by Ald. Durand, that the report be referred back in order to strike out the name of Mr. Robertson from the By-law and insert that of Ald. Diamond.

Ald. Dickson criticised the action of Ald. McIninch in bringing in this motion after voting for the motion that the vote should be by ballot. After he was beaten by ballot he wanted to try another method,

Ald. McIninch explained that all he wanted was to have the yeas and nays recorded.

Ald. Durand withdrew his name from the motion as seconder. He thought, on second consideration, that Ald. Diamond had had fair play.

Ald. Petrie consented to allow his name to be inserted as seconder of the motion.

Ald. Frost thought the motion was out of order. The vote was to be by ballot. If this motion carried, where was the use of a ballot?

The Mayor ruled that the motion was in order.

Ald. St. Charles would support the motion if Ald. Diamond were allowed to vote. Otherwise, he thought it would be useless.

The motion was lost.

The yeas and nays were taken with the following result:—

YEAS—Ald. Durand, McIninch, Petrie.—3.

NAYS—Ald. Campion, Clarke, Costello, Dickson, Dunnet, Farley, Frost, Holden, Lingham, Niles, Ostrom, Starling, St. Charles, Smith, Vandusen.—15.

Ald. Diamond declined to vote.

The By-law was read a third time, passed and numbered.

The By-law appointing Deputy Returning Officers was read a third time, passed and numbered.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means, Ald. St. Charles in the chair.

The report of the Industrial Committee was considered.

Ald. Dickson spoke at length in favor of adopting the recommendation of the Committee. After its adoption it should, he thought, be referred back to the Committee to act.

Ald. Diamond opposed the report. He thought it was throwing too much responsibility on one person to give him full power to make contracts without the consent of the Council. He moved in amendment that the report be amended so as to read that the person who should be appointed to contract for sites report to the Council.

Ald. Dickson moved in amendment to the amendment, that the matter be referred back to the Industrial Committee—the clause to the effect that one individual be appointed to negotiate being struck out.

The last amendment was carried.

Ald. Diamond moved that the following words be added to the report: "said Committee to report such contract to this Council for adoption." He did not approve of giving any Committee, however respectable, absolute power over the expenditure of money.—Lost.

The report was then adopted.

The report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of a number of accounts, was carried.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

The following resolution of condolence was moved by Ald. Dickson, seconded by Ald. Lingham, and carried unanimously:—

"That this Council take this, the earliest, opportunity to express their deep regret at the sudden demise of their late Clerk, Robert Newbery, Esq., who had for many years faithfully performed the onerous duties of his office, and this Council desire to convey their sincere sympathy to the widow and family of deceased in this their great bereavement, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to them."

The Council then adjourned.

The finest stables and stock farms of the whole country, such as those of Mr. Calvin M. Priest, of New York; Mr. Mike Goodin, of Belmont Park, Pa.; Aristides Welsh, Esq., of Erdenheim, near Philadelphia, and others we could name, are always provided with St. Jacobs Oil,—the horse's best physician.

QUERY?—Have you seen that big fist, with streams of electricity issuing from it, in another column?

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. LADIES' MANTLES

—AND—

SHAWLS,

Offering at Reduced Prices,

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, DEC. 13.

To Advertisers.

The Intelligencer has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 copies, and on Saturdays from 1,100 to 1,300 copies. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the Daily and Weekly Intelligencer. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

City and Vicinity

The Board of Education will meet this evening.

Two tramps shared the cells between them last night.

Exit, "Mayor Robertson" (in prospective); enter, "D. B. Robertson, Esq., City Clerk."

The liquor case of Thos. Cheevers was settled this morning at the Police Court. The defendant was fined $20 and costs.

A meeting of the Oka Lacrosse Club is to be held this evening, at Hambly's. The advisability of getting up a concert will be discussed.

"Who'll be the Clerk?
"I," says D. B.—
"The office suits me;
I'll be the Clerk."

The Deputy Returning Officers for the different wards were appointed last night by the City Council. Their names will be found in our report of the Council proceedings.

The meeting of the Yacht Club did not take place last evening, the members finding a greater attraction at the Council Chamber. The meeting will be held at Hambly's this evening.

"Rooms for Rent," in the Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening is likely to draw a good audience. It is said to be a highly amusing play, and the company has received warm praise from the best critics. Seats may now be secured at Reynolds'.

The ladies of Christ Church will open a fancy bazaar in Robertson's (eastern) Block to-morrow afternoon. The display of fancy-work promises to be large and varied and the bazaar will be a good place to invest in Christmas presents. It will be kept open during Thursday.

The joint committee of members of the City Council and the Township Council of Ameliasburg, appointed for the purpose of considering the ferry question, met this afternoon; but, as several prominent members of the Committee were absent, the meeting was adjourned till Wednesday, the 21st.

The $3,000 cheque issued by the City, payable to the Board of Education, and payment of which was refused by the bank a few days ago, was cashed to-day, Ald. Dickson, Chairman of the Finance Committee, having succeeded in making satisfactory arrangements. The teachers were paid to-day.

Seldom is the City Council honored with such an audience as assembled in the Council Chamber last night. Standing room could not be obtained, and the crowd were almost standing on each other's heads. The large audience, of course, put the aldermen on their best behavior, and the proceedings glided along with comparatively little friction.

The entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Association on Thursday evening in the City Hall, must not be gauged by the price of admission, which is only ten cents—that is only charged in order to meet incidental expenses. The programme is one which comprises most of the best talent we have in the city. One feature will be peculiarly interesting—a reading by a talented young lady elocutionist who has been persuaded, on account of the good cause, to contribute to the pleasure of the evening. We hope the example will be followed by other young ladies of the city who have elocutionary talents, but have hitherto been afraid to exercise them in public for lack of precedent. In Toronto and other large cities almost as many ladies as gentlemen read or sing in public, and as there are many selections to which a lady can do more justice than a gentleman can, their efforts are nearly always appreciated. If our ladies who have natural elocutionary gifts would take the hint—and the platform, when called upon—it would greatly relieve the local male readers, who have rather more than their share of duty to perform in this way.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 13.—Lakes, easterly to southerly winds, raining, mild weather, to-day, westerly to northerly winds to-night, colder to-morrow.

Fire This Morning.—A few minutes past 3 o'clock this morning the barn in rear of Robt. Arkles' saloon was discovered to be on fire. When discovered, the fire was at the northwest corner, and appeared to be chiefly on the outside. The alarm being given, the engines and brigade were promptly on hand; but, the building being of light frame and very inflammable, the fire had obtained great headway before a stream could be got on to it, and the flames had spread to another frame building adjoining, the property of Mr. L. O'Brien and occupied by Mr. Naylor as a blacksmith shop. In Mr. Arkles' barn were a span of horses belonging to Mr. Wm. Rath, of Hungerford, and a horse and cow belonging to Mr. Arkles. The door being opened, Mr. Arkles' horse came out of its own accord, and the cow was also got out, but the latter in its bewilderment ran back into the burning building and was consumed. Mr. Rath's team were also destroyed. In a very short time the spot where the barn had stood was a heap of glowing embers. In the meantime the firemen had been working hard to save the adjoining building, and they succeeded in quenching the flames before the building was entirely destroyed. Mr. Naylor succeeded in saving nearly all his blacksmith's tools, and his loss is comparatively trifling. Mr. O'Brien's loss will probably reach about $600, on which he had $300 insurance. Mr. Arkles' total loss will not be more than $200; he was uninsured. The barn was owned by Mr. Wm. Dafoe, who was also uninsured; his loss will be about $300. There is little doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

COUNTY COURT.

Tuesday, Dec. 13, 1881.

The County Court and General Sessions of the Peace opened to-day at noon before Judge Lazier.

THE DOCKET.

There is only one criminal case on the docket—that of David Connors, charged with obtaining money under false pretences, and feloniously disposing of a horse and waggon belonging to another man.

There are twenty-one civil cases, sixteen with and five without jury. They are as follows:—

WITH JURY.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Kiss me.—"Teaberry," the new and exquisite little gem for the tooth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try 5 cent sample.

Respect.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK NOTES.

New York, Dec. 13.—Arrived, the State of Nevada from Glasgow and City of Montreal from Liverpool.

J. Howard Wells, charged with attempting to blackmail Jay Gould, was indicted yesterday.

The New York Central and Erie & Pennsylvania Railways have agreed upon rules and tariff of elevator charges on grain.

The Fire Commissioners yesterday ordered the immediate inspection of all theatres and places of amusement where machinery and scenery are used. A veteran fireman, prominent in the Department, who has made the theatres in the city a study, said yesterday that there was not one theatre so safe from fire that he would take his wife to it.

The trunk line representatives yesterday resolved to advance the west bound freight rates on January 1st. The new rates are not yet fixed.

The capital for the new steamship line, to carry passengers from New York to London in less than six days, is already subscribed. It is proposed to use Fort Pond Bay, near Montauk Point, Long Island, as a harbor, connection to be made with this city by rail.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says that representative Willetts, of Michigan, who devoted much study to the subject of polygamy, will introduce several bills designed to make more effective the present laws for its suppression. One bill provides that the Legislative power in Utah shall be vested in a Governor and Council consisting of nine members, appointed by the President, and confirmed by the Senate. It is understood that some time before his assassination Garfield held a long consultation with Willetts with regard to the form of Government for Utah. At first Garfield favored remitting the Government territory to the Governor and Judges of the Supreme Court thereof, but finally assented to Willett's views.

The Sun says that Blaine expects to be relieved by a successor on Wednesday or Thursday. It is understood that Frelinghuysen will make a few changes in the Department.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

London, Dec. 13.—It is stated that the dispatch which the United States, Minister here received from the United States Secretary of State is elaborate and cities strong historical evidence to show that the Clayton-Bulwner tready was regarded both in England and the United States from the time of its signature as a failure to adjust the relative claims and sources to the controlling influence in the waters of the new world and insists upon its abrogation as essential to the future good understanding between them. It is reported that this despatch is owing to Earl Granville's in reply to Blaine's circular touching the Panama Canal. It is said that Granville invites the attention of the United States to the terms of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, as binding the United States to assent to a joint protectorate and guarantee over any transit of the Isthmus. It is stated that Blaine's despatch directly traverses the position taken by Granville.

MISSING BALLOON.

London, Dec., 13.—The absence of news from the balloon in which Powell was carried to sea on Saturday, causes a sensation. Powell aspired to cross the Atlantic in a balloon.

KILLED AT SEA.

Boston, Dec. 13.—The steamer Malta from Liverpool experienced terrible weather. Two men were killed, and one severely injured.

MORE BODIES FOUND.

Vienna, Dec. 13.—Twenty-seven bodies were removed from the ruins of the theatre yesterday, and also a quantity of fragments of bodies.

FRELINGHUYSEN GONE TO WASHINGTON.

Newark, N. J., Dec 13.—Frelinghuysen left this morning for Washington.

THE LATE PRESIDENT'S CASE.

Washington, Dec. 13.—In the House Taylor offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, for the appointment of a Committee of eleven to audit all claims for services and expenses growing out of the illness and burial of Garfield; also to consider what allowance, pension or privilege shall be granted his widow and family.

The Railway Amalgamation.—At a special meeting of the bond and shareholders of the Midland Railway, held on the 12th at Port Hope, to consider the proposed amalgamation of the Midland, Grand Junction, Toronto & Nipissing, and Whitby & Port Perry Railways, President Cox made a full statement of the past positions of the several companies which it is proposed to amalgamate, and stated that the present companies had a completed mileage of 431 miles, the gross earnings being $865,000. The proposed extensions were also explained and it was stated that the construction of the Toronto & Ottawa was to be pushed forward with all possible speed from the present eastern terminus of the Midland. Results of the most gratifying character were predicted from the amalgamation. A resolution confirming the amalgamation agreement was submitted by the President, and seconded by Mr. Jaffray, who stated that next summer three first-class steamers would be placed on the upper lakes in connection with the Midland system. No opposition was made to the resolution, which was adopted, and instructions given to have the necessary legislation secured in order to give effect to the agreement.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Pains and Griping in Children.

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

Then he arose and slowly moved away; every now and then casting a wistful glance backwards at the house, until he turned the corner, and it was lost to his sight.

Thus he left a place which once had been his own.

With his head bent downwards, he walked slowly on; not properly pursuing his way—for he had no way nor object to pursue—but continuing his way, as if he had, like a ball once set in motion, no motive to stand still. He looked neither to the right nor to the left; yet seemed mechanically to direct his footsteps towards the north. At length, he slowly entered one of the larger streets in the neighborhood of Portland Place. His attention was excited by a bustle at the door of one of the houses, and he looked up. There was a funeral at a house which stood in this street a little detached from the others. The plumes were white. It was the funeral of an unmarried person. Why did his heart quiver? Why did he make a sudden pause? Had he never seen a funeral with white plumes before in his life?

Was it by some mysterious sympathy of nature that this reckless, careless, fallen man—who had looked at the effigies of death, and at death itself, hundreds and hundreds of times, with negilent unconcern—shuddered and turned pale, as if smitten to the heart by some unanticipated horror? I cannot tell. All I know is, that, struck with a sudden invincible terror, impelled by a strange but dreadful curiosity, he staggered, rather than walked forward; supporting himself as he went against the iron rails, and thus reached the steps of the house just as the coffin was being carried down.

Among the many gifts once possessed, and all missed, was one of the longest, clearest and quickest sights that I ever remember to have heard of. His forlorn eye glanced upon the coffin; it read:

> "Ella Winstanley,
> Died June 29, 18. .
> Aged Twenty-three."

And he staggered. The rails could no longer support him. He sank down upon the flagstones.

The men engaged about the funeral lifted the poor ragged creature up. A mere common beggar, they thought; and they were about to call a policeman, and bid him take charge of him; when a lady, who was standing at the dining room window of the house, opened it, and asked what was the matter.

'I don't know, ma'am,' said the undertaker's man; 'but this here gent has fallen down, as I take it, in a fit, or something of the sort. Policeman, hadn't you best get a stretcher and carry him to the workhus or to the hospital?'

'No,' said the lady, 'better bring him in here. Mr. Pearson is in the house and can bleed him, or do what is necessary.'

Upon which the insensible man was carefully lifted and carried by two or three of the men up the steps. At the door of the hall they were met by the lady who had appeared at the window. She was evidently a gentlewoman by her dress and manners. She was arrayed very simply. Her gray hair was folded smoothly under her bonnet-cap; her black silk cloak still hung upon her shoulders; her bonnet rested upon a pole screen in the dining-room. It seemed by this that she was not a regular inhabitant of the house in which she exercised authority. Nothing could be more gentle and kind than the expression of her calm, but firm countenance; but upon it the lines of sorrow, or of years, were deeply traced. She was, evidently, one who had not passed through the world without her own portion of suffering; but she seemed to have suffered herself, only the more intimately to commiserate the suffering of others.

They laid the stranger upon the sofa in the dining room; and, at the lady's desire, sent for Mr. Pearson, who was the house apothecary. Whilst waiting for him, she stood with her eyes fixed upon the face of the stranger; and, as she did so, curiosity, wonder, doubt, conviction, and astonishment were painted in succession upon her face.

Very soon Mr. Pearson appeared, and advised the usual remedy of bleeding. The lady walked to the window, and stood there, watching the proceedings of those without, until the arrangements of a very simple funeral were terminated, and the little procession, which attended the young Ella Winstanley to her untimely grave, gradually moved on, and disappeared at the turning of the street.

The countenance of the lady, as she returned to the sofa, showed that she had been very much moved by the sight.

Having been bled, the stranger opened his eyes; which now, as he lay there, extended upon the sofa, displayed a gloomy, but remarkable beauty—a beauty, however, arising rather from their form and color, than from their expression, which was more painful than interesting. Again the lady fixed her eyes upon his face, and again she shuddered, and half turned away. Pity, disgust, and regret, were mingled in her gesture.

The stranger's eyes followed her, with a dreamy and unsettled look. He seemed to be as mazed with wonder as she was.

She turned again, as if to satisfy her doubts. His eyes met hers; and, as they did so, recollection seemed to be restored.

'Where am I, and what is it?' he muttered.

'You are where you will be taken good care of until you are able to be removed,' said the lady. 'Is there any one you would wish to have sent for?'

The man did not speak.

'Any one you would wish to have sent for?' she repeated.

'No,' he answered.

'Any thing more you would wish to have done?'

"Nothing."

He lay silent for some time, with his eyes still fixed upon her.

At last he said, 'Tell me where I am?'

'Where you are welcome to be until you can gather strength enough to proceed to the place to which you were going when this attack seized you. And that was—?'

'Nowhere. But what house is this?'

'A house only destined for the reception of ladies,' she answered.

'Ladies! what ladies?'

'The sick who have no other home.'

'A house of charity, then?'

'Partly.'

'And that one—that one—that young creture, whose funeral—Do you know her? any thing about her—'

'Yes,' answered the lady, with gravity,' approaching to severity, 'I do know much about her.

'Why—why did she come here?'

'Because she was friendless and deserted; poor, sick and miserable. She had given up what little money she had to supply the wants—perhaps—who knows?—the vices of another. Happily there were found those who would befriend her.'

'And she accepted the charity; she received the alms?'

'She had learned to submit herself to the will of God.'

He shut his teeth together with a something between bitterness and contempt at these last words, and turned his head away.

'You are her father?' said the lady.

'I am—'

'Then you are a very wretched man,' she added.

'Yes,' he replied, I 'am most miserable.

'You are one who have reaped from seeds, which might have produced a rich harvest of happiness, nothing but black and blighted misery."

She spoke with unusual severity, for her soul recoiled at his aspect: she saw nothing in it to soften her feelings of indignation

'I have lived,' he answered.

'How?'

'How! as others of my temper have lived. It was not my fault that I was born with an invincible passion for enjoyment. I did not make myself. If pleasure be but the forerunner of satiety—if life be but a cheat—if delight be but the precursor of misery—a delusion of flattering lies,—I did not arrange the system. Why was virtue made so hard, and self-indulgence so enticing? I did not contrive the scheme.'

'Such excuses,' the lady replied, 'the honest consciousness within us rejects; such as your own inner conscience at the very moment you utter them disclaims. She who is gone—a broken-hearted victim of another's errors—hoped better things when she exhausted almost her last breath in prayers for you.'

'Prayers!' in a tone that spoke volumes.

'Yes, prayers.'

'What is become of my other daughter?—I want to go to her.'

'She died, I believe, about twelve months ago.'

'Then I am alone in the world?'

'You have no children now.'

'Are you going to turn me ont into the street?' he suddenly asked, after a short silence.

'The rules of this house—which is dedicated to the assistance of sick and helpless women—will not admit of your remaining.'

'I am going. You will hear of me next as one past recovery; picked up out of some kennel by the police. You would have done better not to have restored me. I should have died quietly.'

'But without repentance.'

'Repentance!' he said fiercely. 'Repent while my whole soul is writhing with agony? Ella! Ella! if I could only have kept my Ella, she would have tended me—she would have soothed me—she would have worked for me.'

'Yes,' said the lady, 'she would have done this, and much more—but God has taken her; has rescued her from your heartless selfishness.' To herself she added—for her heart was glowing with indignation—'Even in this supreme moment he thinks of nothing but of himself.'

'She would have been more gentle with me than you are,' he said, with a half reproachful sigh.

'Yes, yes—she would have felt only for you—I happen to feel for her.'

'Which I never did.'

'Never—'

'You say true,' said he, musing.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

---

Racked by Innumerable Pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to Phosphorus and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in Puttner's Emulsion, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other Lung troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—Consumption.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 14.

To Advertisers.

The Intelligencer has long been the best advertising medium in Central Ontario, having not only the largest bona fide subscription list of any newspaper in the district, but also the best class of subscribers.

THE DAILY

has of late largely increased in circulation, our regular issue being now 1,000 copies, and on Saturdays from 1,100 to 1,300 copies. The paper circulates not only in Belleville, but in all the towns and villages hereabouts, and, by its sale on the streets, is read by a large number of farmers in the surrounding townships.

THE WEEKLY

has now a larger circulation than ever before, nearly 3,000 copies, and is rapidly adding to that number.

No other newspapers in the Bay district can offer such advantages to advertisers as do the Daily and Weekly Intelligencer. Our rates are very low, the number and class of regular readers being taken into account.

Miss Clara VanAllan has returned home for the holidays from Prof. Whish's Musical Academy.

The Sabbath School in the M. E. Church, Canifton, will hold their annual Christmas concert on Friday the 23d, at 7 p.m. Admission 10cts.

The Globe has it that Mr. Robertson retired from the Mayoralty to accept the City Clerkship, instead of from the contest for the Mayoralty.

Rev. J. G. Black, of Montreal, who last evening addressed the missionary meeting in John St. Presyterian Church, will preach in the same church this evening.

Henry Richards was tried at the Police Court this morning for stealing a bundle of clothing from a fellow-tramp named John Johnston. He was discharged.

The "Oka" Lacrosse club met at Hambly's last night and decided to give a concert on the evening of the 9th of January. They also decided to visit Picton and repeat the concert there.

A new Secretary of the School Board was not appointed last night. He will probably be appointed at the next meeting of the Board. Mr. Crozier has not yet submitted his resignation.

At the meeting of the School Management Committee, held last night after the adjournment of the Board of Education, Mr. I. Diamond was elected Chairman in place of the late Mr. Newbery.

A pertinent suggestion as to the location of steel or iron works, or both, provided the railway track is removed to the west side of the river, is made by Hon. Mr. Flint in a letter which appears in another column.

A Surprise party was held at the M. E. Parsonage, Canifton, on Saturday evening, 10th inst., to replace the buggy stolen from the minister, Rev. E. A. Sanderson, last August. Cash to the amount of about $100 was contributed.

The returning officers and polling-places for the election of school trustees were appointed last night by the Board of Education. The list will be found in our report of the proceedings of the Board. The nominations will take place on Wednesday the 28th inst. and the election on Wednesday, Jan. 4th.

The vital statistics for the month of November, as registered are as follows:—Births 6; marriages, 16; deaths, 4. The registrations for last month are of course incomplete, owing to the prolonged illness of the late Clerk.

At the Chancery sale in Morton vs Ponton at the Master's office yesterday, Mr. W. N. Ponton purchased both parcels offered, embracing the cricket field south of Dundas Street and the Bonter Lot on Pinnacle, Wharf and Front Streets.

Mrs. Bonar, opposite the ferry landing, and Mrs. Schuster, Everett St., near the new Christ Church, will thankfully receive any present of useful articles for the children of the City Mission Sabbath School, which will be presented to them on Monday evening (D.V.) at the Christmas festival in the City Hall.

Mr. Geo. S. Perks, late G. J. R. station agent here, has been appointed to permantly represent the Grand Junction Railway in the office of the Auditor of the Amalgamated Company at Peterborough. It is probable that Mr. Geo. R. Healy, who has been acting as agent here, pro tem, will be permantly appointed to the position.

Another regular meeting of the City Council cannot be held before the 26th inst.—the day which will be celebrated as Christmas Day—and consequently the Mayor cannot be authorized to issue a proclamation as to the observance of Monday as a public holiday instead of Sunday—unless, indeed, a special meeting is called for that purpose.

A very successful parlor concert was held last evening at the residence of Mr. A. L. Geen, West Bridge St., in aid of St. John's Church. The attendance, considering the threatening state of the weather, was large and select, and the programme was ably and pleasingly carried out. The financial results of the evening were much better than was anticipated.

It may not be generally understood that the appointment of High School Trustees is not now made at the first meeting of the new Municipal Council, but at the last meeting of the old Council. This change will be found in Section 14, Chap. XXX., 44 Vic., passed by the Ontario Legislature at the last session. The fact should not be lost sight of by the members of the present City Council, who will have the rare privilege of appointing two sets of Trustees.

The subject of the debate at the weekly meeting of the Sons of St. Patrick last evening was, "Resolved, that the Senate, as at present constituted, should be abolished." After an exhaustive and able discussion, in which a good many urgent and powerful arguments were adduced on both sides, the decision was given in favor of the affirmative. The weekly meetings of this association are growing more and more interesting, and are very well attended.

The Ottawa Free Press of yesterday speaks thus of the representation of "Rooms for Rent," which was performed in that city on Monday evening, and which will be presented in the Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening next:—"A large audience witnessed the production of "Rooms for Rent" at the Grand Opera House last evening, and were highly delighted with both the comedy and the excellent manner in which it was presented. The company is a first-class one, while the play is intensely amusing, being full of the most ludicrous situations from beginning to end. Laughter was continuous and applause frequent, everyone present being apparently delighted."

The admission fee to the entertainment which is to be held in the City Hall to-morrow evening under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Association is only ten cents, to defray necessary expenses. The following excellent programme has been prepared:—

1 Address, The President.
2 Piano Duet, Messrs. H. Oldam and J. A. Stanistreet.
3 Recitation, Mr. W. R. Carmichael.
4 Song, Miss O'Carroll.
5 Address, Mr. J. W. Johnson.
6 Piano Solo, Mr. H. Oldham.
7 Reading, Miss Fones.
8 Song, Mrs. J. P. Thomas.
9 Address, Mr. J. J. B. Flint.
10 Song, Mr. Fetherstone.
11 Reading, Mr. J. L. Lewis.
12 Song, Mr. J. S. McMurray.
13 Song, Miss Dulmage.
God Save the Queen!

Two or three days ago a ferocious looking man in a rubber coat, and with a huge, murderous looking knife in his hand, knocked savagely at the door of a house on Forin St. The feminine inmates of the house were, of course, dreadfully frightened, and screamed, and ran about frantically, and locked all the doors in the house. The ferocious looking individual went to every door in succession and pounded on the panels with the handle of his great knife, but, not being able to obtain admission, he slowly withdrew. "Evil news rides fast," and it was not long before the incident, greatly enlarged and improved as it was circulated, was being eagerly discussed by all women in the neighborhood. As a matter of course it worked on their imaginations, and now stories of men in rubber coats, brandishing bowie-knives in their hands, chasing unprotected women after dark, are commonly discussed and implicitly believed. Nearly every woman that is out after dark now shrinks within herself at the sound of an approaching footstep, and if she catches a glimpse of a rubber coat by the light of a gas-lamp she screams and runs for her life. As in nearly all such matters, a little investigations proves that there is no ground for these fears. The ferocious looking man who wished to get into the house on Forin St. was a knife-grinder, and the knife he carried was merely a specimen of his skill.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. '4—Lakes, fresh to strong westerly to north westerly winds, colder, cloudy, followed by fair weather.

Obituary.—We regret to record the death of Miss Bessie Ann Stokes, which sad event took place at her mother's residence, near Thomasburg, on the 12th inst. The deceased was well known throughout the County of Hastings, and her death will cause deep regret amongst a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

Missionary Meeting.

The annual missionary meeting was held last evening in the John St. Presbyterian Church, and, considering the disagreeable state of the weather, was fairly attended. Thos. Ritchie, Esq., occupied the chair.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Williams leading in prayer.

The Chairman, in a brief and forcible speech, elucidated the proposition that a church which embodied the spirit of Christianity, must be a missionary church.

Rev. D. Mitchell read the financial statement, which showed that during the past year this church had raised for the missionary and benevolent institutions of the church $783. A new method, he said, had been adopted for raising these funds, and he expected that during the current year they would not be behind other years. He believed that when a congregation gave liberally towards missionary work abroad, it would have no difficulty in its own financial affairs.

Rev. Mr. McLean said that missionary work was in accordance with the command of Christ, who laid down the rule that a church would be prosperous in the same degree as it was missionary in spirit. The rev. gentleman dwelt especially on the Home Mission work. The field of Home missions, he said, extended from Newfoundland to British Columbia, and was divided into Eastern and Western sections. In the western Section 94 stations which were not self-sustaining received aid from the Home mission Fund, 114 missions were sustained by it, and 155 missionaries were employed. The estimated expenses for this year were $40,000. He then gave a detailed account of the result of these efforts in Ontario and Quebec and in Manitoba, which were very satisfactory, the growth of the church in Manitoba being shown to be very rapid. The field for Home Mission work was extending, and he urged all to give the work their hearty sympathy, and to heartily co-operate with those actively engaged in it.

Rev. J. T. Black, of Montreal, said the church had done much in spreading Christianity, yet it seemed to him that they had only been playing at missions. The heathens were stretching out their hands for the light of the Gospel, and, as God had been pleased to make giving a part of the machinery of evangelizing the world, it depended on us how soon they would receive it. There was only one missionary, European and native, to every 21,000 heathens. The church evidently needed an awakening. Two things were necessary—everyone to give, and those who could give largely to do it. He gave some striking illustrations of the effect of the Gospel upon cannibals, and dwelt upon the wonderful results of the missionary work in the Province of Quebec. He strongly urged all to do their part in the work, and God would send them contributions to do the work He had in store for them.

Mr. A. G. Northrup stated that he had received nearly $300 since the meeting of the Assembly for the missionary and benevolent causes of the church.

The thanks of the meeting were then tendered to the speakers and the choir, the Rev. Mr. Burns pronounced the benediction, and the meeting dispersed.

The America's Cup Races.

At the meeting of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, held last night, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Moved by W. H. Campbell, seconded by S. A. Spangenberg, that this Club deem it proper to record their appreciation of the courtesy shown by the New York Yacht Club in twice, at their request, extending the time set for the match for the America's cup, and also of the fair and sportsman-like manner in which the match was conducted throughout.

The Woman's Christian Association desires to place on record its sense of the loss sustained by it in the removal by death of the late Robert Newbery, Esq., City Clerk.

Always courteous and obliging, the Association remembers with gratitude his many kindnesses, the interest he manifested in its work, and the practical help he so frequently rendered to it.

The Association desires also to express its deep sympathy with the bereaved family, and prayerfully commend its members to the loving care of Him who is the orphan's shield and the widow's stay.

By order,

J. McKinnon,
Cor. Sec. W. C. A.

The Late Dairy Markets.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1881.

Cheese.—The closing market of the season took place to-day, but there was very little business done. Quite a number of factory-men who still have cheese to sell are unwilling to send on any until their entire make is cured and ready to go. Then they will ship it all at once, and can sell it to better advantage than to send it forward in small lots. Cheese in this section is off unusually close for the end of the season, and with three or four exceptions none of our factories have any stock back of November. We understand, however, that in the northern counties there are factories which still hold their make as far back as July. There seems to be an idea current that this stock is going to be worth more money than at present. On the other hand, among cheese dealers it is a question whether the stock already bought is going to pay for holding, so uncertain, and evenly balanced do the chances seem to be. The sales of to-day are unimportant and comprise only a few Novembers which were sold at 11 to 11½c.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Kiss me.—"Teaberry," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try 5 cent sample.

Respect—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

New York, Dec. 14.—The Sun says that ex-Minister Christiancy openly questions the accuracy of the correspondence regarding the Chili and Peru difficulty made public by the State Department. A letter to Christiancy, as published, contains the following:—"In your last despatch you informed this Department that the Chilian Government refused absolutely to recognize Pierola as representing the civil authority in Peru, and that Calderon was at the head of the provisional Government." Christiancy says that no such paragraph was ever received by him. He furnished no such information, he says, nor did the State Department ever intimate to him that he had furnished such information. Christiancy also says that he was practically instructed by the State Department to recognize the Calderon Government, although such action was against his judgment and against his despatches to the State Department.

The World says that the exchange of opinion among the members of both Houses yesterday, resulted in an agreement that the holiday recess begin on Wednesday or Thursday of next week, and last until the first Tourdsay of the new year.

REMOVING POLITICAL DISABILITIES.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 14.—It is stated that a Bill will soon be introduced in the Legislature removing the political disabilities of persons engaged in duelling during the recent canvass. Among those alleged to be so disqualified are one or more of the State officials. Riddle Berger, a Congressman; Wise, Governor; Payne, a prominent Democrat, and Elam, editor of the Whig. Besides these principals there are a number of seconds.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Pleasant Valley, Pa., Dec. 14.—A slate-picker named Clifford, aged 12 was caught in a coal breaker yesterday and horribly mangled. It took two hours after the machinery was stopped to release him. The boy was conscious the whole time and died in a few hours.

New York, Dec. 14.—Arrived, the Canada from London, the Lake Manitoba from Liverpool, the Somerset from Bristol, and the Switzerland from Antwerp.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

RAILWAY FREIGHT RATES.

New York, Dec. 14.—Vanderbilt says the other trunk line Presidents have refused his proposal to leave the freight rates to arbitration. The agreement of the freight agents on Monday, which Vanderbilt rejected, contemplated the adoption on the 6th of October a rate from New York to Chicago by all the lines; but allowed the former differences in favor of the Philadelphia and Baltimore. Vanderbilt suggests that the business men, boards of trade, and chambers of commerce discuss the question of differential rates before the arbiter, and that he decide what, if any, difference exists.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S PRIVATE SECRETARY.

The Sun says that Fredrick J. Phillips, who has been acting as private Secretary to the President for some time, has been permanently appointed to that position.

FATAL FALL.

Glenburn, Pa., Dec. 14.—Mr. Crandall and wife, on their way home on Monday night, fell into a deep railroad cut. Crandall was crushed into a shapeless mass. His wife was not seriously injured.

ANOTHER ARREST.

Dublin, Dec. 14.—Kelly, a Town Councillor of Tralee, was arrested yesterday after leaving a meeting in aid of suspects of the maintenance fund. The charge against him is intimidation. Kelly was previously imprisoned for holding a land league court at his house.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Pains and Griping in Children!

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

The finest stables and stock farms of the whole country, such as those of Mr. Calvin M. Priest, of New York; Mr. Mike Goodin, of Belmont Park, Pa.; Aristides Welsh, Esq., of Erdenheim, near Philadelphia, and others we could name, are always provided with St. Jacobs Oil,—the horse's best physician.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Bronchitis.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after excrise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Cruelty to animals

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

Intelligencer Office,
Belleville, Dec. 14, 1881.

There is little change to note in the grain market during the past few days. The receipts of barley have been light with no change to quote except an increased anxiety with dealers to purchase a strictly bright grade, which sold yesterday up to 82c., but 80c. is as high as it is generally sold at.

Rye is steady at 78c.

Oats are several cents lower, 42c. being the highest price obtainable.

Wheat and peas are both in good demand at our quotations.

Dressed hogs are weaker at $7.50 per 100 lbs for the best.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

Surprise Party and Presentation.

On Thursday evening the 8th inst., about 50 ladies and gentlemen, from the village of Plainfield and vicinity met at the residence of the Rev. J. Kilgour, Methodist Minister, Canifton, for the purpose of a surprise party. They were prepared with their well filled baskets for a bountiful spread, which the Ladies soon displayed. When the spread was ready the Rev. gentleman was at the Town Hall attending a social, (which by the way was a success). A messenger was sent for him and the Rev. Mr. Leggate. On their arrival Mr. Kilgour was presented with the following address.

TO THE REV. J. KILGOUR:

We, the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity have met together to-night for the purpose of expressing our appreciations of your services as a Christian Minister. We honor you for your honesty and integrity as a Messenger of Christ. We pray that you may ever walk uprightly and that God may bless and prosper you in your labors, and that your health and life may be long preserved; that you may be a blessing to the community wherever your lot may be cast. We also wish to express our esteem for your estimable lady, believing as we do that she is worthy of our confidence. We ask you to accept this parcel as a small token of our regard for you. Also that you will accept this purse for Mrs. Kilgour, and may you ever remember us, and may the bonds of friendship that now exists between us never be broken.

The rev. gentleman showed his surprise in his reply, which was full of feeling and to the purpose, after which Mr. Kilgour called for Rev. Mr. Leggate. On his coming forward, Mr. Kilgour presented him with a small purse, to which presentation he very affectionately replied. A demand was made to open the parcel, and it being opened it was found to contain a very beautiful and substantial set of single harness, manufactured by Mr. Davis, of Belleville, valued at $40. After the harness was inspected, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kilgour, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, from Thurlow, and Mr. Leggate, also Mr. and Miss Foster, were invited to partake of the sumptuous tea provided by the ladies. After tea was over the rev. gentlemen were allowed to return to the social. The company dispersed about 10 o'clock.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

Mr. John Yott and E. B. Herman skated across the bay opposite to Rednerville on Sunday last. The Mary Ethel was the Queen of the bay on Monday, no other boat running, and deserves the name of Varuna, which means Queen of the Sea.

Rossmore, Dempsey's, Bush's and Roblin's Mills, intend having Xmas trees, while the people at Rednerville offer a concert, social and autograph quilt on the 29th inst.

The Masonic Lodge at the Mills purpose holding (in memory of St. John the Evangelist) on the 27th Dec., a grand oyster supper. Our square and compass friends have been very successful in the past with their suppers and this will doubtless be no exception to the rule.

The grange have not yet decided about holding their annual feast. Refusing 95 cents for barley should make no difference.

The Council, Philip Roblin Treasurer, T. & B Q. N. Co. Jas. H. Peck Secretary T. & B. Q. N. Co. W. G. Stafford Director and Jas. W. Anderson Manager, have received invitations from the City Council at Belleville, to meet them on Tuesday, be their guests and discuss the ferry question. This place which has always paid about nine tenths of the ferry tolls will have nothing to say on the subject.

The Norman horse "Romulus" bought this spring by Messrs. Morden, Sprague & Co. of Mr. Dunham Wayne, Illinois, U. S., has been purchased by two of the partners, Ed. Brickman and J. B. Morden.

Farmers are having their clover threshed. The yield is good. Mr. Cyrus Niles it is reported will have upwards of 90 bus.

Sabbath School work continues to prosper. Rev. Mr. Scales offered a copy of the revised version of the New Testament some months ago to the different schools at his appointment for the scholar committing most to memory from the No. 2 Catechism on Sunday last. The Centre Church School was reviewed by the Pastor, who spoke of it in very flattering terms to the members present. Miss Sarah Morrice was best in the high Catechism and was awarded the Pastor's prize for over 58 marks. Miss Mary A. Peters took the schools prize on the No. 1 by 82 marks. With such an efficient Superintendent as Mr. Lewis Redner, together with an earnest and ambitious set of officers and teachers, whose labors already show the interest they feel in the work it is not to be wondered at that the Centre should by classed among the foremost schools of the township.

SHIPMENTS FROM REDNERVILLE.—The following is a statement of the shipments from the port of Rednerville for the season of 1881: From Jas. Redner's storehouse: Wheat, 1,475 bus.; Rye, 1,150 bus.; Barley, 37,100 bus. From E. C. Ketcheson's storehouse: Dried Apples, 250 bus.; Eggs, 60,000 doz.; Cheese, 2,922 boxes; Butter, 35 kegs; Apples, 2,795 bbls.; besides some hogs, horses, and cattle.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world; for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle, 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,
C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.
MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

SOME WHO TRY TO ESCAPE ARE SHOT.

HALIFAX, Dec 13.—Some time last summer a Mr. Robinson, who was said to represent Wells, Fargo & Co., of New York, engaged a number of young men in and about Halifax to go to Mexico to work in silver mines. Some of the men have since written to their friends here stating that the Company have not treated them right all the way through and it appears from the letters received that whenever any of them have attempted to leave the mine they have been arrested and detained. Recent letters state that a part of these young men, who had left in a body, had been surrounded by Mexicans and forced back to the mines. In the fracas several of the escaping party were shot, some fatally.

A Horse Returns to His Early Home.

A horse raised in Norwich, Vt., but used for family purposes in this city for several years, was recently sold to a party in Oxford, N. H. In taking him from the waggon one evening he slipped away from his owner and disappeared, going at a high rate of speed. A diligent search in the morning on all roads for a circuit of several miles failed to reveal any trace of the animal. A despatch was received during the day by his former master in this city, asking if the horse had made his appearance here, in reply to which the owner was directed to enquire at Norwich. The horse was found there, and the owner was told that the animal made his appearance in the place at 3 o'clock in the morning, after his escape from Orford, having in six hours crossed the Connecticut River and travelled twenty-seven miles in the darkness over a road he had not seen since he was a three-year-old colt. To make this distance in the time mentioned he must have avoided all cross roads and without delay gone by the regular route.—Manchester (N. H.) Mirror.

A Hen that Sang.

A novel case was heard before 'Squire Wilson, of East Nottingham township, Chester County, Pa., recently. Last spring a farmer of East Nottingham had thirty chickens stolen. Summer wore away, but no traces of the lost fowls. A few days ago the chicken owner visited a farmer in the same township, and while looking at the fowls on the premises saw a hen which he thought resembled one of the number stolen from him. He enquired how the farmer obtained it, when a conversation followed, and concluded by the poultry owner saying, "If that chicken comes to me when I call her by name she is mine." This was agreed to. "Annie, Annie," called the owner, and sure enough the hen came to him. "Jump upon my hand." Up jumped Annie. "Now sing for a grain of corn, Annie," called the owner. The pretty little hen immediately began to sing in her fowlish style a solo which fully convinced the two men to whom she rightfully belonged. The thief and pet chicken were brought before the 'Squire, who heard the story and Annie's solo and sentenced the thief.—Reading News.

Frauds Upon the Revenue

THE RECENT SEIZURE OF FURS AND SPIRITS IN MOTREAL.

(From the Mail's Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—The recent seizures in Montreal, of which you have heard certain details from other sources, are attracting considerable attention in business circles, owing, no doubt, to the fact that some peculiar points bearing on the interpretation and meaning of the law are involved. As deputations of the interested parties were here to-day, and had an interview with the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, I am now in a position to state the facts. The first deputation was headed by Mr. McMaster, M. P. P., who was accompanied by Messrs. Cowan & McLean. The purpose of their visit to the Minister was to explain matters in connection with the recent seizure of furs. As your readers are already aware, a certain shipment of furs was seized by the Montreal Customs officials on the ground that they were not properly entered. It appears that there are three classes of furs, namely, the raw furs, the fur simply cured so as to stand transportation, and the manufactured fur. Now it appears that it has been the custom in Russia or other countries from which importations of our fur came to prepare the furs for transportation in a simple and primitive way, yet when so prepared it could not be said that they were manufactured; they were merely prepared to keep. A certain Mr. Levy, acting as representatives of the Montreal furriers, has been in the habit of buying the furs so prepared from the Russian peasants. He, however, did not like the long delay that took place in preparing the articles for transportation, and accordingly he introduced an improved system, and a much more speedy one, but in carrying it out it was found necessary to use the scraping-knife, and thus partially put the skin through the manufacturing process. Therefore, in view of the law which says that the raw furs must not be in any manner dressed, the shipment in dispute, valued at about $10,000, was taken possession of. The deputation contended that the furs were in no way manufactured, but merely cured for the purpose of being sent abroad. The question is one of too much importance to the trade to be decided off-hand, but in order that the importers—who were no doubt acting in good faith—might not lose the fall and winter trade, the Minister decided to release the furs on security being given to the Government to the amount of the invoice.

CUSTOMS FRAUDS

The second deputation that waited upon the Minister of Customs to-day had a matter of a more peculiar character to talk about. It appears that some time ago Messrs Hulback, Smith & Co., of Montreal, had consigned to them from Bremen by the steamship Atalanta an invoice made up of what purported to be vinegar, felt shoes, cloths, and empty vinegar demijohns. The latter were brought under order for certain vinegar works in Montreal. There were in the invoice nearly 2,000 demijohns, said to be filled with vinegar. Through stress of weather the Atalanta was forced to put into New York instead of holding on her course to Montreal, which was her destination. The cargo was unshipped at New York and sent on to Montreal in bond. Now here is where the interesting fact of the narrative comes in. A Custom-house broker was employed to clear the goods, but while he was engaged in the work the officials received information to the effect that all was not right. On hearing that suspicion had been aroused, Mr. Smith went to the collector and made a clean breast of it. He owned up that instead of the 2,000 demijohns being filled with vinegar no less than 402 of them contained spirits, though he had through his broker made the entry as being entirely vinegar. The result was that the whole invoice was placed under seizure. Nor is that all, Mr. Smith admitted to the Minister that this was not his first offence, he having last year brought in a lot of brandy in a similar way. The object of Smith's visit to the Minister was to procure the release of the furs and other goods on the ground that a firm in Quebec had made advances to the full value of the articles. The empty demijohns were also paid for in advance by the Montreal firms for whom they were brought out, and Smith asks to have them released also. The question of releasing these goods has not yet been decided upon. As to the vinegar and its more potent companion from across the seas, they have been absolutely confiscated. The next question is as to whether Smith and the broker shall or shall not be criminally proceeded against for making a fraudulent entry. Under any circumstances the Minister is determined to do everything in his power to crush this sort of thing out, even if he has to resort to extreme means.

N. P. Notes.

SOME ITEMS FROM OUR GRIT EXCHANGES.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

Accounts up to to-day show that the Stormont Cotton Mills, the dimensions, capacity and general particulars of which were given in the Witness a short time ago, are now all but completed. The larger portion of the machinery has been placed, the remainder is being put up, and the whole will be in running order within a few weeks. The Hudon mills at Hochelaga with their recent extensive additions and improvements, may be said to be fully running. A visit to the factory shows the new machinery to be nearly all in full operation. The new boiler house, containing six steel boilers made by Messrs. John McDougall & Co., Montreal, are said by competent experts to be among the finest on the American Continent. The Company have now twelve first-class boilers, giving more than sufficient power to run the two magnificent engines with which the establishment is furnished. It is now 810 feet in length, and numbers 80,000 spindles.

The Valleyfield mills, too, keep pace with the rest in the march of improvement. Extensive additions have for some time been in progress, and their approaching completion within the next week or two will mark an era in the history of these pioneer mills of this Province. The Company have erected a number of new and substantial tenement cottages for the use of the employees, similar to those built by the Hudon Company at Hochelaga. In this connection it may be stated that the latter Company, in addition to the cottages built by them some months ago, have just completed the erection of a number more, the whole forming a picturesque terrace, furnishing convenient accommodation for over forty families.

At Halifax and Windsor, N. S., St. Stephen and St. John, N. B., and Kingston and Hamilton, Ont., a mill, each of large capacity, is being erected, not to recur again to the neighboring one at St. Henri.

(From the Globe.)

A large addition to the Rosamond mills, Almonte, is now completed, and is designed for the manufacture of worsteds, yarns, serges, coatings, etc., the only factory of the kind in Canada. The worsted factory has been now some months in operation, and there is no difficulty in selling all that it can produce.

A building formerly used for a furniture factory is being now fitted up by Messrs. W. Wylie & Co. for the manufacture of shawls. It will be put in operation in January with one set of machinery, but preparation is being made to shortly increase to three sets, thus developing its capacity three-fold.

Last but not least of these active and budding industries in woollen manufacture is to be a knitting mill, for which an association of capitalists has just been formed, and has made application for a charter, with a capital stock of $50,000. Mr. Bennett Rosamond is the principal promoter, and is associated with several Montreal capitalists in the undertaking.

How Mr. Gould was Murdered.

Lefroy made five different confessions as to the manner in which he murdered Mr. Gould on the Brighton Railway, but there is reason to believe, says the Pall Mall Gazette, that the following account is the true one: He denies altogether that he entered the compartment in which he killed Mr. Gould at the London Bridge Station. He states that he took a seat in a carriage in which there was another passenger sitting by himself, and he was strongly tempted to murder him, but he refrained from carrying out his intention. On the arrival of the train at Croydon he left this compartment and got into the one in which Mr. Gould had taken a place. He had a short conversation with his victim, when Mr. Gould reposed himself in his seat as if to doze. While stretching himself out he took a handkerchief from his pocket, and accidentally pulled out his purse, which fell on the floor of the carriage. Mr. Gould did not hear the purse fall, and, placing the covering over his face, prepared for sleep. It instantly occurred to Lefroy to take out his own pocket handkerchief, throw it over the purse, and then, under pretence of picking up the handkerchief, to steal it. The noise which he made in doing so aroused Mr. Gold, who instantly started up, exclaiming, "You scoundrel, do you want to rob me?" and hit straight out at Lefroy, who was hurled from one side of the carriage to the other. One effect of the blow was to open Lefroy's coat, and while he was getting up Mr. Gold saw the butt end of the pistol projecting out of the inside breast coat pocket. Directly he discovered that Lefroy was armed, he shouted out, "You villain, is it murder as well as robbery you mean?"—or words much to that effect. Rushing at Lefroy he snatched the pistol out of his coat pocket, and fired at him twice. Neither shot struck Lefroy, who managed to close with his assailant and regain the weapon. He immediately fired two shots at Mr. Gold. He believes the first of these struck the carriage near the bell pull, and the second inflicted the wound in Mr. Gold's neck. Then commenced the desperate struggle for life which was seen by the witnesses at Horley. It is declared by Lefroy that directly after he had shot Mr. Gold that gentleman did not fall to the ground insensible, but he had strength enough to seize the pistol and deal his murderer a blow or two on the head, causing the wounds which were afterwards dressed by the Brighton surgeon. While the struggle was going on the two men had rolled up the door of the carriage. With such vigor did the old man fight for his life that he pressed Lefroy against the door with one hand at his throat while he pulled out a pocket-knife with the other, and even opened the blade with his teeth. This effort, however, and the loss of blood from his wound had exhausted him, and Lefroy succeeded in taking the knife away and then cutting and hacking his neck and face. Lefroy afterwards pitched the unfortunate man on to the rails, where his body was found.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their food. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N. S.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existance to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world; for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

NOTICE.

AN Application will be made to the Legislature of Ontario at the next sittings thereof, by the Women's Christian Association of Belleville, for an Act authorizing the Crown to convey the Lots in the City of Belleville on Church and Hotel Streets, known as the Hospital Lot, to Trustees; to be sold and to apply the proceeds towards the payment of the purchase money for the Lots purchased by the Women's Christian Association of Belleville for an Hospital and Home for the Friendless for the said City, and towards the erection of the building required for said Hospital and Home for the Friendless, and the furnishing thereof, under such direction and control as the said Legislature may in their judgment deem best, and as shall be stated in said Act.

THE MAYORALTY.

A MEETING of the friends and supporters of Ald. N. Lingham in his candidacy for the Mayoralty of the City of Belleville for 1882, will be held in the large hall in the INTELLIGENCER building on for the purpose of organizing for the campaign.

Monday Evening, Dec. 19th. at 7:30 p. m.

An invitation is extended to every elector who desires to assist in the canvass.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, DEC. 15.

The Mayoralty.

Our local contemporary claims support for Mr. St. Charles on the ground that he has had a longer experience in the Municipal Council than Mr. Lingham has had. This is an error, as both gentlemen were elected in the same year. It is on Mr. Lingham's side that the advantage as to experience lies, he having been a member of the County Council and Thurlow Township Council before his election to the then Town Council of Belleville.

Mr. Lingham is canvassing actively, and has so far met with a highly favorable reception from the electors.

A meeting of Mr. Lingham's friends and supporters will be held in the large hall in the INTELLIGENCER building on Monday evening next at 7:30. All who wish to assist in the canvass are invited.

Shipments of Grain.

The following is the customs statement of grain exported from the port of Belleville from December 1st, 1880, to November 30, 1881, inclusive:

| | Bus. | Value. |
|---|---|---|
| Barley | 589,753 | $573,035 |
| Rye | 127,640 | 127,299 |
| Peas | 4,862 | 4,234 |
| Totals | 722,255 | $704,568 |

The above statement does not include grain shipped coastwise to Kingston, Montreal, Windsor and Toronto.

We are indebted to Mr. Webster for his courtesy in promptly furnishing the above statement, which is of a highly satisfactory character, the amount and value of grain shipped from the port of Belleville during the season to foreign ports having been the largest in the history of the port.

The Harbor Master's return, which includes only grain shipped from Belleville harbor by water, is as follows:

|---|---|
| Barley | 428,939 |
| Rye | 162,864 |
| Peas | 85,271 |
| Wheat | 19,562 |
| Total | 696,636 |
| Shipments in 1880 | 598,583 |
| Increase | 98,053 |

The amount of grain shipped coastwise thus—taking it for granted that all the grain shipped from the outports was sent to foreign ports—must have amounted to upwards of 120,000, thus swelling the total exports to about 850,000 bushels.

The shipments of barley alone, as returned by the Customs, exceed by 3,187 bushels the shipments of all kinds of grain from the port last season.

Mr. Mackenzie and East York.

A few days ago, as our readers are aware, the Grits of East York, having apparently no hope of success in the next election for the Commons in that constituency, unless some prominent member of the party can be secured as their standard bearer, tendered the nomination to Mr. Mackenzie, their dethroned leader. The hon. gentleman "hummed" and "hawed," and promised the deputation an answer at a future date, and now speculations are being indulged in as to whether Mr. Mackenzie will accept the nomination and as to his chances of success in case he does so. The Grits are boasting loudly in advance, but the Newmarket Era, a Reform journal, does not hold out very high hopes. It cautions its too-enthusiastic friends as follows:

"We observe it is stated in some of our western exchanges that should Mr. Mackenzie definitely decide to contest East York, the constituency will be "redeemed." Possibly—and possibly not. It won't do to count very decidedly before the contest is over. Down in Quebec last week, a general election was held. Just such predictions were indulged in by leading liberal papers anent the Chapleau Government; it was sure to go by the board, they thought, and if not totally demoralized, would be so wrecked as not to exist save by forming a coalition. But the day of trial came and the political prophets now see they made a sorry mess of their prophesying business. Possibly Mr. Mackenzie may be able to win East York; and useless special opposition be given, it is more than likely he would; but it is also quite possible that with a slight change in the boundaries of the Riding, and the strong vote Mr. Boultbee will be able to command from the mechanics and business men residing all along the borders of the city, opposed to the Globe's free trade theories, that he might prove more than a match for the ex-Premier. No matter which way our party sympathies may run, we must look at things as we find them, and should not allow prejudice to blind the evidence of existing facts. Further, it is strongly hinted that in the event of Mr. Mackenzie accepting the nomination tendered, that Mr. Boultbee will be asked to give place to the Premier or some other prominent conservative—in which case strong political feeling and various election influences would be imported into the contest, making it impossible to predict the result with any degree of certainty."

Editorial Brevities.

Mr. Crooks, as Minister of Education, in view probably of the recent discussion regarding high pressure in the public schools, has taken steps to ascertain how far the system of "cramming" is carried on. He has issued a circular to the Inspectors asking for information on the subject, and desiring answers under the following heads: 1st, the number of Elementary schools; 2nd, the number in which local examinations were held; 3rd, the number of times held in 1880; 4th, the number of pupils in reading, writing and arithmetic; 5th, specifications of all other subjects and the numbers therein; 6th, the classes of pupils, the number in each class; 7th, ages of pupils, 7 to 10 inclusive, and 11 to 14 inclusive; 8th, number examined; 9th, number passed; 10th, objects or purposes of those examinations and the results obtained.

The chief organ of the free-traders says the Opposition would stultify themselves by allowing the present policy of protection to exist a single day, if they succeed in the election of 1883. Their success, in the face of such a declaration, is removed from the range of possibility.

A good deal has been heard as to the seizures of furs, &c., by the customs authorities in Montreal recently. The reasons for the seizures, as supplied by the Mail's Ottawa correspondent, are given in another column.

The spoils system in the United States seems to be doomed to any early reform if not to merited extinction, as the best men of all parties unite in condemning it. In the Senate on the 13th, Senator Pendleton, one of the Democratic leaders, spoke forcibly on the subject. He argued that the "spoils" system was the real assassin of Garfield; that it was the prolific parent of fraud, corruption, and brutality; that it made the President and the Secretaries peddlers of office, and diverted their time and attention from the wise and faithful discharge of the high duties with which they are charged; that it compelled the degradation of public men and the public service.

Ex President Hayes will sail for Europe a week or two hence. Mr. Hayes will not be welcomed in the same manner as was General Grant, for the reason that he is not remarkable for any great qualities of head or heart, but only as the first defeated candidate for the high office of President of the United States who ever occupied that position, or who will ever do so, at least so long as the elective system continues.

COLEMAN WARD SCHOOL.

A Substantial and Tasty Building, and Commodious and Well-Appointed School Rooms.

A valuable addition to the school buildings of the city is the new red-brick schoolhouse in Coleman Ward, which is just being completed. It is situated on Grier St., a short distance south of Albert College. The locality is not very prepossessing, and at first sight one would pronounce it decidedly unhealthy, as the land in the vicinity is marshy and at present mud is the most prominent feature in the landscape. But with a little judicious drainage and street cleaning and other minor improvements, the immediate surroundings of the schoolhouse will be greatly altered for the better. A new sidewalk from Geddes and College Sts. to the school should also be laid down: at present the walk consists of two boards laid in the mud, which make a rather precarious footpath.

As we have said, the schoolhouse is both substantial and ornamental. It stands about fifty feet in from Grier street, and fronts towards the east. The entrances, however, are on the sides—the boys' on the south and the girls' on the north. The building is 67 feet long by 32 feet wide, but there are two large brick porches one on each side, each of which is 8 feet out from the main structure and 12 feet in width. The exterior ornamentation of the building is very pleasing. The red brick walls are set off with tasty white brick ornaments; all the window sills are of cut stone; the window sashes are painted a very dark red, and the roof is surmounted with an iron cresting of pleasing design. The interior of the structure fully bears out the favorable impression created by the external appearance. The building is divided into two large class-rooms and two small ante-rooms or cloak-rooms at the two entrances, one for the boys and one for the girls. Both the class-rooms are large, airy, well-lighted and cheerful rooms. The one at the east end is the larger of the two and is intended for the primary division. It is 29x28 feet, and 18 feet in height—the ceiling being loftier than that of any other school-house in the city. The western wall is taken up by a long blackboard, made of a peculiar cement, which is set into the wall, and which is said to be superior in some respects to slate for blackboard purposes, while it is much cheaper; there are two windows on each of the other three sides of the room. As these windows are about three feet wide and eight feet in length it can well be believed that there is no lack of light in this room. Special attention has been paid to the ventilation. In the wainscoting of the walls are six apertures covered by a small door which swings inward on hinges and which can be opened or shut at pleasure. The apertures lead into flues constructed in the walls of the building, and the foul air passes up through these in the same way as through the flues of a chimney by means of a fire-place. This principle of ventilation originated with Mr. Jas. Smith, Superintendent of School Buildings, and is a very good one. In addition to these ventilators, there are two top ones in each room, besides dust-ventilators with sashes to lower and raise from the top and bottom. Fan-lights are also placed above all the doors. This room is to be heated by means of a large "Ruttan" tubular wood stove, which is constructed on the principle of a hot-air furnace. Cold air is supplied from a box which is built into the wall, and it is conveyed through the floor into a box in the stove, passes into the tubes, and, becoming heated, is sent into the room through an opening in the top of the stove.

The other class-room, at the western side of the building, will eventually be used for the senior division, but it is not intended to utilize it for some time yet. It is, of course, the same height as the other class-room, but is smaller, being only 29x24 feet. The appointments are all the same as in the room we have described.

One feature of the outside doors of the building deserve special notice, and should be imitated in all schools, and, indeed, in all public buildings. It is, that the doors are double, and are made to swing both inside and outside, after a device invented by Mr. Smith, the Superintendent. The plan insures safety in case of a sudden panic among the pupils.

Considerable energy has been shown in the erection of this schoolhouse. It was commenced only in July last, and it is now very nearly completed. The contractor is Mr. Frank Scantlebury, and the work was done under the supervision of Superintendent Smith.

The large room which has been described will be used after the holidays. A primary class will be taught there by Miss Lizzie Robertson, who will be transferred from the Central School.

Railway Notes.

The Peterborough Review furnishes the following:

It is said that the Midland Railway Company have ordered five of those large and powerful locomotives known as the "Mogul" locomotive.

Now that the amalgamation has been completed, work on the new line on the Grand Junction turning from Downer's corner and crossing the river below the locks, and thence to the main line, will soon have to be commenced.

Mr. Hogg, C. E., and staff have finished the location of the line from Peterborough to Omemee, and in the course of a very short time, affairs will be in a position that the proprietors will be able to ask for tenders for the construction of the much needed "missing link."

It is now rumored that the Canada Pacific Syndicate are negotiating for the purchase of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora railway, with a view of extending it to Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls, crossing and acting as a feeder for the Ontario and Quebec Road, as well as giving the Company an independent outlet at Cobourg.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

QUERY?—Have you seen that big list, with streams of electricity issuing from it, in another column?

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

A VALUABLE COW.—The Winnipeg Sun says:—"The property of Stobart, Eden & Co. on Main street was sold the other day for $85,000. Some few years ago the land on which this block is built and the corner lot adjoining it on which is now built the immense block belonging to Mr. J. H. Ashdown, was offered by the owner for a milch cow."

"I had a fall from a ladder and sprained my wrist so badly," says A. B. Palmer, of Cumberland Court House, VA., "that I lost all use of my arm. I procured a bottle of the St. Jacobs Oil, and, after rubbing my arm with it, I obtained immediate relief. I used it likewise for neuralgia, I find it also effectual for burns, bruises, etc."

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with feed of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for the

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, DEC 15.

City and Vicinity.

The Nova Scotian arrived out to-day.

Two drunks were tried at the Police Court this morning.

Three tramps and two prisoners were in the cells last night.

The charter of the Ontario Steel Company is expected to arrive here this week.

Don't forget—All cordially invited to the Bible Study to-night in Bethel Hall at 7:45.

"Rooms for Rent" should draw a large audience to the Metropolitan Hall to-morrow evening.

The bay, which was open yesterday a little below the harbor, was again coated with ice this morning.

Mr. E. Harrison has sent us a very neatly got up counting house calendar. It is a home production, and is in every way creditable.

The Queen Insurance Company require an agent for the city and vicinity, in place of the late Mr. Newbery. See the advertisement.

The 15th Batt. Band held an assembly in the Ontario Hall last evening, which, though not very largely attended, was successful in every other respect.

Mr. H. Ashley has disposed of 650 boxes of Thurlow Factory cheese. He has yet on on hand about 200 boxes of Ashley cheese and 600 of small 10 lb. Stilton.

At the General Sessions yesterday Chief McKinnon was appointed High Constable of the County, and L. A. Appleby and J. S. Marsh were appointed county constables.

Through an oversight the name of Mr. Riggs was not inserted in the programme of the Anti-Treating entertainment this evening in the City Hall. He will give a cornet solo.

The Pacific Railway Company advertise land grants and land bonds for sale. The Company's bonds are an excellent investment, and all the lands which they have to offer are fit for settlement.

Mr. J. C. Reynolds intends going south in a few days for the benefit of his health. He has for some months been troubled with a bronchial affection. Jacksonville, Fla., will probably be his destination.

Another individual has been amusing himself of late by exposing his person to ladies, after dark, in different parts of the city. His identity is suspected, and it is not probable that he will be at large much longer.

Colborne has a nicely-fitted-up skating rink. The only rink that Belleville skaters can hope for this winter is the site of the new Government Buildings, which, if partially filled with water, would serve as a miniature rink.

The City Hall should be crowded to-night. The entertainment to be given by the Anti-Treating Association will be as well worth attending as many a performance for which the admission fee is 50c. Go and support the cause by your presence.

Attention is called to the announcement of the Histrionic Association in another column. The comedy "Engaged," which will be performed by the Association in the Metropolitan Hall on Wednesday is one which was received with great applause when performed here two or three years ago by Geo. Fawcett Rowe and the McDowell Company. It is written by W. S. Gilbert, author of "Pinafore," &c., and almost every sentence sparkles with fun and wit. It may be relied on that the Association will perform it well.

The bazaar given by the ladies of Christ Church congregation opened last night in the vacant store in Robertson's Block, recently occupied by the Customs and Inland Revenue officials. The attendance last night and throughout to-day has been fair and a large number of sales have been made. The display of useful and fancy articles (chiefly fancy, however) is quite extensive, and many really rich and beautiful articles of lady's work are to be seen. A Christmas tree loaded with toys and ornaments was a very attractive feature last night.

Sons of England.—Englishmen who intend becoming members of this Society are reminded of the meeting to take place in the St. George's Hall on Friday, the 16th, at 8 o'clock p. m. as the election of officers will then take place. 193d2t

Weather Probabilities.—Toronto, Dec. 15.—Lakes, moderate to fresh westerly to northerly winds, cloudy to fair, cold weather with snow flurries to-day, increasing southerly winds, rising temperature to-morrow, probably snow in many localities to-night.

Prentice Boys.—At a regular meeting of Maiden City Lodge of Prentice Boys, No. 13, held last night, the following officers were elected for the current year: W. Seeds, W.M.; J. R. Gerow, D.M.; R. Donnelly, Treas.; C. A. Pettit, Sec'y; E. M. Clark, Chaplain; E. Guest, E. Nailor, R. Leonard, W. Brown, A. Gerow, Comm'tee, W. Stillman, D. of C.; J. Harris, Tyler.

The London Quarterly.—The "London," for October, one of the four sterling quarterlies, republished by the Leonard-Scott Company, New York, has come to hand. Its table of contents embrace the following papers:—New Testament Revision: The New Greek Text; The past and the Future of the Conservative Party; Dean Stanley's "Christian Institutions"; The Development of Electric Lighting; The Works of Alexander Pope; Luxury Ancient and Modern; Jebb's "Attic Orators"; Fair Trade and British Labor.

The Thorley Horse and Cattle Food.—The advertisement of this far-famed food appears in another column. It is claimed for the article that the feeding of small quantities to horses and cattle greatly improves their condition, and the fact that a large number of prizes have been won at the leading fairs by animals so fed goes far towards substantiating the claim. The manufacturers, with commendable liberality, offer $600 to be distributed at the principal fairs, including 100 lbs of food (value $10) at the West Hastings fair for the best matched farm team for general purposes. The article is for sale in this city by Messrs Jas. Clark & Co., L. W. Yeomans & Co., and A. L. Geen, and in Canifton by John Canniff.

Christmas and New Year's Weather.—The following is an interview between Vennor and a Montreal reporter:—How long is this mild weather likely to last, Mr. Vennor? Until about the 15th. Will we have snow then? Yes, both cold and snow with stormy weather generally on the 16th, 17th and 18th. Will that snow remain steady for Christmas? I think it will, although the 20th to the 22nd is likely to reduce it to slush again. What are we likely to have for Christmas? Stormy weather. And for New Year's? Cold weather and a good deal of snow before and after, exactly as recorded in my Almanac. I am very well satisfied with these predictions. Do you anticipate very cold weather? Yes, very. We are likely to have a recurrence of last December's "Polar Wave" between Christmas and New Year's Days.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted, diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

James Foy's Relatives.

A Windfall for Someone.

In August last a man named James Foy was shot, it is supposed, by Indians in California. He left considerable property, consisting chiefly of stocks, mining claims, &c., but he had no relatives in California to leave it to, and it was not known that he had relatives anywhere. The only fact that was known about him was that he was "a native of Belleville, Canada." He was a member of the Masonic order, and the master of the lodge to which he belonged in Prescott, Atoka Territory (Morris Goldwater by name) wrote to the secretary of the Grand Lodge of Canada, Mr. J. J. Mason, of Hamilton, asking him to institute inquiries respecting the relatives of the deceased. The Grand Secretary, in his turn, communicated with Mr. Robt. Dick, master of Moira Lodge of this city. The following facts respecting the Foy family have been elicited:—

Old Mr. and Mrs. Foy lived for many years on the Canifton Road, in a house opposite Mr. W. Alford's. The old man died some twenty years ago or more, and his widow, Mary Foy, survived him only a few years. They had a daughter named Bridget, and a son who was blind and used to go about playing a fiddle, and who left Belleville while quite young and was lost sight of. Bridget Foy married a man named Peter Asselstine, from Kingston, and by him had a daughter named Barbara. Mrs. Asselstine died in Kingston about twelve or fifteen years ago (some say she [illegible]) was brought to Belleville to be buried. After her death her husband went back to Kingston with his daughter, and has not since been heard of.

There is little doubt that the James Foy who was shot in California is a member of this family. He may be the blind son of old Mr. Foy, who wandered away from the town many years ago, or he may be his son. It is possible that Bridget Foy had a son as well as a daughter, and that he went away to the States and assumed his mother's maiden name when he got there.

The relative for whom the quest is now being made is Miss Barbara Asselstine. She must be a relative of the deceased in any case. If he was the blind son, he was her uncle; if he was his son, he was her cousin; if he was Bridget Foy's son, he was her brother. If she can be found, she will probably come into a nice little property.

Any information respecting either Peter Asselstine or his daughter Barbara should be forwarded to Mr. Robt. Dick, of this city.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use."

NEW YORK NOTES.

New York, Dec. 15.—S. Michaelis & Co., tobacconists, Pearl St., have assigned. Liabilities $50,000.

The steamer Bath City is now regarded as lost. She was valued with her cargo at $300,000. She had no passengers. Her crew numbered 32.

Becker, the notorious counterfeiter, was convicted of counterfeiting notes of the Bank of France. He was sentenced at Brooklyn yesterday to six and a half years in Penitentiary.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says that all the experts summoned by the defence, except two, have been excused and gone home. It is understood that the prosecution's list of witnesses as to Guiteau's life, character, alleged hereditary taint of insanity, etc., are nearly exhausted. The prosecution preserves silence as to whether Guiteau's former wife will be put on the stand, but it is understood that she will be called. Guiteau's relatives have made every effort to induce the assassin to hold his tongue when he appears, but he is not likely to do it. An important feature of the evidence in surrebuttal will be an attempt by Scoville to break down the character of Shaw, who swore that Guiteau said he would imitate Wilkes Booth.

The Chilian Minister says that Blaine's instructions to Kilpatrick, which the latter published, were well received in Chili, being regarded as friendly.

The Times says the scramble for the House offices still continue. Some of the members of both Houses, who are earnest advocates for Civil Service Reform, are among the most importunate in begging for subordinate places for their friends.

The Herald says at a meeting of the Mississippians, supported by the Greenbackers, held last night, to discuss the methods of dealing with the alleged lawless and wrong fully ascertained, and declared in the results in the recent elections, in Mississippi, it was alleged that at the recent election the Republicans and Greenbackers had a majority of 35,000 to 40,000, and it was finally agreed to submit the whole matter to Congress.

New York, Dec. 15.—Arrived the Ethiopia, from Glasgow; Amsterdam, from Rotterdam; Arabic and Alaska from Liverpool; France from London.

NEW RAILWAY INSURANCE CO.

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 15.—Articles of incorporation have been filed here for the Western Railway Insurance Co. Capital $25,000,000. Twenty Western Railway Managers, Superintendents, &c., named as incorporators.

ANOTHER TRAIN ROBBERY.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 15.—Highwaymen boarded the Southern Pacific train near here yesterday morning. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s. messenger was knocked senseless, bound and gagged. The Express safe was robbed of $15,000 cash and securities. At Rodgers Station the robbers jumped off and escaped to Mexico.

DULUTH'S CREDITORS.

St. Paul, Dec. 15.—Edward Brewer sued the city and village of Duluth to recover coupons overdue on bonds of the city of Duluth. The Legislature created the village of Duluth out of territory occupied by the city. A demurrer was interposed by the village of Duluth. U. S. Judge Wilson overrules the demurrer, and declares the act creating the village of Duluth interferes with the rights of creditors. Most of the Duluth creditors are Eastern capitalists.

KILLED BY A FALLING TREE.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 15.—William Wright, of Caroline county, while felling trees, his wife brought his lunch. A falling tree frightfully and fatally injured her.

STEAMSHIP STRANDED.

Havana, Dec. 15.—A steamship belonging to the Liverpool and New Orleans line is reported stranded on the Moselle shoals off the Great Bahama bank.

RAILWAY RATES.

St. Louis, Dec. 15.—The five trunk railroads running east have agreed to make the cotton rate to New York thirty cents a hundred and divide the traffic equally. This is about twice as much as the cotton really has been taken to New York for.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. W. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&wly

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the vital and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

Bronchitis.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

BITTEN BY A TARANTULA.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Gov'r Shepherd was bitten by a tarantula in a mine in Mexico. It is feared that the leg will have to be amputated. He expects to return to this country for treatment as soon as possible.

Rotterdam, Dec. 15.—Arrived, W. A. Schoffen

THE BATH CITY.

London, Dec. 15.—Eighty guineas premium was paid yesterday on the overdue steamer Bath City.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Washington, Dec. 15.—In the Senate the Committee on Finance to-day unanimously agreed to recommend the passage of Sherman's 3 p. c. funding bill, with amendments reducing the aggregate amount of 3 per cents to be issued to $200,000,000, and providing that the amount of deposits to be received shall not exceed at any one time $25,000,000.

THE MISSING BALLOON.

London, Dec., 15.—The missing balloon was seen at Alderney yesterday morning. A gunboat will proceed to Alderney to investigate.

RAILWAY PURCHASE.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—The purchase of the Chicago and Eastern and Illinois R. R., by the Louisville and Nashville combination, is regarded as an accomplished fact.

CHOLERA AT CAIRO.

London, Dec. 15.—It is reported that epidemic cholera appeared at Cairo.

A DISGRACEFUL SCENE.

Paris, Dec. 15.—The libel suit of Roustan, Minister to Tunis, against Rochfort, commenced yesterday. H. Hilaire, the late Foreign Minister, denied the assertion that he entrusted DeBilling with the mission to Tunis. A violent altercation ensued, H. Hilaire and DeBilling accusing each other of lying. The President of the Court threatened the expulsion of DeBilling.

Fooled Once More.

(Markdale, Ont., Standard.)

Mr. Editor:—The most of people relish a good story, provided it be a truthful one. Tales of adventures, daring, heroism, dangers of the deep, battles, &c., all have their charms. Who amongst us could read the adventures of Robinson Crusoe half way through, and not have a desire to know the end of it? We confess being of this class. Now, the first thing we do when we receive our weekly newspaper is to hurriedly glance through it and pick out what we consider the most important items. These are generally distinguished by their headings; but you don't catch us trusting any longer to these glaring impositions. We could laugh at being fooled once or twice, but to get caught a third time is our reason for remonstrating. Two or three weeks since we got to reading what we thought was a very nice story in one of our Toronto weeklies, and towards the end it informed us about St. Jacob's Oil; we only laughed, and said humbug. The week following we noticed another heading, "How Mark Twain Entertained a Visitor." Well, thinking we might learn a little etiquette, in case Mark should take a fancy to send us an invitation, we read it, but by St. Patrick, if they didn't finish by making Mark introduce St. Jacob's Oil. Well, confound it, we exclaimed, but they have got another dose of that St. Jacobs Oil on us again, determined not to be caught so simple next time; but now, sir, I admit the corn; along comes our Toronto Mail on Thursday, down we sat, and almost the first thing that caught our eye was the adventures of Captain Paul Boynton; it appeared quite interesting; it told how he had bumped against sharks, &c. At this point we began to feel a little incredulous, because, from our knowledge of these gentry, they would relish the captain alive or dead, all the same. However, determined to learn some more of his exploits, we read a little further, when—O, well, it don't matter what we said, you can't find it in any of the dictionaries. I'm—dashed if the captain wasn't oiling himself all over with St. Jacobs Oil, it may be, the more easily to evade the sharks, for we made no further search, our curiosity was satisfied. Now, Mr. Editor, in order to fool us again, it will require to be printed wrong end up. We have made up our mind to look out for anything and everything in the shape of St. or Saint attached to their name.

We are sorry for the readers of any journal to be thus "taken in," so to phrase it, but what can they expect when we editors are caught in the same storm without any protection. Whilst sympathizing with them, we can only admire the ability shown in any enterprise that can thus compel, as it were, the attention of people. When it is considered that only a short time ago St. Jacobs Oil was scarcely known in Canada, and now has so commended itself to the favor of the people of the Dominion as to become the household remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, pains, bruises, chilblains, etc., and all because of its surprising efficacy in these ailments, we think it will be regarded by everybody as a matter of congratulation that we possess, so easily attainable, such a reliable means for the cure of disease. Such is our view of the matter, although we are "fooled" on an average, about five times a week. If St. Jacob can stand it, we've made up our mind to "fight it out on that line, if it takes all winter."

West Northumberland.—The nominations in West Northumberland took place yesterday at Cobourg when Dr. Waters and Mr. Guillet were nominated as the Liberal and Conservative candidates, respectively. Mr. G. W. Ross, M. P., and Sir Leonard Tilley were present and addressed the electors. On Thursday Hon. Mr. Blake will visit the Riding and will be met by Sir Charles Tupper.

—Secretary Blaine will be succeeded by Senator Frelinghuysen as head of the State Department at Washington on Monday.

—Viscount Boyle, a military officer stationed at Dublin, and eldest son of the Earl of Shannon, has been missing since Sunday.

—The anti-Jewish riots at Odessa were resumed yesterday, and were very violent. The rioters drove out from the country 256 of those Jews who were most obnoxious to them. Five of the rioters were arrested.

—The Mail this morning publishes a special cable from London announcing the fact that Boyd has agreed to row Hanlan on the Tyne on April 3, 1882, for the championship of the world and £500 a side. The champion has cabled his acceptance on condition that the Sportsman's challenge cup is included in the terms of the race. He will leave for England in about two weeks.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

The quickest and surest remedy for subduing pains, taking soreness out of harness galls, sore shoulders, is Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. If you want to relieve the pain successfuly you must use this Liniment.

Pains and Griping in Children.

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.: Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs, then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHAPTER THE SECOND.

'Julian Winstanley——'

'He who won the steeple chase yesterday? Who, in the name of goodness, is Julian Winstanly? A name of some pretension: yet nobody seems to know where he came from.'

'Oh dear that is quite a mistake. I beg your pardon—everybody knows where he came from. This bird of gay plumage was hatched in a dusky hole and corner of the city; where his grandfather made a fabulous fortune by gambling in the funds.'

'He is as handsome a young fellow as ever was hatched from a muckworm.'

'He is a careless, dashing prodigal, whatever else; and I never look at him without thinking of Hogarth's picture of the Miser's Heir.' What say you to him, Blake, with your considering face? Come, out with your wisdom! You can make a sermon out of a stone you know.'

'May be so. A stone might furnish matter for discourse, as well as other things; but I am not in the humor for preaching to-day. I can't help being sorry for the scrapegrace.'

'So like you, Contradiction! Sorry for him! And, pray, what for?—because he is the handsomest, most aristocratical-looking person one almost ever met with—because he is really clever, and can do whatever he pleases in no time (might have taken a double-first at Oxford easily, Penrose says, if he would)—or because he has got countless heaps of gold at his banker's; and nobody to ask him a why or a wherefore; may do, in all things, just what he likes—or because he can drink like a fish, dance like Vestris, ride like Chiffney, be up all night and about all day, and never tire, be never out of spirits, never dull? Harry Blake! Who'll come and hear Harry Blake? He is going to give his reasons why a man who has every good thing of the world is most especially to be pitied.'

'I am going to do no such thing. The reasons are too obvious. I deal not in truisms.'

'Well, all I know is, that he won the steeple-chase yesterday, and to-day he beat Pincent, the champion at billiards. To-morrow he goes to the ball at Bicester; and see if he does not beat us all at dancing there, and bear away the belle, whoever the belle may be—though the blood of a stockbroker does run in his veins.'

'His blood may be as good as another's, for aught I know,' said the philosopher; 'but I doubt whether the rearing be.'

'It is the blood, depend upon it, Blake, you are quite right,' said a pale, affected young man, who stood by, and was grandson to an earl; 'the blood—these upstarts are vulgar, irremediably, do what they will.'

'That not quite,' said Harry Blake. 'I have seen as great cubs as ever walked behind a plough-tail who would call cousins with the Conqueror, Warndale. But a something there is of difference after all; and, in my opinion, it lies in the tradition. Wealth and distinction are like old wine, the better for keeping. Time adds a value, mellows, gives a certain body—an inappreciable something. Newly-acquired wealth and distinction is like new wine—trashy. I rather pity the man who possesses them, therefore.'

'And I do not'—'And I do not,'—and 'A fig for your philosophy!' resounded from all sides of the table.

The philosopher looked on with his quiet smile, and added:

'I do not mean to say that I should pity any of those here present in such a case, for we all know by experience, that new wine, in any quantity, has no effect upon them; never renders their heads unsteady—was never known to do so. But you must allow me to pity Julian Winstanley; for I think his wits are sometimes straying, and I fear that he has already mounted upon that high horse which gallops down the road to ruin.'

And so away they all went to the ball at Bicester that night. Most of them were somewhat more elaborately dressed than the occasion required; Julian Winstanley was, undoubtedly. It had been his mother's injunction, never to spare expense in any thing that regarded his toilette; and dutifully he obeyed it.

I am not going to give you a description of his dress. Fancy everything most expensive; fancy, as far as a natural good taste would allow, every habiliment chosen with reference to its costliness; and behold him waltzing with a very pretty girl who is, upon her side, exquisitely dressed also. She wears the fairest of white tulles, and the richest of white satins, and has a bouquet of the flowers from the choicest of French artists in her bosom, and another negligently thrown across her robe. Hair of remarkable beauty, arranged in a way to display its profusion, and the very expensive ornaments with which it is adorned.

Although the young lady—who is the daughter of a very fashionable and extravagant man, celebrated in the hunting and racing world—is well known to be portionless, yet she is the object of general attraction; a thing to be noted as not what usually happens to young ladies without experience, in these expensive times. But it is the caprice of fashion, and fashion is all-powerful. So Julian, who is only starting in the career of extravagence, and in its golden age of restless profusion, and far removed, as yet, from that iron age which usually succeeds it—namely, that of selfish covetousness—is quite prepared to cast himself at her feet—which with a little good management of her and her mother's, he soon actually did. Having, as yet, more money in his pocket than he knew how to get through, he was exceedingly pleased with what he had done, and not a little proud in due time to incarcerate this fair creature in solitary grandeur within his carriage, whilst he and his boon companions rejoiced outside.

The connections formed by his marriage occasioned additional incentives to expense. Introduced into a more elevated circle than he had as yet moved in, and impelled by the evil ambition as outshining every one with whom he associated, Winstanley soon found innumerable new opportunities for spending money. He became a prey to imaginary necessities. His carriage, his horses, his villas and their furniture, his dinners, his wines, his yachts;—her fetes in the morning and her balls in the evening, her gardens (which were forever changing), her delicate health, which required the constant excitement of continental travel, and yachting excursions;—the dress of both; the wild extravagance of everything,—I leave you to picture to yourselves.

CHAPTER THE THIRD.

What is five thousand a year, when a man spends six? Make it ten, and he will spend twelve. There is an old story I have heard my mother tell:

A man had a legacy left him, so large, that upon the strength of it he was enabled to change his plan of life. He sat down and calculated the style in which it would henceforward become him to live. His arrangement of income and expenditure would have been perfect, only that his income fell short a certain, not very large, sum. This was a sad business. A few hundreds more, and he would have been quite at ease; he had them not; he began to feel rather poor. A letter arrives from his man of business. There has been a mistake; the legacy is of twice the amount it had been at first stated at. How will it become him to live now? That is easily settled; he has only to double all his expenses. Alas! And he remains twice as poor as he was before.

There is no limit to extravagance—it is a bottomless chasm which is not to be filled. The income does not exactly suffice—and no man ought to exceed his income. True, but there are unexpected expenses—things that perhaps may never recur. The prudent man economizes something else; the imprudent man goes to his capital. He unlocks that sacred door of which he holds the enchanted key in his hand—and ruin rushes out upon him as a flood.

Julian soon began to touch upon his capital. It was but in small sums at first, and yet it is astonishing how rich and easy (for the time) it made him feel. A thousand or two thus added to a man's income makes all mighty smooth, and the consequent diminution of his future revenue is a trifle, not felt, and not worth thinking of. Desires increase with the means to gratify them. He who takes a thousand or two from his capital, soon finds it necessary to take more. Income diminishes as desires gain strength; the habit of indulgence grows as the means to gratify

TO BE CONTINUED.

RACKED BY INNUMERABLE PANGS, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendent annoyances of of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of reliable relief from all misery. NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and DYSPEPTIC CURE is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison, and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humors which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Clover and Drouth.

With the experience of the present season I am disposed to value red clover more highly than ever before as a drouth-enduring plant. Its intrusion into our meadows has this year proved a blessing, especially to those, who, like myself, believe in early haying. I cut my grass early in July, and, the clover springing up immediately, soon grew a foot high and blossomed. I then turned in my cows and kept up a flow of milk which, without the drouth-proof clover, would have been impossible, except by daily feeding with green corn or other milk-producing equivalent.

A New Insect Pest.

More than two years ago we warned Canadian farmers, that in New York State, the clover crop was suffering from the attacks of a new and formidable enemy, which unless great vigilance was used, would soon get a footing among us. The insect was the clover-seed midge, Cecidomyia trifolii, closely allied to the wheat midge, C. Trilici. We have lately seen in the country papers along the line of the Canada Southern and elsewhere, complaints of the ravages of an insect answering the description of this pest; and now suspicion that the midge has attacked the Canadian clover crop is rendered a certainty by the receipt from Mr. O. F. Springer, of Burlington, of a parcel of clover-heads positively full of the midge's larvæ.

The mature, winged insect resembles the wheat midge so closely that none but an expert could distinguish them. The larvæ of the clover midge is of a bright orange red color and rather less than an eighth of an inch long. The eggs of the insect are laid in September on the heads of clover or some other legume. The perfect flies appear in June, lay their eggs, and the second brood turns up again in the winged form in September.

We regret to say that the experience of the New York farmers who have suffered from the visitations of the midge is, that there is but one method of subduing it, namely, to cease growing clover in the districts where the insect prevails. It will, however, probably be found at least partially effective if farmers in the infected districts will merely cut their first crop of clover somewhat earlier than usual—say just as the first heads are forming—and if they will cease endeavouring to get a seed crop.—Canada Farmer.

Absorbents.

The question, What to use as an absorbent in stables? is one that must be answered by each farmer, according to the convenience with which he can obtain the several substances named. Sand is undoubtedly, of itself, better to spread upon muck or clay lands than either muck or clay, but the quantity that would be likely to be used in the stables would have an effect upon a clay form, or a large muck swamp, so small as scarcely to be appreciable. In practice, farmers will use such absorbents as they can get. Where sand is plenty, it will be used largely by good farmers, even upon sandy land. Sand and saw-dust are each very clean absorbents to use in stables, while muck is decidedly otherwise. Whatever may be used as an absorbent in stables, should be made as dry as practicable, and kept so till used. Many years ago we built an addition to our barn for the express purpose of laying up sand and dry earth for spreading upon the stable floors, and we know of no investment that has paid better. The addition is at the rear of the stables, running their whole length. It is ten feet wide, and will hold eight or nine months' supply of dry material. It is filled in during the fall, while dry, and being on the north side of the stable, keeps out a great amount of cold during the winter, and yet it never freezes so hard that it cannot be used during the coldest weather. If planning a new barn, we should as soon think of dispensing with hay room as to neglect to provide suitable room for dry earth. And yet we do not consider dry earth in itself a manure, whether it be sand, loam, or muck.—New England Farmer.

A Welcome to True Enterprise.

[Toronto (Can.) Globe.]

Evidence of substantial prosperity are good to behold. It is a matter of special pleasure to refer to such evidences, as they are indicative of organizing talent and executive ability—none too common even in these days of enterprise and phenomenal activity. These impressions were suggested upon considering the sagacity and energy of the world-known house of A. VOGELER & Co., Baltimore, Md., certainly the largest of its kind in the United States, and known most extensively and favorably to the trade everywhere. Established half a century ago and not ashamed of the "day of small things," the house has grown to its present proportions, and attained its enviable status by a strict adherence to the fundamental rules and laws of business, and by persistently hard work, guided by keen foresight and that comprehensive knowledge of the business which is sure to win success in the end. To this old German Drug House success has come and seems to have taken up its permanent residence. We are happy to chronicle these gratifying facts as distinctive evidence of the high mercantile and popular honor in which it is held.

Messrs. A. Vogeler & Co have recently been in our midst in the person of the managing partner, and established a large branch house in Toronto under the management of Mr. E. H. Wooley. Though the affairs thereof will necessarily be on a somewhat diminished scale, compared with the immense home enterprise at Baltimore, Md., the demands of the Dominion will be promptly and fully met with the same care and accuracy as distinguish the transactions of the parent house. Every requisite for facilitating business and rendering absolute satisfaction to their patrons is here to be found in its perfect adaption.

Then the methods of this house in conducting business with the press is so eminently characteristic, and withal so common sense and practical, that the journalistic fraternity, without a recognized exception, are its staunch friends. We cannot more fully indorse the firm than to say that our experience exactly tallies with that of the papers of the States, from one or two of which we are pleased to quote the following expressions on this important point The Philadelphia (Pa.) Times says: "They conduct their business in the most systematic manner—managing in a way that others may imitate if they could, but which no concern is likely to improve upon. It is a pleasure to deal with a house, which conducts its affairs with such sound judgment, perfect system and praiseworthy promptness as we have found in the transactions of Messrs. A Vogeler & Co." The St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press observes: "It is indisputably true that all can well learn new lessons from the admirable system of A. Vogeler & Co, Baltimore. Discriminating with the utmost nicety, in every particular, exacting as to every legitimate demand, courteous in everything they say and do, every detail wrought out as perfectly as the machinery of a watch, their operations reaching every civilized language and State on the globe, their capital ample for all and more than any use they may have for it—this model house is the ideal advertising customer of reasonable and capable publishers."

Ashes for Fertilizing.

Unleached wood ashes contain all the constituents of the plant food that the ordinary or wornout soil needs, except nitrogen. By their chemical action, they render much of the inert nitrogen in soils available, and in that way may be said to furnish nitrogen. This is true of lime, and on this power of making nitrogen available, the greatest value of lime, when applied as a fertilizer, depends. Ashes also have a good mechanical effect upon the soil, especially heavy clay soils, which are made lighter and more porous, so that air and water circulate more freely. Ashes do not suffer waste by being washed out, to the extent that is true of the more soluble and concentrated fertilizers sold in the markets—their effects are therefore more lasting.

Honey Making in Central New York.

REPORT FOR 1881.

EDS. COUNTRY GENTLEMAN.—In giving the results of our present season's operations, we desire to say, first, that such results could only be attained under very favorable circumstances. Such reports without explanation may easily lead the uninformed to engage in the business expecting similar results at once Bee-keeping, like all other pursuits, must be made a study, and it can only become a success by close application.

We commenced in the spring with 160 stocks, the most of them in good condition. As is generally known, the early spring was very unfavorable for all operations with bees. In fact, we have never, with one exception, seen a more discouraging outlook. During fruit blossoms the weather was very favorable and from that time forward, everything was unusually so.

Our bees were located in 4 places, 40 colonies in each. One apiary seven miles north of us, one 4 miles south and one 7 miles southeast. Upon this point of locating bees, the number of stocks that should be kept in one place, &c., an entire article might be prepared. By the adding of combs at proper times, and by thorough attention, our stocks became extremely populous.

It space would allow, we might consider a question at this time, which is of extreme importance to every bee-keeper; namely, that of increase of swarms. We will simply say that with us there have been two seasons during the past 10 years when our stock might have been doubled, and at the same time more surplus have been secured than to hold all of the force to the original stocks. With the uncertainty of a continued yield of honey, we find that we must be in readiness to secure honey rapidly during any short period it may be afforded. Our conclusion is that, for our location, very moderate, if any, increase of swarms is preferable. We have therefore made no increase. When extracted honey is secured, swarming is easily controlled. We do not advise the entire prevention of increase in stocks for the average bee-keeper. Probably most beginners will succeed best with a moderate increase, but we advise that it be limited to at most 1 swarm from each good stock, even in best seasons.

Let us say that the combs we had packed away which contained the late gathered honey of the fall previous, proved of great value. A nice comb containing 3 to 5 pounds of honey with the cappings broken by rubbing a knife over it, and then placed in the centre of a strong hive would be rapidly emptied, when the cells would be readily occupied by the queen.

The first of June, clover and raspberries afforded honey bountifully. In fact, we have never known clover to yield so much honey.

We extracted our first honey to any extent June 28. We will give the results of our best apiary:

|---|---|
| June 28 | 1,500 lbs. |
| July 9 | 2,575 |
| July 16 | 2,000 |
| July 25, 26 | 3,140 |
| Late honey | 512 |
| | 9,727 |

From our stock of best Italian bees at our home apiary, we took as follows:

|---|---|
| June 25 | 96 lbs. |
| July 4 | 6½ |
| July 8 | 114 |
| July 12 | 66 |
| July 19 | 40½ |
| July 22 | 36 |
| Aug 5 | 42 |
| Aug. 27 | 27 |
| | 484 |

June 26, this hive gathered over 20 pounds during the day. July 10, the hive was weighed at intervals during the day, showing results as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| At 1 p.m. it weighed | | 155 lbs. |
| 4 | do | 160 |
| 5 | do | 163 |
| 6 | do | 166 |
| 7 | do | 171½ |

Our entire yield from the 4 apiaries was 82,809 pounds With one machine we took in one day 2,760 pounds. This we believe to be the largest amount of honey ever taken in one day with one machine Our fall yield of honey was almost entirely cut off by the extreme drouth.

We have never secured a finer quality of honey than during the present season. Our bees, as well as bees in general, go into winter quarters in very good condition. The 17th of November they had a free flight. We placed them in winter quarters the 21st and 22d of November, which practically closes the season for 1881.

We give this report to induce a more thorough examination of the best methods of bee-keeping. The advantages for so doing may be found on every hand. Besides the bee journals devoted exclusively to this interest, every agricultural paper of note in the land has its bee-keeping department, making clear the various operations of advanced bee-culture.

It is a matter of greatest surprise to us that with these opportunities which may be so easily taken advantage of, so many may be found who are yet contented to keep bees in box hives and in the old way.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world, for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Industrial Schools.

The subject of industrial education in connection with the Public Schools is being agitated in the United States, and is attracting a great deal of public attention in that country. In support of the proposition it is urged with much force that the body should be educated for skilled practical work while the mind is being disciplined and furnished with fundamental ideas. The most of the pupils must do manual labor for a living—become producers—when they grow up, and the youthful period of the body, before its habits are formed and its suppleness is gone, is the time to train it properly. In fact, the system has been already adopted to some extent in the cities of the United States, and has given such satisfaction that its rapid spread seems to be a matter of certainty.

In Bradstreet's Journal for November a comparison was made between the city schools of the United States and those in operation at Chemnitz, Saxony. Briefly, it stated the difference is that between an exclusive and elaborate mental culture and a moderate training of the hands in some mechanical pursuit. Up to the age of fourteen, at Chemnitz, the children of the poorest, as well as of those who are better off, are compelled to attend the elementary schools and acquire the beginnings of general knowledge. After leaving those schools they are obliged to attend the "Fortbildungs" school two evenings a week, where they become eligible for voluntary attendance in the schools for foremen for the building trades and for instruction in elementary drawing. In addition to the schools named Chemnitz has also a gymnasium which cost the town about $65,000, a real "schule," which cost the town nearly $90,000, and three technical schools—the technical institute, the higher weaving school, and the agricultural school, under the immediate supervision of the minister of the interior. These institutions are sustained in part by the town and state and in part by the tuition fees paid by scholars.

What little experience of a system of industrial training there has been had in Canada in connection with some of our public institutions, has been of a favorable character, it having been shown that those who acquire their mechanical skill in early youth gain a more thorough knowledge of their trades than do those who are taught at a later period and in a less systematic manner. Children educated under the Chemnitz system would be able, on leaving school, to earn their own living, and thus not only would the heavy burden of their maintenance in whole or in part be lifted from the shoulders of parents, but a very great increase of mechanical skill would be the result. English trade has in some lines suffered from the fact that in point of skill and ingenuity her workpeople had failed to instruct themselves as to the progress which was being made in other countries, and it is only now that a successful effort is being made to keep up with the progress of other nations. Canada must not lag behind in this most important department of knowledge. It will be better by far to cut down and alter the present programme of the Public Schools in some branches of knowledge, and devote a portion of the time to instructing the pupils in some of the trades.

Editorial Brevities.

The Port Hope Guide revives the exploded idea of having the Senators elected by the Legislatures, with the added proviso that the majority select two-thirds and the minority one-third. The idea of committing the election of Senators to bodies elected on issues altogether apart from Dominion politics, and which often, as in Ontario at present, do not represent the sentiments of the people in regard to Dominion affairs, is too absurd for serious consideration. The Senate will never be reorganized on that plan, at all events.

The Hamilton Times denies the statement that the cotton manufacturers of Great Britain have lowered their prices to Canadian purchasers, in order to enable them to compete in Canada, but in order to combat the assertion, it is obliged to assume that the English dealers sell on the same terms to all other purchasers, whereby "they would throw away $50,000,000 in order to gain the profit on $9,000,000 worth of trade with Canada." The assumption is purely gratuitous. Manufacturers in all countries and in all lines of trade make special discounts on goods for export to places where competition is keen. This they do as a matter of pride, in order not to be beaten out of the field where they have been successful, and perhaps in the long run they realize a small profit. British merchants have always done this and always will, and we venture to say that cotton for export to Canada can be bought in England for 10 per cent less than for export to Africa or to Australia.

Phipps claimed to have won the victory for the Conservatives in the general election of 1878, and now "General" M. Butt Howson alleges that he it was who set the tidal wave which overwhelmed the Grits in motion. Who next?

Whilst negotiations for a new commercial treaty between France and England hang fire and give but little promise of success, the French seem eager to negotiate a treaty of commerce with the United States. The Chambers of Commerce in Paris, Lyons, St. Etienne, Rhein, Bordeaux, Macon Colmar, Rochelle, Montpelier, Grenoble, Angoulême, Bayonne, Nancy, Havre and Marseilles, have proonounced in favor of negotiations for a Franco-American Treaty of Commerce. The reasons governing these differing lines of conduct are obvious. Free-trade England has little or nothing to offer, having but light duties on French goods, whilst the United States have, in their heavy import duties, a strong lever by which to force free trade from the unwilling Gauls.

The Cornwall Reporter ironically laments the encroachments of the N. P., which has destroyed Smith's meadow at that town by digging a great hole in it and piling up a lot of bricks to build a factory. The Reporter says: Wicked N. P. You take from us an income of $40, wrung from the soil, and give us a bloated monoply which will employ 300 working people, and keep in the Dominion about $300,000 which formerly went to Yankeedom. The following figures show the result:

Gains in manufactures........$300,000 00
Loss in hay.................40 00
Balance in favor of N. P......$299,960 00

Every new factory built, every industry enlarged, every step in progress, counts against the Grits and in favor of the present government.

The Globe is making war on Mr. Patton, Collector of Customs at Toronto, but its warfare is not honorable and the result has been a defeat of the Grit organ. In its issue of the 14th the Globe accused Mr. Patton of having caused a vexatious restriction to the removal of bonded goods from the Grand Trunk freight sheds; but Mr. White, freight superintendent of the Grand Trunk, says there is not a word of truth in the story and that Mr. Patton has assisted the Grand Trunk officials, by every means in his power, in the discharge of their duties. Score one for Mr. Patton.

An erudite contemporary of the higher literary caste speaks of "gorilla warfare." Probably it refers to warfare of the "guerilla" stamp, in the worst features of which it is an adept.

Christmas Books, &c.

There have been placed on our table some of the most elaborate and exquisitely got up Christmas books and perodicals which the season has probably ever brought forth. They are published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston. They include—"Switzerland," by Harriet D. S. Mackenzie, written in an easy, entertaining and picturesque style, and profusely illustrated with beautifully executed engravings chiefly illustrative of Alpine scenery; "How We Went Bird's-Nesting," written by Amanda B. Harris and illustrated by the facile pencil of G. F. Barnes, who excels in drawing birds; "Babyland," and "Little Folks' Reader," delightful little brochures for children, with illustrations on every page; and Wide Awake and The Pansy, both children's perodicals. Wide Awake is probably unexcelled as a monthly magazine for children, the stories, poetry, sketches, &c., being written in a sprightly, entertaining style, and the illustrations being simply perfect of their kind. No more acceptable Christmas gift could be given to a child between the ages of three and thirteen. It is only $2.50 a year. The Pansy is a weekly, semi-monthly, and monthly, and as a child's paper is little inferior to Wide Awake. It is edited by Mrs. G. R. Olden, that well-known friend of the little ones. In addition to the books and periodicals is a beautiful illustrated calendar for the coming year, called "Day after Day." Attached to an eleborate card is a pad of long narrow slips, on each of which is printed, in eccentric looking characters, the days of the week and month, and in addition a weighty and suggestive proverb. These proverbs were compiled by Rev. Asa Bullard, who has selected them from the best writers of ancient and modern times. The idea is a novel and excellent one.

Furs.

The Montreal Gazette of the 15th says:—"A few lots of raw furs have been brought in during the week, but owing to unfavorable weather prices have ruled easy, except for otter, which is scarce at $10a12 for dark prime. Beaver was quiet at $2.50a2.75. Mink was weak at $1.00a1.25, martin at $1.00a1.25, fisher at $5.00, and skunk at 25ca60.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Springbrook Cheese Factory.

The annual meeting of the Springbrook Cheese Factory Company was held on the 3rd inst. The meeting being called to order by the President. Mr. Jas. Cook, sr., was called to occupy the chair, W. H. Thompson Sec.

After a brief explanation by the President with regard to the satisfactory returns of the season, the following statement was given:—No. lbs. of milk received, 1,347,231; No. lbs. of cheese manufactured, 143,195; gross value per standard or 2,500 lbs., $27.69; manufacturing expenses and milk drawing, $3.09; net value for 2,500 lbs. of milk, $24.60.

There being about 80 present, a lunch was provided by the Company, which was the next attractive feature of the meeting, being served upon strictly temperance principles—bread and cheese and cold water. The business for the ensuing year was then taken up. Nathan Clark was re-elected President by acclamation, and Messrs. Philip Brown, jr., William Brown, Walter Martin and Henry Brown, Directors. The various milk routes were let for the ensuing season, also a vote of $6.00 to W. H. Minchin for services as auditor passed. The meeting was then brought to a close by a unanimous vote of confidence in W. H. Thompson, cheese maker.

CANADIAN FRUIT IN GERMANY.—The Montreal Star says:—"Since the days of Joshua, the men who go to spy out the riches of a land have found no proof of natural wealth so convincing as the kindly fruits of the earth. Dr. Otto Hahn, one of the German Commissioners who recently visited Canada, has just written the Montreal Horticultural Society, acknowledging receipt of a collection of Canadian apples, which has won commendation from the German pomological experts. He says:—"As agent of the Dominion of Canada in this country I think of continuing a permanent exhibition of Canadian products for stimulating and encouraging emigration to Canada, and I shall be very grateful to you if you will assist me for the coming year by sending such excellent fruits. It is the best way to direct attention to Canada. The report of our newspapers about the exhibition of Canadian products has expressed itself in very complimentary words." The shipment of fruit was made in the patent cases furnished by Mr. George A. Cochrane for the purpose. The safe arrival of this fruit at its destination goes far to show that our delicate fruits can be transported to distant markets in prime condition if properly packed and picked."

A Puslinch trapper caught in four weeks fifty-one minks, twenty-one muskrats, four coons and three skunks, and sold them for the nice sum of sixty-five dollars.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

QUERY?—Have you seen that big fist, with streams of electricity issuing from it, in another column?

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

MANITOBA.

The Far-famed Turtle Mountain District.

The First Town Site in the District.

I HAVE received instructions and will offer for sale by Public Auction, in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse, in the City of Belleville, on the days and evenings of

Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of December,

Six Hundred Lots in the Town Site of Wood Lake City.

In offering this Town Site, it is believed that we are offering something well worthy the attention of intending investors in Manitoba lands. It is situate on the banks of Wood Lake, in Township 2, Range 19 West, in the Province of Manitoba,—the well and favorably known Turtle Mountain district.

Public attention is now more favorably directed towards this District, which is rapidly settling up with first class settlers, than to any other in the Province, and lands are rapidly rising in price. The almost endless stretch of the best agricultural lands in the world, the abundance of wood and water, make this District at once the the Farmers' Eldorado, and within a year there will not be a section of land unsold. The Town site of Wood Lake City is situate in the very heart of this country, on the banks of one of the most beautiful Lakes imagination can picture, on one side of which rolling prairie stretches away as far as the eye can reach; while on the other stands a forest of oak, and other timber, 35 miles square. The lake is fed by springs, and contains therefore the best of water. The situation of this town site at once suggests a favorite summer resort. Game abounds in the country surrounding it. The Boundary Commission trail, the travelled thoroughfare to the far west, runs directly through the Town. There is at present a comfortable stopping place for the convenience of travellers, and arrangements are being made for the erection of a Saw Mill, Church, and School house. This site has long been looked forward to by settlers as the site for the future Town of the Turtle Mountain District, and with its advantages must rapidly take a prominent place amongst western cities. Every body wants to own some property in Manitoba. Here is a chance to obtain for a reasonable sum a property which will in a short time yield a handsome profit on the investment.

Terms made known at Sale.

Sale each day at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 7 o'clock. Maps and Plans on exhibition in the sale room.

City and Vicinity.

There was a blank at the Police Court this morning.

"ROOMS for Rent" in the Metropolitan Hall this evening.

THE total membership of the Anti-Treating Association is now about 120.

HOT and cold Baths at the Metropolitan Barber Shop, Campbell St. 194d2t

THE "Rooms for Rent" Company arrived in town this morning by the express from the east, and are staying at the Dafoe House.

MR. A. D. WALKER has resigned the Secretaryship of the Mechanics' Institute, and Mr. Chas. Gillen has been appointed in his stead.

IN describing the Coleman Ward school-house yesterday, we should have stated that Mr. James Smith was the architect of the building as well as the superintendent of the work.

WE regret to learn that Col. Jas. Brown, M.P., was yesterday seized with a fainting fit. He was somewhat better to-day, but some days will elapse before he is able to leave his room.

MESSRS. George S. Tickell and Alfred Brignall are the first candidates for Aldermanic honors to announce themselves through the press. Their cards will be found in another column.

MR. GEO. S. STERLING has received from Chicago three brace of prairie chickens, which may be seen in the window of the St. George's Restaurant. The prairie chicken is a rara avis in this country.

WE notice the names of Messrs. James Mackie and Wm. Docter among the delegates in attendance at the meeting of the Ontario Trade Benevolent Association, which was held at Toronto yesterday.

MESSRS. Dougall & Co., of Montreal, are offering as premiums to subscribers to their publications, fair-sized fac-similes of the engravings taken from Miss Thompson's (Mrs. Butler) famous pictures "Roll Call" and "Quatre Bras."

MR. ROBT. RICHARDSON'S horse, which was standing in front of the residence of Mrs. Wattles, William St., was yesterday frightened by that lady's horse, which was driven by her servant close in front of its head, and ran away. Mr. Richardson was thrown to the ground and had his right arm severely bruised, but happily escaped without further injury.

THE press despatch this morning contains the announcement that the sentence of William Vaun, who murdered, at his home in North Carolina, Mr. Gatling, the brother of Mr. W. J. Gatling, of this city, and of the inventor of the Gatling gun, has been commuted to imprisonment for life. The murder was a deliberate and cold-blooded one, and the law ought to have been allowed to take its course.

THE bazaar given by the ladies of Christ Church congregation came to a successful conclusion last evening. It was well attended throughout, and the sales were in good proportion to the attendance. An auction-sale was held last night, at which a large number of articles were disposed of at fair prices. The ladies will realize over $200. At the close, Mrs. Dr. Clark was presented with a very handsome chair valued at $20.

Go and get a Hot Bath at the Metropolitan Barber Shop, Campbell St. 194d2t

THE woman Mrs. Holmes, a domestic in Mr. E. Burrell's family, who left the house suddenly a week or ten days ago, and about whom a sensational article appeared a few evenings since in our local contemporary, has turned up all right. She had merely gone to visit a friend, a dress-maker, who lives in the southern part of the city. She came to Mr. Burrell's yesterday as suddenly as she went away, and took her clothes that she had left there. The woman is undoubtedly a little "cranked," as Guiteau would say.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 16.—Lakes, fresh to strong winds mostly from the south and south-west, fair to cloudy, milder weather with light snow or rain in some localities.

SONS OF ENGLAND.—Englishmen who intend becoming members of this Society are reminded of the meeting to take place in the St. George's Hall on Friday, the 16th, at 8 o'clock p. m., as the election of officers will then take place. 193d2t

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—This work is before us, and those who send 10 cents to JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y., for it, will be disappointed. Instead of getting a cheap thing, as the price would seem to indicate, they will receive a very handsome work of 150 pages, and perhaps 1000 illustrations —not cheap, but elegant illustrations, on the very best of calendered paper, and as a set off to the whole, two beautiful Colored Plates that are worth twice the price of the book.

THE entertainment held in the City Hall last evening under the auspices of the Anti-Treating Association came off with gratifying success. The attendance was quite large, between two and three hundred persons being present. The programme was successfully carried out, and was warmly received by the audience. The songs furnished by Mrs. J. P. Thomas, Miss O'Carroll, Miss Dulmage and Mr. Fetherstone were all encored, and all deserved that honor; the cornet solo by Mr. Riggs was well performed and well received; the addresses of the Chairman (Rev. M. W. McLean), Mr. J. W. Johnson, and Mr. J. J. B. Flint were short, pithy, practical, and interesting without being tedious; and, finally, the readings of Mr. Carmichael and Miss Fones were both splendidly rendered, and added largely to the pleasure of the entertainment. Miss Fones' reading ("The May Queen") deserves the honor of being called "the piece of the evening." It was given with all the abandon, the delicate perception and faithful delineation, the powerful pathos and refined expression, of a practiced elocutionist (better, no doubt, than most professional elocutionists could render it), and was breathlessly listened to and entusiastically applauded by the audience. We hope this is not the last time we shall hear Miss Fones as a reader on a public platform in Belleville. Mr. Carmichael read two scenes from "The Lady of Lyons" with all his usual ability. In the absence of Mr. Oldham (who was too ill to be present) Mr. Fetherstone presided at the piano as accompanist, and acquitted himself well in that capacity. On the conclusion of the entertainment the Chairman invited all those present who had not yet become connected with the Association to come forward and give in their names, and twenty gentlemen responded to the call.—We should add that the piano which was used last evening was kindly furnished by Mr. Brinkman, music dealer.

MANITOBA LANDS.—An important auction sale of lands in the far-famed Turtle Mountain district, which is one of the best and most fertile districts of Manitoba is to be held in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse on Tuesday and Wednesday next. Mr. Wilkins will wield the hammer on the occasion. See the advertisement for particulars. Investment in north-west lands is one of the most profitable speculations of the time; several well-known residents of the city have been highly fortunate in that regard; and the sale now advertised offers an excellent opportunity of following in their footsteps.

TEA MEETING.—The annual tea-meeting of the Kingston Road Methodist Church was held yesterday evening, and was a pronounced success, the church was crowded, a number being unable to find seats. The eatables were A. 1, and were served without stint, the addresses were eloquent, witty and patriotic, the music inspiring and the audience appreciative. After tea Mr. Wm. Johnson was called to the chair, and addresses were delivered by M. B. Roblin, Hon. Robt. Read and the Rev. Dr. Jeffers. The financial report was read by Mr. Wm. Wensley. The choir of the church was materially aided by the voices of Messrs. Edgar, Sherwood, Preston and Albert Wensley of the city. The proceeds of the tea-meeting amounted to $52.

ANOTHER FIRE.—The firemen were called out again this morning, a few minutes after 2 o'clock. The fire this time, when first discovered, was issuing from the south-east corner of the stable occupied by Mr. Chas. Cook, veterinary surgeon. It spread rapidly, and before the brigade and engine had arrived the flames had enveloped the building and communicated to the barn and stables in rear of Doyle's Hotel, and also to a rough-cast house occupied by a family named Manion and owned by Mr. I. B. Graham. In Mr. Cook's barn were four horses, a buggy, harness, a large quantity of hay and straw, a hay press, scale, throwing tackle, two pigs, and the usual implements and material used in a barn. Mr. Cook jumped out of bed when he heard the alarm, ran out in his night shirt, climbed into a window, let out the four horses and just had time to get out the buggy. All the remaining contents of the barn were destroyed. The flames spread to Mr. Doyle's barn with great rapidity, the high stone wall between the two structures offering no impediment to their progress, and in a very short time the building was in flames and all attempts to save its contents were fruitless. A horse, buggy, cutters, cows and several other things were got out; but a large quantity of material stored in the upper part of the building was destroyed. The rough-cast house by Mrs. Manion was saved by the efforts of the firemen, but not before the north end was badly damaged. The family got all the furniture out safely, and lost very little. The total loss by the fire was about $2,400, upon which there was, in all, about $1,400 insurance. Mr. Cook's loss was about $500, and he was insured for $400; Mr. Doyle lost about $1,000 worth of property, upon which he was insured for $700; Mr. I. B. Graham's loss on the barn occupied by Mr. Cook was about $400, on which he had no insurance; and his loss on the house was about $300, which is fully covered by insurance. Mr. Wm. Powell had six cutters, one drag, and a quantity of material stored in the upper part of Doyle's shed, and lost them all. He was uninsured. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. All the wooden barns and stables in that vicinity are being rapidly cleared out by fire, and it is to be hoped that action will be taken to prevent the re-building of such inflammable structures. They are a constant source of danger to the surrounding buildings.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

FEMALE EMIGRATION.—The Globe special cable from London, December 14, says:—"A meeting of the supporters of the Women's Emigration Society was held at Exeter Hall to-day to discuss female emigration to Canada. The Marquis of Lorne presided. He said he thought that committees sending women to Canada should have affiliated committes in Canada, who should send reports to London monthly. He specially dwelt on the capabilities of the North-West for supporting a large population, and suggested that arrangements be made for the organization of committees in centres of population with a view of encouraging the emigration of women. Sir Alexander Galt, resident minister of the Dominion in Great Britain, also spoke. He said he regretted that the British Government had never recognized the importance of protected emigration. He hoped the Government would soon meet the liberal offers of Canada, and co-operate in promoting emigration of England's surplus population to the Dominion. Sir Bartle Frere spoke highly of Canada as a field for emigration."

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&w1y

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

MORNING DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON SPECIALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Times says, Dr. Young was interrogated yesterday regarding medical treatment given to Guiteau, because of a report that prisoner had been given opiates in his food to quiet and stupify him. Mrs. Scoville believes that Guiteau has been secretly given medicine in his food, and that the effect has been to change his personal appearance.

Martinez, Chilian minister, has sent a long memorandum note to Blaine in regard to the present complications, dated Nov. 21st. Its object is stated to be to have the Government of the United States correctly informed, so it may be enabled to appreciate the upright and prudent policy of Chili, and understand those events which are yet to come. Martinez reviews the conflict in Peru, and says Calderon told the Chilian diplomatic agent that for his part he was ready to sign a treaty of peace based upon the cession of territory, but never dared to do so, because the people opposed that condition. Christianity encouraged Calderon in his resistance to the cession of territory. Then Calderon fell into most lamentable discredit. The Chilian commander would have deposed Calderon, even if Calderon had been recognized by all the powers of the world instead of by the United States and Switzerland only. There will be no peace in Peru so long as certain financial schemes find support by this or that Government, or so long as there is hope of intervention by the United States. Chili demands liberty of action.

It is expected that a bill of expense incidental to Garfield's illness and death amounting to $110,000 or even $125,000, will come in. Bliss, Agnew and Hamilton will receive about $24,000 or $27,000 each; the four nurses will receive $2,500 each; Dr. Camb of the Surgeon-General's office, will receive $100 for the autopsy, and Reburn, Bliss' assistant, will receive a reasonable sum. It is not known what charges the railway companies will make for the use of the special trains, and the construction of the new tracks at Washington and Long Branch.

NEW YORK, Dec., 16.—Arrived the Alsatia from London.

CHIEFS OF POLICE IN COUNCIL.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—A convention of the Chiefs of Police of the United States was held yesterday. The object was to organize a system of interchanging telegraphic information regarding criminals and fugitives from justice, and increased activity in police forces of the various cities.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 16.—John T. Foster a commercial traveller, residing at Beaver, Pa., has been summoned to Washington by Attorney Corkhill. It is understood that Foster will testify that one day before the shooting of Garfield he was sitting at a boot-black stand at Washington. Guiteau came up and they got into conversation. Guiteau said, "I have been appointed Consul to Paris" Said Foster: "Are you sure you will get it?" "Oh, yes!" replied Guiteau, and added, "if I don't get it I will cause greater excitement here in Washington than there has been since 1862."

A BIBULOUS PREACHER SHOT.

FRANKLIN, Va., Dec. 16.—Price, a colored preacher, while on a spree knocked down Constable Oliver, who attempted to arrest him. Oliver shot Price fatally.

NEW RAILWAY.

LAREDO, Texas, Dec. 16.—The International and Great Northern Railway, connecting Laredo with the north, was completed to this point yesterday. A bridge over the Rio Grande will soon be laid.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE VIENNA THEATRE DISASTER.

VIENNA, Dec. 16.—A sensation was caused by Baker's statement that after escaping from the burning building he purchased three candles and hastened back in hope of saving some of the sufferers, but the police arrested him

NEWSPAPER SEIZED.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.—The United Ireland was seized yesterday by the direction of the Attorney-General, who is of the opinion that the paper was a "no rent" manifesto of the worst kind. It was a seditious and direct incitement to murder.

THREATENING A JUDGE.

OMAHA, Dec. 16.—When the case of Arndt against the Union Pacific Railway was called yesterday, United States Judge Dundy stated in open court that he heard that Arndt had threatened to kill him. This created a sensation. Arndt emphatically denied making such a threat, and the case proceeded. Arndt is suspected of the murder of Col. Smith, clerk of the United States Courts.

FIRE AT ORANGE.

ORANGE, N. Y., Dec. 16.—The hat factory of Cummings, Barry & Co., five dwellings and Sparrow, Venino & Co's., hat factory, were burned this morning. 3,000 men are thrown out of employment. Loss, $60,000.

OPERA HOUSE BURNED.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 46.—The grand opera house was gutted by fire this morning. Loss $20,000.

NEW ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec., 16.—The President to-day nominated Benj. Harris, of Brewster, Pa., to be Attorney-General.

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 16.—Arrived the Rhine.

GRAVEYARD INSURANCE.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 19.—The State Capital Mutual Insurance Company, dissolved here yesterday, was next to the Southern Pennsylvania dissolved on Tuesday, the most extensive graveyard Insurance Company of the state, carrrying risks amounting to $15,000,000. The Directors of the Company will be tried for conspiracy in January.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Post's Washington special says that Mrs. Dumire, Guiteau's divorced wife, to-day again took the stand. A few ladies left the room, whereupon Guiteau flamed out against Corkhill for attempting to stir up a scandal, and called upon the President to kick Corkhill as a personal favor to himself, the author of his present greatness. Scoville objected to the admission of Mrs. Dumire's testimony, she having been the prisoner's wife. The Court ruled that the examination might continue. Corkhill asked her a few questions and she gave the opinion that Guiteau was sane. Scoville's method of cross-examination excited Guiteau's wrath, contempt and ridicule, which he freely poured forth, calling Scoville a consummate jackass, a stupid fool, etc, etc.

FOURTEEN PERSONS DROWNED.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A boat containing fourteen persons sunk in a storm on way from Galway to the Arran Islands. All perished.

A CLERGYMAN'S TROUBLES.

ROCHESTER, Dec. 16.—The Rev. H. O. Bates, who recently had his divorced wife ejected from his church in Sodus, has commenced an action for the recovery of a child, which has been abducted by the mother.

FROM PICTON.

PICTON, Dec. 15.

The steam barge Saxon arrived here to-day from Ogdensburg, to lay up. She will have some repairs put on her this winter.

Dynamite cartridges were sunk to the bottom of the bay yesterday, in several places, and exploded, with a hope of raising the bodies of Davy and Johnston, who were drowned a few days ago, but so far it has been unsuccessful.

"I too caught the fever," said Mr. Harvey B. F. Keller, recorder of deeds, Ottawa, Kansas, "and have long been convinced of the merits of the St. Jacobs Oil. The principal use to which the Oil has been devoted in my family has been for rheumatism, which disease it subdues with wonderful quickness."

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try 5 cent sample.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

What with borrowing, and giving bills, and drawing larger bills to pay the former bills when they became due, Julian and his wife had, by the nineteenth year of their marriage, eaten out the whole core and marrow of their fortunes. The edifice now stood to all appearance, as splendid as ever—but it had become a house of cards over a bottomless pit.

And yet they had children; they had not wanted those best incentives to a better course. Their possessions in this way were not very numerous; people of this description have seldom overflowing nurseries: the mother is usually too fine a lady to look after her children. She is contented with hiring some head nurse, taking her on trust from some other young woman as heedless and negligent of her duties as herself; and to her tender mercies she leaves her babies.

Such a nurse had lorded it in Mrs. Winstanley's family; an ill-governed family in every respect, where each servant, from the highest to the lowest, measured his or her consequence by the money which was spent or wasted. Under this nurse's care two lovely boys had died in their infancy. One little girl had tumbled somewhere or in some way—or had been made to stand too long in the corner when she was naughty, or to walk too far when she was tired or what, I know not. All I know, is, there was some internal injury, the cause of which no medical man who was consulted could detect. The other, and only remaining child, was a fine, handsome, spirited girl, of whom Mrs. Nurse thought proper to be excessively proud and fond. And how were these little children educated? Educated is an inappropriate word. There was no capacity for education on the part of Nurse; but Mr. and Mrs. Winstanley, though their dinners were just as numerous and profuse as ever, saw not the slightest necessity, whilst the little girls were young, for the additional expense of any better governess; and Mrs. Nurse was left to give all the elementary instruction that was thought needful—a task which she undertook with alacrity; having become somewhat apprehensive, now the two little boys were dead and the two young ladies getting bigger, that she might be superseded.

Her teaching consisted, first in shaking and scolding Miss Clementina, and keeping her, with her poor aching hip, prisoner in her chair till she had learned a lesson—which, for want of comprehending the absurdly long words of which it seemed purposely composed, it was almost impossible she should learn; and secondly, in laughing at Miss Ella's odd blunders as she read, and telling her every word as it occurred, before she had time to pronounce it.

As for religion, morality, or knowledge of right and wrong, Mrs. Nurse thought too little about such things herself to impart them to others. I suppose she taught the children to say their prayers; but I am sure I know no more than the mother did, whether it was so or no. Sometimes the children were taken to stare about them in church; but not often, for Mrs. Winstanley was in the habit of fulfilling the commandment very literally and making Sunday a day of rest. Commonly she spent the forenoon in bed; only getting up in time to dress for a dinner party which Mr. Winstanley made an especial point of having on that day. He, as yet, paid this trifling respect to it; he abstained from going on Sunday evening to a certain club which he frequented, to play cards, roulette, for unknown sums.

The elder of these children grew up, suffering and spiritless; the younger was proud, insolent, overbearing, and tyrannical—as much so as such a little creature could be. They were fast growing into all this, and would have been confirmed in it, had not an accident arrested the fearful progress.

Spoiled, flattered, allowed to indulge every evil temper with impunity, Ella's faults were numberless; more especially to her helpless sister, whose languid health and feeble spirits excited little sympathy, and whose complaints seemed to irritate her.

'I declare you are the most tiresome, tormenting thing, sitting there looking as miserabe as ever you can, and with that whining voice of yours, enough to drive one mad. Why can't you brighten up a little, and come and play? You really shall come and play. I want to play! Nurse! O! she's not there! Do make Clementina come and play.'

'Don't, Ella! don't tease me so; pray don't! My hip hurts me; I can't. Do let me alone, pray.'

'Nonsense. You make such a fuss about your hip! I don't believe any such thing's the matter with it; only you're so ill-natured, you never will do anything I ask. Nurse, I say,' as the door opened. 'do make her.—O, it's only Matty! Matty, where's Nurse?'

'She's just stepped out, Miss, and told me to come, and stay in the day-room with you till she was back.'

And Matty, the new maid, hired but a day or two before, came in with her sewing in her hand, and sat down quietly to her work at the window.

'Matty!' cried Ella, imperiously, 'don't sit there looking so stupid; but come and make this tiresome girl play with me. There she sits, mooning over the fire. If Nurse were here she'd soon have her up.'

'Don't, pray, Mattie,' as Matty was rising from her chair. 'Pray, don't. I'll go and play; but indeed, indeed, it hurts me very much to move to-day.'

'Nonsense! Make her get up, Matty. You must mind me, Matty; you came here to mind me; so do as you are bid, you ugly thing.'

Matty indeed merited the title of ugly. She was rather tall, but of a most ungainly figure, with long bony limbs, ill put together. It was difficult to say what the features of her face might have been: they were so crumpled, and scarred, and seamed. Not a feature had been left uninjured, except her eyes; and they were remarkable both for intelligence and softness.

She put down her work and went up to Clementina, saying, 'What ails you, Miss? I hope it isn't true that you feign sickness not to play with your sister?'

The poor girl looked up, and her eyes were filled with tears, 'Feign! I wish I did!'

'Then your hip does hurt you?'

'To be sure it does. So badly! At night, sometimes, when I'm in bed—so, so badly.

'And do you know that, Miss Ella?'

'Know it? Why, who does not know it? She's always talking of it; but, for my part, I don't believe it's half so bad as she pretends.'

'I don't pretend, Ella; you are always saying that. How cruel you are to set Nurse against me, by always saying I pretend.'

Thus it went on for a minute or two whilst Matty stood silently by, her eyes wandering from one sister to the other.

At last she sighed, and said, 'If it had pleased God to spare me my sister, I wouldn't have served her so.'

Ella turned at this, and lifting up her eyes, measured Matty from head to foot with indignant contempt. It would seem as if she thought it almost too great a presumption in one so humble to have more care for a sister than she had.

'Who cares how such as you serve their sisters!'

'There is One who cares!' said Matty.

Clementina looked at Matty with puzzled wonder as she spoke, Ella haughtily turned away, saying, 'I should like, for my part, to hear who this important one is, that you mention with such a strange emphasis. Some mighty fine personage, no doubt.'

'Miss Clementina! Miss Clementina! only hear how shocking your sister talks. Do stop her!'

'Stop me! I should like to see her, or any one, attempting to stop me. And why, pray—and what, pray, am I saying so mighty bad, Mrs. Matty? You? A charity girl? I heard Nurse say, but yesterday, that she wondered her mistress would put up with such rubbish, and that she loathed the very look of you, for you put her in mind of the Blue Coat.'

'I thank God,' returned Matty, mildly, 'that he raised up that great charity for me, and many perishing like me, and saved us from wickedness, and taught us to know His holy name. For He looks alike on rich and poor, and will judge both you and me, young lady.'

Both girls were a little awe-stricken at this speech.

But Ella soon recovered herself, and said, 'she hated to hear people talk like methodists.'

'What are you talking about, Matty?' asked Clementina, gently; 'I don't quite understand.'

'Not understand!—why, sure—heart alive!—it can't be as you are ignorant of who makes and keeps you and all of us! Sure! Sure!' Matty kept repeating in a tone of much distress, 'I can't believe my own ears.'

'I suppose we know about all that,' said Ella, haughtily.

She to teach her!—the child of charity to presume to insinuate a want in her! The idea was intolerable.

She went and sat down at a table at some little distance, and pretended to be busy playing with her bird, whose golden cage stood upon it; but, as she did so, she listened in spite of herself to the following conversation, passing between Clementina and Matty.

'I am so uncomfortable,' the young girl was saying, rather fretfully; 'I don't know what to do with myself. I try this thing and try that thing, and nothing gives me any ease or amusement; and I think it very hard—I can't help thinking it hard—that I should have to suffer everything, and Ella, there, nothing; and then, Nurse makes such a favorite of her, and nobody in the wide world cares for me. Oh, I am so miserable, sometimes!'

TO BE CONTINUED.

Post Mortem Examintions have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 26 1y

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 26 1y

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,
C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.
MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

WOULD YOU MISS ME.

If within my grave I lay,
Would you miss me much?
Would you miss, with yearning pain,
Answering voice and touch?
Would you wish that I could come
To you in your lonely room?

Would you miss the eyes which found
Watching for you sweet?
Would the coming home be drear,
Which they could not greet?
Miss the hands that strove to be Faithful in their ministry?

Would you miss me when the cares
Of the day were o'er?
Would you sadly wish for me,
By your side once more?
Miss the quiet talk which drew
Heart to heart in bonds more true?

Would you all my faults forgive,
And forget them, too?
Just remember that my heart
Faithful was and true?
That its love was all your own,
Full, entire, and yours alone.

AN ADVENT HYMN.

BY REV. W. R. HUNTINGTON, D. D.

Lord of the darkness and the day,
To thee thy waiting people pray,
Perplexed, assaulted and hard-beset,
Faithful, we grasp thy promise yet.

Dimly our homesick eyes descry
The signs that fleck earth's sunset sky;
But, while we strive to read aright,
The evening deepens into night.

Come, Prince of life! Come even so
As thou from Olivet didst go;
Make good the word, for honor's sake,
The twain in white apparel spake.

With cleansing fire our work to try,
Discerner of the heart, draw nigh!
Swing east, swing west thy winnowing fan
Till judgment thoroughly search out man.

So melts at last the twilight gray;
So broadens luminous the day
When, stern to punish, swift to bless,
A king shall reign in righteousness.

—Christian Union.

VALUATION.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

The old 'Squire said, as he stood by his gate,
And his neighbor, the Deacon, went by
"In spite of my bank stock and real estate,
You are better off, Deacon, than I.

"We're both growing old, and the end's drawing near;
You have less of this world to resign,
But in Heaven's appraisal your assets, I fear,
Will reckon up greater than mine.

"They say I am rich, but I'm feeling so poor,
I wish I could swop with you even
The pounds I have lived for and laid up in store
For the shillings and pence you have given."

"Well, 'Squire," said Deacon, with shrewd common sense,
While his eyes had a twinkle of fun,
"Let your pounds take the way of my shillings and pence,
And the thing can be easily done."

TABERNACLE SERMONS.

Discourse by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage.

LOTTERIES.

"Upon my vesture did they cast lots.—St. Mathew xxvii., 35.

Christ had been condemned to death and His property was being disposed of. He had no real estate. He was born in a stranger's barn and buried in a borrowed sepulchre. His personal property was of but little value. His coat was the only thing to come into consideration. His shoes had been worn out in the long journey for the world's redemption. Who shall have His coat? Someone says: "Let us toss up in a lottery and decide this matter." "I have it!" said one of the inhuman butchers, "I have it!" "Upon my vesture did they cast lots." And there on that spot were born all the lotteries the world has seen. On that spot of cruelty and shame and infamy there was born the Royal Havana lottery, in which some of you may have had tickets. There was born the famous New York lottery, which pretended to have over $722,000 worth of cash prizes. There was born the Topeka, Kansas, Laramie City and Wyoming Territory lotteries. There was born the Louisville lottery, with diamonds and pearls and watches by the bushel. There was born the Louisiana lottery, sanctioned by influential names. There was born the Kentucky lottery for the City School of Frankfort. All the lotteries that have swindled the world were born there—without any exception, all of them moral outrages, whether sanctioned by legislative authority or antagonized of it; moral outrages, though respectable people have sometimes damaged their property with them and blistered their immortal soul for eternity. One of the sad things about these lotteries is that poor people in their extremity, and almost frenzied with their destitution, resort to them, and lose their last dollar, their last fifty cents, their last five cents—for there are lotteries where the drawing occurs every five minutes. In the time of the greatest distress in Italy, $14,000,000 were annually expended by the poorer population in lotteries. Let the people in all parts of the land beware when they get hold of any of the circulars that are flooding the country at this time—circulars in language something like this:

"Agents' prize tickets free of cost. Every ticket a prize. No blanks, and a fortune within your reach without cost or risk. Any person can easily sell $10 worth of tickets in the enclosed monthly among personal friends, and secure one of the agents' tickets free of price. There are ten thousand prizes, and only ten thousand tickets in all."

Under the curse of the lottery tens of thousands of people are losing their fortunes and losing their souls. What they call a "wheel of fortune" is a juggernaut crushing out the life of their immortal nature. In one of the insolvent courts of the country it was found that in one village $200,000 had been expended for lotteries. All the officers of the celebrated United States Bank who failed, were found to have expended the embezzled moneys in lottery tickets. A man won $50,000 in a lottery; he sold his ticket for $42,000, and yet had not enough to pay charges against him for tickets. He owed the brokers $45,000. The editor of a newspaper writes:

"My friend was blessed with $20,000 in a lottery, and from that time he began to go astray, and yesterday he asked of me ninepence to pay for a night's lodging."

A man won $20,000 in a lottery. Flattered by his success he bought another ticket, and won still more largely; another ticket, and still more largely. Then being fairly started on the road to ruin, here and there a loss did not seem to agitate him, and he went on and on until the select men of the village pronounced him a vagabond, and picked up his children from the street half-starved and almost naked. A hardworking machinist won a thousand dollars in a lottery. He was thrilled with the success, disgusted with his hard work, opened a rum grocery, got debauched in morals, and was found dead at the foot of his rum cask. O! it would take a pen plucked from the wing of the destroying angel, and dipped in human blood, to describe this lottery business. A suicide was found having in his pocket a card of address showing he was boarding at a grog-shop. Besides that, he had three lottery tickets, and a leaf from Seneca's Morals arguing in behalf of the righteousness of self murder. After a lottery in England, there were fifty suicides of those who had held unlucky numbers. There are people who have lottery tickets in their pockets—tickets which, if they have not wisdom enough to tear up or burn up, will be their admission tickets at the door of the lost world. The brazen gate will swing open, and they will show their tickets, and they will go in, and they will go down. The wheel of their eternal fortune may turn very slowly, but they will find that the doom of those who object to the teachings of God and imperil their immortal souls is their only prize. I pray God that none of the young men who are in the audience this morning may ever come to the lamentation of a Boston clerk who had embezzled $18,000 from his employer, and after it was all spent in this infernal lottery business, sat down and wrote these words:

"I have for the last seven months gone fast down the broad road. There was a time, and that only a few months since, when I was happy because I was free from debt and care. The moment of the first steps in my downfall was about the middle of last June, when I took a share in a company—bought lottery tickets, whereby I was successful in obtaining a share of one half of the capital prize, since which I have gone from myself. I have lived and dragged out a miserable existence for two or three months past. O! that the seven or eight months past of my existence could be blotted out. But I must go, and ere this paper is read my spirit has gone to my Maker to give an account of my misdeeds here, and to receive the eternal sentence for self-destruction and abused confidence. Relatives and friends I have from whom I do not wish to part under such circumstances, but necessity compels. Oh, wretch! lottery tickets have been my ruin. But I cannot add more."

The dismal echo of the ruin of tens of thousands of young men. But there are a good many respectable people who, while they oppose the ordinary lottery, patronize art associations and gift enterprises under the impression the iniquity is not quite so bad if it have a more popular nomenclature, and that there can not be any very great harm in a ticket which will draw for one Bierstadt's Yosemite Valley or Cropsey's American Autumn. Multitudes who cannot be captivated with the more vulgar forms of gambling or lottery are captivated by this form. A few years ago we saw in all our cities the flaming advertisements of the Crosby Opera House scheme. A man in Chicago found an unprofitable building on his hands, and he resolved to make all the nation help him out of that difficulty. Lottery offices were opened in all the great cities. The people rushed in. Philadelphia bought over $30,000 worth of the tickets. New York bought over $100,000 worth of the tickets. The hour approaches. The trains carry into the city dignified committees to see that the abomination is conducted in a Christian and orderly style. Trains are loaded with great multitudes, who come to get their fortunes. The agony is over. A great multitude of people have had narrow escapes of sudden affluence. Swift horses, foaming and lathered, dash up to the house of the man who holds the successful ticket. The lightnings carry to the four winds of Heaven the news, and our enterprising pictorials hasten forward their photographers to take the picture of the man who had the ticket 58,600. Multitudes of people declared there was foul play, and that if the truth were only known they themselves had won the opera house. The man who won the opera house soon died of drunkenness, and the beautiful opera house which had been raffled away, stange to say, was found at last in the possession of the original owner. A swindle, an insult to God and the American people. Always a swindle every lottery is. Then there are gift stores which make gamblers by the hundreds. I refer to those stores where, if you buy a watch, or a sewing machine, or a piano, there is a prize connected with it. It is only a sharp way of getting rid of unsalable goods. Those stores have filled the land with fictitious articles and covered up our population with brass finger rings, and despoiled public morals, and have made more gamblers than you can count. The lottery business will stop at no indecency. In Maryland they actually draw for prizes lots in a burying ground! But there are only two or three forms of this great plague of the American nation—a plague that has swept over all our cities and smitten down a vast multitude of those who were once the very best citizens. "O!" says someone, "that subject has no interest for me: that evil never touches me at any point." There is not a man or woman in the House of God this morning but is touched by it. Years ago a society was formed for the suppression of gambling and the agent of that society went to a prominent merchant of New York and asked his help. "O!" said the merchant, "I have no interest in that society. Gambling is an evil, but it in no wise touches my business." He did not know that his oldest son, a partner with him in business, was the heaviest player in Hearne's famous gambling establishment. The agent of the Society for the Suppression of Gambling went to another prominent citizen, who said: "O! that's a very good society, but I don't know why you ask my help. I am acquainted with all my employees. They have nothing to do with this gambling habit." He did not know that one of his bookkeepers, on a thousand a year, was losing fifty and a hundred dollars every night just then at the faro table. The agent of that society went to a prominent railroad man, asking for his patronage. "O!" he said, "that Society for the Suppression of Gambling is a good thing for the defense of merchants and manufacturers, but I don't know why you ask help of me, a railroad man." He did not know that two of his conductors were spending three nights of every week at the faro table. There is not a person in this house this morning but ought to have an interest in the subject. What is gambling? Gambling is risking something more or less valuable with the idea of winning more than you hazard. Playing cards is not gambling unless a stake be put up, while on the other hand a man may gamble without cards, without dice, without billiards, without ten-pin alleys. It may not be bagatelle, it may not be billiards, it may not be any of the ordinary instruments of gambling. It may be a glass of wine. It may be a hundred shares in a prosperous railroad company. I do not care what the instruments of the game are, or what the stakes are that are put up—if you propose to get anything without paying for it in time, or skill, or money, unless you get it by inheritance, you get it either by theft or by gambling. This is no new sprite come forth to curse the nation. It is a haggard transaction that comes down under a mantle of curses, staggering through the centuries. Before 1838 the French government received a revenue from the gaming tables. In the sixteenth century the English government, for the improvement of the harbors, had gambling enacted at the door of St. Paul's Cathedral. The British Museum and the Westminster Bridge were partially built by gambling. The Germans used to put themselves and their families up as prizes, and when they were lost as prizes, would allow those who were physically weaker than themselves to bind them and take them off. In our days the House of Commons adjourns on Derby day to go out and bet on the horses. What is bad in other lands is bad here and all through this land. A traveller said he travelled one thousand miles on Western waters and at every waking moment, from the starting to the closing of his journey, he was in the presence of gambling. A man if he is disposed to this vice will find something to accommodate him; if not in the low restaurant behind the curtain, on the table covered with greasy cards, or in the steamboat cabin where the bloated wretch with rings in his ears winks to an unsuspecting traveller, or in the elegant parlor, the polished drawing-room, the mirrored and pictured halls of wealth and beauty. This vice destroys through unhealthy stimulants. We all at times like excitements. There are a thousand voices within us that demand excitements. They are healthful, they are inspiriting, they are God-given. The desire is for excitement; but look out for any kind of excitement which, after the gratification of the appetite, hurls the man back into destructive reactions. Then the excitement is wicked. Beware of an agitation, which like a rough musician in order to call out the time, plays so hard he breaks down the instrument. God never yet made a man strong enough to endure gambling excitements without damage. It is no surprise that many a man seated at the game-box lost, and then began to sweep off imaginary gold from the table. He sat down sane. He rose a maniac. The keepers of gambling saloons school themselves into placidity. They are fat and round and rollicking and obese; but those who go to play for the sake of winning are thin and pale and exhausted and nervous and sick, and have the heart disease, and are liable at any moment to drop down dead. That is the character of nine out of ten of the gamblers. You cannot be healthy and practice that vice.

Then it is killing to all industry. Do you notice that just as soon as a man gets that vice on him he stops his work. How dull is the store, the shop, the factory, the banking house! Do you not know that this vice has dulled the saw of the carpenter, and cut the band of the factory wheel, and sunk the cargo, and broken the teeth of the farmer's rake, and sent a strange lightning to the battery of the philosopher? What a dull thing is a plow to a farmer when in one night in the village restaurant he can make or lose the price of a whole harvest. How dull it is for a man to sell tape and silk and calico and nankeen, and weigh sugars, or run up and down a long line of dull figures when he can in one night make or lose the price of a whole business season! I am not talking an abstraction. A tremendous reality it is, and I cry it aloud in the ears of these young men. John Borak was sent out as a commercial agent to Bremen and to the United States. After two years had gone by the house which sent him began to suspect that there was something wrong. They made investigation, and found that he had spent $86,000 in gambling saloons; $29,000 in Lombard street, London; $10,000 in Fulton street, New York; $3,000 in New Orleans, and other thousands elsewhere. He was caught, tried, condemned, imprisoned; but he broke out of the penitentiary, went into the gambling business, and died a lunatic in an insane asylum. There never was a business strong enough to endure this evil habit. The whole theory of gambling is hostile to industry. Every other occupation yields something to the community. The street sweeper pays for what he gets by the cleanliness of the streets; the cat pays for what it eats by clearing the house of vermin; the fly pays for the sweets it extracts from the dregs of a cup by purifying the air and keeping back pestilence—but the gambler gives nothing. I recall that last sentence. He does make a return, but it is in the destruction of the man whom he fleeces disgrace to his wife, ruin to his children, death to his soul. He does pay, but he pays in poverty and wretchedness, and blood and tears, and woe and perdition. Then look at the multiform dishonesties that come of this habit. Why, in the very shuffling of the cards there are deception and tricks. How often it is that by fraud the player knows what is in his apponent's hand. A skillful gamester has accomplices, and one wink decides the game. The cards are so marked that from the back they may be designated. Dice are loaded with platina, and these are put into the game unknown to the honest player, and that is the reason that nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand gamblers, though they may start with wealth, at the end are so poor and miserable and wretched that they would not be allowed to sit on the door-step of the brown stone front that they once owned. A young man came to San Francisco, having a large amount of money, which he got in the mines, and he put a large sum on the ace and won, a larger sum and won again, and a larger sum and won again. Then he was on the straight road to ruin, and he kept on. After a while the tide turned. The cards came forth cautiously. There was not a sound heard until the ace was revealed favorable to the bank. The young man cried "Foul, foul!" but the keepers of the saloon drew their pistols and said, "Quiet, quiet, quiet!" It was all quiet. You call that a game of chance. There is no chance about it. It is decreed that in the long run the bank shall win and the man shall lose. O! how many have gone down under the plague. It is an awful plague. A man after having been elegantly brought up—he was polished and he was refined—went to New Orleans. He carried considerable wealth with him. His parents were wealthy. They had, moreover, given him a Christian blessing as he departed. The sharpers got after him. He played, and he played tolerably well. They patted him on the back, they flattered him and they said, "You play as if you had always been playing. How skilful you are at the game." They kept encouraging him, until after a while it was time to change the tack, and he lost thousands after thousands of dollars. He lost all but his watch. Then he put up his watch, and he lost that. When all was gone he thought it time to write to his old father and mother, and he wrote this letter:

"MY BELOVED PARENTS.—You will doubtless feel a momentary joy at the reception of this letter from the child of your bosom, on whom you have lavished all the favors of your declining year; but should a feeling of joy for a moment spring up in your hearts when you shall have received this from me, cherish it not. I have fallen deep, never to rise. Those gray hairs that I have honored and protected I shall bring down in sorrow to the grave. I will not curse my destroyer, but O! may God avenge the wrongs and impositions practised upon the unwary, in a way that shall best please Him. This, my dear parents, is the last letter you will ever receive from me. I humbly pray for forgiveness. It is my dying prayer. Long before you have received this letter from me, the cold grave will have closed upon me forever. Life to me is unsupportable, I cannot, nay, will not suffer the shame of having ruined you. Forget and forgive is the dying prayer of

"YOUR UNFORTUNATE SON."

The old father went to the post-office for the letter. He opened the letter, and after he had read a little way he dropped upon the floor. The people thought he was dead, but they fanned him and they pushed back the gray locks from the brow, and they found after a while that he had only fainted. "I wish he had been dead, for what is life to a father since his son is destroyed?" When things go wrong at a gaming table they cry: "Foul, foul?" Over all the gambling saloons of Brooklyn, New York, and the whole earth, I cry: "Foul, foul! infinitely foul!" Now there may be persons in the house who have a cold, lethargic nature, and they would not be touched by this kind of temptation, but there are some of you who have excitable, nervous, and enthusiastic temperaments, and your are easily led into this sin, and there are those who have already taken hold on death. They are in the rapids. They try to put back. Then they are hurled over the edge, and they clutch the side of the boat until their finger-nails, blood-tipped, pierce the wood, and with pale cheeks and agonized stare, and horror lifting the hair from the scalp, they go down into depths from which no grappling-hooks will ever drag them out. O! men, beware, if you have begun to tamper with this vice. Professed gamesters come into the ten-pin alley, where there are husbands, and fathers, and brothers, and sons, and put down a thousand dollars in gold eagles. Let the boy set up the pins at the other end of the alley. Clear the way now. Roll the first. There! it strikes. Down goes respectability. Roll the second. There! it strikes. Down goes the last feeling of humanity. Roll the third. There! It strikes. Down goes the soul, the immortal soul. It was not so much the pins that fall as the soul, the soul!

Shall I in a word or two sketch the career of a gambler? Allured by bad company he goes into a place where an honest man ought never go. For the sake of pastime, or of being thought sociable, he sets down to the game. The dealer puts out the cards and they play unconsciously into Satan's hands, who takes all the tricks and the players' souls, he being a sharper at any game. A slight stake is put up just to add interest. Game after game is played, larger stakes and larger stakes until they begin to move nervously on their chairs. Now brows lower and eyes flash, and with set jaw and with compressed lips and clenched fists they sit there. And they who lose and they who win, fired alike with passion, are watching to see the turn of the game before it comes—if losing, paling with envy and tremulous with unuttered oaths cast back red hot upon the heart—or winning, with hysterical laugh, "I have it! ha! ha! I have it!" A few years have gone by, and there he sits, the mere wreck of a man. Before he begins the game, he puts down the last relic of his wife, the marriage ring that sealed the solemn vows between them. He loses and he sags back in exhaustion, and he dreams. The bright hours of the past mock his agony, and fiends with eyes of fire and tongues of flame circle around him and join hands in the dance, and with fiendish chorus cry: "Hail brother, hail brother!" and kiss his clammy forehead until their loathsome locks, flowing in serpents, crawl into his bosom, and sink their sharp fangs, and suck up his life blood, and coil around his heart, and pinch it with chills and agonies unutterable. Oh! my young friends, have nothing to do with the beginning of this habit. I want to tell you, this morning, it is down grade, and that every instant the momentum is increased. Launch not on that treacherous sea. Split hulks strew the beach, and ever lasting storms howl up and down, driving the unwary craft into the hell gate. I have looked off and seen it. I have seen the whirling and the foam, and have heard the hissing breath, and I have seen the maniacal wretches writhing one upon another, and they strangled, and they struggled and they blasphemed, and they cursed God, and they died, the death stare of eternal despair on their countenance as the waters gurgled over them. To the gambler's deathbed there comes no hope. He will probably die unattended. The men who destroyed him will not come and ring the bell and ask how he is. They will not attend the obsequies. Some day his poor body is being carted out to the Potter's Field, and the wretches will look out of the window of the gambling saloon, and say: "There goes the old carcase. Dead at last!" Let him down into the grave. Plant no tree there for shade. The eternal glooms that hover over the spot are shadow enough. Visit not that grave in the sunlight, for that would seem like mockery, but in the dismal night when no stars are out, and spirits of darkness come down borne on the wind. Then is the time to visit the grave of the gambler. May God save you from the scathing, scalding, blasting, damning influence of the gaming spirit!

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the function of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

A Sportsman's Paradise.

A love of slaughtering the inferior animals seems to be inherent in all men, but the characteristic appears to be most strongly developed in the Anglo-Saxon race. To slay the feathered tribes as they dart through the air like a flash; to bowl over the swift-footed deer, rabbit or hare; to circumvent the cunning fox, beaver, carcajou or other instinctively "cautious" quadruped; to lay low the marauding wolf, the sneaking lynx, the dangerous leopard, the man-eating tiger, the royal lion, the monstrous and hard-lived grizzly bear, the vicious rhinoceros, the mammoth elephant; in fact to assert a death dealing supremacy as lord of creation, is a strongly developed trait of the Anglo Saxon. Some so-called sportsmen kill for the sake of killing; others through love of adventure; yet others slaughter right and left for the sake of having it recorded of them in print that they had made "heavy bags"; but the true sportsman is he who, pursuing his game, kills no more than he can consume or else devotes himself to the slaughter of the carnivora. Hence those Britons who are of the true sporting type and who do not care to participate in the annual slaughter of the innocents, who are above such small work as the shooting of tame partridges and tamer pheasants in the fields and on the moors of their native land, hie them to Africa, India, Canada, the United States, Norway Spitzbergen, Australia—to, in fact, "the uttermost ends of the earth," in pursuit of the larger and wilder species of game.

A new field for this latter class—for the true sportsmen—is opening up in the Northwestern Territories of the Dominion, where not only the smaller species of game are to be found in countless numbers almost everywhere, but where the larger animals—buffalo, deer, elk, Rocky Mountain sheep and goats and the ferocious and terrible grizzly bear are to be found—the latter often when not desired. Besides which many rivers are filled with trout and the lakes with whitefish and other toothsome fishes. The country is, in fact, a perfect paradise for sportsmen, and as the Pacific Railway renders access to a large portion of it easier year by year, it will become the Mecca of the sportsmen of this continent, and of many from beyond the Atlantic as well. Palliser and other sportsmen have visited portions of the territory, but as they engaged chiefly in pursuit of buffalo, bear and elk, they wrote but little of the other [illegible] of game. Now, however, we have a better and more reliable authority, a more thorough observer than any of those who preceded him into the "great lone land," and we herewith utilize a portion of the information which he supplies. In a lecture which he recently delivered before the Literary and Scientific Society of Ottawa, Prof. Macoun—an authority who can be quoted without fear of being led astray by untruthful or even highly colored statements—gave a description of this sportsman's paradise, and of its furred, feathered and finny inhabitants, which was of a character to cause the blood to course more quickly through the veins of every sport-loving man who reads it.

Of the many varieties of birds which make their summer home and reproduce their kind in th[illegible] territory, the Professor tells us:

> Amongst the bi[illegible] I have here is the Velvet Duck, which [illegible] saw at Fort Chippewyan and I was [illegible] told that 1,300 miles beyond where I [illegible] I could see the Arctic Ocean, while this [illegible] was 1,200 miles from Winnipeg. This [illegible] breeds on the shores of the Arctic Ocean and it will fly 2,000 miles to find a winter h[illegible] in the south and then in the spring of th[illegible] year, prompted by the desire to propagate its species, it wings its way over another 2,500 miles to the north. When I look at these birds is it any wonder I feel as I begin to talk about the country that I know nothing of it yet? Let us take a look at the prairie.
> Throughout the [illegible]ngth and breadth of the prairie there are marshes, and pools and lakes, and but few running streams. Now many of these pools, owing to their having no outlet and owing to the [illegible] through which the waters percolate which flow into them, are brakish or salt. Their neighborhood is the habitat of many birds—for instance the Great Tattler, so c[illegible] because it is constantly talking—its voice is so loud that it may be heard a quarter of [illegible] away. There is also one known as the S[illegible]y Tattler, who harms no one but himself. There are many Waders who have long leg[illegible] and necks, and on the margins there are [illegible] numbers of their nests. The mallard, which [illegible] the commonest of the duck species in the North-West, also inhabit these marshes. If [illegible] were on the southern plain among the [illegible]ern marshes in the fall you might estimate [illegible] at any number you chose. You will s[illegible] a lake half a mile wide and three quarter[illegible] literally covered. I have seen them [illegible] of a narrow strait about as wide as [illegible] for nearly twenty minutes into a la[illegible] was the most beautiful sight I ever saw, [illegible] sheet of water being completely cover[illegible] them.

This brief and [illegible] matter-of-fact statement is sufficiently stro[illegible] be received with incredulity by den[illegible] lands less thickly populated with ga[illegible], but those who lived along the Bay of [illegible] fifty years ago state that just suc[illegible] sights were witnessed on the Bay when t[illegible] ducks were on their journey southward [illegible] winter quarters. In fact, a lady—now [illegible] for many years past a resident of this city—has told the writer that when a girl and living with her parents on the shores of Hay Bay, it was sometimes a matter of great difficulty to sleep at night in the fall months because of the quacking of the ducks. Strangely enough, there are black ducks in the North-West, at least Prof. Macoun saw none and others who visited other parts of the country this season had the same experience, but many other varieties are to be found in countless numbers. The Professor went on to say:

> The mallards are nearly as large as the tame duck, and on my way home there was a marsh from Fort Pelly to Fort Ellis that was not covered with these birds and green winged teal. Every bird has its own locality, and the two species of teal and the mallard are the birds of the river marshes. I might have loaded the boat with them but I shot them for food only. The shell drake or saw bill ducks, which I now show you has a narrow bill, which is toothed like a saw. These birds dive in the same way as the grebe, that is to say they settle down in the water.
> There is another bird that breeds on Lake Winnepegosis the golden eye—a beautiful bird. These are the first of the sea ducks that come down to the southern plain in the fall. They reach the country south of the Touchwood Hills about the middle of September. This is another—the red head that breeds in that upper country. It is very abundant on the rivers in the fall.

In old Canada the ducks that formerly bred in the marshes have been rendered very scarce by indiscriminate slaughter at all seasons, but in the North-west a still more certain method of depleting the numbers of the waterfowl has been resorted to. Professor Macoun states that millions of ducks' eggs are annually destroyed in the marshes on Lakes Winnepegoosis and Manitoba by Indians and white men, and he very energetically condemns such piracy and asks the Government to send an expedition to these lakes to put a stop to the practice, which we have no doubt was introduced by the white men; for Indians very rarely kill game except when they require the flesh for food, and nest robbing is something in which they had never previously been known to indulge. These same white men and Indians also catch so many fish that they are obliged to leave them on the shore to rot. To digress for a moment as to these fisheries, which will hereafter be of immense value to the western country, there is a strange peculiarity which is thus noted by Professor Macoun:

> At Swan Lake House four or five little nets would be put out, and in the morning they would take out of them gold eyes and whitefish. At night there would not be a single whitefish or gold eye but pike and jackfish. There is a problem I have not solved. Why the gold eye and whitefish were caught only at night and the pike and jackfish in the day: unless it be that the latter having fed in the day time go to the bottom of the lake and the whitefish then come to feed.

Leaving the discussion of this interesting piscine question to those who are so inclined, we return to the subject of the game to be found on the lakes and the plains. Besides the edible varieties of water fowl there, some of the rarest varieties of grebe, including the red necked, the crested, the shell driver, also the great northern loon, &c. The plains abound with what are known as "prairie chickens;" but they are not the true prairie chicken, which is not found in the Northwest, but the pin-tailed grouse, whilst birds of prey are numerous, namely such as the eagle, many varieties of hawks, buzzards (including the red shouldered and Swainson's varieties), the great horned owl (four species), the lesser horned owl, the great eared owl and the marsh owl. Unfortunately Mr. Macoun does not in the lecture referred to speak of the bison, which still exists in great numbers in certain parts of the country, of the elk, which are also numerous, nor of the swans, which afford grand sport to the sportsman, but he mentions antelopes and bears, and gives this amusing description of the black species:

> There is another berry—the common dogwood with a bluish white berry. The Northern River marshes are full of these, and in the month of September they are thick with berries which are the food of the black bear. In coming down the river in the early morning after sunrise, looking up the side of the bank you see what you think is an old Indian very sober-looking and in the distance you are almost ready to hail him, you look again and a snout is seen, soon you perceive he is far heavier than a man, and behold he is a bear. Like an old man, he sits or stands on his hind legs; in his forepaws he holds a lot of bushes, off which he picks all the berries with his mouth as he sits there caring nothing for you.

But it is amongst the Rocky Mountains that the great game is to be found—the ptarmigan, as large as a Brahma hen, the bald-headed eagle, the Rocky Mountain sheep and goats and the cinnamon and grizzly bears:

> "Standing on the mountain top," says Mr. Macoun, "I heard suddenly shingle falling. It was still above and as that noise resounded through the lower air we saw rushing away below a herd of mountain goats. They looked like white balls as they jumped from crag to crag. The mountain goat and the mountain sheep are altogether different in appearance. The mountain goat is precisely like a goat of the old country, only white with a long white beard, two short, sharp black horns which stand straight up above its head, and its hair is wool. The Rocky Mountain goat is a sheep as regards wool, but as regards beard and horns it is a goat. The Rocky Mountain sheep as regards horns is a sheep, but its body and hair are those of a deer. The Rocky Mountain sheep has horns—I have seen heads over sixty pounds weight—more than five inches across. I have seen them with the ends broken, caused, according to the hunters, by falling on the horns when the sheep jump farther than they calculated."

Very graphically he describes a goat hunt by the Indians, and very comically he narrates his own adventure with a "grizzly," for whose prowess and persons of offence and defence he evidently entertained a wise respect.

> I will tell you how I tackled a grizzly, and I would tackle him in the same way again. My nephew and myself went into the valley of the Red Deer River—I to collect plants; he to get a grindstone. I had no gun, and we had each a jack-knife. We descended into the river valley fully 500 feet below the level of the prairie, about six miles from the spot where the Governor General crossed the Red Deer River. I had gathered my plants; my nephew was a little way off; we had also collected a quantity of buffalo berries, and as I went down to the edge of the river I saw a grizzly. He paid no attention to me. I did to him. I went up a little prairie and called softly to my nephew. When he came I pointed to the tracks and said: "Davy, What is that?" "It is a buffalo?" said he. "No, it's a grizzly." "Which way did he go?" said he. "He went that way; we'll go this way," said I, and we went.

To the formidable character of this monarch of the mountains—undoubtedly the most dangerous animal in existence—and worthy the skill and daring of a Gordon Cumming or a Jules Gerard, Mr. Macoun bears the following testimony:

> "I have been in Peace River country, and I scarcely ever saw a man who had hunted him that had not the scar of the grizzly upon him. I brought back from the valley the skull of one with teeth as large as the base as the bill of one of these ducks, and it took nine or ten balls to shoot him. Two years before that, just where the Governor-General crossed the river, a Blackfeet girl met a grizzly which attacked her and mangled her so dreadfully that though she escaped from his clutches, she died shortly after reaching the camp."

Having thus ministered to the inclinations of the hunter, the Professor also holds out a tempting bait to the palate of the angler—one which might almost cause Izaak Walton to rise from his grave—with which we will conclude our extracts from his interesting discourse. He says:

> "You pass down to the base of the mountain, and come as I did to where the Bow River runs 50 yards wide, so clear that you could see the bottom anywhere. It was full of trout. We had the mountain called by Dr. Hector Castle Mountain, on one side, and Bow River on the other. We went a fishing. Now in the Rocky Mountain rivers on the east and west sides, there are millions of trout. I have caught them on both sides, just as many as I wanted, and no more, for it is folly to catch fish and throw them away. On the east side there are three species of trout. One, which we would call a brook trout, if it was not so long—another something larger than that with white flesh is not so good to eat, and the third of which I wish to speak is one which grows to thirty inches or three feet, and will run up as high as thirty pounds. These last are known by their large head and mouth, and are a splendid fish to eat. To sportsmen I would say that fishing on the lower St. Lawrence and in the Old Country, and trout fishing for these large trout in the Bow River are not to be mentioned together. When fishing in the Rocky Mountains you will not stand wondering whether you will get a bite or not, and when you get one you may be bitten in another sense. I had a man named Matheson with me, a native of Winnipeg. He was standing on a log fishing one day with a common hook and line baited with salt pork. He caught 20 or 30 trout. Turning to me he got a bite and before I could say Matheson he was in the river. With the instincts of a fisherman he still held the rod, and the fish dragged him here and there, up and down the stream. Eventually we landed the fish and Matheson always maintained he had gone in after it, though the rest of us were of opinion the fish had pulled him in. Matheson thought it weighed about twenty four pounds, and we thought them from five pounds weight up to the size of this fish. We got all the fishing we wanted that day and gave a horse-load of them to some Stoneys camped near us."

When it is added that the climate is the healthiest in the world, the title of "sportsman's paradise" which is here bestowed on the Canadian North-West will be acknowledged to be no exaggeration. With due attention on the part of our rulers to the simple requirements of the situation, there is no reason why the North-West should not continue to be for all time the greatest country in the world for the sportsman as well as for the agriculturist.

West Northumberland.

The result of the election for the vacant seat in the Commons for this constituency is being looked forward to with much interest. Both candidates are popular and have been ably assisted by the leading men on each side of politics. On behalf of Dr. Waters, the Grit standard bearer, Messrs Blake, Paterson of Brant, Ross of West Middlesex, and Ryan, the defeated of West Toronto, have been stumping the riding, whilst Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon J. H. Pope, Mr. Thomas White, M. P., and Mr. J. J. Hawkins, of Brantford, have addressed a number of meetings in the interest of Mr. Guillett, the Conservative candidate.

The constituency is a very uncertain one, as its political history for the last few years shows. In 1874 Mr. Kerr, a Grit, was elected by a majority of 231; after being unseated he was re-elected by 155; but in 1878 Mr. Cockburn, Conservative, beat Mr. Kerr by 88. In 1875 the Grit candidate for the Legislature had a majority of 123, and in 1879 Mr. Guillett, the present candidate for the Commons, was beaten by 21 votes. Thus out of five elections which have taken place in the constituency during the past eight years, four have been won by the Grits.

It is thus very difficult to forecast the result, but our advices from the riding are highly favorable to the Conservative candidate.

The polling will take place on Monday.

The County Treasurer's Salary.

Some persons—presumably those who have not a full knowledge of the facts of the case—have been objecting to the increase in the County Treasurer's salary made by the County Council at its recent session. In order, therefore, that the matter may be thoroughly understood, we append a copy of the memorial which was presented to the Council by the Treasurer, which is as follows:

To the Warden and Councillors of the County Council of the County of Hastings:

GENTLEMEN,—The undersigned would beg to submit for your consideration the following facts concerning the office which he has the honor to hold under you:

1st. That By-law No. 92, passed in January, 1857, fixed the salaries payable to County officers as follows: Treasurer, $800 per annum; Clerk, $400 per annum; County Surveyor, $320 per annum. That since then several new municipalities have been added, the number of Councillors doubled, the expenditure nearly trebled, and the work of said officers proportionately increased, as may be exemplified by taking that of the County Surveyor, who then performed the work of superintending the Roads and Bridges, including the Gravel Roads, for $320 per annum, and now it is found necessary to employ two good officers, who are paid each $700 per annum, to perform the increased work of that department. The Clerk's work has also been increased to a greater degree than his salary has been raised, which is now only $500 per annum. The Treasurer, whilst his work and responsibility have been vastly increased, yet his salary has actually decreased, because it is necessary for him to have an assistant, and the Council's grant to pay for such assistance is given only on condition the Treasurer pays out of the salary fixed by said By-law 92 a portion equal to at least one fourth of the amount payable to the assistant.

2nd. That the Auditors for 1880 in their report, after having eulogized the manner in which the work of the office of Treasurer has been performed, say as follows:

"We would also report that in looking over the accounts of the County, we are impressed with the large increase of Receipts and Expenditure, and the consequent increase of responsibility and labor to the Treasurer. We find that in 1870 the Receipts were $76,445; in 1875, $62,949; in 1879 $155,171, and in 1880, $178,588. We find also that the Treasurer was paid $1,000 in 1870; that he is now paid $800 with $250 for an assistant. We find that the Treasurer pays his assistant $ 50, making the Treasurer's salary equal to $700. The important duties of Treasurer in a County like Hastings can only be performed by a thoroughly competent man. It is for the Council to consider whether the present Treasurer is adequately paid for his services. We respectfully call your attention to it."

By referring to the estimated expenditure for the County of Wellington for the year 1882—a County whose levy is not equal to that of the County of Hastings—you will find the following salaries paid to their officers, viz.:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Warden | $ 200 | per annum |
| Clerk | 500 | " |
| Treasurer | 1,200 | " |
| Auditors | 80 | " |

Your Treasurer, in submitting the foregoing for your consideration, would call your attention to the rise in the prices of the necessaries of life, the corresponding advance in the value of labor, to the payment of like labor in other Counties, and would therefore respectfully ask that you will be pleased to grant him a fair and reasonable remuneration for the extra services performed by him over those performed by the Treasurer in 1857.

I remain, sirs,
Your obedient servant,
THOS. WILLS,
Treasurer Co. Hastings.

Belleville, Nov. 30, 1881.

We cannot but think that the strictest economist will, after perusing the above statement, heartily endorse the action of the Council. As a matter of fact the salary of the County Treasurer has not been increased, as alleged, but simply restored to the amount at which it stood in 1870, whilst it is nominally $200, but in reality only $100, more than in 1857, although the work is now nearly three times as great as it was at that time, and at least fifty per cent greater than in 1870. Furthermore, the perquisites of the office have largely declined, to such an extent as to leave the pay of the Treasurer from all sources actually less—we believe we are correct in saying—in 1881, with the so-called increase, than in 1857, despite the fact that the responsibility has become correspondingly greater with the increase of receipts and expenditure.

Again, Mr. Wills is an officer of exceptional abilities and qualifications. His services in the investment and management of the sinking fund and in the disposal of debentures have been of great advantage to the County, whilst his standing, both in a financial and in a personal sense, is of the highest possible character. Compared with the salaries of the Trea[illegible]ties of similar size, and of employees of private individuals and companies, the remuneration which he receives is small, as can be seen by every reasonable person who will consider the above statement of facts.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Editorial Brevities.

Our Winnipeg and Emerson contemporaries are throwing mud at each other—that is, if they are to be believed, the Chicago of British America and the Gate City are the muddiest places in existence. It is time for Toronto to take a hand in, as the Queen City has heretofore worn without dispute champion horrors in that regard, whilst for mud throwing Toronto has one journal which can distance the novices of the North-west.

The loss of life by the Vienna theatre fire appears to have been equalled by no holocaust of a similar character in recent years, unless the church horror in Santiago in 1863, by which 1,600 persons perished, were included. The following list of disasters in theatres proves this:

| | Number Perished. |

The Montreal Star states, and we believe correctly, that the National Policy was not directly at issue in the recent election for the Legislature in that Province. Still, the Grits claim that, by the election of two members in Montreal the N. P. was condemned in that city. What then of the election of Mr. Joly and others of their leaders who are pronounced protectionists, and of more than fifty Conservatives supporting that principle? If the tariff was at issue and and decided the elections in Montreal in favor of the Opposition surely the result in other constituencies must have been affected by the same cause. The Grits are welcome to either horn of the dilemma.

The Picton Times, with a great burst of virtuous indignation, says:

> The Belleville INTELLIGENCER justifies its course in charging the Liberals with having set fire to the Montreal Post, when it considers "the antecedents of the (Liberal) party." Pray who burnt the Parliament buildings in Montreal and hoisted the black flag of rebellion at Brockville but the INTELLIGENCER'S political friends? Talk about antecedents indeed.

Our contemporary's remarks are irrelevant. We have no occasion to go back to the days of Walpole for evidence of corruption amongst the so called Liberals. Our reference was to the actions of the Grit party of to-day—which, whilst sanctimoniously preaching purity, practised desk robbing, letter stealing, ballot box stuffing, wholesale bribery and every known form of political corruption and immorality.

Through to Toronto.

A MIDLAND TRAIN RUNS FROM PETERBOROUGH TO THE QUEEN CITY.

(From the Peterborough Review, Dec. 16.)

The third rail having been laid on the Nipissing railway from Toronto to Woodville Junction on the Midland Railway, a distance of seventy nine miles, and the link connecting the two lines having been finished, a Midland train, the first of the standard gauge that ever ran over the Nipissing road, left Peterborough on Thursday morning, having the handsome official car of the Midland railway attached. On board were Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, President of the consolidated lines; E. Wragge, Manager of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce; W. C. Nunn, of the Toronto and Ottawa, and a number of prominent officials of the various Canadian roads. The Queen City was reached about 12 o'clock noon, all on board being highly gratified with the excellent condition of the road. The train left during the afternoon and reached Peterborough at an early hour. The time made was good, considering that it was the first train on the broad gauge.

We are informed on excellent authority that the time from Peterborough to Toronto, when the "missing link" is completed will be reduced to three hours less than the time now occupied in reaching the Provincial capital by the Midland and Grand Trunk lines, and without any vexatious delays at Port Hope to make connections.

[illegible] real estate agent, No. 5 Newark st., [illegible] Hoboken, New Jersey, says: I was taken with severe pains in the shoulders and right arm. After using everything I could, and seeing that instead of improving, it became worse, and that my arm was beginning to become of little use to me, I determined to make one more attempt by using some St. Jacobs Oil. Before the second bottle had been exhausted I was relieved of all my pains as if by magic. I recommend it to all.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with food of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for the SPECULATION IN THE NORTH-WEST.—The Ottawa Citizen says: "An idea of the way in which wealth is amassed in the North-West, can be gleaned from the fact that during the past year Mr. Orde, of the Indian department, made $60,000 speculating in lands, and Mr. John Peter Grant, brother of Dr. Grant of this city, $40,000."

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

QUERY?—Have you seen that big fist, with streams of electricity issuing from it, in another column?

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

MANITOBA.

The Far-famed Turtle Mountain District.

The First Town Site in the District.

I HAVE received instructions and will offer for sale by Public Auction, in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse, in the City of Belleville, on the days and evenings of

Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of December,

Six Hundred Lots in the Town Site of Wood Lake City.

In offering this Town Site, it is believed that we are offering something well worthy the attention of intending investors in Manitoba lands. It is situate on the banks of Wood Lake, in Township 2, Range 19 West, in the Province of Manitoba,—the well and favorably known Turtle Mountain district.

Public attention is now more favorably directed towards this District, which is rapidly settling up with first class settlers, than to any other in the Province, and lands are rapidly rising in price. The almost endless stretch of the best agricultural lands in the world, the abundance of wood and water, make this District at once the Farmers' Eldorado and within a year there will not be a section of land unsold. The Town site of Wood Lake City is situate in the very heart of this country, on the banks of one of the most beautiful Lakes imagination can picture, on one side of which rolling prairie stretches away as far as the eye can reach; while on the other stands a forest of oak and other timber, 35 miles square. The lake is fed by springs, and contains therefore the best of water. The situation of this town site at once suggests a favorite summer resort. Game abounds in the country surrounding it. The Boundary Commission trail, the travelled thoroughfare to the far west, runs directly through the Town. There is at present a comfortable stopping place for the convenience of travellers, and arrangements are being made for the erection of a Saw Mill, Church, and School house. This site has long been looked forward to by settlers as the site for the future Town of the Turtle Mountain District, and with its advantages must rapidly take a prominent place amongst western cities. Every body wants to own some property in Manitoba. Here is a chance to obtain for a reasonable sum a property which will in a short time yield a handsome profit on the investment.

Terms made known at Sale.

Sale each day at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 7 o'clock. Maps and Plans on exhibition in the sale room.

The weather being fine to-day, there was a tremendous market—larger even than that of last Saturday, and that was the largest that had been seen for months.

Remember the City Mission service to-morrow in Mr. Rathbun's waiting room at 2.45 and at 6:30 at Mr. Thompson's, near the corner of Dundas and Church Streets.

The Grand Trunk railway trains commenced yesterday to stop regularly at Deseronto junction, the Bay of Quinte railway making connection with all trains except the night express going east.

On the market this morning a woman had her purse, which contained $3.00, stolen from her pocket. Another woman lost her muff. This makes four women that lost either money or articles on the market to-day. The other two are noted elsewhere.

The large hall at the south end of the third flat of Robertson's (eastern) Block, which has for some time been used as an assembly-room by the Oddfellows' Band, is to be repaired, improved, and elegantly fitted up, and, when completed, will undoubtedly make the pleasantest and most complete assembly-room in the city.

The "Mabel Heath" Company have temporarily disbanded, Miss Georgie Gardner, the leading lady, having been taken ill at Watertown and obliged to return home to Syracuse. Mr. Dick Gardner and his wife (Ida Carpenter) are in the city. They intend organizing a small variety company and playing through the back towns and villages.

The woman Mrs. Holmes, of whom we wrote yesterday, is kept in strict confinement by the friend with whom she is staying. She is undoubtedly insane, and constantly threatens to drown herself, the reason being that she has been brought into trouble by some man, who has deserted her. She is a fit object for the charity of the Woman's Christian Association.

Go and get a Hot Bath at the Metropolitan Barber Shop, Campbell St. 194d2t

Who should go to the Christmas tree festival in the City Hall on Monday evening next, in connection with the City Mission Sunday School? Everybody should go to make the children's hearts glad. Admission 10 cts. Mr. H. A. Hodgson will take the chair. A special Street Railway car will run from the City Hall to the railway station at the close of the service.

The chief local event of next week, in the line of amusements, is the performance of the Histrionic Association in the Metropolitan Hall on Wednesday evening. The comedy "Engaged," which is to be the bill of the evening, sparkles with wit and fun, and cannot fail to amuse all who may attend. It is to be hoped that the Association will receive the liberal patronage from the public which it deserves.

There have been at times many "tilts" of a not very creditable character between the members of our Municipal Council, but nothing to equal what the Free Press has [illegible] time to time reported as occurring in [illegible] Council. At a late meeting of [illegible] the Mayor said to Ald Buckle, [illegible] required respecting an item in an [illegible] Ah, nothing can please that [illegible] snarling pup. A meeting of the supporters of Ald. Lingham in the approaching Mayoralty contest is called for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the hall in the Intelligencer Building. Let there be a large attendance. The supporters of Ald Lingham have good reason to be enthusiastic: he is meeting with the warmest encouragement in his canvass, and there is no doubt as to his election by a large majority, provided that over-confidence be not generated.

The prospects of a new opera-house in Belleville are now brighter than they have been at any time since the destruction of the old one. One of our most prominent citizens, with no lack of private means, has determined to take the matter in hand himself and organize a joint stock company for the purpose mentioned. The preliminaries will probably be arranged early in the year and the work of erection begun in the spring. This will be welcome news to the majority of our readers.

The public examinations at the Central School were held yesterday, and resulted successfully. In the afternoon a public exhibition, in which all the classes participated, was held in the main school-room. There were about 200 spectators present. The exercises consisted of singing by all the scholars, dialogues, and recitations, nearly all of which were creditably performed. Addresses were delivered by Rev. A. Campbell, Rev. M. W. McLean, Ald. W. J. Diamond, Wm. Johnson Esq., S. A. Moore, Esq., and others. The afternoon passed away very pleasantly, to the scholars as well as the visitors.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 17.—Lakes, fair to brisk southerly to westerly winds, fair mild weather.

Albert College.—Michaelmas Term closes on Wednesday, the 21st inst. Examinations in the University and Grammar School began on Thursday, the 15th, and continue for one week. The usual entertainment will be given at the close of the term.

Fickle Woman.—The Napanee Beaver tells the following rather doubtful story; "Napanee girls take the biscuit. For some time a Belleville Romeo has been paying court to one of our suburban damsels, and everything was apparently settled to his satisfaction. The young lady is of a practical turn of mind, however, and being aware that her lover was the possessor of some desirable town lots, demanded that he give her the deed of one of these as a proof of his love. Being either very innocent, or very deep in the mire, he complied, but the clay of that lot proved a damper upon the donor's dream of happiness; having secured all that she considered valuable in the bargain, his lady-love promptly gave him the mitten, and the victim now pines in solitude a poorer but a much wiser man. To him the fickleness of woman passeth understanding."

"Rooms for Rent.—Light, funny, unsubstantial and nonsensical plays always take well in Belleville, and "Rooms for Rent" has not proved an exception to the rule. The Metropolitan Hall was filled last night with a very large audience to witness this play, and it is doing but scant justice to say that the play was well received. It kept the audience in continual laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain. As a literary production, the piece is utterly without merit; but no one thought of the literary defects—the situations were so richly ludicrous and followed each other in such rapid succession, and the acting was so good, that one laughed in spite of himself. And, since the chief aim of the piece is to make people laugh, it must be pronounced very successful. The company is a really clever one, and there was not one who did not fill his or her part satisfactorily. Mr. Beers, though a thoroughly good and versatile actor, was no better as Huckleman than were Mr. McCabe as Col. Bombast, Mr. Seabrook as Cutter the detective, Mr. Chapman as Mr. Cleveland, and Mr. Holt as Frederick Dahl. The best of the lady characters was that of Mrs. Cutter, taken by Miss Lizzie Fletcher. Miss Genevieve Ward, as M'lle Rossvella, sang one song and sang it so well that the audience wished there was more singing for her to do. In short, "Rooms for Rent" is a clever bit of well-acted nonsense, and we are not aware that anything better is claimed for it.

A Third Fire.—It is a well-known saying among the firemen, that when a fire occurs after a long interval of freedom from fires, there must be three in close succession. Whether there is any ground for this supposition or not, it has recently been borne out, for this morning's fire was the third one in as many days. It was not a barn or stable this time, but a small brick dwelling-house on Front St., just opposite the Commercial House. The fire was discovered a few minutes after 3 o'clock, and was then issuing from a window in the north side. The alarm was given and the brigade and No. 2 engine, notwithstanding the hard work of the two mornings previous, were on the spot with commendable promptitude. The fire, however, had probably been smouldering for a long time, and before the brigade could get to work the whole interior of the building was in a blaze, and it was all the firemen could do to prevent the flames from spreading to the frame building adjoining. However, they were confined to the first building, which in a short time was a heap of smouldering ruins. The building was owned by Mr. Francis Clarke. Its value was about $700, and there was an insurance of $350 on it. There is no doubt that the fire was the result of an incendiary's work. The house was unoccupied, and had been since August last, and as the fire came from the inside someone must have got in with the deliberate intention of setting the house on fire. The indications are that it was fired in three different places. The fact that three fires have taken place on three successive mornings, and all have been the work of an incendiary, is somewhat alarming, and calls for the strictest vigilance not only on the part of the police, but of everyone who owns property that is destructible by fire.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Pains and Griping in Children.

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

James Foy's Heir.

NOT FOUND YET.

The Kingston News publishes in its issue of the 16th our account of the death of James Foy in California and reference to the search for his heirs and adds:

After reading the above our reporter set to work to hunt up the heir, Barbara Asselstine. He called upon Mr. Henry Asselstine, who resides on Johnston street, and, after making himself known, stated the object of his visit. The old gentleman did not seem much surprised when he heard the reporter's story and stated that he had heard some years ago of a fortune awaiting an heir from the Asselstine family. He enumerated his relatives as far back as his grandfather and the two following cases were the only ones that had any connection with the report of the Intelligencer:

Mr. Henry Asselstine had a second cousin, now living near Odessa, named John Asselstine, whose mother's name was Barbara, and her husband (Peter) married her some few miles back of Belleville. Her maiden name was Carr. Both are now dead a number of years. They had three sons and three daughters. The sons' names are John, Daniel and William. The former is living near Odessa and the latter at Watertown, but the whereabouts of Daniel is not known. One of the daughters, Amarilla, is also living in Watertown.

Probably the person who is wanted will never be heard from. Mr. Asselstine further stated that his grandfather Peter had a son named Peter also. The latter left Kingston, went to Belleville when between 40 and 50 years of age and married a woman (whose name he does not know) in Murray, a few miles from that city. His wife died and Peter came to Kingston with his daughter en route to the States. They stopped over night with Mr. Asselstine and left on their journey in the morning. Neither the father nor daughter has been heard of since, and it is not known whether they are dead or alive. They left Kingston some 20 years ago. Mr. Asselstine cannot remember the girl's name, but thinks it probable that she was named after the Barbara mentioned above. If so, she is the heir to James Foy's property.

Monthly Report of the Woman's Christian Association.

The past month has been rather an uneventful one in the Association, and there is not much of moment to report. The ladies, acting by the advise of their Advisory Board, have given notice through the press, that application will be made for the Hospital Lot, from the Ontario Parliament, when it again meets; unless, in the meantime, something definite is done about the purchase of the site selected or the New Home and Hospital—as the necessity presses more and more, as the months go by, for these new buildings

We are glad to report our Home as more comfortable than it was last winter, and we have added one more inmate to our Home, since last report. The expenditure for the Home during November, has been as follows: Supplies $44. Home Reg. Com., $12.62. Rent $8.34. Matron's salary $8,00. Wood $2,00. Total $74.96.

The new Ward Committees are now hard at work, canvassing both the rich and poor districts of the city, from the former soliciting subscriptions and membership, and to the latter giving help and assistance. The city funds have been thus expended:

SAMSON WARD.

Mrs. Anderson, board, $12.

FOSTER WARD.

Mr. Clemens Refused a Copyright of His New Book.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—The application of Samuel J. Clemens (Mark Twain) for a Canadian copyright of his new book was refused by the department of agriculture to-day. The claim for copyright was made on the strength of Clemens' visit and "domicile" for two weeks in Montreal. The authorities decided that such residence is not "domicile." All attempts to come within the limits of the law will be dealt with similarly.

—The National Rifle Association of Great Britain has sent a formal invitation to the National Association of the United States to send a team to compete at Wimbledon next year.

—The Lord Mayor of Dublin has declined to call a meeting of the corporation to consider a proposal to confer the freedom of the city on Messrs. Parnell and Dillon.

Depression of Mind and Body, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

Bronchitis.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Impure Water

Professor Bell has handed us the following analysis of a sample of water from the well on Taylor's Hill, noticed in a late issue of the Intelligencer.

1. Decolorized 2½ per cent of a saturated solution of permanganate of potassa.

2. Gave a copious pale precipitate with Nessler test.

3. A profuse dirty black-green precipitate and a strong iridescent scum, with a solution of tannin.

4. A flocculent white precipitate with lime-water.

These four tests indicate the presence of much albuminoid ammonia, which accounts for the existence in the water of the vegetable and animal organisms revealed by the microscope.

5. Gave a large purple-black precipitate with nitrate of silver, shewing the presence of salt.

6. A white precipitate with oxalate of ammonia-lime, but not in excess of a healthy quantity.

Nos 1 and 3 probably indicate iron as well as albuminoids. No. 5 would point to contamination with sewage or house-slops. The whole proves the water to be dangerous, and quite unfit for domestic use in any shape or form.

Professor Bell says that he has good reason to believe that many other wells in the city are contaminated in like manner, though not yet so bad as the one in question.

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

New York, Dec. 17.—The Tribune says the prosecution now expects that the testimony of both sides of the Guiteau trial will be in by the end of next week and speeches can begin with the opening of Christmas week.

The Herald says that the number of threatening letters received and the clamor of certain papers for Guiteau's execution cause Mrs. Scoville no little anxiety. Like her husband, she is apprehensive that some one will take Guiteau's life before the trial is ended.

The Garfield and Hancock Club at Megerville, Pa., sent to Guiteau a box containing a hangman's rope.

The Times says that there are the best reasons for believing that Arthur has made the following additional selections for a new Cabinet; Secretary of War, Lincoln; Navy, Boutwell; Postmaster-General, Howe; Secretary of the Interior, Chaffee.

The Times Philadelphia special says Attorney-General Brewster returned last night from Washington. He said he was assured of the President's sympathy. In rigorous measures he intended taking to push the Star route prosecutions to the full extent of the law.

DROWNED WHILE FISHING.

Meredith, N. H., Dec. 17.—David Fernald and his son-in-law, Frank Kirby, were drowned on Wednesday while fishing through the ice.

CUBAN BRIGANDS SURRENDERED.

Havana, Dec. 17.—The notorious Baudet Sarduy, with thirteen followers, surrendered on Thursday in the jurisdiction of Cienfuegos.

PERU BANKRUPT.

New York, Dec. 17.—Williamson, member of Parliament, who long resided on the Pacific South American coast and had large business connections there, cables to the Tribune from Liverpool that Peru is morally, financially and politically bankrupt. She cannot indemnify Chili. Her promises, like her bonds, are utterly worthless. The acquisition of territory by Chili is an accomplished fact.

Arrived, the Australia from Hamburg.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

STEAMSHIP MOVEMENTS.

New York, Dec. 17.—Arrived, Maas from Rotterdam, Adriatic from Liverpool. The Australia not yet arrived, as reported.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

Zanzibar, Dec. 17.—The owner of the slave dhow, in an encounter with which Capt Brownrigg was killed, has been captured.

ANTI JEWISH DEMONSTRATION.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—An American Jew performing in a circus has been ordered to quit the capital, simply on account of professing the Hebrew faith. He protested.

ANOTHER LAND SWINDLE.

St. Paul, Dec. 17.—An extensive land swindle has been discovered in Dakota. Parties residing in Emerson, Manitoba, have by misrepresentations entered lands in Dakota and are cultivating them, and still retaining the residence and allegiance as subjects of Queen Victoria. Being citizens of another country they are beyond the jurisdiction of the United States Courts.

BLAINE'S DESPATCHES.

London, Dec. 17.—The Times in an article on Blaine's despatches, after saying that the letter of the law is on the side of England, continues: "The country which seeks to set it aside may fairly be asked to propose some equivalent. If international good faith is to count for nothing, with what show of reason can England be required to allow the highway between the two oceans to be placed under American control, and in war and peace alike to be commanded by American guns? Blaine must remember that the freedom of passage between the oceans can in no possible event become exclusively American of right. The whole world has an interest in the maintenance of the free use of the great highways."

THE THEATRE DISASTER.

Vienna, Dec. 17.—The official report of the Board of Works says that the Chief Engineer asked the two policemen at the main entrance of the Ring Theatre whether there was anybody within, and received the reply that the whole audience had escaped safely. This statement was apparently confirmed by the fact that no persons were seen in the entrance to the building. The men of the fire brigade subsequently made their way to the galleries, but the air was suffocating. It was impossible to penetrate the passages, as the lights went out for want of oxygen and the firemen were unable to breathe. The report expresses the conviction that the audience died speedily from suffocation.

THE MISSING BALLOON.

Madrid, Dec. 17.—A Customs Officer near Santander reports that he saw last night a balloon proceeding in the direction of Bilboa.

News Condensed.

Mr. A. W. Robb, Mayor of Stratford, died on the 16th.

—There are 149 prisoners in the Mercer Reformatory.

—The Canada Southern station at Perry, Ont., was burned last night.

—United Ireland was issued as usual yesterday, the places of the clerks and editorial staff being filled by lady leaguers.

—The directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway deny that they have any intention of building a road to Port Nelson, on Hudson Bay.

—The Ontario Trade Benevolent Association met in Toronto yesterday, and adopted a constitution and by-laws and elected officers for the ensuing year.

—The striking Englishmen resumed work at the Kingston locomotive works yesterday morning, having been satisfied with the explanations made by Superintendent Gorman.

—Mrs. Dunn, the woman who was terribly burned in Mount Sherwood near Ottawa, through the explosion of a coal oil lamp, died on the 15th. The accident was caused through a defect in the burner, and not from inferior oil.

—Owing to the crowded state of the Commons Chamber incident on the increase of members of late years, narrower desks are to be put in. The enlargement of the Parliament building was contemplated, but has been abandoned.

—It is stated that Her Majesty will open the Imperial Parliament in person in February. Among other matters to be submitted to the House of Commons will be a demand for a grant to the Duke of Albany on the occasion of his marriage.

—The rules to be observed by Canadian curling clubs in the competition for the two silver cups presented by His Excellency the Governor General are the same as those of last season. Play is to take place between the 2nd and 23rd of January inclusive and returns sent in to Col. DeWinton not later than the 20th of February.

—The London correspondent of the Globe cables that H. R. H. the Princess Louise is to spend the winter in the south of France on the advice of Sir William Jenner. Canadian purchases for the spring trade have been unusually large this year, and the Intercolonial route is growing in favour with shippers. Some fine Polled Aberdeen cattle are being sent out to Hon J. H. Pope.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Indisputable Remedies.—In the use of these medicaments there needs be no hesitation or doubt of their cooling, healing, and purifying properties. The Ointment stands unrivalled for the facility it displays in relieving, healing, and thoroughly curing the most inveterate sores and ulcers, and in cases of bad legs and bad breasts, they act as a charm. The pills are the most effectual remedy ever discovered for the cure of liver complaints, diseases most disastrous in their affects, deranging all the proper functions of of the organs affected, inducing restlessness, melancholy, wearing, inability to sleep, and pains in the side, until the whole system is exhausted. These wonderful Pills, if taken according to the printed directions accompanying each box, strike at the root of the malady, stimulate the stomach and liver into a healthy action, and effect a complete cure.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&w1y

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

Commercial.

TOBY INTRODUCED TO ALBINSOS.

CHAPTER IX.

THE DINNER PARTY.

At noon Toby was thoroughly tired out, for whenever any one spoke kindly to him, Mr. Lord seemed to take a malicious pleasure in giving him extra tasks to do, until Toby began to hope that no one else would pay any attention to him. On this day he was permitted to go to dinner first, and after he returned he was left in charge of the booth. Trade being dull, as it usually was during the dinner hour, he had very little work to do after he had cleaned the glasses and set things to rights generally.

Therefore when he saw the very thin form of the skeleton emerge from the tent and come toward him, he was particularly pleased, for he had begun to think very kindly of the thin man and his fleshy wife.

'Well, Toby,' said the skeleton, as he came up to the booth, carefully dusted Mr. Lord's private chair, and sat down very cautiously in it, as if he had expected that it would break down under his weight, 'I hear you've been making quite a hero of yourself by capturing the monkeys last night.'

Toby's freckled face reddened with pleasure as he heard these words, and he stammered out, with considerable difficulty, 'I didn't do anything; it was Mr. Stubbs that brought 'em back.'

'Mr. Stubbs!' and here the skeleton laughed so heartily that Toby was afraid he would dislocate some of his thinly covered joints. 'When you was tellin' about Mr. Stubbs yesterday, I thought you meant some one belonging to the company. You ought to have seen my wife Lily shake with laughing when I told her who Mr. Stubbs was.'

'Yes,' said Toby, at a loss to know just what to say, 'I should think she would shake when she laughs.'

'She does,' replied the skeleton. 'If you should see her when something funny strikes her, you'd think she was one of those big plates of jelly that they have in the bake-shop windows;' and Mr. Treat looked proudly at the gaudy picture which represented his wife in all her monstrosity of flesh. 'She's a great woman, Toby, an' she's got a great head.'

Toby nodded his head in assent. He would have liked to have said something nice regarding Mrs. Treat, but he really did not know what to say, and thus he simply contented himself and the fond husband by nodding.

'She thinks a good deal of you, Toby,' continued the skeleton, as he moved his chair to a position more favorable for him to elevate his feet on the edge of the counter, and placed his handkerchief under him as a cushion; 'she's talking of you all the time, and if you wasn't such a little fellow, I should begin to get jealous of you—I should, upon my word.'

'You're both very good,' stammered Toby, so weighted down by a sense of the honor heaped upon him as to be at a loss for words.

'An' she wants to see more of you. She made me come out here now, when she knew Mr. Lord would be away, to tell you that we're goin' to have a little kind of a friendly dinner in our tent to-morrow—she's cooked it all herself, or she's going to—and we want you to come in an' have some with us.'

Toby's eyes glistened at the thought of the unexpected pleasure, and then his face grew sad as he replied. 'I'd like to come first-rate, Mr. Treat, but I don't s'pose Mr. Lord would let me stay away from the shop long enough.'

'Why, you won't have any work to do to-morrow, Toby—it's Sunday.'

'So it is,' said the boy, with a pleased smile, as he thought of the day of rest which was so near. And then he added, quickly: 'An this is Saturday afternoon; what fun the boys at home are havin'! You see, there hain't any school Saturday afternoon, an' all the fellers go out in the woods.'

'And you wish you were there to go with them, don't you?' asked the skeleton sympathetically.

'Indeed I do!' exclaimed Toby, quickly; 'it's twice as good as any circus that ever was.'

'But you didn't think so before you came with us, did you?'

'I didn't know so much about circuses then as I do now,' replied the boy, sadly.

Mr. Treat saw that he was touching on a sore subject, and one which was arousing sad thoughts in his little companion's mind, and he hastened to change it at once.

'Then I can tell Lilly that you'll come, can I?'

'Oh yes, I'll be sure to be there; an' I want you to know just how good I think you both are to me.'

'That's all right, Toby,' said Mr. Treat, with a pleased expression on his face; 'an' you may bring Mr. Stubbs with you, if you want to.'

'Thank you,' said Toby, 'I'm sure Mr. Stubbs will be just as glad to come as I shall. But where will we be to-morrow?'

'Right here. We always stay over Sunday at the place where we show Saturday. But I must be going, Lilly will worry her life out of her for fear I'm somewhere getting cold; she's awful careful of me, that woman is. You'll be on hand to morrow at one o'clock, won't you?'

'Indeed I will,' said Toby, emphatically, 'an' I'll bring Mr. Stubbs with me too.'

With a friendly nod of the head, the skeleton hurried away to re-assure his wife that he was safe and well, and before he had hardly disappeared within the tent, Toby had another caller, who was none other than his friend old Ben, the driver.

'Hello, my hearty boy,' shouted Ben, in his cheery, hearty voice; 'I haven't seen you since you left the waggon so sudden last night. Did you get shook up much?'

'Oh no,' replied Toby; 'you see, I hain't very big, an' then I stuck in the mud, so I got off pretty easy.'

'That's a fact, an' you can thank your lucky stars for it, too, for I've seen grown-up men get pitched off a waggon in that way, an' break their necks doin' it. But has Job told you where you was going to sleep to-night? You know we stay over here till to-morrow.'

'I didn't think anything about that; but I suppose I'll sleep in the wagon, won't I?'

'You can sleep at the hotel, if you want to; but the beds will likely be dirty, an' if you take my advice, you'll crawl into some of the waggons in the tent.'

Ben then explained to him that after his work was done that night, he would not be expected to report for duty until the time for starting Sunday night, and he concluded his remarks by saying;

'Now you know what your rights are, an' don't you let Job impose on you in any way. I'll be round here after you get through work, an' we'll bunk in somewhere together.'

The arrival of Messrs. Lord and Jacobs put a stop to the conversation, and was the signal of Toby's time of trial. It seemed to him, and with good reason, that the chief delight which these men had in life was to torment him, for neither ever spoke a pleasant word to him; and when one was not giving him some difficult work to do, or finding fault in some way, the other would be sure to be at it, and Toby had very little comfort from the time he began work in the morning until he stopped at night.

It was not until after the evening performance was over that Toby had a chance to speak with Mr. Stubbs, and then he was so tired that he simply took the old monkey from the cage, nestled him under his jacket, and lay down with him to sleep in the place which old Ben had selected.

When the morning came, Mr. Stubbs aroused his young master at a much earlier hour than he would have awakened had he been left to himself, and the two went out for a short walk before breakfast. They went instinctively toward the woods, and when the shade of the trees was once reached, how the two revelled in their freedom! Mr. Stubbs climbed into the trees, swang himself from one to the other by means of his tail, gathered half-ripe nuts, which he threw at his master, tried to catch the birds, and had a good time generally.

Toby, stretched at full length on the mossy bank, watched the antics of his pet, laughing boisterously at times as Mr. Stubbs would do some one thing more comical than usual, and forgot there was in this world such a thing as a circus, or such a man as Job Lord. It was to Toby a morning without a flaw, and he took no heed of the time, until the sound of the church bells warned him of the lateness of the hour, reminding him at the same time of where he should be—where he would be if he was at home with Uncle Daniel.

In the meantime the old monkey had been trying to attract his young master's attention, and, failing in his efforts, he came down from out the trees, crept softly up to Toby, and nestled his head under the boy's arm.

This little act of devotion seemed to cause Toby's grief to burst forth afresh, and clasping the monkey around the neck, hugging him close to his bosom, he sobbed:

'Oh, Mr. Stubbs, Mr. Stubbs, how lonesome we are! If we was only at Uncle Daniel's, we'd be the happiest people in all this world. We could play on the hay, or go up to the pasture, or go down to the village, an' I'd work my fingers off if I could be there once more. It was wicked for me to run away, an' now I'm gettin' paid for it.'

He hugged the monkey closely, swayed his body to and fro, presenting a perfect picture of grief. The monkey, not knowing what to make of this changed mood, cowered whimperingly in his arms, looking up into his face, and licking the boy's hands with his tongue whenever he had the opportunity.

It was some time before Toby's grief exhausted itself, and then still clasping the monkey, he hurried out of the woods to the town and now the most hated circus tents.

The clocks were just striking one as Toby entered the inclosure used by the show as a place of performance, and remembering his engagement with the skeleton and his wife, he went directly to their tent. 'From the odors which assailed him as he entered, it was quite evident that a feast of no mean proportions was in course of preparation, and Toby's very great appetite came to him in full vigor Even the monkey seemed affected by the odor, for he danced about on his master's shoulder, and chattered so that Toby's was obliged to choke him in order to make him present a respeciable appearance.

When Toby reached the interior of the tent he was astonished at the extent of the preparations that were being made, and gazed around him in surprise. The platform on which the lean man and fat woman were in the habit of exhibiting themselves now bore a long table loaded with eatables and from the fact that eight or ten chairs lodged around it, Toby understood that he was not the only guest at the feast. Some little attempt had also been made at decoration by festooning that end of the tent at which the platform was placed with two or three flags and some streamers, and the tent poles were fringed with tissue-paper of the brightest colors.

Toby has had only time enough to notice this, when the skeleton advanced toward him, and with the liveliest appearance of pleasure, said, as he took him by the hands with a grip that made him wince.

'It gives me great joy, Mr. Tyler, to welcome you at one of our little home reunions, if one can call a tent, that is moved every day in the week, home.'

Toby hardly knew whom Mr. Treat referred to when he said 'Mr. Tyler,' but by the time his hands were released from the bony grasp, he understood that it was himself who was spoken to.

The skeleton then introduced him to the other guests present, who were sitting in one end of the tent, and evidently anxiously awaiting the coming feast.

'These,' said Mr. Treat, as he waved his hand toward two white-haired, pink-eyed young ladies, who sat with their arms twined around each other's waists, and had been eying the monkey with some appearance of fear, 'are the Miss Cushings, known to the world as the Albino Children; they command a large salary, and form a very attractive feature of our exhibition.'

The young ladies arose at the same time as if they had been the Siamese Twins, and could not act independently of each other, and bowed.

Toby made the best bow he was capable of, and the monkey made frantic efforts to escape, as if he would enjoy twisting his paws in their perpendicular hair.

'And this,' continued Mr. Treat, pointing to a sickly, sour looking individual, who was sitting apart from the others, with his arms folded, and looking as if he was counting the very seconds before the dinner should begin. 'Is the wonderful Signor Castro, whose sword-swallowing you have doubtless heard of.'

Toby stepped back just one step, as if overwhelmed with awe at beholding the signor in the guise of a humble individual, and the gentleman who gained his livelihood by swallowing swords unbent his dignity so far as to unfold his arms, and present a very dirty looking hand for Toby to shake. The boy took hold of the outstretched hand, wondering why the signor never used soap and water, and Mr. Stubbs, apparently afraid of the sour looking man, retreated to Toby's shoulder, where he sat chattering and scolding at the introduction.

Again the skeleton waved his hand, and this time he introduced 'Mademoiselle Spelletti, the wonderful snake charmer, whose exploits in this country, and before the crowned heads of Europe, had caused the whole world to stand aghast at her daring.'

Mademoiselle Spelletti was a very ordinary looking young lady of about twenty-five years of age, who looked very much as if her name might originally have been Murphy, and she too extended a hand for Toby to grasp, only her hand was clean, and she appeared to be a very much more pleasant acquaintance than the gentleman who swallowed swords.

This ended the introductions, and Toby was just looking around for a seat, when Mrs. Treat, the fat lady, and the giver of the feast which was about to come, and which already smelled so invitingly, entered from behind a curtain of canvas, where the cooking stove was supposed to be located.

She had every appearance of being the cook for the occasion. Her sleeves were rolled up, her hair tumbled and frowzy, and there were several unmistakable marks of grease on the front of her calico dress.

She waited for no ceremony, but rushed up to Toby, and taking him in her arms, gave him such a squeeze that there seemed to be every possibility that she would break all the bones in his body; and she kept him so long in this bear-like embrace that Mr. Stubbs reached his little brown paws over, got such a hold of her hair that all present, save Signor Castro, rushed forward to release her from the monkey's grasp.

'You dear little thing,' said Mrs. Treat, paying but very little attention to the hair-pulling she had just undergone, and holding Toby at arm's length, where she could look into his face, 'you were so late that I was afraid you wasn't coming, and my dinner wouldn't have tasted half so good if you hadn't been here to eat some.'

Toby hardly knew what to say at this hearty welcome, but he managed to tell the large and kind-hearted lady that he had no idea of missing the dinner, and that he was very glad she wanted him to come.

'Want you to come, you dear little thing!' she exclaimed, as she gave him another hug, but was careful not to get her head where Mr. Stubbs could get hold of the hair again—'of course I wanted you to come, for this very dinner has been got up so that you could meet these people here, and so that they could see you.'

Toby was entirely at a loss to know what to say to this overwhelming compliment, and for that reason he did not say anything, only submitting patiently to the third hug, which was all Mrs. Treat had time to give him, as she was obliged to rush behind the canvas screen again, as there were unmistakable sounds of something boiling over on the stove.

'You'll excuse me,' said the skeleton, with an air of dignity, waving his hand once more toward the assembled company, 'but while introducing you to Mr. Tyler, I had almost forgotten to introduce him to you. This, ladies and gentlemen,' and here he touched Toby on the shoulder, as if he were some living curiosity whose habits and mode of capture he was about to explain to a party of spectators, 'is Mr. Toby Tyler, of whom you heard on the night when the monkey cage was smashed, and who now carries with him the identical monkey which was presented to him by the manager of this great show as a token of esteem for his skill and bravery in capturing the entire lot of monkeys without a single blow.'

By the time Mr. Treat got through with this long speech, Toby felt very much as if he was some wonderful creation whom the skeleton was exhibiting; but he managed to rise to his feet, and duck his little red head in his best imitation of a bow. Then he sat down and hugged Mr. Stubbs to cover his confusion.

One of the Albino Children now came forward, and while stroking Mr. Stubbs's hair, looked so intently at Toby that for the life of him he couldn't say which she regarded as the curiosity, himself or the monkey; therefore he hastened to say, modestly,

'I didn't do much toward catchin' the monkeys; Mr. Stubbs here did almost all of it, an' I only led 'em in.'

'There, there, my boy,' said the skeleton, in a fatherly tone, 'I've heard the whole story from old Ben, an' I sha'n't let you get out of it like that. We all know what you did, an' it's no use for you to deny any part of it.'

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S
EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.
A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

The North-West.

(From our own Correspondent.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 12.

The Manitoban capital is at the present hour one of the liveliest scenes in certain ways that a person can behold. Everybody is buying and selling real estate, and all who are engaged in the speculation are, to use an old expression full of pleasant meaning, "coining money." One year ago real estate agencies were not very numerous; only here and there you would see a shingle hanging out, by failing to draw attention. Now you may travel from one end of the city to the other and real estate placards by the dozen staring you in the face. The pedestrian has to exercise great care while walking along the streets to prevent stumbling against the latest bulletin. All, from the governor to the servant, are casting their lot into fortune's lap. No other topic is discussed just now. All other affairs are being neglected to a certain extent, while this receives the whole attention. New towns are springing up every day, maps are circulated, the auction sale is called, and almost without questioning the lots are bought up by the eager speculator, and probably before a week rolls round those lots have passed through the hands of a dozen speculators and money made at every transfer. It is really astonishing. Our readers, at so great a distance from the scene of action, can form no reasonable idea of how wild and enthusiastic the people have become. Men drawing only ordinary salaries, accumulate a little money, leave their situations and "go into town lots." One young man—a fireman on the C. P. R.—having one hundred dollars at his command, tendered his resignation to the company, immediately he opened up an office, and now is one of the speculators of the city. Another engineer—Joseph Little of the C. P. R.—took similar action and left the company. Now he walks the streets watching his opportunity, and to my certain knowledge he averaged for every day last week $50, or three hundred dollars for the week. To give you an idea of how the money is made: A young man in this city sold three lots to a dealer for $1,300. The dealer the same day sold the same lots to another party at an advance of $50 on the original price. Purchaser number three parted with them to a private and confidential friend, who had told purchaser number three to "keep his eye skinned and let him know if there was anything in the wind," for $1,700. The confidential friend the following day parted with them for the sum of $2,400. What became of them after that I am not prepared to say, but this is only an illustration showing how money can be and is being made in buying and selling property in the city of Winnipeg. Every hotel in the city has a real estate room in connection with it. The proprietors of second hand furniture stores say that they cannot keep a square top table two hours at a time, as the real estate men buy them up.

The growth of this city is really magical; it is spreading out like a mushroom, and everybody is so astonished at its progress that no one will venture a prophecy as to its future, save that "it is bound to be a great city." This present year there have been over $2,500,000 spent in building operations alone, and it is very probable that if men and material had been obtainable, that amount would have been doubled. Bricklayers drew as high as seven dollars per day wages; carpenters four dollars: plasterers and stonemasons correspondingly high. Hotels have been erected in every part of the city, Most of them are of a high order,—still with the increased accommodation, a traveller runs a risk of not getting a bed upon his arrival in the city. From the appearance of the streets one would imagine that the whole tide of immigration this year had settled in Winnipeg, nevertheless the country has received a fair share, and another year's report from the immigration department will be an agreeable surprise to the people of Canada. The Syndicate are making preparations for a large influx of immigration from Great Britain this coming year. They, with that perfect system which characterizes them in all matters with which they have to deal, will within the next decade roll a tide of human souls into this country, the action of which wave will change the grassy appearance of this territory's surface into the glittering beauty of nature's cereal productions—the ebbs and flows of its mighty wave will chafe the hills, and transform the valleys into mines of wealth for the industrious husbandman. The effect which this combination of capitalists has produced upon this country is really marvellous, and while we are to remember that only the initiatory steps have been taken by them, we can with astonishment look forward to the future in expectation of greater developments than have been made hereto. The cry of "Syndicate monopoly," so loudly rung from one end of the Lower Provinces to the other, is never heard of here. Such a thing as a grumbler cannot be found in the country, unless it may be some Grit dyed politician who cannot be held responsible for an inbred sin. The people of this country are proud of the Syndicate. Both Tory and Grit are loud in their praise of it, and if an expression should be asked of the property holders of this country respecting the popularity of the Canada Pacific Railway Company, nine-tenths of the people would pronounce in favor of it.

Lefroy's Execution.

A BUSINESS-LIKE HANGING WITH MARWOOD'S LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

(London News, November 30.)

The execution of Lefroy, which took place yesterday morning inside Lewes jail, was carried out simply, punctually and effectually. The Lewes gallows is so arranged that when the execution takes place the subject drops out of sight below the surface of the earth. The "drop" is flush with the surface. Underneath is a square pit bricked at the sides and base of 11 or 12 feet in depth. Above the drop is a cross-beam supported by two uprights, from which is suspended the rope. On moving a lever which is connected with bolts sustaining the drop the latter parts in the centre, either side hanging on its hinges, and the sight of a criminal hanging lifeless in the air is thus avoided. At about 8:30 the reporters, to the number of about fifteen—who, with the exception of the jail officials were the only witnesses of the execution—were admitted to the jail. At 8:45 the first note of the prison bell was sounded, and its knell continued at regular intervals until everything was over. At 8.55 a warder summoned the reporters, who followed him through two courtyards in which as the paved pathway indicated, the convicts are in the habit of taking their daily exercise. In the third and final one was erected the gallows. Just inside the doorway stood Marwood with his pinioning apparatus in his hand. He was summoned away, and a pause of some few moments ensued, at the end of which the voice of the chaplain was heard, and those standing in the courtyard bared their heads and turned towards a further door, whence the procession was issuing. The chaplain, robed in his surplice, came first, pronouncing in a loud voice, though with evident signs of emotion, the appointed service. The central and conspicuous object of that little band that slowly defiled towards the platform where he was to meet his fate was, of course, Lefroy himself. He was dressed in a brown tweed suit. He had no covering to his head and no collar round his neck. The grey woollen shirt he wore was open and turned back at the edges in front, showing his long thin neck. His face, which was pale enough during his trial, now showed not a vestige of color. His eyes were turned upwards towards the sun, which was shining full in his face, and its glare imparted an unusual brilliancy to them. Arriving at the drop he allowed himself quietly to be placed thereon and pinioned as to his legs. Marwood was scarcely a minute about his task, and while the chaplain was yet repeating the words of the service he had gone to the side, pulled a lever and Lefroy had disappeared from sight. That death was instantaneous there can be no doubt, for there was no evidence of any subsequent struggling. The drop was at least eight feet, and in all probability the neck was at once broken. The whole business of the execution occupied about three minutes. The coroner's jury then viewed the body, with regard to which there is nothing to be said, but that the face wore a calm appearance and that there was a slight abrasion of skin on the neck.

Lefroy's last night was one of the easiest he had spent during his confinement. After the chaplain had left him in the evening he engaged himself in scanning the books which had been supplied to him, reading extracts, first from one and then from another until about 10:30 o'clock, when appearing to grow somewhat weary, he turned to his attendant and said he thought it was time to go to bed. He then knelt by his bedside for some time as though in prayer, and this he has done every night before going to bed since his incarceration, but no audible words escaped his lips. Having risen from this attitude he undressed and composed himself to rest. During the night he turned two or three times from side to side, but his sleep did not appear to be materially interfered with, and it was not until six o'clock, when the doors in the various wards were unlocked, that he seemed to realize his position. He then suddenly awakening, exclaimed: "Why, it must be 6 o'clock!" Springing from his bed, he proceeded to attire himself, and again engaged in reading and in preparing himself for his doom. After this he ate a fairly good breakfast and awaited with composure the time of execution.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect-digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

THE MAYORALTY.

A MEETING of the friends and supporters of Ald. N. Lingham in his candidacy for the Mayoralty of the City of Belleville for 1882, will be held in the large hall in the INTELLIGENCER building on for the purpose of organizing for the campaign.

Monday Evening, Dec. 19th, at 7:30 p. m.

An invitation is extended to every elector who desires to assist in the canvass.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, DEC. 19.

Municipal Matters.

There is a wonderful dullness in matters municipal at present. Although the day of election is but two weeks away, only five candidates for Aldermanic honors have as yet publicly solicited the suffrages of the electors in the orthodox manner, namely through the press, whilst about this date in former years the advertising columns of the newspapers fairly bristled with the "cards" of the unwilling ones who had "yielded to the solicitations of a large number of the electors," &c. Private canvassing, even, is far from lively; so much so, in fact, that the fortunate possessor of a vote in three or four of the Wards can pass up and down Front Street without danger of having his arm dislocated or some of his finger bones broken by the desperate grip and the powerful "shake hands" of the candidates for seats in the Council. What the cause of this apathy is, it is not easy to discover, but it is none the less desirable that there should be a change. It is true that the year which is now closing has been on the whole a fairly satisfactory one, but that does not render it certain that the electors will be content to re-elect all the men who have sat at the municipal board during its currency. Further, there will be vacancies to fill in Baldwin, Ketcheson and Samson Wards, so that contests in those Wards are all but certain. The aspirants being so backward, the ratepayers ought to take action in the premises and induce good candidates to come forward in opposition to some of the objectionable or less efficient members of the present year's Council, and to secure the discussion of public affairs of importance, such for instance as the frontage tax, the proposed Hospital and Home, water works, &c. It is not well that the present apathy should continue; for that the City has been fairly well governed during the past two years is no guarantee for the future. In order to secure a continuance of good and economical government, it is necessary for the people to show that they take an active and intelligent interest in their own affairs, and will reward or punish their representatives as they deserve. It rests with themselves to choose between continued apathy or a proper activity, and the past history of the municipality ought to strongly incline them towards the latter course.

Editorial Brevities.

The Ottawa Free Press having given its dictum that "a Minister who goes on the stump in a by-election assumes to some extent the character of a briber, and such action has always been regarded as scandalous," the Citizen retorts very effectually that in such case "the members of the Mackenzie Government who went on the stump at by-elections must have been bribers, and their conduct scandalous." Thus cornered, the Free Press tries to escape by alleging that "Mr. Mackenzie, whilst in office, persistently refused to go on the stump at by-elections." Our contemporary's memory is treacherous, for Mr. Mackenzie not only went on the stump, but did so in the Ottawa district, namely in North Renfrew, when a by-election was in progress.

The Ottawa organ of the Opposition asks, "is it not singular that no explanation is offered of how Mr. Domville, Mr. Allison, Mr. Costigan, and other friends of the Government have become possessed of large tracts of land in the North West?" Possibly, but ought not our contemporary to set an example of frankness by stating how it is that Sir Richard Cartwright and other members of the Opposition have become possessed of tracts of land in the North-West whilst strongly condemning speculation by other gentlemen? When the Free Press explains, it will be in a position to ask for an explanation as to the private transactions of its opponents, but not till then.

We commend to the special attention of the Montreal Witness, in view of its assertion that protection in the United States is doomed, the following extract from a much better and less biassed authority than the Witness, namely the Monetary Times, of Toronto: "Neither political party, in the States, advocates free trade. The Democratic party, once a free trade party, is now divided against itself on the question; and as a party it is no longer an advocate of free trade. The practical question, then, is one of a greater or less degree of protection."

The St. Catharines Journal pertinently remarks:—"In order to put municipal authorities upon their guard with respect to a provision of the Municipal Amendment Act of 1881, relating to the sale of market fees for the coming year, the Globe calls attention to 44 Vic., cap 24, sec. 35, which enacts that "no municipality shall make any sale, assignment or lease of its market fees for a period longer than the 1st day of April, 1883, unless and until hereafter empowered so to do by this Legislature." We believe that in some instances the sale of market fees has been advertised. There is little doubt that if any municipality desires to try this question, this high-handed legislation would, on being tested in the courts, be declared ultra vires, like so many Acts of the Mowat Administration. Why, it is only a few days ago that Mr. Mowat gave permission to this city to issue debentures in payment of increased market grounds. His proposal now to cut off our right to sell the market fees in order to meet our obligations, is to say the least, inconsistent and unjust." And the case of Belleville is worse than that of St. Catharines, for this city paid its share of the cost of freeing the roads.

County Court.

The following is the Grand Jury's Presentment:

Ontario, County of Hastings, to-wit:

We the Grand Jurors of the Court of General Sessions of the Peace of the County of Hastings now assembled, beg respectfully to present the following report:

1. We have to the best of our ability completed the business brought before us.

2. We beg to express our deep regret to hear of the resignation of the Hon. Judge Sherwood, the former Chairman of the Sessions, through ill-health, and hope that being relieved of his Judicial duties he may yet long be spared in private life, to exercise those qualities which were so cheerfully and justly performed by him in his official capacity.

3. We beg to submit that it is a case of congratulation to the City of Belleville, and to the large County of Hastings, and to the administration of justice as to the citizens therein, that there is at present so little criminal business for the Grand Jurors of this County to do.

4. As requested by your Worship the Jurors aforesaid have made a careful inspection of the County Gaol, in its several departments, and we find the same perfectly clean, and everything about it in perfect order, and from close personal enquiries made of the prisoners we find no cause of complaint exists, and we were pleased to see the painting and repairing done by the prisoners; and we congratulate the County in having such worthy and courteous officers as the present Gaoler, Matron and Turnkey in charge of the prisoners.

We also visited and inspected the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and were highly pleased with the way the same is conducted. Out of the 260 every one appeared happy and contented, and everything in perfect order, and no complaint; not one case of sickness exists among the pupils.

We must return our most sincere thanks to your Worship for your kind instructions in our official duties, and also to Mr. Matheson and officers of the Institute for their extreme courtesy in showing us through the Institute and also to Mr. Coleman, County Crown Attorney, for the valuable assistance he cheerfully extended to us in performing his duties.

We cannot conclude our Presentment without congratulating the County in securing the valuable services of Sheriff Hope, who we consider in every respect a most efficient officer, and who has been unremitting in rendering us his most able advice in the discharge of our duties, and for which we do most sincerely thank him.

All of which is respectfully submitted
For self and fellows,

MILLS vs. GORDON.—Action on promises and trover to recover cash loaned and value of a watch chain and locket loaned by plff. to deft. Deft. alleges that he did not borrow the watch, &c., but took the watch, &c., to keep for plff. and says that after he got them they were stolen from him. Verdict for plff. for $112.—Holden & Anderson for plff; Dickson for deft.

QUEEN vs. DAVID CONNORS.—Indicted for stealing a horse, waggon, harness and buffalo. Prisoner hired them from one Wormworth, a livery stable keeper at Tamworth, and drove up to Marlbank, and after drinking considerable, sold them to one McLaughlin. The sale took place about 11 o'clock at night. The price paid was $13. Next morning McLaughlan, finding he had made a good bargain, offered the property back. Prisoner declined taking them and giving up the money. Verdict, "Guilty."—Coleman, Crown Attorney; Burdett for prisoner.

Literary Notes from the Century Co.

The January Century, a large edition of which is on the press, will be delayed this month until the 23rd. One of the novel features is to be a frontispiece printed in tint,—a portrait of Ex-President Thiers, accompanying an article by the Hon. Elihu B. Washburne, the former Minister to France. A full-page portrait of Queen Margaret of Italy is given in connection with an article on the making of Burano lace, for which the Princess Louise of England has made a sketch. The number also has another portrait of President Garfield (from an artotype by Edward Bierstadt, N. Y.), which will accompany an anecdotal paper by Colonel A. F. Rockwell, entitled "From Mentor to Elberon." The immediate friends of the late President regard this portrait as giving a somewhat different phase of the late President's character from that presented by the engraving by Cole in the December CENTURY, and as revealing his affectionate qualities, while the latter was especially strong on the intellectual side of his nature. The artotype is also interesting as being the portrait Mrs. Garfield selected to send to Queen Victoria. The sale of the November and December CENTURY still continues. A new edition of nine thousand of the latter number has just been issued.

THE REGULAR EDITION OF ST. NICHOLAS in England is now eight thousand copies. Ten thousand copies of the Christmas number are being sold there.

THE NORTH-WEST.—An Ottawa despatch says:—"Mr. Felix McHugh, who has charge of the Government Supply Farm in the Bow River section of the North-West, reached the city to-day, having obtained leave of absence for the winter season. He was nine weeks on the way, and travelled 2,500 miles. Mr. McHugh reports everything progressing in the North-West. The Cochrane Ranch has 8,500 head of cattle and 1,500 horses upon it, while the Stewart-Christie Ranch has 1,000 head of cattle and 200 brood mares. Both are doing finely. Some fifty families located at the Edmonton settlements the past season. There was some successful gold mining on the Saskatchewan during the summer. The Indians are reported as taking to farming kindly under the tuition of the Indian farm instructors."

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

That Shannonville Scandal.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SHANNONVILLE, Dec. 16, 1881.

SIR,—Two or three days ago I heard that there was an account of a Shannonville scandal in one of the Belleville papers. I did not see it. This evening a friend handed me the Napanee Standard and said, "There is an account of the affair." The article is said to be taken from the Belleville INTELLIGENCER. It is so full of wilful misrepresentations that I feel it is my duty to present facts to the community and allow them to judge for themselves.

In that article, it is said, "a wealthy miller could not smother his amorous feelings towards a good looking young woman who came into the mill to make change." The fact is: this young woman frequently came into the mill to make change—friendliness grew out of this and one day he kissed her. Another man was in the mill at the time, and she, I understand, was not then offended, and came into the mill once or twice afterwards. It is said the "church officials met, deprived him of official dignities, withheld from him the privilege of preaching and incontinently turned him out of the church." Every word of this is false, for we never met to deliberate in any way on his case. It is said "he disposed of his milling property at a sacrifice and on Saturday night left for parts unknown." It is true he sold out and left the village. Whether he sold at a sacrifice I do not know, but it is well known that he would have sold out months ago if he had got a good chance. He left on Saturday morning, not Saturday night, and went to his own home, for I know three parties who received a letter each from him since he went to his home. How great a smoke a little fire kindleth. Your correspondent does not give his name. I do not wonder. I have heard of a man who was so small, mean, base, (figuratively speaking) that you might hold him on the point of one of the finest cambric needles, blow him through the beak of a humming-bird into a mosquito's eye and it would not wink. When I read that article so full of wilful misrepresentations I concluded that your correspondent was that man. Please insert this in the INTELLIGENCER as soon as possible and those papers that have circulated the scandal will be kind enough to give this explanation.

ISAAC N. ROBINSON.

Bridgewater Correspondence.

BRIDGEWATER 19 Dec 1881.

No sleighing here yet nor any signs of it, roads very rough and travelling bad.

The railroad is being pushed forward with vigor.

Tenders are being advertised for a daily mail from Bridgewater via Queensboro and the Allan settlement to Madoc, to commence April next.

Business booming. If no other excitement springs up meanwhile the next will be the municipal election.

News Condensed.

—Eight arrests under the Ireland Coercion Act were made on Saturday.

—Messrs. Corriveau are erecting a large building in Montreal for a silk factory.

—Forty-four lives have been lost by the bursting of a dam on the Oran railroad, near Algiers.

—Twenty-five students of Laval University, Quebec, have been suspended for taking part in the recent elections.

—Morland, Watson & Co.'s nail works, near Montreal, were burned on the night of the 19th. Loss about $70,000.

—The police barracks at Croboy, Ireland, were burned by an incendiary on Friday night. The inmates barely escaped.

—It is rumored in Quebec that Messrs. McGreevy and Jas. G. Ross have purchased the North Shore Railway for $8,000,000.

—Two more agrarian murders have occurred in Ireland within the past two or three days, the one at Knock and the other at Pallas.

—Mrs. Langtry has joined the Haymarket Theatre Company, and has expressed the hope that at some future time she will have the pleasure of visiting America.

—A large seizure of arms and ammunition was made at Dublin on Saturday, and several persons were arrested. The collection is supposed to have been made by Fenians.

—Armed bands are going about nightly throughout counties Clare, Kerry, and Tipperary, firing into houses and so intimidating the occupants that they fear to report the facts to the police.

—The Militia general orders contain a paragraph censuring the officers of a battalion—understood to be a Quebec one—for meeting and passing resolutions condemning the conduct and orders of their commanding officer.

—The Customs authorities made another large seizure in Montreal yesterday, which will amount to seven or eight thousand dollars at least. The goods are watches and jewellery, belonging to a man named Patterson, from Boston, who is stopping at a hotel in that city. Part of the goods were found in the possession of a Pullman car conductor, who was coming to the hotel, and the balance in Patterson's room in the hotel.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.—Wholesale buyers of dry goods for the Canadian market arrived in England this year at an earlier period than heretofore. The majority will return to Canada during the present week. It is understood that their purchases have been much more extensive than for several years past. It will be gratifying to Canadians to know that in consequence of the better facilities afforded by the Intercolonial Railway, the greater portion of the spring goods will be conveyed by that route. The Allan steamship "Peruvian," which left the Mersey yesterday for Halifax, had the largest quantity of express fine goods for transit via the Intercolonial which has ever been carried by that route, merchants finding that their goods arrive in Montreal before the steamers reach United States ports. In addition, in the past complaints have been made with regard to Customs' entries of goods passing through the United States.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. ## MANITOBA.

The Far-famed Turtle Mountain District.

The First Town Site in the District.

I HAVE received instructions and will offer for sale by Public Auction, in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse, in the City of Belleville, on the days and evenings of

Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of December,

Six Hundred Lots in the Town Site of Wood Lake City.

In offering this Town Site, it is believed that we are offering something well worthy the attention of intending investors in Manitoba lands. It is situate on the banks of Wood Lake, in Township 2, Range 19 West, in the Province of Manitoba,—the well and favorably known Turtle Mountain district.

Public attention is now more favorably directed towards this District, which is rapidly settling up with first class settlers, than to any other in the Province, and lands are rapidly rising in price. The almost endless stretch of the best agricultural lands in the world, the abundance of wood and water, make this District at once the the Farmers' Eldorado, and within a year there will not be a section of land unsold. The Town site of Wood Lake City is situate in the very heart of this country, on the banks of one of the most beautiful Lakes imagination can picture, on one side of which rolling prairie stretches away as far as the eye can reach; while on the other stands a forest of oak, and other timber, 35 miles square. The lake is fed by springs, and contains therefore the best of water. The situation of this town site at once suggests a favorite summer resort. Game abounds in the country surrounding it. The Boundary Commission trail, the travelled thoroughfare to the far west, runs directly through the Town. There is at present a comfortable stopping place for the convenience of travellers, and arrangements are being made for the erection of a Saw Mill, Church, and School house. This site has long been looked forward to by settlers as the site for the future Town of the Turtle Mountain District, and with its advantages must rapidly take a prominent place amongst western cities. Every body wants to own some property in Manitoba. Here is a chance to obtain for a reasonable sum a property which will in a short time yield a handsome profit on the investment.

Terms made known at Sale.

Sale each day at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 7 o'clock. Maps and Plans on exhibition in the sale room.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, DEC. 19.

City and Vicinity.

The steamship Polynesian arrived out yesterday.

Several of our city choirs are practicing Christmas music.

The woman Holmes has been committed to gaol as a lunatic.

Two male prisoners have been in the cells since Saturday night.

The charter of the Ontario Steel Association arrived to-day.

There are at present 13 prisoners in the County Gaol—9 men and 4 women.

A new post office has been opened at Deloro, near the Canada Consolidated Gold mines.

Mr. Hastings, horse dealer, shipped 17 horses to New York, per G. T. R., this morning.

Alderman Costello, whose card appears in another column, seeks re-election for Ketcheson Ward.

The entrance examination for admission to the High School will take place on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Ontario Steel Association will probably submit to the City Council a scheme to supply the city with water.

A splendid programme has been provided for the entertainment in College Chapel on Wednesday evening. Admission 10cts.

Mr. James Macoun is a candidate for election to the Council for Baldwin Ward. His card to the electors appears in our advertising columns.

The next regular meeting of the City Council will be held on Tuesday evening, the 27th inst., instead of Monday, the 26th—the regular meeting night.

A meeting of the Vestry of Christ Church will be held to-morrow evening, when a Warden will be appointed in place of the late R. Newbery, Esq.

Mayor Patterson returned home on Saturday. During his absence from the city he has visited Chicago and the north-western part of this Province.

Vennor has missed it this time. He predicted "cold and blustering" weather for yesterday—and it was more like a day in June than a December day.

The monthly assembly under the auspices of the Oddfellow's Band will be held to-morrow evening in the assembly-room of the Band, Robertson's Block.

The public examinations at the R. C. Separate School will take place to-morrow—the Second Division in the morning, and the First Division in the afternoon.

There was magnificent skating in the harbor on Saturday night, and it was enjoyed by scores of our youths of both sexes, many of whom did not take off their skates till midnight.

The Mayor has issued his proclamation requesting that Monday, the 26th inst., be observed as the Christmas holiday and that Monday, January 2nd. be observed as New Year's day.

Mr. E. L. Gaujot, late Manager of the Canada Consolidated Mines, has resigned his position. He will be appointed Manager of the works to be established by the Ontario Steel Association.

The Presbytery of Kingston will meet here to-morrow afternoon. Its principal business will be the reception and consideration of the call tendered by the Trenton Church to Rev. A. Matthews, late of Lansdown.

Those who intend supporting Ald. Lingham for Mayor in the approaching contest are reminded of the meeting of that gentleman's supporters, which is to be held in the Intelligencer Building this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The little old man who gave such trouble in the Home for the Friendless—on one occasion allowing his pugilistic tendencies to get the better of his discretion and inflicting a black eye on the matron—has been discharged from the institution.

No. 1 fire engine is now repaired and is ready for work once more. The new suction, that was recently purchased by the city, has been found unfit for use, and the old one, which had been thrown aside, has been repaired and will be used again.

The Assembly of Independent Hose Company No. 2 will be held in the City Hall on Monday evening next, the 26th inst. The tickets, which will admit a lady and gentleman to the ball and supper, have been fixed at the reasonable rate of $1.00. The supper will be held at the Commercial House.

Peterborough Times:—We congratulate Mr. D. B. Robertson on his appointment to the position of City Clerk of Belleville, which was made by the Fathers of the Bay city at its last meeting. Mr. Robertson's friends intended to have placed him in the Mayor's chair next year, but his appointment to the present position will make his candidature impossible. Mr. R. will make an efficient and popular officer.

On next Sunday—Christmas day—there is to be a Sunday School Christmas Service in Bridge St. Methodist Church, in which the Sunday Schools of Bleecker St., Holloway St., and Bridge St. Churches will take part.

Remember the City Mission Sunday School Christmas tree festival to-night, at 7:30 o'clock, in the City Hall. Among the recitations, etc., is an anti-treating dialogue. Mr. J. C. Reynolds has kindly consented to supply his Santa Claus. Admission 10 cts. only.

At the annual meeting of Wannamaker's Corners L. O. L. No. 285, the following officers were elected: Wm. T. Brown, W.M., John McKinnon, D. M., Samuel Robinson, Treas., John Empey, Secretary; Committee, John Nickle, J. S. Brown, Nathaniel Nickle, John Lough, Geo. Nickle.

We notice in the Thunder Bay Sentinel of the 9th inst. an account of a successful social held at the residence of Rev. O. R. Lambly, Waverly Park, in aid of the parsonage fund. Rev. Mr. Lambly and his daughter Marion both took part in the entertainment, which, according to the Sentinel, was both pleasing and financially successful.

The Canadian Directors of the Midland Railway of Canada as consolidated are Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, President and Manager, W. Gooderham, J. D. Edgar, H. P. Dwight, R. Jaffray, of Toronto; Lewis Ross of Port Hope; J. R. Dundas, of Lindsay; Thomas Kelso, of Belleville, H. M. Henshaw, of Montreal, and J. M. Ferris, M.P. P., East Northumberland.

On Saturday afternoon a collision occurred a short distance this side of the D. & D. Institute between a waggon, loaded with barley and driven by Mr. F. Kleingbeil, and a buggy containing a lady and gentleman named Weese, from Prince Edward. The buggy was overturned and its occupants thrown to the ground. With the exception of a few bruises, however, they escaped uninjured; but the buggy was badly smashed.

David Connors was brought up on Saturday afternoon at the County Court, charged with the larceny of a horse and buggy and with obtaining money under false pretences. The prisoner was defended by S. B. Burdett, Esq., and the prosecution was conducted by the County Attorney. To the latter charge the prisoner pleaded guilty, and the jury found him guilty of larceny, with a strong recommendation to mercy. Judge Lazier reserved sentence.

The North Hastings Review says:—"On Sunday two powerful and eloquent sermons were delivered in the pulpit in this village by Rev. S. J. Shorey, of West Belleville circuit, the church on both occasions being crowded. Mr. Shorey, we might here say, preached his first sermon in the same pulpit some years ago, on his first entering the ministry, and the promises he then gave of some day rising to eminence in his chosen work are now being realized in the more than ordinary talent he displays as a public speaker."

Educational.—The promotion examinations to the fourth class commenced this morning and will conclude to-morrow.

Weather Probabilities—Toronto, Dec. 19.—Lakes and St Lawrence, winds mostly from south and west, fair to cloudy continued mild weather, very light showers in a few localities.

Sons of England.—The members of "Oxford" Lodge will be initiated this evening and the officers elected, installed by Mr. R. Caddick, P.G.P. and Mr. J. W. Carter, Grand Secretary, who arrived from Toronto to-day to conduct the ceremony.

Manitoba Lands.—The important sale of Manitoba lands, advertised in another column, will commence at 10 a. m. to-morrow and will be continued in the evening and on Wednesday morning and evening. The opportunity for speculation—as to the extent of which see our regular correspondent's letter from Winnipeg—is an excellent one.

"A Burnt Child Dreads the Fire."—In his address to the municipal electors of Madoc, Mr. E. D. O'Flynn says, "Naturally shrinking from the excitement occasioned by an election contest." Those who know the history of Parliamentary contests in North Hastings will not wonder at Mr. O'Flynn's "shrinking from the excitement occasioned by an election contest," but few will give him credit for doing so "naturally."

Strange Coincidence.—About a year since, Mrs. Mackenzie, a venerable and respected lady, fell in her own house and sustained injuries, chiefly to her hip, from which she died some two weeks later. Two weeks since, Miss Lucretia Mackenzie, aged 76, sister to Mrs. Mackenzie, fell on the verandah, at her house, and sustained an injury to her hip, and yesterday she died from its effects. There is a strange coincidence in the fact that these aged sisters should have met their death from precisely similar causes.

Police Court.—The Police Magistrate had quite a morning's work to-day. There were three drunks to lecture—Wm. Jones, John Leonard and James Fell, who received the P. M.'s admonitions meekly and thankfully. The last two were discharged, but Jones was fined $2.00 and costs. Mrs. Holmes was up on remand on a charge of lunacy, and was further remanded. The principal part of the morning was taken up by a larceny case. Mrs. Manahan charged Mrs. Mary Comerford with stealing several articles of clothing from her. After a long and lively trial the prisoner was convicted and sent to gaol for ten days.

A "Cold Collation."—It is evident that endeavors are being made by our Grit friends to induce Mr. Blake to pay a visit to Belleville and infuse fresh vigor and enthusiasm into the party. One of the inducements which are to be held out to that gentleman is a dinner. A conversation between a prominent member of the party in this city and the proprietor of a leading hotel was overheard a day or two ago. It ran somewhat in this fashion:—"Some of us intend getting up a dinner for Mr Blake, who will probably visit the city shortly. I want to know what you will charge to furnish one. Give me your lowest figures, please." "Well," replied the hotel man, "before I answer you I must know what kind of a dinner you propose having. It will be something recherche, I suppose—hot meats, wines—in fact a heavy bill of fare." "Oh, no, no, no,—nothing of that kind. Just a modest little repast, you know—cold meats will do; nothing very expensive." "But you will surely have soups," said the hotel-man dubiously; "you wouldn't ask Mr. Blake to sit down to a dinner without soup." "Would it cost much more to have soup?" "No, very little more," said mine host with a smile. "Well you can put in the soup. Now give me your very cheapest rate for the dinner, soup and all." The cheapest rate was obtained, and the political economist in embryo left with a look of supreme satisfaction in his face. And so Mr. Blake is going to have a "cold" reception when he comes.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Obituary.—The Trenton Courier, in recording the death of Mrs. Jeremiah Simmons, wife of the venerable and respected Town Clerk of that place, says: "Mrs. Jerh. Simmons was born in Lowville, N.Y., in 1810, was married in 1831, and came to Trenton with her husband in 1835, nearly half a century ago. Her long life seems to have been given up to the practice of self-denial, constantly redolent with the christian graces of patience and love. No stranger to sorrow herself, her delight was ever to alleviate the sorrows and sufferings of others. Her kindly nature, utterly free from the blight of envy, went out in sincere practical sympathy alike to old and young, high and low, rich and poor. In whatever home was found sorrow, sickness or bereavement, there was she found. Her devotional care of her husband through long years of ill health was most touching. Happily, notwithstanding physical weakness and the infirmities of age, she was enabled to go on her accustomed way of life, that of unwearied industry and good works, up to the moment she was stricken with paralysis into unconsciousness. While universal sympathy is given to her venerable husband, so suddenly deprived of his mainstay and comfort in life, he is upheld by a sure hope and blessed assurance, that she who rested not from labor in this world, has gone to that 'rest that remaineth for the people of God.' Five of her six daughters gathered from their own homes and were present at the bedside of their mother in her last moments."

Harper's Magazine for January is a strong number, beautifully illustrated. The frontispiece is an illustration drawn by Alfred Fredericks, entitled "The Challenge," representing a familiar legend of the Courts of King Francis. The leading illustrated paper treats for the first time a characteristic Western subject—the transportation of coal from Pittsburgh down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. The paper is contributed by G. F. Muller, and is admirably illustrated by J. W. Alexander. James Jackson Jarves, who was recently presented three hundred pieces of Venetian glass to the Metropolitan Museum of New York, contributes a paper on this collection, illustrated with pictures of thirty-seven specimens. "With the Vanguard in Mexico" is the first of W. H. Bishop's series of Mexican papers, an exceedingly entertaining paper, finely illustrated. This series is to be followed by another from the same author, on Southern California. Joseph Hatton concludes his "Journalistic London" with notices of Lloyd's celebrated penny newspaper, the London Illustrated News, and the Graphic. Among the illustrations is a group of portraits of the leading artists of the London Graphic. The character and scope of the work done by Young Men's Christian Associations form the subject of an interesting paper by Dr. George R. Crooks, illustrated by portraits of leading men in this work, Senator Edmunds contributes a timely and important paper, entitled "Political Aspects of Mormonism." Robert P. Keep, in a paper entitled "The Boundary of Greece," treats of the present extent of King George's dominion, and of the administrative problems growing out of the new accession of territory. "Who were the Pilgrims?" is a question answered in an interesting historical paper by Wm. T. Davis. F. R. Stockton contributes a clever story, "In the Southeast Bastion;" and R. M. Johnston a humorous Georgian sketch, "Jonce Trammell's Compromise," illustrated by Frost. The strongest poem in the Number is by Annie Fields, entitled "Pastor Dunkwardt," the interest of which is enhanced by two illustrations drawn by Abbey. Miss Constance Fenimore Woolson's novel, "Anne," appears to be approaching a crisis of unusual interest. Hardy's "A Laodicean" is concluded, and will be followed in the February number by "Prudence," a story of Æsthetic London, by Mrs. John Lillie. The Editor's Easy Chair, besides its other interesting gossip, gives a pleasing sketch of Materna, who is to be a prominent attraction in the coming Musical Festival The other departments are full of entertaining and instructive matter.

Tweeds.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—James Hennessy.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, etc.

Bronchitis.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Wm. Hersee, Esq., real estate agent, No. 5 Newark street, Hoboken, New Jersey, says: I was taken with severe pains in the shoulders and right arm. After using everything I could, and seeing that instead of improving, it became worse, and that my arm was beginning to become of little use to me, I determined to make one more attempt by using some St. Jacobs Oil. Before the second bottle had been exhausted I was relieved of all my pains as if by magic. I recommend it to all.

Pains and Griping in Children.

Herrick's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph B. Inman, Station D, New York City. [w6m143eod

EUROPEAN.

MORE ARRESTS IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19—In a house behind General Ignatieff's residence the police arrested eight persons, who offered vigorous resistance The police seized a large quantity of small balls, which were skilfully concealed in oranges. Among the papers seized was a letter from London blaming the Nihilists for inactivity and calling upon them to act without delay. The letter is attributed to Prince Knapotken. On the proposition of the President of the Sacred Synod a Private and Secret Council is about to be re-established. This species of Court Inquisition was created in the time of the Emperor Paul.

THE NO-RENT MOVEMENT.

London, Dec. 19.—Dublin correspondents say that the organization against the payment of rents is becoming still more formidable. It is regarded as much of a crime to go into the Land Court as to pay rent. The lists of persons who have been served with notices and of those suspected of paying rents, are posted at the Chapels and at other places where they are likely to be seen, and although the police tear them down they are soon posted again.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK MISCELLANY.

New York, Dec. 19th.—The report that the widow of the late President Lincoln, who is under good medical treatment here, has completely lost her eyesight, resulted from a misconstruction of Mrs Lincoln's letter to a friend.

A policeman, Thomas Norton, a nephew of ex-Senator Norton, was last night fatally shot, it is alleged by policeman Bernard Fitzpatrick, son of an alderman elect. It is stated that Fitzpatrick, in citizen's dress and accompanied by a dissolute woman, was in a saloon raising a disturbance, which Norton tried to quell.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Herald says: The general sentiment of Democrats in both houses of Congress seems favorable to the proposed commission for the revision of the tariff. Garland's proposition for a commission of three Senators, three Representatives, and three experts from civil life, is generally endorsed by them.

The Congressional enquiry into a monstrous job which call itself a Peruvian Company will probably be moved this week.

The Times says most of the Western and all of the Senators and Representatives from the Pacific States will undoubtedly oppose any measure that proposes to interfere with the Silver Act of February '78. Indications show that these gentlemen will make an effort to amend the present coinage laws so as to provide for still greater issue of silver dollars, and certificates based on them.

THE GUITEAU CASE.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The counsel for Sergt. Mason feel sure of his acquittal on the ground of insanity.

John W. Guiteau maintains that all the theories about the assassin's case are inconsistent with some of the facts, while the theory of congenital malformation and tendency to insanity, which has gone on developing ever since, accounts for every evil he ever committed and every foolish one. John W. claims that the assassin is not playing a part, and says:—"Why, he has privately been at me day after day to go and see Arthur and find out how the President and his administration feel towards him. He also wants me to get $5,000 from James Gordon Bennett. He scolds Scoville and me in private as absurdly as he does in public."

The wife of Juror Tobbs died last night.

HEAVY ROBBERIES BY CLERKS.

Philadelphia, Dec. 19.—Bean and Gobe, wholesale druggists, have been robbed of $20,000 worth of goods by their clerks. Two of the latter have been arrested.

MURDERERS CONVICTED.

Middleburg Pa., Dec. 19.—Uriah Meyer, implicated in the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Kintselee, near Traselville, was found guilty on Saturday, in the first degree. Three other men have been convicted of the same crime, two of whom are awaiting execution. The third committed suicide.

New York, Dec. 19.—Arrived the City of Berlin from Livepool; the Brooklyn City from Bristol; the Marengo from Hull.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

SCOVILLE WORN OUT AND HOPELESS.

Washington, Dec. 19.—It is said Scoville is worn out and tired with the case, and feels there is no hope for the assassin's life.

RAILWAY FATALITY.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 19.—A number of people yesterday went for a pleasure trip on the train delivering rails on the Jefferson City, Lebanon and South Western Railway. Near Russellville the train jumped the track and went down a high embankment. Chris. Wagner, Green, Berry, Oscar, Quoning, prominent citizens of this city, were killed and terribly mangled. Two others were injured.

CHANGE OF BASE.

London, Dec. 19.—All the type and machinery of the United Ireland have been forwarded to London, where the paper will be printed.

THE RING THEATRE HOLOCAUST.

Vienna, Dec. 19.—The later official list estimate the number of victims of the theatre fire at 620.

SKATING FATALITIES.

Fondulac, Wis., Dec. 19.—Louis Mengel and Kitie Macintee, each aged 18, were drowned yesterday while skating. A party of school children broke through the ice at the Sheboygan Falls yesterday. It is reported that seven were drowned.

GUITEAU TRIAL ADJOURNED.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Guiteau's trial is adjourned till Wednesday, on account of the death of Mrs. Hobbs, wife of one of the jurors.

RAILWAY MACHINE SHOPS BURNED.

Lorain, Ohio, Dec. 19.—The machine shops of the Cleveland, Tuscarora Valley & Wheeling R.R. burned yesterday. Loss $75,000.

MURDER IN EGYPT.

Suez, Dec. 19.—In consequence of the report that an Italian had murdered a soldier the military imprisoned him. The Governor barricaded the door of the Governor's residence and refused to admit foreign consuls. It is now discovered that the murder was really committed by a Bedouin. The affair created a sensation, as it shows the ease with which an emeute might arise. A Commissioner from Cairo is investigating the murder.

THE FRENCH CENSUS.

Paris, Dec. 19.—The census of France was taken yesterday. The population is estimated at 38,500,000.

Brilliant Scientific Triumph.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. ## THE MAYORALTY!

To the Electors of the City of Belleville :

GENTLEMEN :—

I beg to announce myself as a candidate for the Mayoralty for the year 1882, and respectfully solicit your support.

Your Obedient Servant,
188dtf JAMES ST. CHARLES.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz :

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

Daily Intelligencer.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

"I used to be like you, once, Miss," said Matty.

At which Ella gave a contemptuous shrug of the shoulders.

But Matty did not regard it ; and she went on and said, "Look at my face, Miss Clementina; it is very horrid and ugly, I know, and I don't wonder as Nurse calls me rubbish, and hates to see me in her nice nursery. Many can't help feeling like that. Do you know how this was done?"

"No. I suppose small-pox ; but it's not like that, for your face is all cut to pieces. I don't know how it was done."

"It was done by the dreadful agony of fire. When I was but a little creetur, living, O Miss ! in such a place—five families of us there were in one low, dark, nasty room, and, O Miss ! it was like the bad place, indeed it was—such swearing and blasphemy when the men came home drunk, and worse, worse, when the women did so too ! Such quarrelling, and fighting, and cursing, and abusing—and the poor children, knocked about at such times anyhow. But my mother never got drunk. She was a poor feeble creature, and mostly sat at home all day crooning, as they call it, by the fire—for they kept a good big fire in winter in the room. And then, when father come home he was generally very bad in liquor, and seeking a quarrel with anything—for something he must have to quarrel with. Well! One evening—O! I shall never forget it— a cold, sleety, winter day it was, and the wind rushing up our court, and the snow falling thick, and the blackened drops and great lumps of snow coming splashing down, and the foul water oozing in under the door-sill, and all such a mess; and the poor, tired, or half-drunk creatures coming in splashed and dripping, and quarrelling for the nighest places to the fire, and swearing all the time to make one's hair stand on end; and father coming in, all wet and bedabbled, and his hat stuck at the top of his head, and his cheeks red, and his eyes staring, though he was chattering with the cold. Mother was at her place by the fire, and he comes up in a rage, like, to turn her out; and she sitting sulky and wouldn't move; and then there was a quarrel; and he begun to beat her, and she begun to shriek out and cry, and the women to scream and screech. O Miss! in the scuffle—I was but a little thing—somebody knocks me right into the fire, and my frock was all in a blaze. It was but a moment, but it seemed such a time!—all in a blaze of fire! And I remember nothing more of it, hardly, but a great noise, and pouring water over me, and running this way and that. When I come to myself, where was I?"

Ella turned from her bird, and her attention seemed riveted upon the story. She forgot her pride and her insolence in the pleasure of listening. Clementina seemed hardly to breathe.

"It was very bad being burned," she said, at last.

"Horrible, Miss !"

"Go on," cried Ella, impatiently; "what became of you?"

"When I got out of my daze—for I believe it was some time before I came to myself—I was lying on father's knee, and he had made a cradle for me, like, of his great strong arms ; and his head was bent down, and he was a looking at me, and great big hot scalding tears were dropping fast upon my poor face.

"'My poor—poor little woman,' I heard him say.

"Then—for my eyes had escaped—I was aware that there was a beautiful young lady —at least I thought her more beautiful than the angels of heaven—standing on the other side of me, right opposite my father, and doing something to my poor arms."

"The lady was very young—seemed scarcely more than a child herself, though she was a young married lady. She was beautiful dressed, all in snow-white muslin, with white satin sash, and bows to her sleeves, and a white rose in her hair. She had thrown a large bonnet over it—but now it was tossed off, and lay with her shawl upon the floor. Bad as I was—O! in such horrid pain—the sight of that beautiful dear angel was like a charm to me; it seemed to chase away the pain. And then she touched me so delicately, and spoke so soft and kind! It was music; heaven's own music was her voice."

"Who was she? who could she be?" cried Ella.

"Why, Miss, who should she be, but Mr. Stringer, the apothecary's young bride, as he had just brought home, and all ready dressed to go out to her first dinner."

Ella turned away contemptuously, with a gesture that expressed "was that all?"

Clementina said,—

'How nice of her to come to a poor little burnt child like you ! and into such a dreadful place too ! But I wonder she came in her best gown.'

'As I heard afterwards, it happened that Mr. Stringer had been sent for out, and was not come back ; and when they ran screeching and screaming to the shop, crying a child was burnt in the court hard by, and Mr. Stringer was wanted, as there was no one to go but a little mite of a shop-boy —for Mr. Stringer had but just begun business—what does she do, but catches up a bottle of stuff for burns, claps her bonnet over her pretty white rose, throws her shawl on, and, dressed in her beautiful new wedding gown, comes to this horrid den of dirt and wickedness. She did me up as best she could, and then seeing my poor father crying too, and all the people standing round, and yet not a word to comfort him, she said very gently and kindly to him—

'Pray don't grieve so ; she will be better by-and-by, poor dear. Don't groan so badly, poor child ! You are very sorry for her, poor man—but don't take on so.'

'But the more she spoke in this kind way, all the more he cried, till at last he seemed as if he could contain himself no longer, and he groaned, and almost roared out.'

'Are you the father?' said the young lady. 'Where is the mother?'

'Oh ! here—here—here—my precious child, my sweet baby!' cried my poor mother—and then went on, 'It was all of you—you big brute—you—you pushed your own baby into the red hot flames, as you were trying to get at me !—yes, my baby—my poor—'

'Don't speak so loud, good woman,' said the young lady, gently. 'Lay the child upon the bed,' turning round—'Bless me ! —why, there is not a bed !'

'We are very poor people, ma'am,' a woman began; 'not a penny to bless ourselves with. If you please to—'

I remember my father's voice to this day—

'Silence !' he called out, in such a passion, 'would you beg money from the lady to spend in more gin? Give 'em nothing, ma'am—give none of us nothing—only tell me what's to be done to save the poor little thing's life.'

'She hesitated, turned, and looked round the miserable apartment. Too true, there was not an apology for a bed ; there was not even clean straw.'

'Take her up in your arms,' said she to my father, 'and follow me.' And she stooped and picked up her bonnet, and gathered her great shawl around her, and stepped out into the rainy, sleety, windy night; and my father—for some poor creature had lent an old shawl to throw over me—took me and carried me after her : and a turn of the alley which led into the court, brought us out into the street, where the apothecary's shop stood. I was carried through, and up two pairs of stairs, and into a little mite of a room—but all so clean and nice—and laid, oh ! in such a delicious bed—and oh ! it felt so comfortable—it soothed me, like—and I fell fast asleep."

The two girls were silent for some time. Ella spoke first.

'What a good woman !' was the remark she made ; 'but was she only an apothecary's wife,' she went on ; 'and was her name Stringer? What a horrid ugly name! Are you sure it was Stringer?'

'Yes, Miss—Stringer and Bullem—that was the name over the shop-door.'

'What ! did they keep a shop?'

'To be sure they did.'

'How long did you stay there?'

'I never went away no more, Miss. When I got better, the lady began to talk to me. I was a little mite of a thing, but I was quick enough. She found what bad ways I was bringing up in ; that I had never once heard of Our Saviour—not even of my Maker—far from ever hearing of the Bible—or having it read, or being taught to pray, or—'

The two young girls looked at each other, but said nothing. Matty, in broken and interrupted sentences, went on :

'So she kept me ; for she could not bear to send me back to that pit of iniquity in which she had found me. And as I lay in my bed, one day, and they thought I was asleep, I heard her arguing the point with her young husband—

''Why, child, you cannot pretend to adopt all the poor neglected children in this bad town?' he said.

''Oh no! I know one can do little—little enough ; it is but one drop of water in the vast ocean—only one little, little drop ; but the oyster took it into its shell, and it became a pearl. Let me keep this poor little one. I don't mean to be foolish—indeed I don't—I will only clothe her, and feed her, and send her to the charity school : indeed, they will half clothe her there. Do—do, dear John—she is such a miserable object ! What is she to do? Let her be taught her duty—let her not be a poor ruined wretch, body and soul at once.'

'The young lady would have moved a stone with her talking. Her husband was not very persuadable ; he was not like her. He was rather a cold-hearted, selfish young man, but he couldn't refuse her ; and so, when I got better, I was sent to one of the great charity schools in the city, where I learned a deal ; but my sweet Mrs. Stringer took a pleasure in teaching me herself, so I learned a deal more.'

Enough of Matty's tale.

Mrs. Stringer, when she devoted such means as she could command to the rescue of one poor child from the misery in which she was living, and raised her from deplorable ignorance, as regarded all higher things, to a knowledge of the supreme and only real good, little thought how extensive her good deed would prove ; and that in providing for the religious and moral education of this wretched child, she was preparing the means of a religious education—imperfect, yet still in some sort a sound religious education—for two children of wealth and luxury, as to such things, most entirely destitute. But so it proved—and this was the only religious education they either of them could be said ever to receive ; so utterly, so entirely, were all relations of this nature forgotten and neglected in this house of profusion, where not one single thing, but the one thing needful could be said to be wanting.

Mothers ! Mothers !! Mothers !!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it ; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 261ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says :—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

England.

The death rate in English prisons last year and the year before was only 89 per 1,000.

Burkeley Duke of Oxford, a bull sent from England to Australia about two years ago, fetched at a recent sale $12,500. This was a profit of $9,500 to his original purchaser.

Sir Thomas Brassey of the British Admiralty says it is simply impossible to form an opinion as to what would be the most approved form of lighting vessels in ten years' time.

By a return just made it appears that there are in England 4,000 paupers who are ending their days in workhouses because their savings were engulfed by fraudulent friendly societies.

During the first fortnight after the arrival of the British court at Windsor Castle, a number of visitors will be "commanded" to the Castle, including several of the Ministers. The Empress Eugenie is expected shortly to visit Windsor.

The Pullman cars do not seem to be appreciated by travellers in Scotland, according to the London Truth, as the drawing-room and sleeping cars, which have been running for a considerable time from St. Pancras and King's Cross to Edinburgh and Glasgow, have been discontinued.

At Lawford, Essex, England, lately, a lad died of a wound from a pitchfork. One of the witnesses being asked if there was blood on the fork, said he had wiped the fork, greased it, and laid it away. It was elicited that a superstition prevails that if this course is taken the injured person will recover. The fork must be laid up until the wound is healed.

We read in a London paper: "I find on looking over the tabulated returns, that of all recognized professions the one least liable to insanity is that of literature. According to the returns, there are this year 139,143 men and women engaged as authors, editors, journalists, reporters, translators, or in other literary work. Out of these, twelve only are returned as lunatics."

The Cunard steel steamship "Servia" went out upon her trials early on November 19, and underwent crucial tests both in regard to speed and seagoing qualities. The vessel was repeatedly run at the measured mile, and ultimately taken out into the Channel and run back between the Cumbræ and Clock lighthouses, a distance of 15⅔ statute miles, the result of the day being that she attained the remarkable speed of 20⅓ statute miles per hour, having on board 2,500 tons of dead weight.

The red clay bust of the Duke of Cambridge, which fell from the pedestal at the Army and Navy Club in London the other day, was purchased fifty years ago for about a sovereign. A story runs that, when the red clay bust was found to be broken, all the servants of the club were summoned and asked what they knew about the accident. One of the page boys said that when he left the hall, a little before the accident, the bust was intact. "Who was there when you left?" he was asked. "Sir Garnet Wolsely," he replied.

The murder committed on the English railway from London to Brighton has led to another homicide. Two men named Beedham and Newman quarrelled in a public house at Bethual Green, a few nights ago, about Lefroy, one contending that he was guilty, and the other maintaining that he was innocent. They came to high words, and ultimately adjourned to a quiet spot to settle the matter in a few rounds." During the fight Newman struck Beedham a blow behind the ear, rendering him insensible, and he died shortly afterward. Newman then ran away and is still at large.

At St. Helier, in the Isle of Jersey, the other day, the officers of the British naval ship Dasher received information of an attempt to run a cargo of brandy. Strict watch was set, all available men being employed, and chase was ultimately given to a suspicious-looking boat. It was captured, and a number of casks were found lashed alongside. The crew were detained as prisoners. When the casks were examined, they were found to contain only salt water, and assisted by the prisoners' laughter and conversation, it dawned upon the officers that this boat was a decoy, while a cargo of spirits was run elsewhere.

The particulars of the accident which caused the death of the promising English jockey Macdonald, the rider of Buchanan in the Liverpool Cup, have been received. Buchanan was leading a ruck of horses, some other being in front, when he fell suddenly. Macdonald was, of course, precipated to the ground, when the following horse, Ercildoune, came up and stumbled over the fallen jockey and his horse. The result of this was that Macdonald received fresh injuries. His face was cut open, probably by Ercildoune's foot, and when picked up he was bleeding profusely from the face, while blood was also oozing from the ears. Macdonald was about 25 years of age. Shortly before starting upon the race which was to prove so disastrous to him he laughingly declined the solicitation of an accident insurance canvasser to insure his life for $5,000.

Glasgow University is promised a bust of Carlyle. Students have held a meeting on the subject and decided to raise subscriptians. Mr. Boehm has been selected as the artist who shall undertake the work.

A Shetland fishing boat, while engaged at the haddock fishing lately, brought up with one of the hooks the remains of a waistcoat with a Geneva watch and chain attached. The watch was greatly corroded, but the chain was in good condition.

Prof. Robertson Smith, the Scotch theologian, is devoting his time to literary pursuits largely in connection with the "Encyclopedia Britannica," in the early volumes of the present edition of which appeared the articles which brought on him the condemnation of his brethren.

The Scotch Free Church Commission recently sent a congratulatory note to Mr. Bright, who in reply says he takes it as a very precious testimonial that he has endeavored honestly to promote the true interest of Scotland by legislation based upon the principles of justice and Christian morality.

Although an advanced and independent Liberal, Lord Airlie, at the last election of representative peers for Scotland, was placed at the head of the pole as the only Liberal representative of Scotland in the House of Lords. His wife was a sister of Lady Amberley, who married Lord Russell's son.

Since 1857 no fewer than 2,800 houses in Edinburgh that were pronounced unfit to live in have been pulled down; more than $2,500,000 was at the same time spent in city improvements. The result of this on the death rate is interesting and instructive. In 1863 it was twenty-six in a thousand. Now it is twenty in a thousand.

Some time since an invalid member of a Scotch church had the service conveyed to him by means of a telephone line from the pulpit to his bedside. In the West Free Church, Dundee, which has just been renovated, a telephone line has been established from the pulpit to the bedside of a bedridden member of the congregation.

The University of Edinburgh is making rapid progress so far as the number of her students is concerned. Last year at this time she had 2,743, or about 300 more than had ever been enrolled at a corresponding date in any other year of her history. For the year now ended this increase has not only been maintained, but it has been added to by between 50 and 60 students.

The end of a famous Clyde rower is recorded in the death of one who in his early days took a leading part in Scotch aquatics—namely Mr. Robert McLintock, spirit merchant, McLean street, Plantation. He belonged to the Vale of Leven, and formed one of the celebrated crew styled the "Cardross Ferrymen," who rowed on the Mersey for the Championship of England. He also accomplished successfully what is considered the longest race in Scotland —from Perth to Newburgh (10 miles)—winning easily. The late Mr. Robert Campbell, who long held the Championship of Scotland, found in Mr. McLintock an adviser and friend.

The fungoid disease has again appeared upon salmon in the Tweed, and, as this is earlier than it usually appears, fears are entertained lest its ravages should be even more disastrous than during the past two years seeing there is such an immense quantity of fish in the river. It is said that bull trout, very much affected, have been seen in different parts of the river. Many experienced anglers and others who have studied the subject now incline to believe that the disease is mainly caused by the chemical substances now applied to the soil being washed off the land by the rains and carried into the streams. Anglers have had exceptionally good sport this season, clean run fish being very numerous and in excellent condition.

A Scotch paper says:—We mentioned recently that Mr. Forbes, of Culloden, had been erecting monumental stones on the moor where the famous battle of 1746 took place. At the spot where the fight was thickest is a sort of monumental cairn, 20 feet high and about 18 feet in diameter, with soil placed among the stones, in which ferns are planted, and the base has been planted with ivy. The structure bears the following inscription:—"The battle of Culloden was fought on this moor, 16th April, 1746." The graves of the gallant Highlanders, who fought for Scotland and Prince Charlie, are marked by the names of their clans. One of the stones used in the building bears the inscription, "Culloden 1746—E.P. fecit, 1858." This stone will puzzle future generations. The explanation we believe to be that it was carved by Mr. Edward Power, a most enthusiastic Jacobite. The Highland troops were ranged apparently N.E. and S.W. of the tower, and the burial places ran thus—1st, Fraser's; 2nd, Mixed Clans; 3rd, Clan Macintosh; 4th, Clan Cameron; 5th, Stewarts of Appin; 6th, Clans Macgillivray, Maclean, Maclachlan, and Athole Highlanders. The well beside which the body of the gallant young chief of the Macgillivrays was found has been comparatively dressed into shape, and beside it is an inscription—"Well of the dead. Here the chief of the Macgillivrays fell."

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, DEC. 20.

The Mayoralty.

A meeting of Mr. Lingham's friends was held last night in the large hall in the INTELLIGENCER building for the purpose of organizing for the campaign. The attendance was large and the feeling enthusiastic, the reports from the canvass, so far as it has proceeded, being most satisfactory. Committees were formed for the various wards, and the work of the campaign will at once be entered upon with vigor and with every prospect of a successful issue.

West Northumberland.

A DECISIVE VICTORY.

The political contest which has been going on with the greatest vigor in West Northumberland for the past two weeks was brought to an issue yesterday, and the result was the return of Mr. George Guillett, the Conservative candidate by a majority of 68. So soon as the vacancy in the representation of the constituency was created the Grits, with the evident intention of making the riding the battle ground as between the Government and the Opposition, sent their ablest men, including their leader, into the county, for the purpose of "stumping," whilst the supporters of the Government, nothing loth, met them with several of the leading men of the party. Never perhaps, has there been a sharper fight, and never have the electors had the issues presented to them in a fuller or abler manner. The attention of the people of the Dominion was concentrated on West Northumberland; for the Opposition organs proclaimed that, if they were successful, the blow thus struck at the administration would be felt from one end of the Dominion to the other, and their columns were burdened with frantic and violent appeals to the electors, as samples of which we select the following:

The electors of West Northumberland have an excellent opportunity to protest against the outrageous Pacific Railway bargain, which is already fulfilling the gloomiest predictions of the Opposition; against the inexcusable retention of taxes on the necessaries of life while there is an annual surplus of four or five millions coming into the treasury; against the excessive taxation which produces so unnecessary a surplus; against the heavy specific duties on food and clothing, which discriminate so unjustly against the poor; against the unfair treatment of Ontario in the matter of the boundary award; against the mischievous exercise of the prerogative of disallowance in the case of the Ontario Streams Bill, and against its contemplated exercise in the case of the South Eastern railway charter in Manitoba; against the perpetuation of a costly piece of partizian machinery in the Senate, as at present constituted; and against jobbery and corruption of the most scandalous kind in connection with the letting of public contracts.—Peterborough Examiner.

"If West Northumberland will only do as well now, on the eve of the coming session of Parliament, as East Northumberland did at the close of the last one, the blow thus struck at the Administration will be felt from one end of the Dominion to the other."—Globe.

"The friends of good Government throughout the Dominion will await the issue of the next contest anxiously, for the redemption of West Northumberland will be an encouraging indication of Ontario's desire to shake off the shackles of Toryism."—Hamilton Times.

The battle, then, was a decisive one, and fought on a fair field, namely in a constituency of doubtful political proclivities, and more rural than urban in its character. That it has resulted in the return of the Ministerial candidate shows that the Province of Ontario is unwavering in support of the Government. The news of this great and decisive victory will be hailed with satisfaction by the supporters of the Government and will perhaps curb the boastful proclivities of the Opposition. We congratulate the Government on the result, as showing that their policy is, after nearly three years' experience, more popular than ever, and that the misrepresentations of the Opposition are not believed in by the electors. It further shows that the people adhere firmly to the policy of protection to home industries, and is in itself an invitation to capitalists to invest their means in manufacturing industries, with the assurance that the policy which was inaugurated at the popular behest in 1879 will not be rudely disturbed. In this sense alone the victory in West Northumberland will be of very great benefit to the country at large.

The Customs Department.

The end has evidently not yet been heard of the seizures which were recently made by the Customs officers at Montreal, as further developments tend to show that in one of the cases at least the vigilance of the officials has prevented a barefaced swindle from being perpetrated—a swindle which had, by means of perjury, been previously carried out by the same parties at least three or four times previously during the present season. The Montreal correspondent of the Mail says:—

The duty on proof spirits is $1.32½ per gallon, and what has been seized is 67 over proof, making the duty above two dollars per gallon. The loss to the revenue on the last consignment, had it escaped, would have been about $3,760, the duty paid on the alleged vinegar being only $240, or 12½c. per gallon. The fur seizure has also assumed a more serious aspect. It is now charged by the Customs Department that they were entered some forty per cent. under value, and evidence is being procured to substantiate the allegation. Should this alone be proved, the whole consignment, which is now alleged to be worth over $40,000, would be confiscated.

The Opposition press may snarl as they will at the alleged harassing of importers; but honest importers and the public generally will commend the head of the department and his subordinates for their activity and vigilance in preventing frauds upon the revenue, and the unfair competition which is thus created.

The correspondent further exemplifies the measures which the present head of the department is taking to increase the efficiency and decrease the expenditure of the Customs service, at the same time incidentally exposing the looseness of the mode in which the business was conducted by Mr. Burpee, whom the Globe has styled an "able and liberal" administrator. The correspondent says:

One of the principal objects of the commission sent by the Minister of Customs, and about which there has been a good deal of speculation, was to enquire minutely into the reason of retaining so many of the officials engaged during the navigation season on the staff of the local Custom house during the winter. It appears from facts which have come under your correspondent's knowledge that the present Minister of Customs has been exercising a watchful and judicious economy in the administration of his department ever since the present Government's advent to power. The most scrupulous care has been taken to make no official appointments unless they were absolutely necessary for the efficiency of the service. This is a contrast to the course pursued by the Grit Administration that preceded them, for during the former regime numbers of appointments were made of hungry followers that were quite unnecessary, and only a burden to the exchequer. Since the present Government came into office they have allowed all the appointments that fell vacant by death, or otherwise, and were not essential to be filled, to lapse. In the three years the present Government have held the reins they have only made eight or ten permanent appointments, whilst their predecessors made at least the maximum number annually. It appears also that under the Mackenzie Government appointments were very generally made by the Minister individually instead of by the Governor-General-in-Council, and whilst the former are not held to be permanent appointments the present Government has not removed a single one of the friends of the Grits who were thus provided for. The reason assigned for retaining the additional staff here during the winter is the great increase in the business and the multiplication of bonded warehouses. There were other objects also which the commission was instructed to investigate, but it might be premature and injurious to disclose them at present.

The Minister of Customs has been the target for a great deal of abuse from the Grit press of late, but in that fact lies the best proof of his ability and energy in the discharge of his very difficult duties. The facts above stated, together with the abuse of his opponents, will tend to raise Mr. Bowell still higher in the estimation of his friends and of the country at large.

Editorial Brevities.

An excellent illustration of the manner in which the protective tariff is working in the interest of the country was given by Mr. Hawkin's at a meeting at Cobourg on Saturday night. He read a statement of articles imported by the car works in that town for use in the building of cars, showing that while in 1878, for $138,800 worth of cars, $12,360 worth of materials had to be imported; in 1881, for $316,000 worth of work, only $1,800 worth of materials had to be imported. This, Mr. Hawkins pointed out, showed the extent to which Canadian goods were used in our own industries.

The Globe declares that "the charge that the Provincial Government has shown a centralizing tendency is quite unfounded," and asks for specific instances of the same. We name the following: Appointment of Q. Cs. (attempted) and giving its appointees precedence over those legally appointed; of Deputy Sheriffs, Gaolers and Turnkeys; of Division Court Clerks and Bailiffs in Cities, Towns and Villages; and of License Inspectors. The power of making these appointments, which heretofore rested elsewhere, has been seized by the Ontario Government; in addition they have created sundry new offices, including License Inspectors, Inspectors of Anatomy, &c.; and besides, they have taken power to regulate the salaries of some of the officers named, which was a matter previously under the control of the municipal authorities. If such grasping at power be not centralization, will the Globe kindly explain what it is?

Campbellford Correspondence.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 16, '81.

The new sidings at the station are a great accommodation for the increased traffic at this place. Great credit is due to the new company for the improvements already made on this line for the benefit and safety of the public.

Our station is the only one on this route that can boast of a restaurant, a neat little building erected and carried on by Mr. T. Blute, for the comforts of the travelling community, where a hot cup of Mocha coffee or tea with a sandwich is always on hand for the needful traveller.

Mr. Wm. Whitten, butcher of this village, sold the Messrs. Rathbun 47 head of fat cattle a few days since, for the support of his workmen in the shanties, which already amounts to five hundred, all employed by this firm.

The machine house of the new Woollen factory is now finished, and three large Leffel wheels adjusted, and in working order, when we visited the factory Mr. Turner, the Manager, and Mr. Wilson, the Secretary, were in the building, and kindly put this ponderous propelling power in motion, which was done with the greatest ease, all started off like clockwork and with perfect regularity. In going through the building we found in every room experienced workmen fitting up the finer parts of complicated machinery, which when put together and sought to work will be a grand sight. It is expected to be in full blast in the course of a month.

The smoke stack or chimney containing 90,000 bricks and 130 feet high, is a master piece of work, the coping is of cast iron moulding, crowned with ornamental railings, which inclose a platform 10 feet square, these mouldings, weighing 7 tons, were made at the Messrs. Whyte's foundry in this village. They also have received orders for the supplying of the Cornwall factory with the same material. Mr. Palen, of Belleville, has got the job of roofing, which is nearly completed.

The winner to take two-thirds of the privileges, the loser one-third. Hanlan will increase his stakes to $2,000 if Ross wishes—but Ross, who is satisfied with the date, refuses to increase the stakes.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

The Causes of Colds

are getting overheated in hot rooms or crowded assemblies, sitting in a draught, or cooling too rapidly after exercise, muffling up warm and changing to lighter wrappings, cold and damp feet. No matter what is the cause Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the cure for all throat and lung diseases that induce consumption.

Butter, Milk and Eggs.

The three indispensable articles of consumption are so greatly improved in quantity and quality, when HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS are mixed with food of the cows or poultry that no dairy or poultry yard can possibly be remunerative without them. Ask for the

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Cruelty to Animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

MANITOBA.

The Far-famed Turtle Mountain District.

The First Town Site in the District.

I HAVE received instructions and will offer for sale by Public Auction, in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse, in the City of Belleville, on the days and evenings of

Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of December,

Six Hundred Lots in the Town Site of Wood Lake City.

In offering this Town Site, it is believed that we are offering something well worthy the attention of intending investors in Manitoba lands. It is situate on the banks of Wood Lake, in Township 2, Range 19 West, in the Province of Manitoba,—the well and favorably known Turtle Mountain district.

Public attention is now more favorably directed towards this District, which is rapidly settling up with first class settlers, than to any other in the Province, and lands are rapidly rising in price. The almost endless stretch of the best agricultural lands in the world, the abundance of wood and water, make this District at once the the Farmers' Eldorado, and within a year there will not be a section of land unsold. The Town site of Wood Lake City is situate in the very heart of this country, on the banks of one of the most beautiful Lakes imagination can picture, on one side of which rolling prairie stretches away as far as the eye can reach; while on the other stands a forest of oak, and other timber, 35 miles square. The lake is fed by springs, and contains therefore the best of water. The situation of this town site at once suggests a favorite summer resort. Game abounds in the country surrounding it. The Boundary Commission trail, the travelled thoroughfare to the far west, runs directly through the Town. There is at present a comfortable stopping place for the convenience of travellers, and arrangements are being made for the erection of a Saw Mill, Church, and School house. This site has long been looked forward to by settlers as the site for the future Town of the Turtle Mountain District, and with its advantages must rapidly take a prominent place amongst western cities. Every body wants to own some property in Manitoba. Here is a chance to obtain for a reasonable sum a property which will in a short time yield a handsome profit on the investment.

Terms made known at Sale.

Sale each day at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 7 o'clock. Maps and Plans on exhibition in the sale room.

City and Vicinity.

"COLD weather and snow" is what Vennor prophesied for to-day.

A WOMAN had a basket and towel stolen from her on the market this morning.

THERE were three occupants of the cells last night—two prisoners and a tramp.

ODDFELLOWS' hop this evening in the assembly-room of the Oddfellows' Band.

MR. WALTER FANNING is purchasing two car-loads of horses in this district for Mr. Jacobs, of Montreal.

MR. NOSWORTHY will, in addition to his large contract for the Grand Trunk, supply 40,000 ties to the Madoc branch of the Grand Junction.

MESSRS NIGHTINGALE BROS., of Ameliasburg, have sold to Mr. C. Green, butcher, a very handsome Durham heifer, about 3½ years old and weighing 1,540 lbs.

A MEETING of the Junior Conservative Association will be held on Friday evening next, in the Liberal-Conservative Association rooms, INTELLIGENCER building.

THE sale of Manitoba lands, which was to have been commenced this morning, was, at the request of a large number of intending purchasers, postponed until 7 o'clock this evening.

THE Gas Company are having constructing a large purifier, which, when brought into use, is expected to greatly improve the quality of the gas furnished to the city. It is greatly needed.

A G. T. R. BRAKEMAN named George Robinson had his right thumb smashed yesterday in the station yard here while coupling cars. It was found necessary to amputate it at the upper joint.

TENDERS have been asked for the construction of the "missing link" of railway between Peterborough and Omemee, and the probabilities are that it will be completed in the course of a few months.

AN adjourned meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening, when it is probable, a new Secretary-Treasurer will be appointed. There are, we believe, four applicants for the position.

The Winnipeg Times of the 14th says; "R. J. Shanks, of Blair & Shanks, Belleville, has arrived in this city. This firm is dealing largely in real estate. Mr. Shanks bought 5,000 acres of Hudson's Bay lands yesterday."

ANNIVERSARY Sermons will be preached at Foxboro next Sabbath (Christmas day) at 11a.m. by Rev. Dr. Jeffers, at 6.30 p.m by Rev. S. J. Shorey. The annual tea-meeting will be held there on Monday evening, 26th inst., in the Methodist C. C. Church.

THE advertisement of the Harpers' publications appears in another column. The Harpers have long held their own at the head of the American publishing houses, and their publications are the very first of their kind of any published on this continent.

CITY MISSION SERVICES THIS WEEK.—This evening at Mrs. Gallagher's, Mary St., near Flint & Holton's Mill; on Thursday evening at Mr. Kyle's, Church St. south, (last house east); Friday evening at Mrs. J. Haslett's, Albion St., near St. George's Church. All the services at 7½ o'clock.

ON Thursday evening next a promenade concert is to be held in the City Hall in aid of Bleecker St. Church. The Oddfellows' Band will furnish the music. In addition to the instrumental music, a fine programme of songs, readings, &c. has been prepared. The affair promises to be an enjoyable one.

THERE is every likelihood of there being a good audience in the Metropolitan Hall to-morrow evening to witness the performance of the Histrionic Association. There is no doubt that "Engaged" will take. It is just such a play as suits a Belleville audience, and it will be well performed. Home talent, as well as home industry, should be encouraged, and this talented organization deserves public encouragement, for it has for over three year kept together and struggled manfully against many discouragements.

YESTERDAY afternoon a lad named Harrigan, had one leg cut off by a car on the G. T. R. branch at Kingston. The other leg was so badly injured that it will also have to be amputated. It is very doubtful if the boy can recover. The accident occurred while he was stealing a ride on the train, and was trying to jump off. It is a wonder that similar accidents have not frequently occurred in Belleville on the G. J. R. track, for boys are to be seen every day jumping off and on the trains as they move up or down Pinnacle St. When one of them gets killed, or maimed for life, perhaps they will not be so anxious for rides.

M'ME ELEANOR GEORGEN is an elocutionist who has only been on the platform, as a public reader, about a year, and yet she has already achieved a reputation second only to that of Mrs. Scott-Siddons—and, in the opinion of the best critics, she is at least the equal of that celebrated lady in many respects. She is a beautiful, imposing-looking woman as well as a finished and powerful reader, and, as she is still quite young, will continue to improve as she gains more experience in her profession. Her husband, Mr. W. T. Georgen, (who, by the way, is a native of Napanee, and a cousin of the Corbys, of this city) is in the city at present, and has made arrangements for the public appearance of M'me Georgen in the City Hall on Monday evening, January 9th.

THERE was a large attendance of the children belonging to the City Mission, together with their fathers and mothers and a large number of persons interested in the movement, at the Christmas Tree entertainment held in the City Hall last night. The affair came off with a success that must have been gratifying to Rev. Mr. Schuster and all those engaged in the work of the Mission. Mr. H. A. Hodgson occupied the chair. The evening's exercises opened by a Bible-reading by Rev. Mr. Schuster, who read passages from Scripture touching on the work of ministering to the wants of the poor. Rev. Mr. Mitchell then led in prayer; after which a pleasant little programme of recitations, dialogues and music was gone through with, and the evening concluded with the distribution of the countless gifts with which a great Christmas tree on the stage was loaded. Every child belonging to the Mission received a present or two, and it would have been difficult to find a happier and more contented lot of children than they were as they went home clasping their presents close in their little arms. One of the pleasantest features of the evening was the presentation to Rev. Mr. Schuster, by Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of a purse containing $46—$40 of which was from the congregation of John St. Church, $5 from the Baptist Church, and $1 from a friend in the audience.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 20.—Lakes, increasing north easterly to south easterly winds, cloudy weather, rain this evening or to-night, followed to-morrow by lower temperature and at many places snow.

SONS OF ENGLAND BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—A branch Lodge of the above was opened last evening at the Masonic Hall, by the officers of the Grand Lodge, from Toronto, to be called Lodge Oxford, No. 17. There were 24 members initiated, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President, R. C. Hulme.
Vice President, W. Alford.
Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Clarke.
Secretary, H. Tammadge.
Treasurer, J. W. London.
Managing Committee, W. Boswell, W. Northcott, G. Twining, J. Taylor, C. Green and M. Watt.
Senior Guard, R. Large.
Junior Guard, W. Wilkins.
Trustees, G. S. Tickell and W. R. Smith.
Surgeon, Dr. Tracy.
Auditors, A. L. Geen, F. M. Clarke and E. Hayne.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

A Career of Crime.

The name of James Toner is not unknown in Belleville, It will be remembered that several weeks ago he was arrested for committing an outrage on a little girl in Campbellford. Last week he was tried for this offence at Cobourg. The Napanee Express gives the following account of the man:—"Our readers will remember that in May, 1876, this James Toner was convicted before Judge Wilkison of outraging a little girl by the name of Hattie Manne, in Mr. J. C. Huffman's barn, and sentenced to a term in the Central Prison and 30 lashes. Since then he has not been heard of around here, but he does not seem to have changed his life. In Cobourg he was charged with a similar offence upon a little girl from Campbellford. He pleaded not guilty, but the evidence was so strong against him that the jury brought him in guilty without leaving their seats. He was then arraigned on two former convictions, one at Belleville and the other at Napanee, and pleaded guilty to both. Again he was arraigned on another charge of petty larceny of a pair of gloves, to which he pleaded not guilty. A jury was empanalled, witnesses called, and the charge proven. He was found guilty without the jury leaving their seats. His Honor the Judge in giving sentence said in all his long experience (thirty seven years) this was the most brutal case he ever had before him, and it made him shudder to think there were such beings at large. He said that as it appeared whipping did the prisoner no good, he was sorry the law did not provide a more severe punishment. He was sentenced to one year and eleven months in the Central Prison with hard labor, and after this was served he was to be taken to the Provincial Penitentiary and there kept three years at hard labor for the petty larceny."

Colliery Explosion.

SOME FORTY LIVES REPORTED LOST.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—An explosion occurred in a colliery at Bolton.

The explosion occurred in Orell pit. The pit was considered one of the safest in Lancashire, neither gunpowder being used for blasting or furnaces ventilation. The whole system of working the mine was mechanical. Arley pit adjacent was affected by the explosion, and of sixty employees in it only twenty-seven were brought to the surface alive. It is feared that the remainder perished.

LATER.—It is believed that the explosion in the pits was caused by the fall of a portion of the roof, which liberated a quantity of gas. It is now believed that only 40 persons were killed. The Orell mine is 150 yards above the Arley mine, and the effect of the explosion in the former was to imprison 150 miners in the lower mine. These were subsequently rescued. Those rescued from the upper seam were seriously burned.

It is now ascertained that 34 persons were killed, and 33 injured by the explosion yesterday in a coal pit of the Abram Mining Co., Bolton.

A False Prophet.

AN EGYPTIAN FORCE ANNIHILATED.

CAIRO, Dec. 19.—Serious troubles have broken out in Soudan. A false prophet with 1,500 followers has totally annihilated Governor Fashoda's force of 350 Egyptians, and killed the Governor.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

—A Leeds despatch says the Fowler steam plough works at Hunsket have been damaged by fire to the extent of £60,000. Three hundred men are thrown out of employment.

EUROPEAN.

MISSING VESSEL FOUND.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—Lieut.-General Arontchine, Governor-General for Eastern Siberia, who has just arrived here has brought the news that a steamer of the North American Polar expedition, which has been lost since 1877, has been discovered, and assistance has been rendered to the crew.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Inquiries are being made concerning the name of the above vessel, the date of her discovery and other particulars.

AMERICAN.

RAILROAD FREIGHTS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Twenty leading manufacturers of the state adopted resolutions last night on the action of the State Railroad Commissioners requiring the railroads to charge large patrons the same price per car as small ones. The resolutions declare that this will drive from the state twenty millions of business, and that they will combine against this unjust discrimination, if necessary by taking political action.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Sun says that the members of the Senate Committee investigating the expenditure of the Contingent Fund Treasury admit that the evidence taken thus far has been corroborative of the allegations of the newspapers of the past summer.

The Tribune says that Blaine said yesterday, however much I may be disposed to accept so very many cordial invitations I have had to go south, I shall probably be obliged to decline them all. I have been necessarily pretty busy the last 12 months. I shall now seek rest and avoid excitement and unnecessary activity. Blaine said his health was much better than at the beginning of the year.

NEW YORK MISCELLANY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The liabilities of R. M. Knapp, suspended, provision dealer, are estimated at $60,000.

Perry M. Dilon, fertilizers here and Savannah, has assigned. Liabilities, $150,000.

The liabilities of Quaye Hawks, builder, are $515,000; actual assets, $6 600.

The Tribune says that the party here who organized the Electric Lighting Co., with a capital of six millions, using the names of Senator Jones, of Nevada, and Cornelius Vanderbilt to promote the scheme, has been discovered to be Gray the forger.

On Wednesday the President expects to go to New York and remain several days, feeling that he is much in need of rest, and can perhaps get more of it outside of Washington than here.

Washington is scarcely disturbed by the fact that Sackville West, the new British Minister, although a bachelor, has a family of children, two at least of whom it is understood he wished should live with him. It is stated that his relations with an actress while Minister at Madrid caused much scandal.

The Herald says that a distinguished New York lawyer, after investigation of the claims of the Peruvian Co., refused to become their Attorney.

AN ACTOR MISSING.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—Robert McWade, a well known actor who made a specialty of "Rip Van Winkle," who mysteriously disappeared in Utah last August, has not been heard from yet. The family here are in much distress

STRICKEN BY SMALL-POX.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 20.—Mary Pollard, colored, living in a hovel near the city, and three children, were taken down with small-pox; the infant died. The family were neglected by the authorities and neighbors, and the only attendant was a 5 year old boy; who nursed them night and day. The latter appealed to passers-by, who brought food to the door and buried the infant.

FOUR THIEVES KILLED.

SOCONRO, N.M., Dec. 20.—Four thieves who stole cattle from Joseph Fowler, a prominent stock raiser, were killed by Fowler and his men.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

VESSELS LOST.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., Dec. 20.—The schr. Young Brothers is reported lost with all hands, on her way from here to Codroy. Another schr. lost near Odoyn. with all hands.

BELIEVED TO BE THE JEANNETTE

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20th.—It is believed here from information brought by the Governor of Eastern Siberia, of the discovery of a steamer in the Arctic refers to the Jeannette. The crew had suffered no loss.

U. S. SECURITIES IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Standard, referring to the decline of the value of American securities yesterday, says that the market has been completely disorganized for some time and buyers could, with difficulty, be found.

The Daily News says that in the American market the state of matters has been described as one of semi-panic. The bulls were overlooked and with a stock which they were unable to get rid of.

The Daily Telegraph says that the feeling of the market closely approached the character of a panic. Sales were pressed with little discrimination in choice of stocks, the mere attempt to sell being sufficient to make the dealers put down the quotations.

IRISH DISTURBANCES.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A Dublin correspondent says the belief exists there is a secret as well as an open organization disturbing Ireland, threatening serious danger.

THE ARRESTS IN RUSSIA.

VIENNA, Dec. 20.—It is stated that the late arrests at St. Petersburg took place in the hope that the person who lost the detailed plan in the Castle of Gatchina, which the police picked up in a picture gallery might be found. Red marks on the plan seems to indicate where dynamite might be placed.

ARREST AND MURDER IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—John Clancey, a prominent member of the Land League, has been arrested.

Patrick Dunn, a farmer near Abbey Laix, was found murdered. His brother, who wished to get possession of his farm has absconded. It is supposed that he has gone to America.

THE JEANETTE FOUND.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The finding of the Arctic exploring steamer Jeannette, was reported to a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society.

HIGH SHERIFF OF DUBLIN.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has selected E. Dwyer Gray High Sheriff of Dublin for 1882.

THE LADIES' LAND LEAGUE.

Anna Parnell announces that if the office of the Ladies' Land League is seized, correspondence can be sent to Helen Taylor, London.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

By the immense sale of St. Jacobs Oil we begin to realize that the world is not slow to recognize what is good for its ailment.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&wly

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debilty, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

MARRIED.

On the 17th November, at the Presbyterian Church, Naas, by the Rev. William Elliott, SANDHAM F., only surviving son of the late Abraham Symes, Barrister-at-Law, Morristown, County Kildare, and brother of Mrs. T. D. Wallbridge, of Ameliasburg, Ont., to LAVINIA, only daughter of Charles Littleboy, Esq., Barberstown Castle, Straffan, Ireland.

DIED.

Died at the family residence, Front St., Belleville, on Sunday December 18th, KATHERINE WALLACE, aged 17 years, 4 days.

Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

The story first beguiled the attention, and then awakened the deep interest of the two girls. From this day, a sort of acquaintance arose with Matty, which ripened into true affection; for Matty was, in fact, a woman of no common order.

She gradually awakened their sympathies with regard to subjects to her the most deeply interesting. She led them, not unwilling, in those paths which are indeed paths of pleasantness and peace. She read the Bible with them, and to them, and she taught them the vital principle of effectual religion—the need and the faith to pray.

I want space to follow the course of these influences upon the soul. Imperfect they were. Such a teacher could not lead them very far; but she brought them on Our Saviour's way. And though much remained of wrong, inexperienced and unconverted—the change was as from darkness to light.

CHAPTER THE FOURTH.

And now several years have elapsed, and these two girls are grown up to be two beautiful young women. They had been taken out of the nursery when it was time to be thinking seriously of accomplishments; and the reign of Mrs. Nurse had closed. She was superseded by a regular governess—a foreigner. A French lady was chosen to undertake the task of forming two English girls to become English wives and mothers. The French lady did well all that she was required to do; for neither Mr. nor Mrs. Winstaely desired that their beautiful daughters should receive any thing approaching to what is usually called a solid education.

Mrs. Winstanley had not ten ideas beyond the arrangement of a party, and the keeping of good society. As for Julian Winstanley himself, he detested reflection, abhorred every thing approaching to seriousness, only desired to get through life as brilliantly and as thoughtlessly as he could,

He was not much at home; but when at home he required to be constantly amused, or he found home intolerable. It was not long before his daughters discovered this.

Till they were what is called introduced, these fair girls passed their time secluded in the school-room, and saw very little of their parents, but when they were once brought out, and when Mademoiselle was dismissed and they lived in the drawing room, they were soon initiated.

The plan of life was one not unusual among married people of a certain class. A large and splendidly furnished house, in a fashionable square in London, was home—at which about six months of every year were passed; the remaining six being spent either in travelling, or at watering places, or at some hired house in the country. They lived as a privileged order, severed, as by a gulf impassable, from the lowest orders around them, and in little communication with the highest. The last condition was not of much importance, but the other was fatal.

What can grow out of such a life, that is really wholesome and good? Many, many residents in London escape this mischief. They have broken down the wall of separation which used to hide the very existence of want and misery and sin from the happier and the better; and the obscure dwellings of the London poor have their visiting angels, as well as those in the country. But a great many families still neglect this weighty duty, and live without thought of such things.

Mrs. Winstanley had led the regular party going London life for the last sixteen or seventeen years. She was beginning to get rather tired of it, when the new excitement arose of having to "bring out" her daughters.

This bringing out of her daughters became an excuse for all kinds of amusing changes and improvements. Her receiving rooms had to be newly furnished, a new open carriage to be bought, the Queen's drawing rooms to be attended with more assiduity than ever.

The girls were two lovely creatures; they seemed to excuse, if anything could, the expenses thus incurred on their behalf. So said the mother, and so thought the the father. The love he felt for his daughters was perhaps the only tender feeling he had ever experienced in his life; for, in general, he might be said to love nothing, not even himself.

It might have been the dawn of a better life, this well-spring of pure affections, could he have worthily indulged them. But neither his own nor his wife's habits admitted of that.

Mrs. Winstanley would have thought it a disgrace if she had been one single evening disengaged whilst they were in London. Even in the dead winter she managed to keep up the ball; what with little parties and concerts, the opera, the French plays, and so forth, she contrived to escape the horror of a domestic evening. As for Mr. Winstanley, he seldom or never dined at home; except when there was a dinner-party. He spent his evenings at his clubs, engaged—he too well know how.

The two girls presented a striking contrast to each other. Clementina was fair and delicate, with soft hair, and those tender blue eyes, which to me are the most charming of all eyes. Ella was a noble creature; a figure and form the most perfect that I ever beheld—features of matchless symmetry—eyes dark, large and lustrous—hair in floods of rich brown waves—a hand that was a model, from which statuaries contested to be allowed to copy—and a spirit, energy and feeling in her gestures and countenance that won your heart before you were aware.

It was upon her that Julian Winstanley doted. The other girl he thought and called a sweet girl, but his Ella was his darling. Nothing was too good for Ella; was to be spared that could please or adorn Ella. To ride with her in the Park; to visit the box where she sat at the opera; sometimes in a party to hear her sing; seemed to give him a new pleasure.

Yet there was nothing in all this, unhappily, to rouse him to a better life, to break the chain of evil habits in which he was involved. Ella was a child of this world; an impetuous, proud, haughty beauty; a contemptuous disregarder of the weak, the wanting, and, above all, the low, or the ugly;—living for the day, as her father lived for the day—she for the day of vanity and pleasure; he for the day of vanity and sin. There was that difference, indeed, and it was a vast one; but he did not feel it.

There was no pure and holy influence of a higher and nobler life, diffused from the beautiful being. She was no angel of light. She was merely, to all appearance, a very fine, fashionable girl.

And Clementina, in her gentleness and softness, was little more. The good seed which Matty had sown, had fructified at first, but the briars and thorns were gathering fast around it. The pleasures of life were choking it up. It was in danger of being altogether lost.

Matty had long been gone. She had married a respectable tradesman, and was in a flourishing, though small, way of business. She would have been altogether forgotten long ago, only that she would not suffer this. She found herself still welcomed when she did come; for both the girls loved her, and she perfectly adored them. So she came, bringing her little offerings, from time to time—little matters such as she dealt in, in her shop—humble, but, for her sake, welcome. These two girls had both hearts. Where they got them I don't know.

CHAPTER THE FIFTH.

'Oh, Ella! Ella!—what's the use of your turning your head for me?—Why, I can see you are coloring crimson—as if I had no eyes! Oh! he is charming is not he?'

'How tiresome you can be, Clementina! I am sure I don't care. No, not . . . . . Besides, he's your flirt, not mine.'

'Is he? I wish he were! But I know better. He loves you, Ella; and what's more, you love him. And if you don't know it—which perhaps you don't—I do, and he does.'

'He does!—I like that!—he does!—Upon my word! I like him, and he knows it! I do no such thing.'

'Take care what you say. Walls have ears.'

'Pooh!—nonsense! And if they have, I tell you I don't care.'

'You don't!—you are sure you don't? Oh, very well! If that be really so, then I had better keep my message to myself.'

'Message!—what message?'

'You know a man does not like to be refused; and so, if you really do not care for him, why, I had better hold my peace. He is young, and he is volatile enough . . . . And, indeed, I have wondered, Ella, sometimes, how you ever came to take a fancy to him; but I am forgetting. It was my mistake. You never have taken a fancy to him.'

'How you do run on!' she said, taking the last rose out of her hair; for she was standing before the glass, undoing her brains; the sisters, having dismissed their attendant, that they might have a comfortable chat together. And then the hair came all tumbling over her shoulders, and upon her white muslin dressing-gown, and she looked most beautiful—half pleasant, half angry—as she turned round; and, trying to frown with her eyes, whilst her lips smiled, said—

'Cle., you are the most intolerable girl in the world.'

Cle. smiled, looked down, and said nothing.

'You may as well tell me, though.'

Post Mortem Examinations have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle, 264ly

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, perating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

---

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heartburn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Huntingdon Council.

TOWN HALL, Moira, 19th Sept. 1881.

Council met on the above date; members all present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Foster moved, seconded by Mr. Graham, that $5 be granted to Thomas McGuirea, blind man, the money to be given to Mr. Robinson to buy him a pair of fullcloths and flannel for shirts.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Robinson, seconded by Mr Morton, the Council went into committee on By-laws.

A By-law levying the sum of $5,474.04 for county and township purposes and the sum of $2,654 62 for school purposes was read and passed.

A By-law granting to Samuel Maynes a portion of the town line road allowance was next taken up. Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Graham, that this By-law be read this day six months.—Carried.

Alex. Harvy was appointed collector of taxes for 1881.

An order was given A. Harvy for $75, as salary as collector of taxes for 1880.

An order was given John Dafoe for $2.00 for commuted statute labor.

An order was given John Graham, for overcharge on chattel property assessed to Wilson Graham, amount $1.30.

An order was given the Treasurer for discount on Consolidated Bank bills, amount $1.50.

A petition from John Prest and others asking that Mrs. Venor be transferred from School Section 12 to School Section 10 was received and on motion was laid over for the present, 7th Novr,, 1881.

John Bateman applied for assistance in opening up the road on the allowance between the 10th and 11th concessions, across lot one. Mr. Morton moved, secd., by Mr. Robinson, that on account of the season being so far advanced no action be taken on Mr. Bateman's application at present, but that the matter be left for the consideration of the Council of 1882.

Mr. Robinson moved, secd. by Mr. Foster, that the Reeve take the necessary steps to have conveyed to the Moira cheese factory company the strip of land off the South side of the Town Hall premises in consideration of the said company, having fenced the remainder of the Town Hall premises as formerly agreed on.

An order was given the selectors of Jurors for $16 for their services as such.

5th Dec., 1881.

A communication was received from G. D. Dickson respecting the town line road allowance claimed by Samuel Maynes and requesting the Council to pass a By-law granting to said Maynes that portion of the said allowance claimed by him in lieu of the county gravel road running through his lot. Mr. Robinson moved, secd. by Mr. Morton, that the said petition or request be laid over for next meeting of the Council. Carried.

Hugh Close applied respecting arrears of taxes on part of lot 2 in the 11th concession and produced a paper from the County Clerk's office, stating that the said arrears came against the said lot in 1870, 1, 2, 3, 4, but that the lot did not appear to have been patented until 1875, and that the said arrears could therefore not be collected from the present owner. Mr. Robinson moved, secd. by Mr. Foster, that the matter be laid over and that the Reeve be instructed to inquire into the particulars and report. Carried.

A By-law was prepared and passed appointing returning officers and polling place for 1883 as follows:—No. 1 Orange Hall, Jas. Gay Returning officer; No. 2 Town Hall, J. G. Foster Ret. Officer; No. 3 E. Sargent's house, S. Summers, Ret. Officer,

O. R. Ketcheson, Road Surveyor, presented his report of work done during the year, and his account for services rendered, amounting to $24, which was ordered to be paid.

John M. Bateman applied for seven dollars for his trouble in burying the wife of one Rodgers. The matter was laid over until next meeting of the Council.

An order was given the Treasurer for $75 as salary for 1881.

An order was given W.H. Deen for $10.75, being balance on his salary as caretaker of Hall.

An order was given Edward Elliott for $7 to pay for clothing for Thomas McGuire.

Mr. Robinson moved, seconded by Mr. Morton, that the Clerk receive $100 for his services for 1881 and, $5 for writing and posting notices.—Carried.

Mr. Robinson moved, seconded by Mr. Foster, that the Council adjourn sine die.—Carried.

Sidney Council.

TOWN HALL, SIDNEY
5th December, 1881.

Council met agreeable to adjournment, members all present, minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Mr. Rose presented the petition of Robert Danford and others asking for use of road for Enos Wilcox, near Oak Hill Pond, to the south end of his farm. Laid over until next meeting, Clerk to notify Mr. Cosbey, who has said road enclosed.

The Roard Surveyor presented his report, which was received, read and adopted.

Mr. Rose presented a report on bridges completed in 7th con. The report was adopted.

Mr. Bleecker introduced a By-law for the appointment of Deputy Returning Officers. It was read a first time and referred to the Committee on By-laws.

Mr. Crouter introduced a By-law to confirm the purchase of a certain road from Mr. Austen. It was read a first time and referred to the Committee on By-laws.

Council adjourned.

Council resumed.

Moved by Mr. Rose and seconded by Mr. Crouter, that the application of Mathew Thaw to purchase wood on road allowance across lot No. 25, between the 6th and 7th con., be laid over for futher consideration of the Council.

Moved and seconded that this Council go into Committe of the whole on By-laws. Mr. Bleecker in the chair.—Carried.

The By-law confirming the purchase of road was read a second and time and numbered 247.

The By-law for the appointment of deputy returning officers was read a second and third time and numbered 248, the following being the appointments:

No. 1. Frankford, Jas. Sweetman; No. 2 Marsh Hill, Joseph C. Foster; No. 3. Town Hall, F. B. Prior; No. 4. Gilbert's, David Vandewaters; No. 5. Harder's, Oakly Vandervoort.

Council adjourned,

—Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, has delivered a strong sermon in opposition to the Land League, in the course of which he informed his people that between the revolutionists of the Land League and all good Catholics the lines were to be sharply and determinedly drawn.

The Reeve thanked them in a few appropriate words.

MORE POLLED CATTLE FOR CANADA.—The celebrated breed of polled Aberdeen cattle, which has been always to the fore at agricultural shows in this country, has apparently made a firm footing in the Dominion of Canada, and the introduction of the breed has been especially due to the enterprise of the Hon. J. H. Pope, the Minister of Agriculture. This year the hon. gentleman has exported from this country between thirty and forty animals, but the most important shipment yet made from the British Isles was on his account yesterday by the Allan Steamship Caspian. Amongst the consignment was the grand two year-old bull Proud Viscount, son of Young Viscount, which is at the head of the celebrated herd of Ballindallock. This animal, which was disposed of at the Earl of Fife's sale, is the highest priced bull ever yet sold by public auction. He is out of one of the best cows bred by the late Mr. M'Combie, of Tillyfour, and it is believed that there is no better bull of his breed and age in the world. The consignment also includes the following cows:—Tillyfour Pride, Drumin, Sweetheart (prize winner at the recent Highland and Agricultural Society's show, and reputed to be the best cow of her age in Britain), Nosegay, Nellie Bligh, Duchess V., Buchan Meg, Daisie of Skene, Kelpie, &c. Mr. Pope's instructions, conveyed to Mr. George Wilkin, Waterside of Forbes, Aberdeenshire, were to secure the best cattle in the country, without limit as to price, and his enterprise is highly commendable. It is certain, also, to be appreciated by stock raisers in the Dominion, who are anxious to improve their herds with a view to supplying the British markets.—Liverpool Journal of Commerce, Dec. 7.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

The Grain Question.

The Globe's attempts to prove that the imposition of a duty on foreign grain imported into the Dominion decreases the price in the home market of the same kinds of grain grown in Canada, have long excited the risibilities of those who have witnessed the expenditure of the organ's energy to achieve the manifestly impossible. The Toronto correspondent of the Montreal Witness—himself a good Grit—has become tired of this sort of amusement and thus forcibly shows to the leading organ of his party the absurdity of its long-winded arguments and mixing and muddling of figures: "The Globe is hard at work over the comparative prices of grain here and in the United States, perhaps with a desire to influence the electoral contest in West Northumberland amongst the farmers. What the latter believe of the assertions made is not very apparent, but whenever grain of certain sorts is scarce in the United States, it will advance beyond Canadian prices, not in consequence of the Canadian duty, but of that of the United States, and the farmers do not suffer very much in prices of what they produce from the Canadian duties, although they do in what they consume. To try to prove that the Canadian duty has anything to do with the lower prices of oats in Toronto than Chicago at present is absurd. A most capricious and variable crop is oats, and more apt to show difference in price in various years, not only because of this, but because of its greater bulk for the same weight, which makes it more expensive to handle and transport."

Editorial Brevities.

Mr. Blake is a large man physically, and his mind corresponds with his body; but he is not so large as he evidently imagines himself to be. In several of his speeches—notably that at Cobourg—he based an attack on the tariff on the assumption that seven yards of material are required to make a shirt for a man. Had he said that three and a half or four yards is the usual quantity he would have been correct. But, like his followers, he makes assumption serve the place of fact, and in consequence his statements are laughed at by those who, by gathering their information where it can be correctly gleaned, are better informed than are Mr. Blake and other unpractical politicians of his class.

The N. P. is to blame for almost everything. The Globe, alluding to the causes which will hinder immigration to the North-West, says: "Amongst these causes the tariff cannot but play an important part. The English or Scottish emigrant has been accustomed to a state of perfect free trade in so far as the necessities of life are concerned, and he will take the more unkindly to a fiscal system which imposes on him severe and quite unnecessary burdens." To which the Hamilton Spectator replies: "Possibly the Globe may have heard that the United States has a tariff which is a good deal higher than that of Canada, and possibly it may know that a good many immigrants go into that country every year. Why des not the tariff frighten them from going there?"

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe wrote on the 19th: "Among the first duties of the Liberal leaders when they come again into power at Ottawa in 1883 will be to deal with the question of Civil Service reform." Viewing this confident statement in the light of the West Northumberland election, is it not apparent to the organ that its correspondent has been counting the Grit chickens before they are hatched?

The Globe has been once more asserting that the N. P. has injured our trade in cottons with Great Britain to the advantage of the United States, and it selects two articles to prove its assertion, but the Hamilton Spectator effectually disposes of the allegation as follows: "In 1878 the duty on practically all the cotton goods we imported was 17½ per cent. There were some trifling imports at 10 per cent., but not enough to affect the totals. In 1880, all the manufactured cottons imported from Great Britain paid 21 57 per cent.; all those imported from the United States paid 24 61 per cent. or 3 04 per cent more than those from the mother country. The result is seen in the volume of imports which were as follows:

| | 1878 | 1880. |
|---|---|---|
| From Great Britain.... | $4,401,984 | $5,816,267 |
| From United States.... | 2,488,235 | 1,865,508 |

"Imports from Great Britain increased by $1,414,283; imports from the United States decreased by $622,727."

The Toronto World propounds the following conundrum; "If the Grits, led by a man of Mr. Blake's ability, cannot carry an old reform constituency like West Northumberland, what can they carry?"

The Globe, in its doleful-dismal attempt to account for the defeat of its party in West Northumberland, loses its head and becomes self-contradictory, as it often does. In one sentence it says "the tariff has asserted its hold on the town of Cobourg, as was only natural." A few lines further on in the same article, it prophesies that "the tendency of the wage-earning classes towards open revolt against the tariff will become more pronounced as time passes." It is only necessary to point out that Cobourg is the home of the wage-earners, in order to make the Globe's self contradiction apparent.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

Ameliasburg, Dec. 19th, 1881.

As your correspondent, my attention has been called at different times to the disgraceful scenes in which some residents of one of our villages took part when a former resident was entering or leaving, but we allowed it to pass. But when it is repeated in the form of hoisting flags at half mast, tolling of bells, beating of drums, and screaming, &c., we deeply sympathize with those of a more refined nature who are compelled to witness actions that none but the poor ignorant and uncivilized savage would care to take part in, and then only at a war dance, and which we hope for the credit of the place will not be repeated.

A very sad case of affliction happened a short time ago to a little daughter (about 7 years of age) of Mr. D. Gerow, on Massassaga Point. As far as we are able to learn at this writing, she fell and hurt her head while at school one day, but not so badly as to stop her attending school for some days after. She began to complain, so that her parents kept her at home. In a short time she lost her hearing and then her sight. A physician was called, but could do no good, and on Friday she died. Mr. and Mrs. Gerow have the sympathy of the whole neighborhood.

The report circulated at Rossmore that the Mary Ethel, was cut through and leaking has no foundation. We have been informed that the ice has had no effect on her so far, and she continues to run regularly.

The Ameliasburg stage goes by way of the upper ferry, Mr. Coleman having made an arrangement with the P.M. at Rossmore to meet him at 9 a.m and 3 p.m and change mails.

The "Union" people have decided to hold their annual Tea-meeting on New Year's eve Dec. 31st (Saturday) in their church; as most of our people have attended meetings at this place it is not necessary for us to say they are carried on in excellent style.

County Court.

Moon vs. Sarsfield et al.—Action of trespass to personal property. Plaintiff owned a building situate at Hog Lake, near Madoc village, known as Drake's Sawmill. Defendant Sarsfield, through his agent John Jack, agreed with plt'ff to purchase said mill; the bargain, as Jack understood it, was completed so that an account due from plt'ff to Sarsfield was to be turned on account of the purchase, balance to be paid the following week, and building to be taken away. Sarsfield did come up the following week and carry out the bargain. After about three weeks Sarsfield, without further communication with plt'ff, sold the building to Simmons, who purchased it for L. S. Wolle agent for the Bethlehem Iron Co'y. Plt'ff contends that as Sarsfield did not carry out the agreement made by Jack, she considered the bargain off, and decided not to sell. Sarsfield having sold, considering his bargain complete, the other defts. Simmons, Wolle and Bethelehem Iron Co., took the building down and removed it. Plt'ff brings her action to recover value of building, which she places at $200, although she sold it to Sarsfield for $60; he sold it to Simmons for $90. The case occupied nearly two days; tried before Judge without Jury.—A. R. Dougall Q C. for pl'ff; Hon. L. Wallbridge for Sarsfield; John Bell, Q.C., for Simmons, Wolle and Bethlehem Iron Co. Verdict to be given 21 January next.

The America's Cup.

The Globe says:—"The New York Yacht Club has resolved to return the America Cup to the surviving donor, Mr. G. L. Schuyler, as 'under the existing conditions the Club is compelled to accept any challenge that may be offered by a foreign club, Canadian or otherwise.' The Club will, however, be glad to become the custodian of the Cup again on condition of leaving it free to refuse challenges from foreigners, 'Canadian or otherwise.' This is practically a certificate to the New York Yacht Club's fear of the Atalanta. With a new rig and full preparation, good judges think she could carry away the Cup, and as her owner proposes to try again in the spring, it is doubtless thought advisable to get power to rule out foreigners, 'Canadian or otherwise.'"

We agree with the Globe's estimate of the abilities of the Atalanta, properly rigged, ballasted and fitted out. If the yachtsmen of the Dominion take the matter in hand, and raise a fund for the purpose of paying the necessary expenses, no doubt Capt. Cuthbert would challenge again, provided always that the New Yorkers do not, for some fanciful reason, rule the Atalanta out. Less than $2,000 would suffice to meet every possible demand, including the keeping of the yacht in commission two months, and surely such a sum ought to be forthcoming from the lovers of aquatic sports.

THE "BATH CITY."

Seventeen of the Crew Arrive at Liverpool.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCES.

Four of the Crew Drowned, and the Captain and Five of the Crew Perish from Exposure.

Liverpool, Dec. 20.—Seventeen of the crew of the Bath City, from Bristol for New York, have arrived. The barque William J. Foley picked them up off Newfoundland. The Bath City sprang a leak off Newfoundland during the heavy weather and sank. The crew of 27, including the captain, took to two boats. One of the boats capsized, and four occupants were drowned. The remaining twenty-three men were exposed to intense cold, from the effects of which the captain and five of the crew died. The survivors were three days and nights in a boat in a deplorable condition.

The chief mate of the Bath City reports that heavy weather was experienced on the 17th November. The steamer lost her rudder on the 30th. All hands left the vessel on the 3rd December. The survivors have been sent to the Northern Hospital, Liverpool. They are badly frost-bitten.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clark & Co.

Kiss me.—"Teaberry," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try 5 cent sample.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the School Board was held last evening.

Present.—Mr. Wills, Chairman; Messrs. McGinnis, Johnson, Macoun. Glass, Moore, VanAllan, Wensley, Hayne, I Diamond, W. J. Diamond, Davis, Tennant, Richards, Northcott, Docter, and Rev. J. W. Burke.

In the absence of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. W. J. Diamond was appointed to that position pro tem.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Chairman read a communication from Mr. J. A. G. Crozier, tendering his resignation as Secretary-Treasurer of the Board.

Also, one from R. C. Hulme, applying for the position of Secretary-Treasurer.

REPORTS.

The Committee on School Management reported as follows: That they have given careful consideration to the reorganization of the Central School, and recommend that the three Fourth Book divisions be amalgamated into two divisions to be taught by Mr. Irwin and Miss Urquhart.

That the new School House in Coleman Ward be opened immediately after the close of the Christmas Holidays.

That one room be placed in charge of Mr. McKeown, who shall teach the First and Second Books.

That First and Second Book pupils living in Coleman Ward who are now taught in other schools shall be required to attend the school in that ward.

Your Committee have learned with surprise that some of the teachers of the Central School are in collusion with regard to one advancing pupils ahead of another. Your Committee had indulged the hope that the classification made by them some time ago, by having two or more teachers teach the same book, would produce a friendly and healthy emulation both between teachers and pupils; and if continued your Committee would recommend a change of teachers from one school to another.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of two accounts.

The Board went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Tennant in the chair.

The report of the School Management Committee was taken up.

Mr. Hayne thought that the Third Book should be taught in the Coleman Ward school, should there not be enough scholars in the First and Second Books to fill the school.

Mr. I. Diamond said that it was the intention of the Committee to provide another teacher for this school, who would teach the Third Book, it a sufficient number of pupils attended the school.

The report was passed without opposition.

The Finance Committee's report was passed with the addition that the teachers be paid their salaries on the 24th inst.

Dr. Willson came in.

The Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Tennant, the resignation of Mr. Crozier as Secretary-Treasurer of the Board was accepted.

Mr. Johnson moved, seconded by Mr. Tennant, "That the members of the Board unite very heartily in expressions of deep regret that the pleasant associations which have existed between them and Mr. John A. G. Crozier, their Secretary-Treasurer for a period of over ten years, have been severed by his resignation, consequent upon his removal to Toronto. That the services of Mr. Crozier have at all times been so cheerfully rendered and so efficiently and faithfully performed as to merit our entire approbation, while his uniform courtesy, strict attention to all the details of his many duties, the correctness of all his accounts, and his unflinching integrity, have won our admiration and friendship. That we join in congratulations at his well-deserved promotion at the hands of the Government of this Province, doubting not that when the Government know him as well as we do, the many qualities which have made him an ideal Secretary-Treasurer, will merit still further promotion. That we unite in wishing him, in every relationship of life, success and happiness, and assure him of our interest in his future. That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. Crozier."

A communication was read from W. J. Diamond tendering his services as Secretary-Treasurer, and stating that, if appointed, he would resign his position as High School Trustee; also, that he would give the Board legal advice free of charge.

Mr. Macoun moved, seconded by Mr. Moore, that Mr. Diamond be appointed Secretary-Treasurer at a salary of $350 per annum.—Carried.

Mr. Diamond thanked the Board for their unanimous appointment of him as their Secretary-Treasurer, and hoped that the duties of the position would be performed by him in such a manner as to merit on his retirement, a eulogy similar to the one just passed on the late Secretary-Treasurer.

On motion of Mr. Macoun, Mr. Diamond's resignation as High School Trustee was accepted, and it was decided to ask the City Council to appoint a Trustee in his place.

Mr. Wensley moved that Messrs. Hayne, VanAllan and Davis be the Committee for Coleman Ward school.—Carried.

Mr. I. Diamond moved that the Chairman of the Building Committee be authorized to erect two screens in the reception room of No. 2 school for the accommodation of the classes in that school, the cost not to exceed $25.

At the suggestion of Mr. Johnson, Mr. I. Diamond added to his motion that the work be done provided it meet with the approval of the Committee on Sites, Buildings and Repairs.

The motion was carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

ruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

MANITOBA.

The Far-famed Turtle Mountain District.

The First Town Site in the District.

I HAVE received instructions and will offer for sale by Public Auction, in the building next to the Glasgow Warehouse, in the City of Belleville, on the days and evenings of

Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of December,

Six Hundred Lots in the Town Site of Wood Lake City.

In offering this Town Site, it is believed that we are offering something well worthy the attention of intending investors in Manitoba lands. It is situate on the banks of Wood Lake, in Township 2, Range 19 West, in the Province of Manitoba,—the well and favorably known Turtle Mountain district.

Public attention is now more favorably directed towards this District, which is rapidly settling up with first class settlers, than to any other in the Province, and lands are rapidly rising inprice. The almost endless stretch of the best agricultural lands in the world, the abundance of wood and water, make this District at once the the Farmers' Eldorado, and within a year there will not be a section of land unsold. The Town site of Wood Lake City is situate in the very heart of this country, on the banks of one of the most beautiful Lakes imagination can picture, on one side of which rolling prairie stretches away as far as the eye can reach; while on the other stands a forest of oak, and other timber, 35 miles square. The lake is fed by springs, and contains therefore the best of water. The situation of this town site at once suggests a favorite summer resort. Game abounds in the country surrounding it. The Boundary Commission trail, the travelled thoroughfare to the far west, runs directly through the Town. There is at present a comfortable stopping place for the convenience of travellers, and arrangements are being made for the erection of a Saw Mill, Church, and School house. This site has long been looked forward to by settlers as the site for the future Town of the Turtle Mountain District, and with its advantages must rapidly take a prominent place amongst western cities. Every body wants to own some property in Manitoba. Here is a chance to obtain for a reasonable sum a property which will in a short time yield a handsome profit on the investment.

Terms made known at Sale.

Sale each day at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 7 o'clock. Maps and Plans on exhibition in the sale room.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 21.

City and Vicinity.

MICHAELMAS Exhibition at the College to-night.

THERE were two protectionists in the cells last night.

THE present City Council will have to appoint four new School Trustees.

THE business at the County Court will probably be concluded to-morrow.

MR. THOS. VANALLAN is a candidate for election as Alderman for Coleman Ward.

THE Mendelsohn Choir have postponed further practice until after the holidays, and will not meet again until Tuesday evening, Jan. 9.

TO-DAY is, nominally, the shortest day of the year; but there have been days this winter (and there will be more) that broke later and ended sooner than to-day.

MR. WM. MCKEOWN is to be appointed teacher of the Coleman Ward School, instead of Miss Robertson, who was at first thought of in connection with the school.

ALD. W. J. DIAMOND has been appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Education. There were only two applications for the position, the other being from Mr. Hulme.

THE sale of Manitoba lands, which commenced last night, was fairly successful, thirty lots being disposed of at an average of over $38. The final auction sale will take place to-night.

THE Kingston Presbytery met here yesterday and closed this morning. The principal business transacted was the approval of the call of Trenton Church to Rev. A. Matthews, at a salary of $700.

REMEMBER the performance of the Histrionic Association this evening in the Metropolitan Hall. It is to be hoped there will be as good an audience present as the intrinsic merits of the Society deserve.

THE Rev. D. L. BRETHOUR, a former Pastor of Bridge St. Methodist Church, has been in the city for a few days visiting with his old friends, we are pleased to see the reverend gentleman looking so well.

MR. J. IRBY ILES has for the past two weeks been so ill with asthma that his death was almost hourly expected. He is now, however, in a fair way towards recovery, under the treatment of Dr. Abbott.

VENNOR has been erring in good company. Old Probs himself is all at sea in his predictions. Yesterday he prophesied snow for to-day. Vennor is nearer the truth: he predicted "milder weather" for to-day and to-morrow.

MR. WATSON, of the Canadian Sportsman, the Canadian sporting journal, is in town, soliciting subscriptions for that paper. The Sportsman is published by E. King Dodds at $4 per annum, and is a well conducted journal of its class.

A LARGE number of lots in the prospective city of Wakefield, Manitoba, will be placed on the market on January 1st. Mr. E. B. Fraleck is the local agent, to whom application may be made. The advertisement, which appears in another column, gives particulars.

THE City schools will close on Thursday Dec. 22nd., at 4 p.m. and re-open on Monday, January 9th., at 9 a.m as the 7th falls on Saturday. The schools in rural sections will close on Friday, Dec. 23rd., at 4 p.m, and reopen on Tuesday, January 3rd., at 9 a.m.

THERE was only one case before the P.M. this morning. A charge of fraud, arising out of a difficulty with respect to the collection of rent by the defendant for the complainant, was brought by M. Ward against H. Wirt. The case was enlarged till to-morrow.

MR. E. BURRELL, we regret to learn, is seriously ill, having for some time been troubled with a bronchial affection. Dr. Abbott, who is in attendance on him, says, however, that a prolonged rest and careful attendance are all that is required to restore him to health.

MR. TOBIAS FITZGERALD, of Peterborough, is now manufacturing one hundred and thirty sets of Cheboygans or shanty sleighs for Messrs. Rathbun & Son and Gilmour & Co. Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger, of the same place, are also constructing twenty sets of the same kind of sleighs for the same firms.

THE promenade concert, which is to be held in the City Hall to-morrow evening, will be something novel in the way of entertainments—and promises to be quite as pleasing as novel. The Oddfellows' Orchestra will furnish the music during the promenade. Owing to an oversight the Band was not mentioned in the printed programme.

AT the meeting of the Vestry of Christ Church last night, the Rector appointed Mr. Wm. Hamilton as Churchwarden to succeed the late Mr. Newbery, a resolution of condolence with whose family was passed. A resolution was also passed thanking the Trustees of the M.E. Church for the use of their former church edifice.

MR. LINGHAM'S Committees will be held in the hall in the INTELLIGENCER building to-morrow night at 8 o'clock.

THE regular monthly assembly under the auspices of the Oddfellow's Band, held last night was a pronounced success, though not very numerously attended. The music furnished by the String Band was, of course, of first-rate excellence, as also was the supper furnished by Dickens & Sons. The assemblies will be continued during the winter months.

THE High School Entrance Examination began this morning at 9 o'clock, and will continue during to-day and to-morrow. There are fifty-five candidates—fourteen from Mr. Irwin's room, six from Mr. McKeown's, nineteen from Miss Urquhart's, two from the Separate School, one from Ameliasburg, and eleven from rural schools in South Hastings.

THE musical portion of the Christmas services in St. Thomas' Church next Sunday promises to be unusually fine. Mr. Wensley's services have been secured for both morning and evening services. Three new anthems and a fine Te Deum, with solos for all the parts, are being prepared, and one of the features will be an organ duet—one of Handel's choruses—by Mr. Oldham and Mrs. Col. Campbell. The full programme will appear on Saturday.

A MEETING of the Industrial Committee was held last night, at which the propositions of Messrs. T. G. Hall and E. L. Blanchard, with reference to smelting works were considered. The company which Mr. Blanchard represents has a capital stock of $1,250,000. Two offers for sites for the proposed smelting works were also considered—one from W. E. Ponton and the other from Wm. Bleecker. No definite action was taken with regard to the sites.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 21.—Lakes, fresh to strong winds, mostly from the eastward, cloudy continued mild weather, with areas of rain possibly sleet in northern portion.

THE CITY MISSION.—At the close of the meeting in connection with the City Mission on Monday night, the Rev. David Mitchell, in the name of several friends belonging to John Street Church, presented Rev. A. Schuster with a cheque for $41. With this he handed to Mr. Schuster $5 which he had received from Mr. Hodgson in behalf of the Baptist Church. Mr. Mitchell stated this money was given, not only as a testimony of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Schuster were held, but also because the donors felt that as yet too little had been given for the support of the City Mission, by the community. There was an idea abroad that a committee was at work to raise funds for this object, but as yet only two or three of the churches had carried out the resolution passed at the public meeting when the Missionary gave his report, by naming a delegate to act on the committee. In the meantime until something was done the Missionary was liable to suffer. Mr. Mitchell said this money was now given by a few in the hope of it would lead citizens generally to respond to the call which had been made. He felt disappointed that the amount was not much larger.

OBIT.—One of the oldest residents of the Bay of Quinte district—Rev. Philip J. Roblin—died on the 16th inst. at his home near Bannockburn, at the ripe age of 84 years. Last January he was seized with paralysis while visiting his daughter near Belleville, and never rallied from the attack. Mr. Roblin was born in Adolphustown, Lennox, in June 1797, being the son of Mr. John Roblin, a staunch U.E. Loyalist. His family were Methodists, and he was authorized to preach as a local preacher in 1818, and was ordained by the late Bishop Hedding in 1830. He remain a minister up to the time of his death—a period of 63 years in all. He followed secular pursuits till 1868, when he entered the active work of the ministry, spending two years in Flinton, three at Maynooth, and three at Bannockburn. Mr. Roblin was well known and universally respected throughout this district. He was an able and zealous advocate of Temperance, and accomplished a vast amount of good work in that cause. His great force of character and sterling uprightness made him highly esteemed both in the public and private walks of life, and in his old age he was venerated as only a just man, who has lived a good life, can be.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

THE JEANNETTE SAFE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—A London despatch says the Governor of Siberia has just issued a proclamation, announcing that the Arctic ship Jeannette is safe with all on board well and equipments intact. The Governor has taken a special interest in the Arctic expedition and sent out on his own account a party of experienced, reliable explorers, who finally found the missing vessel. The people aboard the Jeannette were much astonished when they were informed by the explorers that they had become the objects of the solicitude of the civilized nations.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 20.—The following telegram has just been received from Mr. Hoffman, charge d'affaires of the United States at St. Petersburg:—"Jeannette crushed in ice June 11, latitude 77°, longitude 157°; crew embarked in three boats; separated by wind and fog. No. 3, with eleven men, Engineer Melville commanding, reached mouth of Lena September 19. Subsequently No. 1, with Capt. De Long, Dr. Ambler, and twelve men, reached the Lena in a pitiable condition; prompt assistance was sent. No. 2 has not been heard from."

"F. T. FRELINGHUYSEN, Department of State."

LARGE LAND SALE.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Hamilton Disston sold to European capitalists 2,000,000 acres of land in Florida. It is expected that the land will be settled rapidly by English and Dutch emigrants.

A FEMALE SWINDLER.

Mrs. Marion Dow, the only female broker here, was arrested yesterday, charged with defrauding one of her lady patrons out of $7,000. It is alleged that she victimized several other ladies.

CHASING THE COWBOYS.

CALDWELL, Ks, Dec. 21.—The Cowboys, who raised a recent disturbance here, have undoubtedly escaped from their pursuers. They are evidently heading for Mexico. The Sheriff is still on the trail and has sent for reinforcements.

NEW YORK NOTES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Louis Goriepey, an employee of the 6th Avenue Elevated Railway, was guillotined last night by a train.

Wheelock, book-keeper for Wolcott & Co., brokers, who was charged with forging the firm's name to checks for $10,000, and who was extradited from England, has been set free, as the District Attorney is satisfied that he was a partner in the firm.

Arrived, the Australia from Hamburg.

The Times says the Central and South American Telegraph Company is pushing the construction of the land lines and the laying of the submarine cable, as rapidly as the wires can be supplied. There seems to be every probability that before many months telegraphic communication will be established between this city and Vera Cruz, Panama, Venezuela, Peru, Chili and other South American States, by direct wires, and news and business advices will be as regular and fully received from these countries on the west coast, beyond the equator, as those now received from Europe.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says that the President has selected Jesse Spalding for collector at Chicago.

VALUABLE MANUSCRIPTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Secretary of State yesterday sent to the Senate the report of the Librarian of the State department, in favor of purchasing the manuscripts, &c., once the property of Benj. Franklin, in London. The price asked is $35,000. The Librarian says that the documents are of great historic value. The Secretary recommended immediate action.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec'r 21st.—In the Guiteau trial, Dr. Hamilton, of New York, took the stand. Scoville desired to have the rule enforced for the exclusion of witnesses; he made the request because each witness he examined upon the same topics, and the same questions he asked each. He deemed it unfair they should have the benefit of listening to all the evidence, and in this way unconsciously preparing themselves for uniformity of testimony. He also desired the Court to direct that it would be improper for the expert witnesses to read reports of the examination of experts.

Judge Cox—It is not the practice of the Courts to exclude expert witnesses.

Scoville restated the reasons why the experts should be excluded and thought that the rule for the exclusion should apply to the experts even more pertinently than to the witnesses to facts.

Guiteau—"Please state your side of the case, Scoville, and let the other side state theirs. That's a silly kind of a speech to make anyway."

Davidge argued against the motion.

Guiteau was speaking quite rapidly and said, I will cut this short, Judge, by saying I am perfectly willing to have them here. I want them to learn all they can. I have so much confidence in their honor and integrity.

Davidge—That is precisely what I am coming to.

Guiteau—You're on the right track Judge, I'll take you on my side, you are engaged for my side of this case.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 21.—Arrived, the Parthia.

FAILURE AT MANCHESTER.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—R. Schloesser & Co., paper manufacturers, Manchester, have failed. Liabilities £75,000.

DEATH FROM CHLOROFORM.

HAMMOND, Ind., Dec. 21.—E. H. Tapper, a prosperous merchant, died yesterday in a dentist's chair under the influence of chloroform.

GUITEAU WANTS MONEY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Regarding his recently published statement about the progress of the trial, Guiteau says:—"I need money, Business is business. I was offered $100 to make that statement for publication and I took it. I shall be glad to furnish more of the same kind at that price any time."

A SELF-CONFESSED THIEF.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 21.—Fredrick Palmer, auditor of the city accounts, has been imprisoned on his own confession. He embezzled $125,000 of the city's funds during the past three years and lost in Wall St. speculations. He asserts no one is implicated with him. He manifests deep humiliation and resignation to the consequences.

STRUCK BY PARALYSIS.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Horace Hammell is charged with issuing and selling $1,000 worth of fictitious stock of the Newton Township Building Association, located in Camden, of which he was Secretary. Hammel recently had a stroke of paralysis and is in a critical condition.

FROM PICTON.

SUDDEN DEATH.

PICTON, Ont., Dec. 21.—Mr. R. G. Davis, a wealthy farmer, residing three miles east of Picton, died suddenly in the street this morning. Mr. Davis came into town this morning expecting to take the train. Being a little late, he got an express waggon to drive him to the station. When a few rods from the station he fell backwards and died instantly.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

"Nothing gives me so much relief for the rheumatism, which has troubled me for years, as St. Jacobs Oil," says Mr. F. W. Brown Glen Rock, Pa.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

MARRIED.

On the 20th instant, at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. Wm. H. Peake, EDMUND M. MCCANN, of Rawdon, to ALICE M., youngest daughter of Isaiah Clarke, Esq., of Thomasburg.

DIED,

At Madoc, Dec'r 16th, Rev. PHILIP J. ROBLIN, in the 85th year of his age.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Dec. 21, 1881.

Considerable more activity has been developed in the grain market during the past two days. Barley is brisk for the best qualities, which sell up to 85c., and in one case 85½c was paid yesterday. The poorer grades being correspondingly lower prices, probably not over one load in every ten offered would bring over 80c.

Rye is firmer and in brisk demand at 77c. to 80c per bush. There is no change to note in wheat or peas, of which there is very little offering. Buckwheat is selling at 65c, per bush.

Oats are weak at 40c. to 42c. per bush.

Dressed hogs are firmer at $7.50 to $8.00 per 100 lbs.

Butter and eggs are both in good demand at our quotations.

PROCLAMATION.

IT having been the time-honored custom for generations to celebrate "Christmas Day" in commemoration of the birth of our Saviour, and for the re-union and rejoicing of families and communities, and whereas in consequence of the 25th day of December falling upon Sunday the present year, the Dominion and Provincial Governments have recommended that Monday, the 26th day of December next, be observed instead thereof.

Now, therefore, by and with the advice of the Aldermen of this city, I proclaim

as general holidays and days of rejoicing, and enjoin upon all good citizens to observe the same in a becoming and reverential manner.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

'No,' I won't, unless you will be a true girl—own what you ought to own—say what you ought to say—that you do not quite hate him. You really may say that—and then we will see about it.

'Hate him! Did I say I hated him?'

'Or, pretend you did. Or that he was indifferent to you.'

'Well, well; I don't hate him, then.'

'Then come here, and sit down by me, and I will tell you that Lionel loves you, and adores you—and all that. Very easily said. But far more than that—and with great difficulty said—he wishes to make you his wife!'

'Ah me!'—and again the color flashed into her face, and such an expression was visible in her eyes!

Suddenly she threw her arms around her sister, and embraced her tenderly.

'You, dear, dear girl,' she whispered—'Oh, I am so—so happy! But tell me—tell me—all, from the beginning. Lionel!—is it possible?'

'You thought we were very busy talking together to-night, at Mrs. White's ball didn't you?—You were a little jealous, were you not, you silly thing? Ah, my Ella! My proud—proud Ella! To have made such a tumble into love!'

'Nonsense!—how you talk! But tell me all he said. Every single word of it!'

'He said he loved you more than his life and all that sort of thing; and, if you would give him the least atom of encouragement, I was to take no notice, and he would speak to papa and immediately; but, if you hated him as much as I said I was sure you did....'

'How could you say such a stupid thing?'

'I thought that was what I ought to say.'

'How foolish you are, Cle.! Well?'

'Well, in that case, I was to write. Shall I write?'

She did not write.

And from this time the existence of Ella was changed.

She loved, with all the fervor and energy of her nature; and life took at once a new color. True love is of the infinite. None can have deeply loved—when or how in other respects it may have been—but they have entered into the unseen world; have breathed a new breath of life; have tasted of true existence.

What is often called love, may do nothing of all this—but I am speaking of true love.

Lionel seemed at that time scarcely worthy of the passion he had inspired. Yet he had many excellent qualities. He was warm-hearted, generous to excess, had good parts, a brilliant way of talking, and was a favorite with all the world.

He had not the splendid gifts which nature had bestowed upon Julian Winstanley. By the side of her father, even in the eyes of Ella, the bright halo which surrounded her lover would seem somewhat to pale. The young man even appeared to feel this, in some degree, himself. He always, yet with a certain disgrace, took the second place, when in her father's presence. Ella loved her father, and seemed to like that it should be so.

'Oh, my sister! oh, my friend! what—what shall we do? Oh, misery! misery! what is to become of us all!'

Clementina's eyes were swimming with tears; but she would not give way. In passive endurance she excelled her sister.

She held her arms clasped closely round her; whilst Ella poured a torrent of tears upon her bosom.

'My father! my beautiful, clever, indulgent father, that I was so proud of—that I loved so—who spared nothing upon either of us—alas, alas! how little, little did I guess whence the money came.'

Clementina trembled and shivered as her sister poured forth these passionate lamentations; but she neither wept nor spoke for some time. At last she said:

'Ella, I have been uneasy about things for some time. We are young, and we have not much experience in the ways of the world; but since our poor mother died, and I have had in some degree to manage the house, I have been every day becoming more uncomfortable.'

'You have?' said Ella, lifting up her head; 'and you never told me.'

'Why should I have told you? Why should I have disturbed your dream of happiness, my dear Ella? Besides, I hoped that it concerned me alone—that things might hold on a little while longer—at least till you were provided for and safe.'

'Safe! and what was to become of you?'

'I did not much think of that. I had a firm friend, I knew in you, Ella; and then, lately, since mamma's death; since you have been engaged to dear Lionel, and I have been much alone, I have thought of old things—old things that good Matty used to talk about. I have been endeavoring to look beyond myself, and this world; and it has strengthened me.'

'You are an excellent creature, Cle.!'

She shook her head.

'But, my father! what is to be done? Can anything be done?'

'No, my love. I fear nothing can be done.'

'He loves me!' said Ella, raising up her head again, her eyes beaming with a new hope. 'I will try—I will venture. It is perhaps great presumption in a child; but my father loves me, and I love him.'

Again Clementina shook her head.

'You are so faint-hearted—you are so discouraging. You give up every thing without an attempt to save yourself or others. That is your way!' cried Ella, with her own impetuosity, and some of her old injustice. Then, seeing sorrow and pain working upon her sister's face as she spoke thus, she stopped herself, and cried—'Oh! I am a brute—worse than a brute—to say this. Dear Cle., forgive me; but don't, pray don't discourage me, when I want all my courage. I will go—I will go this moment, and speak to my father....'

Clementina pressed her sister's hand as she started up to go. She feared the effort would be vain,—vain as those she had herself made; yet there was no knowing. Ella was so beautiful, so correct, so eloquent, so prevailing!

She followed her with her eyes, to the door, with feelings of mingled hope and apprehension.

Down the splendid stairs, with their gilded balustrades, and carpets of the richest hue and texture, rushed the impetuous Ella. Through the hall—all marbles and gilding—and her hand was upon the lock of the library door. She was about to turn it, without reflection; but a sudden fear of intruding came over her—she paused and knocked.

'Who is there?' exclaimed an irritated voice from within; 'go away—I can see no one just now.'

'It is I, papa—Ella; pray let me come in.'

And she opened the door.

He was standing in the middle of the lofty and magnificent apartment, which was adorned on every side with pictures in gorgeous frames; with busts, vases, and highly ornamented book-cases fitted with splendidly-bound books—seldom, if ever, opened. His pale, wan, haggard face, and degraded figure, formed a fearful contrast to the splendid scene around him, showing like a mockery of his misery. A small table, richly inlaid, stood beside him; in one hand he held a delicate cup of fine china; in the other, a small chemist's phial.

He started as she entered, and turned to her an angry and confused countenance, now rapidly suffused with a deep crimson flush; but, as if electrified by a sudden and horrid suspicion, she rushed forward, and impetuously seized his shaking arm.

The cup fell to the floor, and was broken to atoms; but he clenched the phial still faster in his trembling hand, as he angrily uttered the words:

'How dare you come in here?'

'Oh! papa—papa!'—she had lost all other terror before that of the horrible suspicion which had seized her—'what are you about? what is that?' stretching out her arms passionately, and endeavoring to wrench the phial from his fingers.

'What are you about? what do you mean?' he cried, endeavoring to extricate his hand. 'Let me alone—leave me alone! what are you about? Be quiet, I say, or by ....' And with the disengaged hand he tore her fingers from his, and thrust her violently away.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

Post Mortem Examintions have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Daily Intelligencer.

Intoxicated Bees.

In the Scientific American of October 29, 1881, on page 280, "Botanical Notes," "Milkweed as an Intoxicant" explains what I saw in my garden were several milkweed plants. Bees were very numerous on them; some lively, others very stupid. I looked for the cause. Saw the longer the bee stayed on the milkweed blossom the more stupid it became. I cultivate the milkweed for greens. When boiled as such they are first rate.

A Squirrel Kills a Rattlesnake.

A story so strange that it seems almost incredible comes from the Zoological Garden, but it is nevertheless true. Yesterday afternoon a little squirrel killed a rattlesnake about to devour it, and the aggressor became the victim. It is customary to place live animals such as the rabbit, the rodent, or the squirrel in the dens of the reptiles. The snakes, when they are hungry, with fearful deliberation approach their terrified prey, and relentlessly devour it. The squirrel crouched tremblingly in a corner of the snake's abode, and seemed to understand that it would soon be food for the disgusting creature. Slowly but surely the rattlesnake crawled toward the squirrel, but the bunnie quickly jumped on a perch above the deadly reptile's head. The long flat head was raised upon the perch, and the forked tongue spit forth its venom. But the squirrel, with a sudden spring, alighted on the back of the snake and bit off one of his rattles. The wounded reptile wheeled quickly round and struck the little hero a fearful blow, breaking the right hind leg. Brave little fellow, once more he leaps beyond the reach of his maddened foe. Another spring and the squirrel was triumphant. He caught the snake behind the head, and with one firm thrust of his sharp white teeth decapitated the slimy monster and fell exhausted by the wiggling mass; but the battle had been won and the snake was dead.—Cincinnati Enquirer, Dec. 4.

Medicinal Receipts.

FOR FROST BITES.—The surest and best medicine is tincture of iodine, put on gently with a feather or brush at night. Three or four applications will cure.

TOOTHACHE DROPS.—Chloroform, one ounce; spirits of camphor, one ounce; oil of cloves, one-half dram; mix, and keep in a tightly corked bottle, and apply by dropping on a bit of cotton batting and lay on the teeth, and rub a little on the face if that is painful. It will give instant relief.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.—One ounce of tincture of colchicum, one ounce of tincture of guaiac, one-half ounce of tincture of mezereon, and one ounce and a half of syrup of sarsaparilla. Mix the ingredients well and take one teaspoonful morning, noon and night. It is a safe and sure remedy.

A NICE SALVE.—Take one ounce of fir balsam, one ounce of mutton tallow, one ounce of beeswax, and two tablespoonfuls of spirits of turpentine; simmer well together and stir constantly. When well mixed, strain into a tight tin box through a piece of thin muslin. It is a very soothing and healing salve, for either human or animal wounds, and is always ready for use.

CURE FOR CORNS.—Wet common cooking soda with water, so that it will spread easily on a bit of cloth, and bind it on the corn. Keep it on till the corn is loosened and comes out. It is simple and sure.

LINIMENT FOR SPRAINS.—Take one ounce each of chloroform, ammonia, sweet oil, and camphor gum. Mix with half a pint of pure alcohol. Shake before using. It is a splendid liniment for family use.—Country Gent'n.

The following section of the Act for the Protection of Game, etc., should be cut out and preserved by sportsmen: None of the animals or birds hereinafter mentioned shall be hunted, taken or killed within the periods hereinafter limited: (1) Deer, elk, moose, reindeer or cariboo, between the fifteenth day of December and the first day of October: (2) grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl, or partridge, between the first day of January and the first day of September; (3) wild turkey or quail, between the first day of January and the first day of October; (4) woodcock, between the first day of January and the first day of August; (5) snipe, between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of August; (6) water fowl known as mallard grey duck, wood or summer duck, between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of August; (7) other ducks, swans, or geese, between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of August; (8) hares, between the first day of March and the first day of September.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with desease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Are Bees a Nuisance?

An unusual case is being tried in the Cumberland County (Penn.) Court this week, that of testing by a jury whether the keeping of a large number of bees in a town or borough is a public nuisance or not. The case is from West Fairview, a small town on the opposite side of the river from Harrisburg. Two citizens had about 130 skeps of bees, and as the summer was scarce of material such as the bees feed upon they came in large numbers into the houses, stores, grape arbors, and whenever there was anything for them to feed upon. In one instance they swarmed in a neighbor's kitchen, and were there for days, he not being able to hive them, the queen being killed. They were especially bad about canning and preserving time, compelling the house-wife to do her preserving in the evening, and in one instance the wife had to climb in and out of the window for days, not daring to open the doors, for the bees would go in by hundreds; persons were stung passing along the streets and highways; entire houses became infested with bees, so much so that the inmates could not retire to rest at night without being stung by the bees; trays of fruit put out for drying were entirely consumed. Indeed, a reign of terror was experienced for several months, until a committee of citizens agreed to abate the nuisance, and, after several efforts, appealed to the court.

The defence claimed that the raising and keeping of bees was an industry, and as such could not come under the head of a public nuisance, and that suit could not be brought nor damages recovered for the keeping of honey-bees. The attorney on both sides presented the opinions of several judges and the law points in the case, after which the court decided the case should be tried, and the testimony was received. But one case seems to be on record in the State, and that was tried before Judge Pearson, in Dauphin County, years ago, in which the defendant was adjudged guilty, and had to pay a fine and abate the nuisance.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Hops.

Billy Barlow planted hops. Hops were worth 40 cents per pound, and he figured the income from ten acres, and said to his wife:

"Maria, we've struck a gold mine, and its name is Hops. You can order the piano now, and we will trot the boys off to college."

"But you don't know how to grow hops, William?"

"Don't be a fool, Maria; hasn't the old vine in the corner of the garden borne hops since Tom was a baby, with no help but the dead butternut to twine on? Do I know how? Why it is harder to kill a hop vine than a burdock. But just think—forty cents a pound!"

Barlow paid a high price for hop roots, for they are always scarce when hops are up. His neighbors sold him hop poles at about their own price; for how could he banter when each individual pole was destined to bear, before the sunshine and the wind, a tasselled banner of hops—otherwise gold? Then he built a big hop kiln, with a gilded fish, six feet long to keep the ventilator before the wind. Then Barlow sat in the shade and made plans as to what he should do with all the money. Suddenly the hops went down, down, DOWN. The lower they went the less buyers wanted them, and the more particular they became as to quality—and Barlow's were not above criticism. Then he said to his wife:

"Maria, I am busted on those blamed hops, as sure as shooting. If it hadn't been for you and your wanting the piano, and teasing to get the boys off to school, I would have kept out of this miserable pickle."

Barlow's fancy hop house is now in a pig-pen and hen-house combined, and Barlow has gone into beans—wiser and sadder, but poorer.

Hopkins planted hops. He bought Barlow's hop poles at half price, with all the hop roots he wanted thrown in.

"How is it you plant hops when they are so cheap?" he was asked.

"The price is likely to be better by the time mine are ready for the market," was the reply. "Father and I grew hops years ago down East; father was never frightened about the price of hops."

Hopkins did not get rich on his first crop—hops recovered slowly, but he kept right on, extending his field, giving the best culture, and producing a first-class article. I pass his place often, and my wife and I always notice the beauty of the hops and the careful attention given. The last time we went by, we saw that Hopkins had been painting his house, had put on an addition thereto, with wide cornice and blinds; that he had cut down the windows level with the ground floor, had put in double black-walnut front doors, with copper knobs and bell handle; that he had planted ornamental trees and shrubs on his grounds and kept the lawn mower whirling. Hopkins drives a nice-looking rig on the street, and is said to carry a savings bank pass-book, into which the hops are entered when converted into hard cash. Hopkins is consulted on important questions of Church and state in his community; his boy has married the rich widow's pretty daughter, and all goes as salubriously as strawberries, into the small boy's stomach. Whether hops go up, or hops go down, Hopkins plants hops. Barlow knows beans—Hopkins knows hops.

MORAL.—Look before you hop, but having once considerably hopped stay hopped.—C. A. Green, in Rural New Yorker.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, DEC. 22.

Our Christmas Number.

With Saturday's issue of the DAILY INTELLIGENCER will be presented a supplemental sheet containing fourteen columns of choice literature, specially suited for perusal in the home circle during the Christmas season. The contents of this additional sheet are as follows: "John Paul," a cleverly told story of a tramp, from Harper's Weekly, with the three illustrations which accompanied it in that excellent periodical; "Nellie's Christmas Eve," a delightful fairy story, specially written for the very young readers of the INTELLIGENCER by J. L. L.; "A Kiss under the Mistletoe," a pleasing love story; together with a variety of seasonable poetry and miscellany of a high order of merit. This supplimental sheet is in addition to the thirty-two column paper usually issued on Saturdays, and which will contain a sermon by Dr. Talmage, an instalment of "Toby Tyler," and all the other popular features.

Saturday's issue of the INTELLIGENCER will thus contain a larger amount of readitg matter than has ever been previously published in a daily newspaper in Belleville, and as the demand for copies is certain to be large and the issue is limited, those who wish to ensure the supply of their wants will oblige by leaving their orders at the business office at any time before 10 a.m. on Saturday. We cannot gurantee the filling of orders received after that hour.

Advertisers who wish to take advantage of this special opportunity must hand in their favors before 10 a.m. on Saturday. Contracts for space can be made to-morrow (Friday).

Elections since September, 1878.

The Ottawa Citizen publishes a tabular statement of the result of the elections for the Dominion Parliament which have taken place since the general election of 1878, including those necessitated by the acceptance of office by Ministers and those which have been caused by changes in the Cabinet. The table will be found very useful for reference, and we reproduce it herewith, with the Citizen's explanation, which is necessary to its proper understanding:—"The words Conservative and Liberal in italics under the year 1881 represent the change that has taken place in the political complexion of the representation of the constituency since the general election. For instance, in September 1878 Argenteuil returned a Liberal, and is now represented by a Conservative."

Of the foregoing seats held by the Liberals after the general election, the following are now occupied by Conservatives:—

Argenteuil
East Hastings
Selkirk
Brome
Bellechasse
Charlevoix

The following seats have been won by the Liberals:—

East Northumberland, O
Carleton, N. B.

With regard to East Hastings, it is necessary to state that the Conservative was actually in a minority, but owing to an informality in some of the ballot papers, he was declared elected on a recount. The election, was, however, voided, and in the ensuing election the Conservative candidate secured a majority of 74. In addition, Niagara was won by the Conservatives on trial of protest, and Portneuf on a recount.

Let the reader contrast these results with the assertions and predictions of the Opposition press, and it will be found that the Government and their supporters have every reason to be satisfied with the verdict that has been passed upon their policy by the people.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

Editorial Brevities.

The Globe alleges all sorts of corruption against the Conservatives in West Northumberland, as a matter of course. The Whig feebly echoes the charge, but does not seem to be quite sure as to the purity of the practices of its own friends, for it says: "The Reformers worked actively, earnestly, and, we believe, honestly, to secure the return of the gentleman who represented them in the struggle." In view of the exposures of the devices of its party, as exemplified in the "big push," the disqualification of sundry members who had bought their way into Parliament, &c., the reserve with which the Kingston organ speaks is commendable.

Here is what the Montreal Star (Independent, anti-Syndicate) says of the West Northumberland election: "The Conservatives carried the election in West Northumberland by a slightly reduced majority. The issues were squarely laid and the contest was a test one. In view of the statement of the Liberal press that the return of their candidate would be a 'deadly blow' to the Government, the result may be regarded as a substantial Ministerial success. It certainly proves that as yet no reaction has set in against the National Policy."

The news that Mr. James Gordon Bennet's arctic discovery steamer, the Jeanette, has been crushed by the ice and that part of her crew have been lost, and the others rescued after suffering severely, has been received with general regret, although the vessel and crew had been given up as lost. There is no practical value in these arctic expeditions and their results in a scientific sense are not sufficient to compensate for the danger and the expense. The problem of a north-east passage has been solved by Nordenskjold, and that ought to suffice.

The people of Great Britian are, according to the leading Canadian organs of free trade, "accustomed to a state of perfect free trade in so far as the necessaries of life are concerned." What of the British duties on tea and coffee, which are usually enumerated amongst the necessaries of life?

Mr. Blake is truly a great man—as a sneerer. He professes to desire a still closer connection than that now existing between Canada and the empire; but shows his insincerity by sneering at the titles bestowed by the Queen upon prominent Canadians as marks of distinction and of favor. Mr. Blake is seldom consistent.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wood, the first miller's wife, took place on the 14th inst. The deceased was another victom of typhoid fever, and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of forming her acquaintance. Her remains were taken to Newmarket for interment.

Mr. W. Warren has been suffering nearly all summer from malarial fever, which also turned into typhoid.

A Social was held on the 14th in the McDowell school house, for the benefit of the circuit fund, which was well attended although the weather was unfavorable. An entertaining programme was laid before the audience, in the form of songs, recitations, speeches, &c. by local and other amateurs.

There is not yet a resident Methodist minister in Blairton, so the pulpit is supplied by the Rev. Mr. Pattyson, of Norwood.

Smuggled Jewellery.

A LARGE AMOUNT OF IT FOUND IN KINGSTON.

With reference to the Montreal jewellery case, the Kingston News of the 21st says: It appears that Patterson was arrested and it was gleaned that some of the jewellery had been disposed of in this section of the country. To-day our reporter was informed by a merchant that Officer Grosse had arrived from Montreal and was examining the invoices of the different jewellery and fancy stores in the city with a view to discovering more of the smuggled jewellery. The scribe then set to work on his own hook, and learned that in no less than five of the stores a quantity of the articles sought were found—some having $200 worth, others $100, $50 and so on. The value of the goods found in Kingston is close on $700. In each case the merchant had purchased sample lots. None of the jewellery has been entirely paid for, so that the purchasers will not suffer very much. The goods were sold by Patterson himself during the month of October. He had a number of customers in Kingston, who considered him one of the most reliable men in the trade.

He is a large jewellery dealer of Boston, and imports more American watches into Canada than any other house in the States. When making sales, it was a stipulation that he would pay the duty, and whether he paid it or not can be learned from this account.

Mr. G. Spangenberg, who is now in Kingston on his holidays, is employed as traveller by Patterson. None of the jewellery referred to above was found at the store of Mr. F. W. Spangenberg.

MELANCHOLY DROWNING ACCIDENT:—Intelligence has been received at Kingston of a melancholy drowning accident at Gull Lake, township of Kennebec. Garrett Gaylord was on his way from McLaren's mill, township of Clarendon, on Sunday, December 11th, for home, and in crossing the lake the ice gave way. He worked hard for life. On Friday last the body was recovered. The deceased was on his way home to arrange for his marriage on Christmas Day. A letter addressed to his betrothed was found near the place where he was drowned. The deceased had apparently thrown it from him as an evidence of accident when he had lost all hope of getting ashore. He was twenty-three years of age.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

SALESMAN.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—I quote from the Globe in its report of Mr. Edward Blake's speech at Cobourg on the 17th inst.:—"I will tell you this, while I want a triumph I want a triumph in a good cause, not a personal triumph, nor (pointing to Sir Charles Tupper) these trappings of office and knighthood. (Great cheering.) I suppose you all know that Mr. Mackenzie and I might have had them two or three years before this hon. gentleman. We, were honored by the offer, but respectfully declined. We have proved that we were not reduced to serve you for that sort of reward."

That Mr. Edward Blake has posed before the people of Canada for some years as the personification of all earthly virtues, every political tyro knows, and on nearly every public occasion he has played the role of little Jack Horner pulling out the plum of his Christmas pie and trumpeting to the world what a great man he is. We all know that the hon. gentleman is not only an extremely clever man in his profession, but possesses the art of combining in his person the rare accomplishments of a high Christian character and the wily arts of a Grit politician. He is verily a Tribune of the people. But it is indeed unfortunate for his countrymen that his lofty ideas cannot be comprehended by those people whom he loves so well. Many have endeavored to fathom those unfathomab'e depths, to pierce into the inmost recesses of that mind, but, alas! to no purpose. The Aurora speech is the nearest formulation we have of his political ideas, and with that, until there is a new development, we must be content.

Mr. Blake lives in a monarchical country, and with all due respect to his philosophical views, and his ideas of republican simplicity, it ill becomes him to sneer at honors Her Majesty has chosen to confer upon men who, with whatever faults they may have, deserve well of their country and of their sovereign. "The trappings of office and knighthood" has not even the merit of being a well-bred sneer, but was such as might be expected to come from the mouth of a green-eyed ward politician, or the emanation of a mind diseased, not from the refined lips of the immaculate Mr. Blake. British honors are conferred with a sparing hand, and many great and illustrious men are only too proud to be their recipients. The boast that "we were honored by the offer but respectfully declined" looks just a little like the height of egotism and conceit, with an everwhelming desire slightly hidden hereafter to live a la Pitt in the annals of the land as Edward Blake the Great Commoner.

Your obedient servant,

S.

CLOUGH vs. WESSELS.—Action on promissory note. Defendant is a farmer residing in Murray. In November last one Cole, as he alleges, came to his place and wanted him to act as an agent for the sale of sickle grinders. The prospect of making money easily was an inducement and the defendant consented, and an agreement was signed. In a few days after the party returned with what he termed the sample machine, and asked the deft. to sign a receipt for it that he might be able to show it to the company for whom he was acting. Deft. signed the paper produced, which as he says to his surprise turns out to be a note for $198, now in the hands of plaintiffs, merchants in Lennoxville, who sue to recover the amount. Verdict not given.—Clute and Blair for pl'ffs; Wallbridge and Delany & Ostrom for deft.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

A Shantyman Kills a Comrade and Cuts the Body into Quarters.

THE MURDERER AT LARGE.

Name of the Murdered man not Known.

PETERBORO, Dec. 21.—A report comes from the back country that a most horrible murder was committed last Thursday afternoon at one of Gilmour's shanties on Beaver Creek, County of Hastings. It seems that the cook, a man by the name of O'Brien, had some words with his mate or assistant at the dinner hour. When the men returned in the evening both were missing, the fire out, and no supper ready. Search was made, but no clue was found until the next morning, when the body of the mate, name unknown, was found under a log heap back of the shanty. He had been killed with a blow on the head, and the body cut in quarters. O'Brien was missing, but the clothes worn the day before were in the shanty covered with blood. As yet no word has been received of his whereabouts.

The Burning Question.

WHAT HON. MACKENZIE BOWELL HAD TO SAY.

(From the Montreal Star, Dec. 21.)

The Hon. the Minister of Customs was met at Hon Mr. Church's office, our representative introduced himself, when the following conversation took place:

"Anything but a newspaper man; I am an old one myself," replied the Minister, holding up his hands in abject horror.

"Are you going to seize the Pullman cars?"

"That depends: if it is necessary perhaps."

"Have you made a demand for bonds?"

"I never take bonds, it is against the law."

"Will you make a demand of any kind on the Company?"

"That depends"

"How about the seizure of the Persian lamb pelts?"

"Well, you can say that about forty men swear one way and forty swear another; so it is a pretty hard question to decide. It is in abeyance at present, at any rate."

"What have you done about the seizure of jewellery?"

"I am just going to consult my hon. friend here (Mr. Church) about it."

The Pullman matter is being worked up by Mr. James T. Wolfe, of the inspection staff of the Customs' Department, and, from reliable information, it is believed he has a good case to work upon.

The Minister of Customs leaves to-night for Ottawa.

MORTGAGE SALE

—OF—

VALUABLE FREEHOLD PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of the power of sale contained in certain indentures of mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, default having been made in the payment of the monys secured thereby, there will be offered for sale by public auction on at the hour of 12 o'clock, noon, at the Court House in the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings, by Charles Wilkins, auctioneer, the following property, namely:

Saturday, the Seventh Day of January, A. D., 1882,

All those certain parcels or tracts of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, being composed of lots numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, on the east side of McDonnell Street and south side of the Kingston Road, on a plan of lots for Henrietta and Isabella McDonnell, of a part of lots 7 and 8 in the 1st concession of the said Township of Thurlow, County of Hastings, by John J. Haslett, P.L.S., registered. There is upon the said premies a two story frame dwelling house, 24x36, with a cellar under the whole house; a kitchen attached, 24x24, and a cistern under same; a number of young fruit trees, and a well.

This property is well situated, adjoining the City of Belleville, in a good healthy locality, with good drainage, fine view of the Bay of Quinte, and all the advantages of the city with taxes at the low county rates.

The Vendor reserves to himself the right of one bidding.

Terms,—One tenth cash, and the balance in 30 days. Conditions of sale will be made known at the time of sale.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of Messrs. Clute & Williams, E. McMahon, and Robertson & Thomas, Belleville.

Dated at Belleville Dec. 7th, 1881.

City and Vicinity.

REMEMBER the promenade concert in the City Hall this evening.

REMINDER—all are invited to the Bible Study to-night in Bethel Hall, at 7:45.

COME and see the prize heifer at Britton & Geary's, Bridge St., near lower bridge. 1t.

BISHOP CARMAN publicly inaugurated the faculty of Alma College at St. Thomas on the 21st.

THE apron bazaar in the City Hall to-day has not been very well attended on account of the rain.

THE nomination for School Trustees in the city occurs on Wednesday, the 28th inst., in the different Wards.

THE London papers speak highly of the reading of M'me Georgen, who is to appear here on the evening of the 9th prox.

THE Ladies' Aid Society of Christ Church now report that the total amount realized over expenses at their recent Bazaar is $300.

DAVID CONNORS was yesterday sentenced by Judge Lazier to four months in the Central Prison for the larceny of a horse and buggy.

CONSIDERING the state of the weather, there was a good market this morning, the attendance of both buyers and sellers being quite large.

CHRISTMAS decorations are not a Christian custom, essentially. The notion was borrowed from the old Druids, who were anything but Christians.

THOSE who contemplate "swearing off" from bad habits on January 1st will find it to their advantage to wrestle with the present month on probation.

DR. WILD lectured in Trenton night before last and told the people of that town what he knew about the visit of the Prophet Jeremiah to Ireland.

THE tower of the Campbellford Woollen Mills is one of the most massive in the Province. It is 120 feet high, and is surmounted by an ornamental iron cap weighing six tons.

THE annual ball to be given by No. 2 Independent Hose Company in the City Hall on Monday evening next, the 26th inst., will doubtless be well patronized, as it deserves to be.

ALL the members of Mr. Lingham's Committees are requested to attend the meeting in the INTELLIGENCER building to-night. Those who have not been named on the Committees are also invited.

THE barns of Mr. Jasper Lock, in Seymour East, were burned on Wednesday afternoon. They contained 1,500 bushels of grain and a very large quantity of hay. Amount of insurance, if any, not yet ascertained. Cause of fire unknown.

THE holiday times, when the stores are crowded, afford sneak thieves and shoplifters excellent opportunities for pursuing their avocations. Clerks should therefore keep a sharp eye on all suspicious persons who lounge about the vicinity of the counters.

NEXT! A good meal for a fast man—Hasty pudding.—Boston Courier. A good lunch for a beat—Sponge cake.—Yawcob Strauss. Ditto for an architect—Plumb pudding.—Ex. For Dr. Watters, of West Northumberland—Humble pie. For a bad-tempered mother—Slap-jacks.

IT is quite possible that those of our citizens who take pleasure in rare experiences will be able to repeat this year the experience of four years ago—namely, enjoying an excursion by water on Christmas Day. Unless the weather takes a sudden dip, it is even probable that such may be the case. People are now crossing the bay in boats.

Two silver cups have been given by the Marquis of Lorne for competition amongst the curling clubs of Canada, one for iron and the other for stone playing. Clubs competing must play match games between 2nd and 3rd of January inclusive, and returns sent in to Lieut. Col. DeWinton not later than 10th of February, giving particulars of play, notices of the state of the ice, whether played with granite or iron stones, and whether played in open air ice or in covered rink. The rules and regulations under which the matches are to be played are quite lengthy. Will the local club compete this year for these trophies?

L. O. L. No. 256, Holloway, held their annual meeting on Dec. 6th. The following officers were elected and installed for the current year: Robert Juby, W.M.; John Townsend, D.M.; Wm. Townsend, Chap.; Dan'l Cook, Sec.; Jno. Irvin, Treas.; Geo. Rose, D. of C. Committeemen; Jno. Juby, Jas. Bushell, Stephen Mack, Sim'n Elliott, Sam'l Kelly. After the Lodge closed, the members proceeded to Bro. George Rose's, where a sumptuous oyster supper was provided in grand style, which was highly creditable to Mrs. Rose; and after justice had been done to the good things, they separated with three hearty cheers for the Queen, and three for Bro. George Rose.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 22.—Lakes, easterly to southerly winds and rainy, mild weather followed to-morrow by high northerly to westerly winds, and colder weather.

BIG TIMBER.—The Peterborough Review says: "On the limits of Messrs. R. & G. Strickland, in the township of Oakley, in Victoria County, in the shanty of which Capt. Leon Dion is foreman, a liner named Lach. McLean recently made in one day two pieces of timber, one forty seven feet in length by thirty five inches girth, and the other forty-five feet, by thirty-five inches. McLean is an old liner who has made timber both in Michigan and Canada, and he says he has never before made as big or as nice timber as he is making in Oakley."

BOOK NOTICE.—We have received from the World Publishing Company, of Guelph, a copy of the recently published work by James D. McCabe, "The Life and Public Services of Gen. James A. Garfield." This is probably the most complete, voluminous and correct of the many biographies of the late President which have been issued, and is, from a literary point of view, worthy of the subject. The work is well bound in leather, but the illustrations are not in keeping with the rest of the work, being somewhat coarsely executed, though no doubt they give an accurate idea of the persons, places and incidents which they are intended to represent.

A FALSE REPORT.—It was reported yesterday that another threshing machine boiler explosion had occurred on the farm of Mr. S. M. Herrington, in Prince Edward, but we are glad to find, upon inquiry, that the report is not correct. The facts of the case are that a steam thresher was at work on the farm of Mr. Herrington on Tuesday last, and that one of the tubes had been burst by the frost, but had not been noticed. After threshing about twenty bushels of wheat the machine was stopped, when the steam broke a box on the main shaft, causing an escape of steam, but neither injuring or scaring any one. We are glad to hear that Mr. Huntley, who was said to have been thrown some twenty feet, was not injured in the least. No doubt the report was circulated by interested parties, with a view of injuring the owners of steam threshers.

POLICE COURT.—To-day was a gala-day at the Police Court, and the city's exchequer has received large additions. The following carters were fined each $1.00 and $2.50 costs for neglecting to obtain licenses:—Alex. Patterson, Stephen Wade, John Grotto, Jas. Hill, Cornelius Williamson, Alex. Blondeau, Stephen O'Toole, Barney Conway, Richard Walsh and Geo. Roblin. Sixteen other persons were also charged with neglecting to register their dogs. Of these ten were fined $1.00 each, with $2.00 costs. Their names are as follows:—John Miller, Thos. Hanley, John Everett, John Hamilton, Geo. Colby, Michael Meagher, John Johnston, William Harris, Wm. Black and Daniel Blondeau. The cases of Geo. Lamon, David Cahill, Thos. Frizzel and John Boullioun were dismissed, and that of F. Dolan was enlarged. Thos. Fahey, up on remand for drunkenness, was dismissed.

"ENGAGED."—The Histrionic Association gave one of the most successful performances last evening that has ever been given under the auspices of the Association. The large and select audience which had assembled in the Metropolitan Hall were kept in constant good-humor (often indeed in boisterous laughter) from the rising of the curtain to the going down of the same in each act, and the interest of the piece was not allowed to lag for a moment. "Engaged" is a comedy that sparkles with fun and satire in almost every sentence, but it requires good acting to bring out the slyer and more hidden touches of humor. The acting last night would have been creditable to a professional company, and, considered as amateur acting, it merits more than ordinary praise. A large share of the success of the performance is due to Miss Fones for her really excellent and artistic acting in the part of Belinda Treherne. We have already referred to this young lady as a reader, and had occasion to eulogize her; but, good as she is as a reader, she is far better as an actress: she possesses in an unusual degree the true dramatic instinct which enables her to know, without instruction, just what to do, where to be, and how to look, at the proper time. We hope soon to see her in a character better fitted to her undoubtedly great talents. Miss Smith as Maggie was an almost ideal Scotch lassie, and acted with a coyness and archness that quite charmed the audience. Miss Stanton's Minnie Simperson was a good performance of a rather difficult part: her lines were spoken with a mock simplicity and artlessness which on more than one occasion "brought down the house." Miss O'Hare made a very piquant Parker, and Mrs. Dawson a comical Mrs. McFarlane. Of the male characters, that of Cheviot Hill, performed by Mr. D. K. I. McKinnon, was, of course, the most prominent. The eccentricities of the character were well brought out by Mr. McKinnon, and he proved himself almost as successful in high as he is acknowledged to be in low comedy. Mr. Burdett's Belvawney was very creditable to the histrionic qualities of that young gentleman, whilst the Simperson of Mr. Strachan, the Angus of Mr. Kennedy, and the Macgillicuddy of Mr. Roy were faithful representations. The stage was excellently set, and well managed. The drawing-room scene, in which was a fine parlor suite kindly loaned for the occasion by Mr. Tickell, was very pretty. The audience were somewhat surprised by the rich and massive wedding-cake that appeared on the stage: it was kindly furnished for the occasion by Mr. Wallace, confectioner. On the whole, the performance was a great success, and the Association are to be congratulated on the result.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

Promotion Examination to Fourth Class.

This examination was held in the Central School building on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 19th and 20th. Thirty pupils from the different divisions of the city schools in which the third class is taught, presented themselves for examination. Below is a list of the successful candidates, arranged in order of merit, with the teachers who trained them and the marks obtained by each:

Maximum, 375. Minimum, 235.

| Name. | Teacher. | Marks. |
|---|---|---|
| 1. Jellett, Harold | Miss Northcott, | 300 |
| 2. Osborne, Sarah, | Miss Clarke, | 269 |
| 3. Beasley, Maggie | Miss Northcott, | 265 |
| 4. McCrudden, Etta | Miss Clark, | 260 |
| 5. Stanton, Harry | Miss Clarke, | 241 |
| 6. Stortts, John | Mr. Armistead, | 236 |
| 7. Philpott, Herbert | Miss Clarke, | 235 |

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The Tribune says that there appears to be more complaint than usual in some quarters with reference to the formation of the House Committees. Most of it comes from western men, free traders and Democrats. The Ways and Means Committee is emphatically on the side of the policy of protection. It is even said by some that the plan of appointing a Tariff Commission will not find favor with the Committee. The Committees on Banking, Currency and Coinage have Chairmen who are for hard money and single standard. Their Committees, however, are against them and will not be in accord with the recommendation of Folger respecting the silver dollar and silver certificate.

The most striking occurrence in the trial yesterday was Guiteau's own revelation of his growing fear that he will be convicted. He never abused Scoville so freely for what he calls his brother-in-law's stupidity, but which is in reality the force of testimony which Scoville cannot break by cross-examination, and which a much more skilful cross-examiner could not break, and every blow of which the assassin shows he feels in his inmost soul. Every day adds to the prospective length of the trial.

The Times says: The Committee on Ways and Means is very decidedly protection. It is understood, however, that Kelly, its chairman, has reached the conclusion that some revision of the tariff is necessary, and purposes to devote himself to the preparation of a tariff bill that will be at least approximately fair to all interests.

It is the opinion of the officers of the navy department that when Commander Delong is heard from it will appear that he was the first to discover that Wrangleland was an island.

Commodore Daskraft, of the Hydrographic office in Iceland, believes the Jeanette reached high latitude and had been boating about in the polar sea till provisions for only one year remained, and at the time of the disaster Delong was attempting to reach the Siberian coast, with a view of establishing a station or a harbor of refuge. The disaster to the Jeannette occurred almost to a day at the time of the sailing of the Rodgers from San Francisco, and the Alliance from Hampton Roads, both in search of the Jeannette.

The Herald says that a prominent naval officer, now in Europe, writes to the Secretary of the Navy:—"I find that other services are dissatisfied as well as our own with the present condition of ships and guns. The very great advance made in the last two years in experimental ordnance left the navies of England and France as well as of the smaller powers, with ships penetrable with ease by modern guns, and like ourselves without guns, since very few and those only experimental have yet been made. England owns but one ship armed with recent ordnance. Her effective iron clad fleet has dwindled to a half dozen ships, which could be penetrated by the pieces of moderate calibre carried by unarmed ships.

The Sun says New York has no representative on the Ways and Means Committee. It is doubtful whether such an omission ever occurred before in the history of Congress.

THE BIG STEAL AT NEWARK.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 22.—The confession of the city auditor Palmer, who embezzled $125,000, was precipitated by the prospect of an early exposure through investigation by an expert, ordered by the Common Council at the request of the Mayor. Other men are supposed to be implicated.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

ANOTHER ARCTIC SEARCH.

It is stated that the Admiralty has decided to send vessels in search of Leigh Smith, the Arctic explorer, next spring.

STEAMSHIP MOVEMENTS.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 22.—Arrived, Wisconsia.
NEW YORK, Dec. 22—Arrived, Nevada and Bothnia from Liverpool, France from Havre, Thingvolla from Copenhagen, Westphalia from Hamburg.

PARNELL IN ARMAGH GAOL.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Parnell arrived in Armagh last night, and was escorted to jail without being recognized.

THE NEWARK DEFALCATION.

NEWARK, N. J. Dec. 22.—The revelation of the embezzlement of the city funds creates intense excitement. Measures have been taken for the thorough overhauling of all the departments. Auditor Palmer remains in gaol utterly demoralized, sustained by stimulants, and is unable to see anybody but his counsel. The City Treasurer, Winans, has been suspended. Policemen had charge of his office last night and this morning. The Chairman of the Finance Committee took possession of the Comptroller's. The Chief Clerk, Wm. Hall, has disappeared. Detectives are pursuing him. He is suspected of collusion in the auditor's robberies. The Mayor has called a special meeting of the Common Council tonight to take action on the revelations.

—The Emperor of Austria has decided to erect a memorial to the victims of the Ring Theatre disaster, by the founding of a charitable institution on the site of the theatre.

—The discovery of a series of Nihilist plots of a most extensive and serious nature is reported from St. Petersburg. The conspirators, it is said, now carry dynamite bombs concealed in oranges, so as to be ready for any favorable opportunity for murder that may arise.

—Nothing further has been heard of the crew of boat No. 2 of the Jeannette party, but steps are being taken for a thorough search. In the meantime the members of the party already landed are having every requisite in the shape of food, clothing, etc., placed at their disposal.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debility, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Multitudes of people who have been in mortal dread of rheumatism, neuralgia and other painful diseases, now rest perfectly easy, knowing full well that St. Jacobs Oil will cure those troublesome ailments without possibility of failure.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&w1y

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

PROCLAMATION.

IT having been the time-honored custom for generations to celebrate "Christmas Day" in commemoration of the birth of our Saviour, and for the re-union and rejoicing of families and communities, and whereas in consequence of the 25th day of December falling upon Sunday the present year, the Dominion and Provincial Governments have recommended that Monday, the 26th day of December next, be observed instead thereof.

Now, therefore, by and with the advice of the Aldermen of this city, I proclaim

as general holidays and days of rejoicing, and enjoin upon all good citizens to observe the same in a becoming and reverential manner.

N. H. DOWNS' N. H. DOWNS' ELIXIR

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable; the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

She staggered and fell, but caught herself upon her knees, and flinging her arms round his, lifted up her earnest imploring face, crying 'Father—father! papa, papa! for my sake—for your sake—for all our sakes—oh, give it me! give it to me!'

'Give you what? what do you mean? what are you thinking about?' endeavoring to escape from her clasping arms. 'Have done, and let me alone; will you have done? will you let me alone?' fiercely, angrily endeavoring again to push her away.

'No, never—never—never! till you give me—'

'What?'

'That!'

'That!' he cried. Then, as if recollecting himself, he endeavored, as it seemed, to master his agitation, and said more calmly, 'Let me be, Ella! and if it will be any consolation to you, I will thrust the bottle into the fire. But, you foolish girl, what do you gain by closing one exit, when there are open ten thousand as good?'

Disengaging himself from her relaxing arms, he walked up to the fire-place, and thrust the phial between the bars. It broke as he did so, and there was a strong smell of bitter almonds. She had risen from her knees. She followed him, and again laid that hand upon his arm—that soft, fair hand, of whose beauty he was wont to be so proud. It trembled violently now; but as if impelled with unwonted courage, and an energy inspired by the occasion, she ventured upon that which it was long since any one ever had presumed to offer to Gulian Winstanley—upon a plain-spoken remonstrance.

'Papa,' she said 'promise me that you will never—never—never again—'

'Do what?'

'Make an attempt upon your life—if I must speak out,' she said, with a spirit that astonished him.

'Attempt my life? What should I attempt my life for?' said he, and he glanced round the scene of luxury which surrounded him. He was continuing, in a tone of irony—but it would not do. He sank upon a sofa, and covering his face with his hands, groaned—'Yes—yes, Ella! all you say is true. I am a wrath who is unworthy to—and more—who will not live.' He burst forth at last with a loud voice; and his hands falling from his face, displayed a countenance dark with a sort of resolute despair. 'No—no—no!—death, death!—annihilation—and forgetfulness! Why did you come in to interrupt me, girl?' he added, roughly seizing her by the arm.

'Because—I know not—something—Oh! it was the good God, surely, who impelled me,' she cried, bursting into tears. 'Oh, papa! papa! Do not! do not! Think of us all—your girls—Cle, and I. You used to love us, papa——'

'Do you know what has happened?'

'Yes—no. I believe you have lost a great deal of money at cards.'

'Cards—was it? Let it be. It may as well be cards. Yes, child, I have lost a large sum of money at cards—and more,' he added, setting his teeth, and speaking in a sort of hissing whisper—'more than I can exactly pay.'

'Oh, papa! don't say so. Consider—only look round you. Surely you have the means to pay! We can sell—we can make any sacrifice—any sacrifice on earth to pay. Only think, there are all these things. There is all the plate—my mother's diamonds—there is——'

He let her run on a little while; then, in a cool, almost mocking tone, he said—

'I have given a bill of sale for all that, long ago.'

'A bill of sale? What is a bill of sale?'

'Well! It's a thing which passes one man's property into the hands of another man, to make what he can of it. And the poor dupe who took my bill of sale, took it for twice as much as the things would really bring; but the rascal thought he had no alternative. I was a fool to give it to him, for the dice were loaded. If it were the last word I had to speak, I would say it—the dice were loaded——'

'But—but——'

'What? you want to hear all about it, do you? Well, its a bad business. I thought I had a right to a run of luck, after all my ill fortune. I calculated the chances: they were overwhelmingly in my favor. I staked my zero against another man's thousands—never mind how many—and I lose, and have only my zero to offer in payment. That is to say, my note of hand; and how much do you think that is worth, my girl? I would rather—I would rather,' he added, passionately, changing his tone of levity for one of the bitterest despair—'I would rather be dead—dead, dead—than——'

'Oh, papa! papa! say it not! say it not! It is real. Such things are not mere words. They are real, father, father!—Die! You must not die.'

'I have little cause to wish to die,' he said, relapsing again into a sort of gloomy carelessness; 'so that I could see any other way out of it. To be sure, one might run—one might play the part of a cowardly, dishonorable rascal, and run for it, Ella, if you like that better. Between suicide and the escapade of a defaulter, there is not much to choose; but I will do as you like.'

'I would not willingly choose your dishonor,' said she, shuddering; 'but between the dishonor of the one course or the other, there seems little to choose. Only—only—if you lived, in time you might be able to pay. Men have lived, and labored, until they have paid all.'

'Live and labor—very like me! Live, and labor, until I have paid all—extremely like me! Lower a mountain by spadefuls.'

'Even spadefuls,' she said; her understanding and her heart seemed both suddenly ripened in this fearful extremity—'even spadefuls at a time have done something—have lowered mountains, where there was determination and perseverance.'

'But suppose there was neither. Suppose there was neither courage, nor goodness, nor determination, nor perseverance. Suppose the man had lived a life of indolent self-indulgence, until, squeeze him as you would, there was not one drop of virtue left in him. Crush him, as fate is crushing me at this moment; and I tell you, you will get nothing out of him. Nothing—nothing. He is more worthless than the most degraded beast. Better to die as a beast, and go where the beasts go.'

She turned ghastly pale at this terrible speech—but, 'No,' she faltered out—'no—no!'

'You will not have me die, then?' he said, pursuing the same heartless tone; but it was forced, if that were any excuse for him. 'Then you prefer the other scheme? I thought,' he went on, to have supped with Pluto to-night; but you prefer that it should be on board an American steamer.'

'I do,' she gasped, rather than uttered.

'You do—you are sure you do?' said he, suddenly assuming a tone of greater seriousness. 'You wish, Ella, to preserve this worthless life? Have you considered at what expense?'

'Expense! How! Who could think of that?' she answered.

'Oh! not the expense of money, child—at the expense of the little thing called 'honor.' Listen to me, Ella,'—and again he took her arm, and turned her poor distracted face to his. 'You see I am ready to die—but I have no wish to die. Worthless as this wretched life of mine is, it has its excitements, and its enjoyments, to me. When I made up my mind to end it, I assure you, child, I did the one only generous thing I ever was guilty of in my life; for I did it for you girls' sakes, as much or more, than for my own. Suicide, some think a wicked thing—I don't. How I got my life, I don't know; the power of getting rid of it is mine, and I hold myself at liberty to make use of it or not, at my own good pleasure. As for my ever living to pay my debt, it's folly to talk of it. I have not, and never shall acquire, the means. I have neither the virtue nor the industry. I tell you, I am utterly good for nothing. I am a 'rascal'—a scoundrel, and a despicable knave. I played for a large sum—meaning to take it if I won it—and not being able to pay, I lost it—and that, I have still sense of honor enough left to call a rascally proceeding. Now there is one way, and one way only, of cancelling all this in the eye of the world. When a man destroys himself, the world is sorry for him—half inclined to forgive him—to say the least of it, absolves his family. But—if he turn tail—and sneak away to America, and has so little sense"—he went on, passionately and earnestly—" of all that is noble, and faithful, and honorable, that he can bear to drag on a disgraced, contemptible existence, like a mean, pitiful, cowardly, selfish wretch, as he is—why, then—then—he is utterly blasted, and blackened over infamy! Nobody feels for him, nobody pities him—the world speaks out, and curses the rascal as heartily as he deserves—and all his family perish with him. Now, Ella, choose which you will.'

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

:o:

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881.
C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.
MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly.

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

English Boys in Slavery.

SOLD TO AN ARAB SHOWMAN AND BARBAROUSLY TREATED BY HIM.

(From a Letter to the Editor of the London Times.)

Doubtless many of your readers have either seen or read the advertisement of the "Original and Genuine Troupe of Beni-zoug-zoug Bedouin Arabs," who performed, if I mistake not, at, among other places, the Royal Aquarium, Westminster. They were highly spoken of at the time by many of the journals, and were doubtless deemed by most to be, as they pretended, "genuine Arabs." Many of the tumblers were very young, very agile, and very clever, but I suspect few of those who criticised them had a notion that, out of 20 juveniles, 14 were not real Beni-zoug-zoug Bedouins (if there are such persons), but were of a very different tribe, viz., the common street Arab of London. Still less did anyone suspect that they had been sold into slavery as abject and as brutal, too, as any probably which exists anywhere in the world. Yet so it is.

I was last month in Constantinople, and there, "from information received," I was induced to enquire from our humane and active Consul-General, Mr. Fawcett, into the truth of certain matters which I had heard. I understood that an Englishman, I know not whether conscience-stricken or not, had complained as to the treatment of two of his sons in the troupe. I understood further that he alleged that many of these lads (who had performed before the Sultan as Arabs) were English, and partly by my own enquiry and inspection, and partly through the courtesy of the Consul General, I learned the following facts: That 14 English boys, all born of London parents, had been sold at ages varying from 3 years and 10 months to 6 years, for terms varying from 10 to 14 years, to a French Arab calling himself Hadjali ben Mohammed, for sums from 30s. to 50s. each. These poor lads have been with their owner half over Europe, and are now in Constantinople, and this is their condition as I saw it. They were housed in a Turkish house in the most Turkish quarter of Stamboul. In the absence of their owner I succeeded in gaining admission. The stench on the lower floor was past description, and absolutely intolerable, even to a nose which was acclimatized to the thousand and one stenches of Stamboul, and it was not till I had the aid of a cigarette that I ventured to ascend the staircase cautiously, watched by the ladies of the establishment, the elder a one-eyed and very stout reproduction of Mrs. Squeers, who was anything but pleased with my intrusion; the younger, a lady who performs at a not very high-class cafe chantant at Pera.

I thus saw these poor little creatures on a "surprise" visit. They were huddled together in a room about fifteen feet square, the sole furniture of which was a few boxes containing their tumbling dresses. They were horribly dirty, barefooted, and clad solely in a pair of baggy Turkish trousers and an old filthy man's shirt. There was no washing place in or near the room. There was no bed, and they told me they were fed from a large round tin pot with some stew or skilley, the solid parts of which they tore with their hands, while the liquid part they drank from pannikins. They never tasted tea, coffee, or other drink than water, and had no food other than this disgusting mixture and bread. They were never allowed to dress decently save to perform, nor were they ever allowed to quit the house save for the same purpose. They had no toys, games, or amusements, nor were they allowed any other pastime but practising their acrobatic performances.

All had their heads and many their bodies covered with scars, partly the result of their owner's brutality, partly of wounds from falls caused in learning their miserable trade. Few of them could speak English. Some could speak French and some nothing but Arabic. They have never been in a place of worship in their lives. They are ignorant of the very name of God, and not one of them can read or write a line of any language under the sun. I grieve to say that, save the Arabs, all are, as I have said, of London parentage. No other Christian nation seems to have produced any such degraded parents to the hand of Hadjali ben Mohammed.

Through the courtesy of the Foreign Officer I am enabled to state that Mr. Fawcett has reported these facts home (since this letter was written the boys have been released) and asked for instructions, and has since telegraphed stating that he fears the troupe is about to leave for the interior, which latter statement I also have had confirmed from Constantinople. Lord Granville had in the first instance telegraphed to have two boys, whose father is willing to receive them, sent home as distressed British subjects; but of the other twelve, some of them, mere babies, were still at the mercy of Hadjali ben Mohammed, as there seemed a doubt whether any department or Government could charge itself with them if their parents are unwilling or unable to take them. The matter was at once submitted by Lord Granville for the consideration of the Home office, but meantime the doom of these lads might have been sealed. I therefore applied to Dr. Barnardo to temporarily take charge of the poor waifs at his excellent home, and he, with the greatest kindness, at once consented in the most benevolent terms. I am happy to state that Lord Granville has now seen his way to directing Mr. Fawcett to take such steps as he legally can for sending home these other 12 poor little ones as distressed British subjects.

A Horned Trotter.

(New York Sun.)

F. L. Haight, of 152 Sullivan street, is interested in a steer of alleged phenomenal powers. The steer is in Pennsylvania, but Mr Haight does not care to say exactly in what part of the State, because some speculators might get at the steer and reap a harvest.

"He is what you might call a remarkable animal," said Mr. Haight, "and was born to trot. When he was a little calf, instead of jumping and gamboling on the green like other calves, he would set his head and spin off a square trot for a quarter stretch. This created some comment, because the little Turk would make big time, and he was encouraged. He is only three years old now, and as gentle as a lamb, but he can pull a sulky over a mile of soft road in four minutes, and just get warmed up at that. His name is Novelty Boy, and he is strong on a three-mile trot. He's got big speed in him, and it can be brought out by straight training."

Mr. Haight then produced a photograph of Novelty Boy, standing between the shafts of a light racing sulky, looking very sleepy in the off eye. His fore legs are very short and his back long, but the under part of his body curves up, giving him a greyhound build. He is driven in a light racing harness, with a collar that opens at the lower end. He is steered with ease by two reins attached to the base of his horns. Novelty Boy is pure white, with amber horns.

—Mr. John Kelly, who resides near Norwood, was on Tuesday last shot at by a ruffian to whom he was giving a ride in his waggon, but fortunately escaped without injury.

Great Mortality from Snakes and Tigers in India.

It may be startling to Europeans to learn that no fewer than 21,990 persons were killed in India during the year 1880 by snakes and tigers. It is, too, at first sight, eminently unsatisfactory to hear that this loss of life, instead of decreasing with the advance of civilization, has actually increased during the past five years; the number of victims in 1876 did not exceed 19,273. This statement appears almost incredible, and requires explanation which will probably be found in the greater accuracy with which cases of death have been returned in India in recent years. The largest fatality from snakes and wild beasts occurs in the Bengal Presidency, where during last year 10,064 persons are said to have died from snake bites, and 259 to have been killed by tigers. It appears from the weekly returns issued by the Sanitary Commissioner of the Punjaub that during the fortnight ending August 27th last no fewer than 113 deaths resulted from snake bites in fifty-two of the largest cities of that province —equal to nearly 3,000 per annum. As the fatality from this cause is probably larger in the rural than in the town districts, it is evident that the province of Punjab must be responsible for a very large proportion of the excessive fatality from this cause in the Bengal Presidency.—London Lancet.

U. S. Postal Service.

The Postmaster General's report shows that the total cost of the postal service for the last fiscal year was $39,251,736 46, and that the total receipts were $36,786,397.97, showing a deficiency of $2,466,338.49, to which must be added $14,790.86 for "bad debts," making a total deficit of $2,481,129,-35 to be supplied out of the General Treasury.

Postmaster-General James says that the deficiency of postal revenue to meet the expenses of the system does not arise from the transportation of letters or newspapers, but from the transportation of third and fourth-class mail matter, in respect to which Congress has made the postal department "a common carrier of merchandise" at rates that are below cost, and from the further fact that too much is paid to railways for their service. He thinks that these sources of deficiency might and should be remedied by legislation. He adds that, if the suggestions made by him shall be carried into effect "the reduction of letter postage from three to two cents will be possible within three years."

We heartily approve of the suggestions made by Mr. James, and at the same time qualify his statement in regard to letter postage by saying that the rate ought to be placed at one cent for each letter not above a certain weight fixed by law. Our theory on this subject is that the primary and legitimate function of the postal service is to transmit intelligence and diffuse knowledge, and not to do the business of a common carrier; and that letters, newspapers and ordinary periodicals, now embraced in first and second-class mail matter, are the direct means of realizing this end. The postal charges on such matter should be reduced to the lowest practicable rate, so that the widest, broadest, and cheapest facilities may be afforded for the freest and largest intercourse of the people with each other. There certainly should not be a high rate of postage on letters to help make up the loss incurred in carrying merchandize. We do not object to the postal carriage of merchandize within proper limits; but we do decidedly object to charging any part of the cost to letter postage. Let the merchandize stand on its own merits, and make it, at the least, pay the cost of the carriage. To charge any part of the cost to the many who send letters and want newspapers is neither politic or just.

The one-cent postal-card, of comparatively modern date, was a very wise conception and has proved of immense service to the people. The Government furnishes the paper, prints the cards, sells it to any purchaser for one cent, and then carries it anywhere, at his direction, within the United States, and that, too, without loss to itself. Is there any reason why it cannot carry an ordinary letter, which it does not furnish, at as cheap a rate? None that we can see. It takes no more time or labor and costs no more to handle and transport a letter than it does to do the same with a postal-card. If the one cent rate for the postal card is a good idea, then the one cent rate for a letter is just as good an idea, Why not? What is the postal card but one form of a letter? We believe that such a reduction of the rate would, by the resulting increase of letters, very soon, if not at once, augment the postal receipts, without a corresponding increase of cost. Postal cards have worked in this way, and there is no reason why the same should not be true as to letters. We have had two reductions on letter postage —one in 1845 and the other in 1851—the latter bringing the rate down to three cents, and nobody now doubts the wisdom of these reductions. Let us have another reduction, bringing the rate down to one cent; and after the experiment has been tried for five years, no one will doubt its wisdom or wish to go back to the three-cent rate.—N. Y. Independent.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world, for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 23.

Our Christmas Number.

With Saturday's issue of the DAILY INTELLIGENCER will be presented a supplemental sheet containing fourteen columns of choice literature, specially suited for perusal in the home circle during the Christmas season. The contents of this additional sheet are as follows: "John Paul," a cleverly told story of a tramp, from Harper's Weekly, with the three illustrations which accompanied it in that excellent periodical; "Nellie's Christmas Eve," a delightful fairy story, specially written for the very young readers of the INTELLIGENCER by J. L. L.; "A Kiss under the Mistletoe," a pleasing love story; together with a variety of seasonable poetry and miscellany of a high order of merit. This supplemental sheet is in addition to the thirty-two column paper usually issued on Saturdays, and which will contain a sermon by Dr. Talmage, an instalment of "Toby Tylor," and all the other popular features.

Saturday's issue of the INTELLIGENCER will thus contain a larger amount of reading matter than has ever been previously published in a daily newspaper in Belleville, and as the demand for copies is certain to be large and the issue is limited, those who wish to ensure the supply of their wants will oblige by leaving their orders at the business office at any time before 10 a.m. on Saturday. We cannot guarantee the filling of orders received after that hour.

Advertisers who wish to take advantage of this special opportunity must hand in their favors before 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Manufacturers, Workingmen and the Tariff.

No one of the numerous and varied assertions of the free-traders as to the effects of the tariff has been more persistently adhered to than that, whilst a few so-called "monopolists," including the "cotton lords" and the "sugar robbers" were making fortunes, the business of the great majority of the manufacturers was prejudicially affected by the N. P. Mr. Blake and the Globe have iterated and reiterated this assumption so often, that doubtless they had come to regard it as true; but when put to the proof in the West Northumberland election, the falsity of their imaginings was made clear to them in a most unmistakable manner. There are in Cobourg several large manufactories of the class that the free-traders have held were injured by the tariff, and the proprietors of some of these establishment had been Grits, but instead of marshalling their forces in opposition to the N. P., these gentlemen, to the intense disgust of Mr. Blake and the Globe, actively assisted the Government candidate and voted for him; and, worse than all, the workingmen—whose woes under a protective tariff have formed the theme for many eloquent discourses and philosophic and windy editorials from the free-trade orators and press respectively—actually followed the example of their employers and voted in favor of continuing the present state of affairs.

That the Globe is disgusted at the non-success of free-trade teachings—that it is annoyed at the exposure of the humbugging nature of the assertions above alluded to—is apparent in the editorial that it devotes to the subject, in which, with the impudence characteristic of doctrinaires, it tells the manufacturers and their workmen that they do not know what is best for them, and threatens them with the vengeance of the farmers when the next election takes place.

This is the old game of bluster, brag and impudent assumption; but fortunately the threats of the Globe have no longer any terrors, the power of the organ having departed. In fact, there are many who court the opposition of the Globe, which, where it is best known, is sufficient to elect any one. For that paper to say to the manufacturers and workingmen of Ontario that they do not know their own interests, is to insult them as badly as it did the farmers just after the election of 1878, and the result will be to make them still more earnest in support of a policy which has proved highly beneficial to them, as to all other classes.

When the Globe threatens the urban voters with the "vengeance" of the agricultural class, its utterances must be regarded as a mere rhetorical flourish, for the farmers are too wide awake to their own interest to seek to revert to a policy which placed United States corn, oats and wheat on our market free of duty, without any compensation to the Canadian producer of these classes of grain. The organ would fain array class against class, but its threats are futile, the West Northumberland election demonstrating conclusively that in the rural districts there is little or no change since 1878.

To assert that the manufacturers compelled their employees to vote for the Conservative candidate, is such utter bosh that the Globe ought to be ashamed of it. The method of balloting for members of the House of Commons ensures absolute secrecy, and the working men know the fact as well as does any member of the Globe's staff, therefore the value of any statement that men were coerced in any given election for the Commons bears the impress of untruth on its face.

If, however, it is any comfort to the Opposition to have trumped-up reasons given them for their defeat, and to have threats served up to them daily in place of argument, in which they have hitherto been badly worsted, well and good. They may by such means be induced to believe that success awaits them in 1883; but the reality will be all the more disappointing after the election has taken place.

Editorial Brevities.

As to the "moral victory" won by the free-traders in West Northumberland, the Toronto Telegram makes the following pungent remarks: "The road to parliamentary fame is lined with moral victories, just as a certain place is declared to be paved with good intentions. But a moral victory does not count in division, nor will a whole host of them turn a Government out of office."

The Grit leaders when on the stump fiercely attack the Government for, as they allege, increasing the cost of the Civil Service. The Ottawa organ of the party takes a contrary view, saying:

> When the Liberals were in power they were more just and generous to the Civil Service than the Conservatives have been. The bonus to be of real benefit should be given at once and freely, during the holidays. Mr. Mackenzie did not haggle over the matter when it was laid before him.

Contrasting the statements of the Opposition orators and of the Ottawa Free Press, the reader can have no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that the course of the Government has been just about right.

The female land leaguers, with the object of avoiding the suppression of their organization, have removed to England, where the league organ, United Ireland, is now published. The circulation of this precious periodical is not likely to be very large.

Sir Stafford Northcote, the Conservative leader in the British House of Commons, recently declared that he would not criticize the action of the Government with regard to Irish affairs, because the troubles there were not due to the policy of the Administration. Such magnanimity is seemingly beyond the conception of such men as at present lead the Opposition in Canada, but Sir John A. Macdonald's declaration in 1877, that if the Mackenzie Government would endeavor to aid the depressed industries of the country by legislation, he would assist them, was on a par with Sir Stafford's generous annunciation.

An International Arctic Expedition.

An Anglo-American arctic expedition is being energetically organized by Commander Cheyne, R. N., at a combined cost between the two countries of $80,000. The enterprise was perfected for the double purpose of rendering aid to the missing Jeannette, and making a direct attempt to reach the North Pole. The first of these two objects has, however, been accomplished.

Though Commander Cheyne has brought forward a somewhat novel idea, in that ballooning will become a great feature in the expedition; and though some may express doubts of the final success through the employment of such means, yet we certainly have it recorded that this officer's plan, as laid before the New York Academy of Science, by means of one of his lucid lectures in the Hall of Medicine before an overflowing audience of scientific men, and as also by the same means unfolded before the Professors of Princeton University, has received from both those important bodies an unanimous verdict of approval, in addition to which facts the City of Elizabeth, N. J., has already, in response to two lectures delivered there, started the organization of the first American Arctic Committee, having for its President the Hon. John Davidson. This appears to be practical work in the right direction, and we doubt not according to general wishes that the funds necessary for the equipment of this Anglo-American Expedition will be speedily forthcoming. We are happy to learn that Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, U. S. A., has volunteered to accompany this enterprise as a representative of America, provided he obtains Government permission, of which there can be no reasonable doubt.

Commander Cheyne will represent the interests of England. Visits will be made to the principal cities and towns in the United States for the purpose of stirring up a general interest on the subject by means of graphic lectures, and we learn that a special invitation has been received by Capt. Cheyne from the Premier and Minister of Finance of Canada to go to Ottawa and a promise of letters of introduction from the Government to other Canadian cities for the purpose of laying the plan before the Canadian people.

All new discoveries made by this expedition will be divided between the two countries, and if the Pole be reached the flags of the two countries will, figuratively speaking, fly side by side for all time.

THE VANCOUVER ISLAND RAILWAY.—The recent conference of the Canada Pacific Railway Syndicate directors and the Government is said to have been in relation to the construction of the Vancouver Island section of the transcontinental road. It is understood that the Government will enter into a contract with the Syndicate for the building of the Island section, but the terms have not yet been agreed upon. Men are being sent out by both the Government and Syndicate to survey the routes and report, giving estimates of probable cost, etc. It is expected that operations upon the Island will be begun early next spring.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The Government Bank Circular.

PUBLIC OPINION IN THE MATTER.

The Mail says of the effect of the Government Bank circular:—"Yesterday was a day of intense excitement among the bulls and bears and, in general, among the financial men of Toronto. Early in the morning the banks received a circular from the Government that fairly astounded them. To say that the financial men were surprised would be saying too little. The announcement caused a regular break in the market and stocks of every description fell rapidly. The fall ranged from 5 to 8 and 10 per cent. The greatest fall recorded is that of the Western Assurance, whose paper fell 20 per cent, caused partly by a reduction in the dividend and partly by the break in the market. The object of the Government has not yet been declared, but it is easily understood."

Different views are taken of the circular. One opinion is that it may do good by its moral influence over bank managers, to keep them nearer a straight line in accordance with the Act, the circular being looked on as directed against loans on stocks, in which it is said three or four banks have been doing a good deal, thus facilitating the operations of speculator, and causing advances and falls in bank stocks. The latter sometimes causes uneasiness amongst depositors, and bill holders who know nothing of the speculation do not pay any heed to advances, but are sometimes alarmed by a decline in stocks. Another view is wholly opposed to the circular, as undue interference with bank business, and laying its transactions open in a way to cause alarm amongst business men, as any member of Parliament might call for the information. The precedent thus set might be repeated. Although there is no suspicion in connection with the present Minister of Finance and his deputy, any unscrupulous one in future might use it to ruin a banker.

OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—Messrs Buchanan and Drummond, of Montreal, left for home last evening, having previously had an interview with the Government in regard to the bank circular recently issued. It is understood that the Government will insist upon receiving the information asked for in order to see what banks have been advancing money on stock and to what extent. Under the existing law while such is prohibited no penalty is attached therefor. A prominent banker gives it as his opinion that some changes will be made in the Canadian banking act the coming session in this respect.

TEXT OF THE CIRCULAR.

The following is the circular, which is signed by Mr. Courtney the Deputy Minister:—

The Finance Minister, at the request of the Treasury Board, has directed the following returns, under the authority of the Act 43 Vic, chap 22, sec. 40, to be furnished immediately to this department, and marked private and confidential.

1. Returns of notes and bills discounted, overdue, and not specially secured, with names of endorsers, together with all details thereof

2. Returns of notes and other debts secured by real estate, or by deposit of, or lien on, stock or other securities, and all details thereof.

3 Other assets not included under the foregoing heads.

4. Advances on which stocks or bonds of corporation, Dominion, Provincial, British, or foreign public securities other than Canadian are held as securities.

5. The name of every head clerk, transfer clerk, and clerks generally employed in the bank at Montreal and the branches thereof, and his duties.

6. The name of every employee of the bank, either in Montreal or branches, who holds personally or in trust bank stocks which are held as collateral or otherwise by the bank, on which advances have been made.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

Marriage in a Millionaire's Family

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Miss Lelia Osgood Vanderbilt, youngest daughter of Wm. H. Vanderbilt, was married yesterday afternoon to Dr. Wm. Seward Webb, son of General James Watson Webb. It is reported the father of the bride presented her with his present residence on 5th avenue and a cheque for $250,000. The bridesmaids were six in number, and beside them there were joined in the wedding procession four little girls, all cousins of the bride. The little girls were dressed in pale shell-pink silk and wore plush Gainsborough hats, and carried leghorn hats filled with Mme. Mernett roses, with bunches of Marguerites at the side of the basket. They also wore diamond pansy pins, gifts from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids wore exquisite dresses of moire antique, with all the front laid in cut crystal fringe. They were trimmed with "Rhea" panniers, drawn back and fastened with ostrich tips. The dresses were cut in deep squares at the neck, and were trimmed with white silk and cut crystal. The bride's dress was a marvel of richness. It was made by Worth, and was composed of silver satin, with a French train. The whole dress was veiled with the richest pointlace, row after row forming flounces across the front. The veil was of point lace and extended fully to the end of the train. It was secured with diamonds. The bride's travelling dress was of bronze green cloth, richly braided and trimmed with otter fur, with hat to match. At Mr. Vanderbilt's residence, where a reception was held, a line of palms was placed on each side of the hall with mistletoe and red berries interspersed. Bernstein, with a full orchestra, was hidden behind the trees. On the left side of the hall was a large table covered with maiden fern, supporting a miniature garden of all shades of roses. In the left-hand corner a large rose was filled with pink begonias, pink roses and Mine Mernett roses. Another vase in the righthand corner was filled with ivy and Marechel Neil roses. From the entrance to the main parlor a large basket of roses, ferns and smilax was suspended. At the head of the parlor, where the bride and bridegroom stood to receive their friends, was an arch of smilax, with pedestals of ferns; from the apex hung a marriage bell of roses. On the top of the arch was a vase of ferns. The five windows were curtained with smilax, with tassels and loops of roses—ropes of roses draping the curtains. On each window sill was a bank of ferns.

THE GRAND TRUNK.—At a meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway at London on the 22nd, Sir Henry Tyler, President, proposed a supplementary traffic agreement with the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway, Michigan Air Line, and with the Midland Railway of Canada. He gave a favorable account of the prospects of the road, and said that he believed that at the half yearly meeting he would be able to recommend the payment of second preference dividends in full. The statement of the President was favorably received, and the policy he recommended approved.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

—The British schooner Royal Blue-Jacket, Capt. L. E. Touise, from Oporto for Lapoile, Nfld., was abandoned in latitude 51 north, longitude 18 west, on her beam-ends, and dismasted. The captain and four of the crew were drowned, and the rest of the crew landed at Liverpool.

—O'Donovan, a correspondent of the London Daily News, is now taking his trial on a charge of insulting the Sultan and using seditious language. The excuse made for his conduct is that he was ill with fever when he used the language complained of, but this excuse will hardly avail him in Turkey.

—Mr. Brydges, Land Commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company, in an interview yesterday said that the Company had been selling on an average 20,000 acres a month, principally in southern Manitoba, and at an average price of $6 an acre. He doesn't expect a collapse to occur in land prices for several years to come.

—The Montreal Customs authorities have returned the books seized from the Pullman Palace Car Co. The superintendent repudiates the charge of smuggling, and says the cars built in Montreal for the Grand Trunk were also fitted up and furnished in that city, and that some cars on the Intercolonial built there and furnished in the United States were duly entered at the Customs, and duty paid.

Canada in England.

It is gratifying to know that Canada's resources and advantages are more highly appreciated in England to-day than ever. During one week this month, Dominion bonds rose one per cent. in the London market, while several foreign stocks declined, and the tendency was generally towards decline. A few years ago, all will remember the London Times contained frequent disparaging references to Canada. The other day, in an editorial on the meeting of the Woman's Emigration Society our big London namesake is reported by cable as saying: 'Canada is the goal toward which the society would point. If any Colony would attract an independent supply of women emigrants that Colony is British North America. The voyage is the shortest and least expensive. The emigrant is not cut off irrevocably from the comforts of the mother country, as civilization is as widely diffused there as in any Colony. The climate is healthy, and above all, the Colony is thoroughly English. It is permeated and perforated in all directions with English society, and types of English life and English thoughts. If these advantages fail to attract the emigration of women, either the women are unaware of the premium the sex commands across the Atlantic, or they do not know the facilities offered for leaving the over-crowded mother country."—Moncton Times.

"Last winter I fell on the ice" writes W. T. Dowdall, Esq., of Peoria, Ill., "and badly dislocated my left shoulder, causing me intense suffering. The first application of St. Jacobs Oil gave great relief, and with the use of less than one bottle I quickly regained my former strength.

People have no right to become dyspeptic and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

W. Gibson, 9 months old, weighing 330 pounds each; also a large variety of fowl. Any one wanting a good piece of meat would do well to visit their shop before purchasing elsewhere. 1t

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC 23.

City and Vicinity.

THERE will be fifty three Sundays in 1882.

No. 1 express was nearly two hours late to-day.

MR. JOHN A. GROSE, Inspector of Customs, is in the city.

THE cells were occupied last night by only one prisoner—and that was a woman.

A NUMBER of enthusiastic sportsmen of this city are about to organize a Gun Club.

THE Finance Committee and several other Committees of the City Council will meet this evening.

COUNTY Court has been adjourned till Tuesday next. There is very little more business to be transacted.

AMONGST those who passed their examination at the Ontario Veterinary College, was Mr. A. E. Detlor, of this city.

THE members of the Junior Conservative Association are reminded of the meeting in the INTELLIGENCER building to-night.

THE picture of Santa Claus in front of Reynolds' is a real work of art. It was painted by Mr. W. S. Hunter, of this city.

THE thermometer did not fall as low last night as many people expected—not more than 6 or 7 degrees below freezing point.

MR. JOHN STEWART, who has for the past two or three years been residing in St. Paul's, Minn., is in the city on a visit. He speaks highly of St. Paul's.

THE Christmas Tree entertainment in connection with the Sunday School of Holloway St. (Methodist) church will be held this evening in the church.

A LARGE and enthusiastic meeting of Mr. Lingham's supporters was held last night. The reports which came in from the canvass were most encouraging.

THE upper ferry having stopped running, Mr. Reddick has commenced the business of ferrying in small boats, which he will continue to do until the bay is frozen over.

SHORTLY before 2 o'clock this afternoon an alarm of fire was rung. The brigade and engines turned out, but no fire could be found. As far as can be learned there was no ground for the alarm.

Go to the "Syndicate" Store for Fancy Dry Goods, Crockery and Glassware, Table Cutlery and Silverware, Albums, &., &c. Will be open this evening until nine o'clock.—W. & D. Patterson. [1t

THE Joint Committee from the City and Ameliasburg Council, to take into consideration the question of the ferry between the two shores, should have met this morning, but did not, on account of the non-appearance of the Ameliasburg men.

FOUR men took one dog out to the Sand Pit, near the eastern limit of the city, for the purpose of killing him. Four bullets were fired into the animal, but they failed to kill him, whereupon, their ammunition having become exhausted, the four men beat him to death with sticks.

THE infant class of Bridge St. Method st Sunday School, taught by Mr. J. L. Biggar, are to have a Christmas tree entertainment this evening in the lecture-room of Bridge St. Church. It is expected that Santa Claus himself will drop in during the evening to take part in the festivities.

A HIGHLY successful social was held last evening in the Kingston Road Methodist Church. It was well attended by a good class of people. Mr. Wm. Wensley occupied the chair. The evening was opened with prayer by Mr. Robt. Richardson, after which a fine programme of readings, recitations and music was gone through with, and Messrs. Richardson, Weymark, Marvin, and others delivered short and appropriate speeches. Edibles were provided in bags, and after this interesting feature was over the meeting came to a conclusion by the benediction being pronounced and the singing of the national anthem.

THE gas lamps on the hills have not been kept lit during the past two nights, the reason being that the new purifier was being placed in position. It is now ready for operation, and hereafter a better quality of gas may be expected. This purifier, however, is only for temporary use; a much larger and better one will be introduced in the spring.

MR. L. THOMAS fell over a heap of trunks that were lying piled on the sidewalk outside the Dafoe House, last night, and severely bruised one side of his face and received a black eye. It is not likely, however, that those who have the handling of the trunks will refrain from allowing them to block up the sidewalk until someone breaks his neck over them.

AT 7 o'clock last evening the brick bakery of Wm. White, at Tweed, was discovered to be on fire. The people of the village turned out and worked with a will, and succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to the adjoining buildings. The loss on the building was about $300, on which there is an insurance of $150. Mr. John Shaw, the tenant, lost his stock of flour and baking apparatus, on which there was no insurance. His loss is about $100. Cause of fire unknown.

A SINGULARLY bold burglary occurred in the city last night. The window of Hall's butcher shop, on Bridge St., west of the lower bridge, was raised sometime during the night, and a dozen geese and four turkeys stolen from the inside. The window was hung on weights and could be raised and lowered with ease; and it was not even fastened. If shop-keepers neglect to take even the most ordinary precautions to secure their property, they must expect, sooner or later, to become the victims of night-prowlers.

YESTERDAY afternoon, while Mr. Morley, Foster & Reid's cutter, was quietly working at his bench, which is at the rear end of the second story of the building, something crashed through the window, breaking the glass into fragments, and, striking the wooden partition near Mr. Morley with such force as to splinter it, fell on the floor. It proved to be a large rifle-bullet. Mr. Morley was, naturally, considerably startled, and thought that some one had designs on his life. It is extremely improbable, however, that this is the case, as the bullet was almost spent when it struck, and must have come from a good distance. Several parties were, about this time, engaged in shooting at Zwick's Island, and it is likely that the bullet came from one of their rifles.

THE unfavorable state of the weather last night interfered greatly with the success of the promenade concert in the City Hall, in one respect—that of the attendance, which was not as large as the merits of the entertainment which was provided called for. The programme, which we have already published, was faithfully carried out, all the ladies and gentlemen who took part in it acquitting themselves creditably. The Oddfellows' Orchestra were present in full force, and the music furnished by them was performed with the usual spirit and was greatly appreciated by the audience. Mr. J. J. B. Flint made an excellent chairman. The performance was so successful that, in deference to the expressed wishes of many of those present, the concert will probably be repeated some time in January.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 23.—Lakes, increasing northerly winds, and fine cold weather to-day, followed to-morrow by southerly winds and rising temperature.

DUNGANNON AND FARADAY.—D. Kavanagh elected Reeve by acclamation. Nominated for Councillors: H. Bentley, J. Gould, J. Jarman, H. Johnson, A. Kennedy, F. Mullett, S. McCabe, and H. C. Zabel.

POLICE COURT.—As Christmas approaches there is more work for the Police Magistrate to do. There was quite a lengthy court this morning. Elizabeth Little was charged with being drunk, but was allowed to go on consideration that she was only a Little drunk. Sophia Blytheman and Charles Sproule were each charged with committing an assault on J. C. Phillips. They were both convicted and fined $5 and costs each, or one month in gaol. Robt. McCoy, for carting without license, was fined $1 and costs, and Robt. Arnott, charged with neglecting to register a dog, was dismissed.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

Vennor Revises his Forecast.

We have received from Mr. Henry G. Vennor the following communication anent the weather which may be expected for New Year's:—

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—I am yet a little in doubt about your sleighing for the New Year. All depends upon the dates of next week's cold wave. If it comes early in the week you will have snow falls immediately after; but if at the end of the week, there may be but little if any snow at the entry of the year. The cold snap will come, and there will be skating at any rate, and I hope sleighing.

Yours truly,
HENRY G. VENNOR.

Montreal, Dec. 22, 1881.

Resolution of Condolence.

At a meeting of Christ Church Vestry held on the 20th inst., it was moved by E. J. Sisson, Esq., seconded by W. R. Carmichael, Esq., and

Resolved,—That the members of Christ Church Vestry desire to record their deep sorrow and sense of loss sustained in the removal by death of Robert Newbery, Esq., who for six years so ably filled the office of Warden of this Church, and to whose indefatigable labors are due much of its present success.

They tender to Mrs. Newbery and family their heartfelt sympathy, and pray that He who is the Husband of the widow and Father of the fatherless will be with them in their sad bereavement, and that the Secretary forward a copy of the same to Mrs. Newbery.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

TO BE SUPPRESSED.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—It is understood that the Prisoners' Aid Society, organized by the Ladies' League, will this week be suppressed on the ground that it is simply the Land League under another name.

AMERICAN.

THREATENED STRIKE

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 23.—Two mills have declined to advance the spinners' wages. The other mills have not answered the spinners' demand. Much indignation is expressed by the operatives, and there are significant signs of labor troubles again afflicting the city.

BIG BLAST.

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 23.—The blast which has been preparing nearly a year at the limestone quarry here was fired yesterday. 40,000 tons of rock was dislodged and ten tons of powder used.

NEW YORK NOTES.

NEW YORK, Dec'r 23.—Isadore Herman, worsted and lace, has assigned. Liabilities $130,000. Cause of failure, stock speculation.

The U. S. flag ship Tennessee was yesterday run into during the fog near Ellis's Island by a steamer, supposed to be the Western Star. The Tennessee was cut down amidships to the water's edge. It will probably be a month before she is repaired. She was to have left for Aspinwall on Tuesday.

A six day pedestrian match has been arranged between Rowell and Hughes, for $1,000 a side.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says the statement that the President requested James to remain in the Cabinet until after the Star Route cases were concluded and that James refused, is untrue.

The recent utterances of the Government in regard to the Monroe policy have encouraged the small nationalities of Central America to look to the United States as a protector against the domineering disposition sometimes manifested by Mexico. It is understood the Guatemalan Minister seeks the good will of the United States in the dispute between Mexico and Guatemala about the boundary.

The World says it is stated that the President and James, on their way to New York yesterday, were accompanied without their knowledge by three detectives, assigned to guard them against the interference of crazy people.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Arrived, the Schiedam from Rotterdam.

ESCAPE OF A CONVICT.

PITTSBURG, Pa, Dec. 23.—Jas. Miller, a convict of the penitentiary, yesterday secreted himself in a box, supposed to contain shoes for a firm in the city. When the waggon carrying the box got outside of the institution he pushed off the lid of the box and escaped. He belonged to a notorious gang of burglars whose headquarters were at Cleveland and Buffalo.

HIGHWAY ROBBERS FOILED.

PATTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 23.—The mail coach between Doutsville and Halpenton, was stopped yesterday by two highwaymen. Jno. Rath, driver, drew a revolver, and the horses suddenly plunged forward and left the robbers behind. The latter fired five shots at Rath, one of the balls passed through his hat and two through his coat. This is the second attempt during the past year to rob the coach.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MORE BOYCOTTING.

CORK, Dec. 23.—Later particulars from Aghaballogue, represent the men repairing the Protestant church there, as not attacked, only boycotted.

ANTI JEWISH RIOTERS.

ST PETERSBURG, Dec., 23.—Amongst the persons being tried by court martial at Miejo, for participation in the anti Jewish riots in August, are wealthy merchants accused of inciting the mob.

MARKETS TO BE CLOSED.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Mincing Lane markets, London stock exchange and Liverpool cotton exchange, are to be closed from the 24th to the 26th. Liverpool cotton exchange will also be closed on the 31st inst. and 2d January.

FAILURE EXPECTED.

It is stated that a large French house in the Indian trade is in difficulties, and some French credit establishments will lose heavily; one is involved to the extent of £100,000.

DEATH OF A JOURNALIST.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—Grenville Murray, journalist and author of "The Member for Paris," is dead.

REHABILITATION OF SILVER.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—At a meeting of the bankers and merchants yesterday, they passed resolutions in favor of the formation of an association to consider the rehabilitation of silver. Gibbs, one of the directors of the Bank of England, was chosen President of Council.

Lake Navigation.

The schr. Nellie Sherwood arrived here from Ogdensburg last night and is now awaiting orders. If there are any cargoes to ship Capt. Tyo will take them. The crew, however, have been paid off. Capt. Tyo navigated the vessel from Ogdensburg in good style considering that there is not a buoy on the river to denote shoals or rocks. It requires a skilful captain to do this. Capt. Tyo has been sailing on the lake and river for the past 37 years, and has never before had such a fine fall. He has been on the lake, however, after the New Year and his craft may be in commission as late this season.

Speaking of late navigation Captain Donnelly says that on the 5th of January, 1856, the tug Travel'er went to Ogdensburg and brought to Morton's dock the propeller Inkerman, afterwards called the Tornado. She had been blown up and rebuilt, and then brought from Ogdensburg to Kingston. After the tug had left this craft here she went to Clayton and towed up the schr. New York. Captain Donnelly, on March 17, 1859, also went down in a diving bell to inspect the bottom of the str. Hercules, which had been blown up in the fall previous. This was the earliest time in the season upon which he had done diving service within his recollection.

The Captain of the schr. B. W. Folger, finding the weather so favorable, has replaced her sails and taken a cargo of malt to Cape Vincent. The vessel arrived back this morning and is now awaiting instructions.

The vessel got a charter this afternoon to load barley for Cape Vincent.—Whig, Dec. 23.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the teeth and breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try 5 cent sample.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

MARRIED.

In this City, on the 21st inst., by the Rev. Dr. Jeffers, MR. GEORGE B. GRAHAM, of Trenton, to MISS REBECCA ARTHUR, of the same place.

PROCLAMATION.

IT having been the time-honored custom for generations to celebrate "Christmas Day" in commemoration of the birth of our Saviour, and for the re-union and rejoicing of families and communities, and whereas in consequence of the 25th day of December falling upon Sunday the present year, the Dominion and Provincial Governments have recommended that Monday, the 26th day of December next, be observed instead thereof.

Now, therefore, by and with the advice of the Aldermen of this city, I proclaim

as general holidays and days of rejoicing, and enjoin upon all good citizens to observe the same in a becoming and reverential manner.

N. H. DOWNS' Vegetable Balsamic ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

The Spendthrift's Daughter.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

'I choose America,' she said with firmness.

'And how am I to get to America? and how am I to live there when I am there? To be sure, there are your mother's diamonds,' he added.

'Those are included in the bill of sale. Did you not say so?' she asked.

'Well, perhaps I did. But if a man is to live, he must have something to live upon. If he is to take flight, he must have wings to fly with.'

'I will provide both.'

'You will?'

'I am of age. What I have—which was not your gift—is at least my own. Lionel has been generous; I have the means to pay your passage.'

'Aye, aye—Lionel! But afterwards, how am I to live? He will not like—no man would like—to have to maintain a wife's father, and that man a defaulter too. You should think of that, Ella.'

'I do! I will never ask him.'

'Then who is to maintain me? I tell you, I shall never manage to do it myself.'

'I will.'

'My poor child!' he cried—one short touch of nature had reached him at last—'what are you talking of?'

'I hope, and believe, that I shall be able to do it.'

'I stood with my household gods shattered around me,' is the energetic expression of that erring man, who had brought the fell catastrophe upon himself.

And so stood Ella now—in the centre of her own sitting room, like some noble figure of ruin and despair; yet with a light, the light divine, kindling in an eye cast upward.

Yes! all her household gods—all the idols she had too dearly loved and cherished, were shattered around her, and she felt that she stood alone, to confront the dreadful fate which had involved all she loved.

What a spectacle presented itself to her imagination, as drearily she looked round! On one side, defaced and disfigured, soiled, degraded, was the once beautiful and animated figure of her father—the man so brilliant, and to her so splendid a specimen of what human nature, in the full affluence of nature's finest gifts, might be. Upon another side her lover!—her husband! who was to have been her heart's best treasure! who never was to be hers now. No! upon that her high spirit had at once resolved; never. Impoverished and degraded, as she felt herself to be, never would she be Lionel's wife. The name which would, in a few hours' time, be blackened by irremediable dishonor, should never be linked to his. One swell of tender feeling, and it was over! All that is wrong, and all that is right, in woman's pride, had risen in arms at once against this.

The last figure that presented itself, was that of her delicate and gentle sister. But here there was comfort. Clementina was of a most frail and susceptible temperament, and eminently formed to suffer severely from adverse external circumstances; but she had a true and faithful heart; and if to Ella she would be obliged to cling for support, she would give consolation in return.

Ella looked upward—she looked up to God!

That holy name was not a stranger to her lips. It had been once, until the child of charity had taught the rich man's daughter some little knowledge of it. But such ideas had never been thoroughly realized by her mind; and now, when in the extremity of her destitution, she looked up—when, "out of the depths she cried unto Him,"—alas! He seemed so far, far off, and her distresses were so terribly near!

Yet even then, imperfect as all was, a beginning was made. The thick darkness of her soul seemed a little broken,—communion with the better and higher world was at last begun. There was a light—dim and shadowy—but still a light. There was a strength, vacillating and uncertain, but still a strength, coming over her soul.

CHAPTER THE SIXTH.

And now that wretched man, broken with disease and misery, sat there, with the lady, who, patient and pitying even to the worst of her fellow-creatures, had been moved by the sincerity of his distress. The extremity of his misery had raised so much compassion in her heart, as to overcome the resentment and indignation which she had at first felt, on recognizing him.

He had entreated her to tell him everything she knew of the fate of one whom he had that morning followed to the grave. For wretched as was his attire, defiled with dirt, and worn with travel, he had left the house and had followed, a tearless but heart broken mourner, the simple procession which attended the once lovely and glorious creature whom he had called daughter to her resting place.

He had stood by, at her funeral, whilst ill taught children stared and scoffed, until the busy mercenaries had pushed and elbowed him aside. He had seen his best and loveliest one consigned, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; he had waited quietly until all had dispersed, and every one was gone home. He had no home—and he yet stood by, and watched the sexton completing his work and cheerfully whistling as he proceeded with it.

For it was now a gleaming bright day, and the sun had burst forth, and beamed upon the lofty tower of the church steeple. It gilded the church-vane and weather-cock; it sparkled from the windows of the houses around the graveyard; it glistened on the lowly graves.

Cheerfulness was around him, for the bright sun of heaven cheers and ennobles everything upon which its beams fall. And there was a soft wind, too, which stirred among the leaves of a few poplars that stood hard by, whispering sweet secrets of nature, even in that dismal spot.

He stood there, motionless and tearless, until the sexton had finished his task, had shouldered his spade, and, still whistling, had walked away. Then he sat down upon the little mound, and hid his face in his hands. He sat there for some time—for a long, long time—and then slowly arose, and with feeble and uncertain steps retraced the way he had come, and found himself at the door of the handsome house, whence he had followed the funeral in the morning.

He made his way to the lady, who happened to be still there, and who now (as I have said), indignation having yielded to compassion, prepared to satisfy the yearning anxiety he had expressed to hear all she could tell him of his once proud and beautiful child.

'You know where you are, and what I am, and what I and the other ladies whom you have seen with me enjoy ourselves upon when we come here."

'No,' he said, looking round. 'It never struck me to inquire, or even to reflect upon what I saw.'

'This house is a kind of a hospital.'

TO BE CONTINUED.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

Post Mortem Examintions have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Fellows' Hypophosphities makes an old person look years younger "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestiible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH. Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&wly

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debilty, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

PASTOR DANKWARDT.

POMERANIA, 1807.

'Twas in the Northern German land,
Fast by the Baltic Sea,
When the French Emperor sent his troops
To bend the people's knee,

And dwell within their houses,
Feasting on wine and corn,
Till German hearts should learn to feel
The might of foreign scorn.

They came to Bodenstede,
A hamlet green and still,
With fountain in the market place,
Where maids their pitchers fill.

They overran the village street,
They overran the inn,
They stole the peasants' ripening crops,
And strove the maids to win;

And up and down throughout the night
They sang their ribald song,
While hidden evils darted forth
To join the lawless throng.

How fair was Bodenstede!
But deeds the Frenchmen wrought
Among her pleasant summer fields
No peaceful harvest brought.

The people seized the soldiers,
And bore them to the strand,
And shipped them to a barren shore
Within a hostile land,

And then returned rejoicing;
But he, the nations' fate,
Quickly dispatched a mightier corps
To hold the conquered state.

Alas for Bodenstede!
How sad the sun uprose
That day the foreign flags returned
Before his golden close!

Rode forth Commander Mortier:
"Seize all the men," he cried,
"Who rule in Bodenstede,
And place them side by side;

"And at the signal given,
Shoot each man where he stands.
They that remain shall live to see
Their blazing homes and lands."

Then forward stepped the pastor;
His eyes were bright as flame;
"If any man is shot, shoot me!
Mine is the guilt and shame.

"I bade the people to revolt,
And drag the men away;
I sent them to the Swedish shore;
'Twas I urged on the fray.

"Hear me, O sire, how innocent
These people surely are;
I pray thee burn my guilty roof,
But all these others spare."

The stern Commander Mortier
Heard what the pastor said,
One moment stood irresolute,
Then turned his horse's head:

And putting spurs to flank, they rode
Out from the wondering town;
And as they passed, the word was given,
"These fisher-huts burn down!"

A few poor sheds where no man dwelt!
No blood that day was spilled:
And thus Commander Mortier
The Emperor's law fulfilled.

Those battle-fields are overgrown,
Dim is their glory now;
But Virtue ever wakeful shines;
The stars are on her brow.

The pastor in his flowing gown,
Before the armed host,
Joyfully giving life and home
If he may save the lost:

Deep in the German father-land
This rooted memory grows,
And safe within the children's heart
The living picture glows.

—ANNIE FIELDS, in Harper's Magazine for January.

TABERNACLE SERMONS.

Discourse by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage.

GUITEAUISM.

Have I need of madmen, that ye have brought this fellow to play the madman in my presence?—I. Samuel, xxi. 15.

There are three dark passages in David's history which we may not hide, because God does not hide them. They are recorded as warnings. They are buoys, showing where are the sunken rocks. He broke the family of Uriah and then murdered him, and enacted in those days what in our time we would call the principles of the Oneida Community. To escape capital punishment at the hand of government, he simulated insanity on one occasion. In other words, to keep from losing his head he played crazy. But he was never less insane than on the day when he impersonated dementia. The fact that he ran his hand up and down the gate like an idiot, and had an uncleanly beard did not hinder Achish, the King of Gath, from jerking off the mask and saying to his attendants: "Have I need of madmen, that ye have brought this fellow to play the madman in my presence?" There is something sublimely sad in the aberration of King Lear frenzied by his daughters, Regan and Goneril, in the attempt to have their sister, Cordelia, disinherited. There is someting thrilling in the action of Meg Merrilies as she goes shivering a great horror though Walter Scott's Guy Mannering. There is something weird in the mental derangement of Goethe's Mignon. There is something tremendous in the insanity of Lycurgus, hewing down his own son under the impression that he was hewing down a tree: in the insanity of Cambyses, in the insanity of Ulysses before the Trojan war, for these were genuine calamities, and there is sublimity even in shipwreck. But there is no emotion excited by this feigned idiocy of the text except that of disgust, and it has its echo in the court-room at Washington where the fiendish assassin of our former President is dramatizing the stark fool, hoping under the cloud to escape from the anathema of the nation. The whole world might cry out appropriately to-day in regard to that trial, in the words of Achish of the text, "Have I need of madmen, that ye have brought this fellow to play the madman in my presence?"

I have had during the past week in opportunity of confirming by observation in Washington my theory of that gigantic crime. There is nothing new about it. It is simply a bad man's nature allowed to run loose in every direction. Instead of putting on the curb he put on the whip. This Mazeppa voluntarily consented to be fastened to a wild courser, not caring into what deep morass or across what dark desert the unbridled fury dashed with him. There is no mystery about it. Our young men can come to the same result by just allowing their evil nature to develop and trample out the good. There may not be enough Presidents to allow each one a separate target, but there are innumerable victims if you will seek them, and illustrious victims. There is no need of charging that crime to Satanic possession. It was merely the evolution of the man's own bad nature. Such a man needs no devil to tempt him; he is his own devil. He planted nightshade, nox vomica, and colloquintida; he raised, as might be expected, a crop of nightshade, nux vomica, and coloquintida. There is a philosophy of crime and a science of sin which, through very old, has not yet come to graphic and picturesque nomenclature. For purposes of warning and illustration, I shall call it Guiteauism, or scoundrelism reduced to a science.

In the first place, Guiteauism stands for ablebodied beggary. There is a large class of people in our communities who live by begging, although it is often under the name of borrowing. They have hands and feet and brain with which to achieve their own livelihood, but they prefer to depend upon the result of the industry of others. The assassin now on trial had plenty of capacity to saw wood, or ditch farms, or pound the shoe last; but he turned his back upon what he could do and gave himself to that for which he had no qualification. There are as near as I can tell, in this country to-day, about a hundred thousand of what are commonly called "dead beats." Many of them have a smattering of learning, and forthwith feel themselves called to edit newspapers, or to write books, or to take the lecture platform. One would think that after five, or ten, or fifteen years of dead failure, they would take the hint, and not being able to earn a livelihood by toil of brain, go back to earn a livelihood by what is just as honorable, just as respectable, toil of hand and foot. No, they will not do that. What do they do? Borrow. They stay in a place until its patience or capacity is exhausted, and then they move on to pasture new. The assassin now on trial borrowed all he could at Freeport, then borrowed all he could in Boston, then borrowed all he could in Chicago, then borrowed all he could in Washington. He borrowed the money to purchase the pistol. He borrowed the clothes he has on his back. He is borrowing the time and the talent of his counsel. He is borrowing hundreds of thousand of dollars from the United States government in the expense to which this trial is putting us, and in all the expense that attended the last sickness of our beloved President. You and I, if we are taxpayers, are helping to pay his board to-day in prison. My friends, it seems to me that it is high time that we men and women, who in our occupations and professions are toiling until we cannot draw another ounce, ceased being taxed to support the lazy scoundrels of America. For the sick, and the decrepit and the helpless we must lend our shoulder, but for this wandering vagabondism, for these leeches put on the arm of honest industry until they suck out the blood, for these vermin, crawling through society, crawling through court rooms, crawling through churches, crawling through lecture halls—let there be nothing but extirpation. The most of these men who are living by borrowing could find occupation if they were not to proud to take certain kinds of occupation. In Philadelphia a man who had a family of ten children came to me and wanted to borrow fifteen dollars. I said to him: "I will not loan you fifteen dollars, but I will give you fifteen dollars provided you will open a news-stand and support yourself. I know just where I can get a position for you on the street for your news-stand, and I will give you the fifteen dollars if you will promise to expend it in the starting of that business." He said he would take until the next day to think about it. On the morrow he come to me and thanked me for my kindness, but said that he had concluded that it would not be a business worthy of him. "Well," I said, "now please don't bother me any more, for I have work. Good morning." Guiteauism is able-bodied beggary. Many of these men live on their wits. They try to see what they can pick up. They hover around the headquarters of political parties just before elections and hurrah for the men that they think will be elected. They are hearty Republians or rousing Democrats, according as it pays. Washington city is full of them to-day. All the trees around the White House were filled with these crows when Garfield was shot. That shot frightened them off their roosts, but they are all back there again as thick as ever. They are as enthusiastic for Arthur now as they were for Garfield then. O! they are a precious group, and their chief apostle is Guiteau. The vast majority of them of course will be disappointed, and they will be mad enough to shoot anything from a President down to a sapling. After a while they will leave for home without any official appointment and without a cent in their pocket. What will they do when they get home? Borrow, of course, borrow. It is only we vulgar people who work. Guiteauism is able-bodied beggary. The curse of the country is the geniuses—those men who think themselves Lord Byrons, not because they have any of his talent, but because they love his vices and his big shirt-collar. The only kind of genius that is worth anything is the genius for hard, practical, useful work. If God has given you two hands and two feet and good health, you have magnificent equipment. Those who were born at the top of the ladder do not have much chance, for they are apt to fall to the bottom, but those who are born at the foot of the ladder have the better chance. Michael Faraday, the greatest philosopher of his time, started from a blacksmith's anvil, — and Shakespeare held horses at the door of a London theatre before he held the attention of all ages. The path of life opened for Robert Burns in a ploughboy's furrow. George Peabody endowed a library in the village where once he had sawed wood. The shoemaker's last would have been the most appropriate coat of arms for William Cary, the millionaire, and Cloudesley Shovel, the Admiral, and Gifford, the famous editor. The butcher's stall was the starting place for Kirk White and Akenside and Cardinal Woolsey. Herschel played in a brass band before God called him up to listen to the music of the spheres and the orchestra of the many stars. A barber shop was the starting place of Copernicus, the astronomer, and Arkwright, the inventor, and Jeremy Taylor, the ecclesiastic, and Tenterden, the Lord Chief Justice of England. A massive trowel was the weapon with which the learned Ben Johnson and Hugh Miller, the geologist, began to fight the battle of life. With a weaver's shuttle, Columbus, the discoverer, and Dr. Livingstone, the explorer, and John Foster, the essayist, and Wilson, the ornithologist, began to weave their fortunes and their usefulness. Out of every hard position in life there are fifty doors which at the tap of the hard knuckle of toil swing wide open. Do not, my hearers, join the great army of able-bodied beggars led on by Guiteau, the champion of dead-beats. When the time comes that you feel like putting your lazy hands on your hips and saying, "The world owes me a living," it owes you a halter! Guiteauism is able-bodied beggary.

Again, I remark: Guiteauism is cruelty unmitigated. I saw in the Washington depot a star in the floor showing where the President's head lay after he had fallen, and I saw in the wall in that room a beautiful memorial marble marked "July 2, 1881," and then I saw, in a recess which looked as if just built for a vilalin's hiding place, the spot where the assassin stood and fired; but all that did not impress me with the cruelties of Guiteauism as the story of an employe of the White House who told me how he held the dying President's foot between his two hands and pressed it hard to appease the agony. I said to him, "Did he groan much?" "Oh! no," he said; "he didn't groan so much as he breathed hard. Oh! sir, it was awful; it was awful, sir." There is only one book that has the full story of the suffering of last summer at Washington and at Elberon, and that is the book of God's remembrance. There it is recorded in indelible letters—the first sting of the bullet, and the probing, and the surgery, and the wound-dressing, and the nervousness, and the sleepless nights, and the dying pang. What did it? Guiteauism. Garfield nearly three months dead, and his assassin still alive. But if you want to know still worse cruelties, look upon beclouded Mentor and the closed blinds of that beautiful house. The photographers have not given the picture accurately as I saw that house a few weeks ago. It was not merely comfortable, it was exquisitely beautiful—garnished and pictured and adorned. Where is the family that used to spend their winters there? Gone, all gone. The head of the family in Cleveland Cemetery, the living members of the family gone to be as near the grave as possible. O! it is no small affair to take a man 50 years of age from his wife just before the evening of life is come on and she needed his strong right arm, and from undeveloped children at an age when they required a father's wisdom and protection. The American people have done all they could to relieve the domestic calamity. Cyrus W. Field did not do a grander thing when he put the telegraphic girdle under the sea fifteen years ago, connecting all nations with a sensisive nerve of sympathy, than this year when he put under the ocean of the nation's sorrow a cable of gold along which the sympathy of the world flashed into the heart of the anguish-stricken Garfield household. But after all the alleviation, the grief is immeasurable. Rather than a half million of gold in their widowhood and orphanage would they have a log cabin in the Western wilderness with two rooms, and father and husband home with them. What broke up that domestic felicity? Guiteauism, accursed Guiteanism! But there is a colder cruelty than that in the business. Look in upon the court house at Washington and see the assassin and his counsel defaming the entire Guiteau family in all its branches—father, sons, daughters, uncles, aunts—all branches of the household, for the sake of saving that murderer's life. They begin with the father's grave. Ghouls in a cemetery. His former friends and neigbors testify that he was more than usually intelligent, one of their most honored citizens, and more, than all, a consistent Christian. Guiteanism smites the dead cheek and spits on the coffin. But that is not enough for the cruelty of Guiteauism. The attorney for the defendant throws obloquy on his own wife, who is a Guiteau. Alas!

any satisfaction in your soul at the pain of others, at the misfortune of others, at the downfall of others, beware. That is Guiteauism.

Again: Guiteauism stands for revenge. The assassin wanted to be Minister to Austria or have a consulship in Paris or Italy. What a splendid representative of the United States government he would have made! Because the President denied him this, he grits his teeth, buys a pistol, and says; "I'll pay him for this. He will be sorry for this denial. Revenge, revenge!" That has been the dominant characteristic of the man all through and up to last night. He would have killed his cross-examiner if there had been a weapon at hand; when the prisoner stood in the box as his own witness, and when the potent finger of John K. Porter, the king of the American court-room, was thrust into the vestment of the murderer, ripping open the hell of iniquity confined there until the fires blazed forth. How the cobra bit the bars of the cage; how the tiger trapped in the jungle glared on his captor. Revenge! Othello's dagger was a spoon compared with it. If you and I, my friends, tempted at any personal affront, should say: "I'll pay my enemy for this. He's tried to write me down. He's done me a wrong; I'll do him a wrong. Tit for tat. I'll pursue that man to the end of the world, and I'll get even with him."—it we say that, or feel that, that is retaliation, that is revenge, that is Guiteauism. How different the theory promulgated by one who was the most abused and wronged, and outraged. Being that ever lived since the day when this planet flew out of the creative hand of God. That blessed Being says: "Give blessing for cursing, give kindness for harshness," and then under a hyperbole, which no one will take as literal, suggests that if our clothes closets be robbed, we must give the burglar another selection. "Him that would take away thy cloak forbid not to take thy coat also." Of course, a hyperbole; but under that figure urging upon us complete leniency for complete provocation. "Ah!" you say, "that would free Guiteau." No, no. The freedom of that man would be cruelty to society; that would be the derangement of public morals; that would be putting a price upon assassination. There are ten thousand desperadoes now in America waiting to see whether murder is going to be safe. Not in a spirit of bloodthirstiness let the law be executed; but in devotion to society. Notice, all ye who are tempted to retaliation in business or in social circles, unto what the spirit of revenge leads. Stamp out this spark of a sulphurous match before the entire temple of your nature is wrapped in the conflagration. Take no revenge by stiletto, or carbine, critic's pen, or printer's type, or French thug, or tattler's tongue, or innuendo. Revenge is a knife without any handle. It cuts you as you clutch it long before it stabs him. With all our boasted Christianity we ought to have as much moral equipoise as did Pericles, the heathen. He was one day berated in the most outrageous wayand in such a hot passion that the scold did not notice it was getting dark, and when the tirade was over Pericles said to his servant, "Bring a lamp now and light him home." The spirit of the Gospel in the heart of a man who had never heard the Gospel. But revenge on a large scale or revenge on a small scale is Guiteauism. Guiteauism also stands for those who, with the cloak of religion, try to hide their turpitude. Why, the assassin was a voluble talker in prayer-meetings. He was an usher in a religious assemblage at one time. He quotes Scripture glibly. I am told he belonged at one time to a Methodist church and at another time to a Presbyterian Church and at another time to a Baptist Church, and he tried to take advantage of one of the prominent doctrines in each of the churches. The Methodists believe that a man may fall from grace, and he fell from grace. The Presbyterians believe in predestination, and he hoped to go on that through train to glory without any reference to his moral character, thus misinterpreting and outraging the doctrine. And the two Baptist churches could not wash him clean. Indeed, he honored pretty much all our denominations with a membership, except the Episcopal church; but as the Apostle Judas was hung, I do not know but that this assassin in one respect may be in the line of apostolic succession! Church membership to him was a field of usefulness. It gave him opportunity to borrow more money. He was a nice illustration of those people who pretend to worship God on Sundays, and serve the devil all the rest of the week. Among them some vestrymen and some elders and some deacons, and some Sunday school officers and some prominent members of the church, while they are rotten near through. Such men are no disgrace to religion any more than Fulton bank or Nassau bank, or Bank of England is disgraced because a counterfeit cheque is put through the window of the paying teller. The bank is just as honorable after some one has attempted a fraud upon it, as before. Guiteau is a lawyer; that is nothing against the science of jurisprudence. Guiteau is an author; that is nothing against belles lettres. Guiteau is a married man; that is nothing against the institution of holy marriage. This assassin's diabolism is nothing against our glorious religion, which is pure and kind, and gentle and loving, and fits a man for the here and the hereafter, and has two rooms, one on earth all full of the implements of toil and the dust of toil, and the other room up stairs, which is palatial and opening into the hanging gardens of the King, whose paths are filled with princes and princesses walking in white. I say in the presence of all those who hear or read this sermon that under God we decide for our selves whether we will be good or bad. We cannot throw the responsibility off on satanic possession. Every man's heart has walls around it, and strong gates around it, and we entertain what guests we will. Hark! there is a knock at the gate. Who comes there? Revenge, with gauntleted fists beating to come in. It has just dismounted from a fiery dragon of the pit. Do not open the door. Hark! another knock at the gate. Who comes there? Uncleanness, that has just dismounted from a satyr of the desert. Do not open the gate. Who comes there? Ambition, that has just dismounted from a horse lathered with human gore. Do not open the gate. Hark! another knock at the gate. Who comes there? It is gentle knocking. It is accompanied with a heavenly voice and a gracious urgency. It is a messenger from God. Shove back the bolt. Swing open all the gates. Come in grace, with all thy family of Christian graces, love and joy and peace and patience and brotherly kindness and charity. Come in and take possession of all the rooms of the heart's castle. Join hands and skip up and down the wide halls in great glee. In other words, my friends, surrender your whole heart to God and there is no room for satanic possession. Do you find the struggle against temptation hard—call on God for reinforcements. They are saddled and bridled ready for the fray. Do you know a little girl decided the battle of Waterloo and the fate of Europe? The English army was worn out in the long battle when a little girl showed Blucher and his men a short cut to the field of Waterloo, otherwise they would have gone a long distance around; but through that short cut they came up in time to save the day. O! men, tempted men, tried men, immortal men, this may be your Waterloo of temptation and trial. I would to God I could take the part of the little child and get to you quick reinforcements. The are coming. The artillery of God rumbling down the sky. Coming, coming. The day is ours. "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

[illegible]RDAY, DEC. 24.

[illegible] Season.

[illegible] the oldest, but is [illegible]rved of the Christ[illegible] in fact, the only [illegible] can be universally [illegible]hristian country. [illegible] conditions [illegible] reverently [illegible] the day on [illegible] performed [illegible]—the day to save sinners' [illegible] Supreme Ruler of the [illegible] with a strong desire [illegible] children from [illegible] they had inherited, [illegible] state and appeared on ea[illegible] a naked babe. To th[illegible] believing Christian, there [illegible] birthday rather than a holi[illegible] spiritual rejoicing and [illegible] rather than for physical enjo[illegible] religion. Then there is anoth[illegible] who can consistently [illegible] observe Christmas as a day of [illegible] man those who cannot acce[illegible] as of the Christian religion [illegible] nor be able to regard Jesus Ch[illegible] of divine origin; they may reje[illegible]ally received opinion as to his [illegible] conception; they may deny tha[illegible] life, he was gifted with sup[illegible] powers; they may not be able to [illegible] doctrine that his mission on e[illegible] have the souls of [illegible] for— from eter[illegible] and yet, though [illegible] cannot co[illegible] letter of the Christian religi[illegible] in its doctrinary manner. they ca[illegible] conform to th[illegible] of it; [illegible] celebrate the anni[illegible] of one who [illegible] must acknowledge at least th[illegible] and most powerful of spiritual [illegible] boldest and most radical of [illegible] reformers; a philanthropist o[illegible] type and with the most [illegible] sympathies, a character which, for [illegible] bility, strength and sweetness, [illegible] patience and heroic fortitude, [illegible]nciation and fixity of purpose, [illegible] be surpassed and is [illegible] short, the greatest, as well as the [illegible]an that has appeared on the earth [illegible] dawn of history. And if they so [illegible]him, and acknowledge him to be the [illegible] benefactor of the human race, i[illegible]ight and proper for them to cele[illegible] anniversary of his birth as fo[illegible] to celebrate the anniversary [illegible]rns' birthday or Americans the [illegible]rsary of the birthday of Washington, [illegible] there is the third—and largest—[illegible] society; those who celebrate C[illegible]erely as a time of general re[illegible]festivities, apart from any religio[illegible]—apart, almost, from any idea in re[illegible] its sacred origin. Thus Christma[illegible] only Christian holiday which [illegible]iversally celebrated. It is the oldest [illegible] the most vigorous. While many ot[illegible]days are but meagrely observed and [illegible] into complete desuetude, Christm[illegible]rishes in immortal youth, and each [illegible]hat rolls past finds the happy, jovial, [illegible] blooded season more vigorous than the[illegible] It has seen the rise and decline of [illegible] holidays, and it will probably sur[illegible]hem all. Christmas appeals to the bett[illegible]de of a man's nature. If there are any go[illegible]ualities lying latent in a man's char[illegible] they are sure to be brought out if expo[illegible] to the Christmas influence. At t[illegible]season the sweet, strong spirit of Hi[illegible]ose birth it celebrates is all abroad, [illegible] melts the cold and callous crust from h[illegible] that all the year have been unwarme[illegible] any influence divine or touched by [illegible] tale of human woe. On pure, wa[illegible] tender hearts it throws a purer, warm[illegible] glow, and opens new and deeper foun[illegible] of tenderness and love. To those who[illegible]sky is overcast by sorrow, want, anxiet[illegible]or pain, the spirit of the season seems t[illegible] break the murky cloud and let the ligh[illegible] of heaven through, to warm and cheer a[illegible] comfort them, and shine upon their way. Even the felon in his cell, and all the countless criminals whose only cells are myriads of crimes, which form a moral barrier round their souls and shut them in from all good influences,—even these will often feel at Christmas time a subtle influence that has power to soften and subdue in some degree their hard and wayward natures—an influence that comes to them like some soft, inward voice that whispers, 'Peace on earth, good-will to men—to you no less than to the good and pure."

In a small city like Belleville the Christmas season should bring pleasure to all. There are many [illegible] and indigent families in the city who are almost beyond the reach of the blessed Christian influence, and to whom it comes as the faint ripple reaches the reeds on the shore after a stone is thrown into the middle of a pond. If Christmas brings them much substantial delight, it must do so through those upon whom the blessings of the season have been poured out in rich plenitude. It is the duty of those upon whom the Christmas influence has shone, to reflect it, so that others less favored will feel it and rejoice. Christmas teaches us all, or should teach us, the sublime truth "that it is better to give than to receive." Let anyone follow the inward impulse which he feels at this time, and do his best to make those happy who are less favored by Providence than he is himself, and he will realize that the surest way to make a happy Christmas for himself is to make it happy for others. Seeds of kindness scattered at this time rarely fall into any other than good ground, and yield a rich harvest of love and gratitude and joy which will repay the sower a hundredfold.

These reflections and admonitions are are not new. They have been repeated year after year for centuries—and will be repeated year after year in the centuries to come. But they are reflections and admonitions which are peculiarly suggested by the Christmas season and are inseparable from it, and so long as Christmas retains its freshness and vigor, so long will they be its inevitable accompaniment.

Outwardly, the Christmas of 1881 will hardly seem like Christmas. Nature has indeed "doff'd her gaudy trim," but has not donned her robe of white—the symbol of the stainless purity of Him, the lord of the season, as he appeared on earth. But the enjoyment of Christmas happily does not depend on the weather, and, in spite of the unseasonable season, we wish our readers, each and all, in the true old English sense, "A MERRY CHRISTMAS!"

The Municipal Elections.

The nomination of candidates for the Mayoralty and for seats in the City Council for the year 1882, will take place on Monday—that for the Mayoralty at the City Hall at 10 o'clock a.m., and those for the Council at the places appointed in the various Wards at noon.

That there is to be a contest for the Mayoralty seems certain, the gentlemen who are seeking the positi[illegible] being Messrs. Nelson Lingham and James St. Charles. Both gentlemen are well qualified for the position, being of unimpeachable personal character, of good business habits, and for several years occupants of prominent positions in the Council, in which the records which they have made are creditable. As previously stated, our preference is for Mr. Lingham, who, as a native of the city, has resided longer in Belleville, and also, as the owner of a large amount of property in the city, has a peculiarly strong interest in its welfare. Whilst supporting Mr. Lingham at the present juncture, however, we have little doubt that at some future time, should he fail of success in the present contest, Mr. St. Charles will attain the goal of his honorable ambition. The contest, as might be expected from the character of the candidates, has been conducted in the most exemplary manner, and we trust that nothing will arise to prevent its ac continuing to the end. Both gentlemen and their supporters are prosecuting a very active canvass, but the results so far reported by Mr. Lingham's Committees are such as to lead us to believe that he will be elected by a considerable majority.

There is an unusually degree of apathy amongst the electors as to the result of the Ward elections, and strangely enough the same state of feeling is reported as being prevalent in other places—notably Hamilton and Cobourg. As we have previously counselled the electors, this exhibition of public indifference is very undesirable, and it is to be hoped that during the coming week there may be a change in that regard. There are topics of great importance for discussion, such as the encouragement to be given to manufactures, waterworks, the improvement of the communication between Ameliasburg and the City, our [illegible]ad interests and the frontage tax. On [illegible] points the candidates ought to be [illegible] express themselves, in order that [illegible] who represent the views of the majori[illegible] sent to the Council.

Repudiation.

The movement in Virginia in favor of the repudiation of about two-thirds of the debt of that State has been in progress for some two years and has made great headway. The repudiators, under the specious name of "readjusters," succeeded in electing a sufficient number of members of the Legislature to secure, with the co-operation of the Republicans, the election of Mr. Mahone, their leader, to the United States Senate, and a fitting coadjutor to him has been chosen in the person of Mr. Riddleberger, who introduced into the Legislature the Bill under which it was proposed to repudiate the public obligations to the extent above stated. Fortunately for the honor of the old State—the mother of Presidents, as she has been called—Governor Holliday is an honest man and strongly opposed to the repudiation movement. He vetoed the vital clauses of Mr. Riddleberger's bill, but since the performance of that righteous action another election has been held, with the result of leaving the control of the Legislature in the hands of the "levellers" and Republicans, aided by the national Government. The Governor, in view of the great wrong which is evidently about to be perpetrated upon the creditors of the State, and with the determination of marking his detestation of the dishonesty of the transaction, has addressed a message to the Legislature, in which he gives utterance to his sentiments in a bold and manly way. We quote the following two paragraphs:

> From the high and responsible office which I hold I have always written and spoken to Virginians for Virginia, and, ignoring party, have thought only of her honor and welfare. It has been alleged that the federal government has not been moved by this principle in its dealings with us. It has been charged—the facts will pass into history and show—that this great government has invaded the limits of our state, and, by power, patronage and money, has controlled its affairs. If this be true, it will at once be admitted that a departure has been made, without precedent in our annals, threatening a disruption of the fundamental principles of our government, and a fatal blow been struck at the liberties of the people.
> Virginia has been accused of attempting the mean crime of repudiation. It has been charged—the facts here, too, have gone into history and will show—that the federal government, or the party directing its destinies, has used its patronage, power and money to hurry her along that rugged and disreputable way. If this be true, then if there be any stigma, it has been taken from our commonwealth and fastened upon the republic, and will be with difficulty, if ever erased. The transfer will not hide it. It will not disappear nor die, but will bloom out, sooner or later, in unspeakable disaster.

Public sentiment has been aroused to such an extent, in the Northern States especially, by the exposure of the matter, and the press comment so freely upon it, that there is still room for hope that the attempt of Messrs. Mahone and Riddleberger will be defeated, by the defection of the Republicans from the unholy alliance, if from no other cause. This maleficient compact was no doubt an outcome of the necessities of the Republican party. They wished to secure a majority in the Senate, which one vote would give them; they could not hope to secure the election of a member of their party in Virginia, and so a combination was formed with the Readjusters, Mahone agreeing to support the Republicans in the Senate, on condition that they aided in carrying out his scheme for the repudiation of the State debt. A more unholy alliance it would be difficult to imagine, but so far it has been carried out successfully. That the national Government should have lent its powerful aid, as boldly charged by Governor Holliday, to a scheme so nefarious in its character seems unfortunately to be but too likely, but the stir which the matter has created will probably cause the withdrawal of that support, in which case the disintegration of the coalition seems certain. Let us at all events hope so, and that the national degradation which would ensue if the bargain between the Republicans and Readjusters be carried out with the sanction of the dominant party in the United States will be spared to the people of that country.

Editorial Brevities.

The Cobourg Sentinel Star reminds the Ottawa organ of the Opposition, which professes to regard it as shameful for Ministers to take an active part in by-elections, that in November 1874 Sir Richard Cartwright, then Finance Minister, and Mr. Huntington, then Postmaster General, visited East Northumberland and made speeches at meetings on behalf of the Reform candidate.

The Waterloo Chronicle—hitherto an uncompromising supporter of free trade doctrines—has at length been driven to admit that its favorite principle is inapplicable in Canada. It also promises on behalf of its party that it will not, if successful in the general election, sweep away the tariff. Too late. This death-bed repentance comes too late. People have no faith in it.

The Globe acknowledges the untruth of its statement that the proprietor of the Cobourg car works drove his employees to the polls. Can't the organ go a little further and withdraw its charges of bribery, &c., which are just as untrue as that which it has retracted?

Here is a rare chance for some Historical Society that has plenty of storage accommodation for weighty objects: The Lady Elgin, the first locomotive that ever ran in Ontario, is still standing in the Northern yards at Toronto. The company are loth to break it up, and will still sell it to any Historical Society for the price of the iron it contains, about $600. It was built in 1853, and made its first run May 16th, 1853.

The Globe refuses to believe in the establishment of new industries, and yet there are not a few in view of its office. Two more are to be added during the coming year, namely a cotton factory and a new starch factory.

The refusal, many a time and oft repeated, of Mr. Blake, to meet his political opponents on the platform upon fair terms, has disgusted many even of his admirers. The Toronto World lectures the Opposition leader as follows:—"Mr. Blake must decide for himself whether or not he will refuse to meet his opponents in joint debate upon something like equal terms, but candor must compel even his admirers to admit that if he appeared more willing to do so he would lose nothing in a popular estimation that admires and appreciates pluck and dash. The truth or falsity of any charge made on a platform, cannot well be tested in the absence of the accused, and no political leader has any right to always demand the last word in debate. Joint discussions of public questions must be abandoned altogether if such unfair terms of combat are insisted upon by either party."

The News says: "Mr. Ross, M. P. for Middlesex, declared in a speech at Cobourg that the people of Canada are now taxed $5 per head as against $3 under the former administration. The facts are as follows:—In 1873-4 the rate of taxation was $3.50 per head of the population; in 1875-6 it was $5 22; in 1876 77 it was $4.82; in 1877-78 it was $4.71; in 1878-79 it was $5.02; in 1879 80, the second year of the amended tariff, it was $4.80; and last year it was $4.92, or thirty cents less than the second year of the Mackenzie administration. If Mr. Ross continues at this rate Sir Richard will have to look to his laurels."

The Whig charges an increase of drunkenness in Kingston to the N. P. Seeing that the duties on imported liquors have not been decreased, the charge falls to the ground, so far as the N. P. is concerned. The internal revenue tax on whiskey of home manufacture, which is the most popular intoxicant, has not been lowered, so that the Whig's blundering attempt to make a point against the Government by means of a bad attempt at a joke, is a failure. The N. P. is responsible to this extent in the premises, that it has largely increased the wage-earning power of the industrial classes.

Belleville Separate Schools.

The semi-annual examination of the Belleville Separate Schools was held during the past week—that of the first division of the girls' department under the care of the Sisters of Loretto, being on last Friday. The examination was conducted in the presence of Monsignore Farrelly, Mother Eucharia, Superioress of Loretto Convent, Mr. O'Hagan Principal of the Separate Schools, Alderman Durand, Messrs. Brennan and Truaisch, and a goodly number of ladies. Monsignore Farrelly and Mr. O'Hagan were the principal examiners. The children presented a neat and intelligent appearance and the most courtly order marked the proceedings throughout—showing that discipline of heart and mind is not considered as a secondary factor in the education imparted by the Sisters of Loretto in the Separate Schools of Belleville. The pupils were examined in the following subjects: Reading, Spelling, Geography, Arithmetic, Grammar, History (Canadian and English), Algebra, Euclid, and English Literature. The children acquitted themselves with marked ability in every subject, and reflected great credit on their teachers and themselves. At the close of the examination Monsignore Farrelly expressed his great satisfaction with the character of the progress that reigned in the School, and was followed by Alderman Durand and Mr. O'Hagan, who spoke in a similar strain—the latter expressing a hope that Belleville Separate Schools would continue to stand not only in the front rank of the Separate Schools of this Province, but at the very head.

On Tuesday afternoon the boys of the First division, under the care of Mr. O'Hagan, were subjected to an examination. The programme of studies is similar to that pursued by the girls of the First division. The order that prevailed was very good, and the answers given by the pupils were both prompt and accurate. Monsignore Farrelly and T. A. O'Rourke, Esq., B. A., of Trenton, were the chief examiners. Amongst others present were Alderman Costello and Mr. P. P. Lynch, Sec'y of the School Board. At the end of the proceedings, Monsignore Farrelly expressed himself well pleased with the examination, and spoke in the very highest terms of Mr. O'Hagan, adding that the longer he knew Mr. O'Hagan the more he esteemed him for his many good qualities—chief amongst them being his grand moral character, as he was a living example worthy of being copied by every pupil in the school. Mr. O'Rourke followed, and spoke too in the most complimentary manner of the retiring Principal, who he said had labored not alone for Belleville Separate School, but with a vigorous pen had done a service to every Separate School in the Province. He had known the Head-master of Belleville Separate Schools during the past 12 years as a student at College and as a teacher in the school room, and in each capacity Mr. O'Hagan never failed to win the esteem of those with whom he came in contact. Alderman Costello also spoke at some length in the warmest terms of Mr. O'Hagan, and concluded by saying that he would be missed in Belleville, in the Church, in the School, and in the social circle. A very pleasant termination was given to the examination proceedings in the presentation by the pupils to Mr. O'Hagan of a beautiful and richly bound Prayer-book, accompanied with the following address, which was read by Master J. Dolan:

To Thomas O'Hagan, Esq., B. L., Principal S. S. Belleville.

DEAR TEACHER,—It is with feelings of deep regret that we, the pupils of the Separate School, of Belleville, have learned of your intended departure from amongst us. The regret is rendered more intense at the recollection of your tender solicitude, your untiring efforts, and the patient manner in which you have borne with us.

Pleasant and profitable have been the days spent under your careful instruction; and if we have by our conduct tried you sometimes, believe us, it was more with the levity of our age than in the intention.

As a small token of our esteem we beg of your acceptance of the accompanying volume and we cherish the hope that in your new field of labor you will not forget the pupils who to-day, with much regret, bid you an affectionate farewell.

(Signed,) THOMAS O'NEILL,
JAMES DOLAN,
OWEN MCCARTY,
FRANK TRUAISCH.

Belleville, Dec. 20th, 1881.

To this Mr. O'Hagan made the following very appropriate reply:—

MY DEAR BOYS,—I thank you sincerely for this kind expression of your good will towards me, on this, the eve of my departure from your midst. Cold indeed would be the heart of that teacher, who, laboring as I have with you during the past three years, would not feel keen sorrow, when about to say to his pupils farewell!

It is indeed very gratifying for me to know that my humble labors performed, as your teacher, have been so acceptable to you; that you feel that I have to the best of my ability endeavored to do my duty; and that you now give testimony to your feelings, in this kindly address.

I will cherish your beautiful present, as a bright blossom of your affection, that shall bud and bloom in the garden of my memory; filling each chamber of my thoughts with the rich perfume of your gratitude and love.

May you, then, my dear boys, grow up into all the sublimity of manhood, with the very hearthstone of your heart lit up with the glowing fire of every virtue; bringing joy to your pastor, Rt. Rev. Monsignore Farrelly, bringing joy to your good parents, to your teacher, and to your own immediate hearts.

Mr. O'Hagan then thanked Monsignore Farrelly and the ladies and gentlemen present for their kindness in attending the examination and expressed a hope that he would ever prove worthy of the good will and esteem of his many friends in Belleville.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

HYDROLEINE

(HYDRATED OIL)

An artificially digested Cod Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE HYDRATED OIL EQUIVALENT TO 10 TIMES THE SAME BULK OF C.L. OIL. PREPARED BY THE HYDROLEINE Co LONDON ENGLAND

For Consumption, Winter Cough, Affections of the Chest and all Wasting Diseases.

Prescribed by the leading physicians of England, the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

A WONDERFUL FACT.

HYDROLEINE mixes perfectly with water, showing a complete artificial digestion of the oil, and just as the HYDROLEINE mixes with the water, so does it mix with the liquid contents of the stomach, and enters immediately into the system to nourish and build it up. The efficacy of HYDROLEINE IS NOT CONFINED to cases of Consumption, as from its valuable tonic effect on the nervous system in addition to its special stimulating action on the organs concerned in the production of Fat in the body, it causes marked increase in weight in persons of naturally thin habit, who do not present any evidence of disease.

Unlike ordinary preparations of Cod Liver Oil, it produces no unpleasant eructation or sense of nausea, and should be taken in such very much smaller doses, according to the directions, as will ensure its complete assimilation; this, at the same time, renders its use economical in the highest degree.

For sale by all Druggists.

We have sold the above remedy for several months and find it spoken of very favorably by both the medical profession and the public.

We can safely recommend it to parties needing such a remedy.

REMEMBER the meeting in Bridge St. Church to-morrow afternoon at 2:45. All the scholars of all the Methodist Sunday Schools will take part in a Christmas Concert Exercise. Everybody is invited.

THE members of the Property Owners' Association have pledged themselves not to support any aldermanic candidate unless he gives his pledge that he will vote in favor of a reduction of the number of wards of the city from seven to three, representatives of which will be elected by the ratepayers in all the wards, in the same way that the Mayor is elected. It is not likely that the objects of the Association will be attained at this election.

THE entertainment given to his class by Mr. J. L. Biggar, teacher of the infant class in the Sunday School of the Bridge Street Methodist Church, took place in the basement of the church last night and was highly successful. After a varied and pleasing programme of recitations, singing [illegible] was also given for regular attendance to twelve of the scholars, and Miss Higinbotham, organist to the class, was presented by Mr. Biggar with a handsomely bound copy of the new hymn book. The proceedings closed shortly after 8 o'clock.

POLICE COURT.—Alex. Dupleau and Elizabeth Little were charged with drunkenness before the P.M. this morning. The former was fined $2.00, and the woman was remanded to gaol for a week. Elgin Wood, F. Dolan, John McCutcheon, Jesse Wall, Daniel Foster and S. Robinson were charged with neglecting to register their dogs, and were each fined $1.00 and costs. The cases of Jas Townley, Thomas Gardner and Henry Cook, charged with the same offence, were dismissed.

A VERY successful Christmas Tree entertainment was held last evening in the Holloway St. Methodist Church. It was largely attended, and was one of the most enjoyable events of the kind ever held in connection with the church.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 24.—Lakes, winds mostly south and southwest, fine weather with rising temperature, very mild to-morrow.

A CREDITABLE PLAY.—The Napanee Beaver says: "Mr. W. D. Madden, Mr. J. F. McAllister and Mr. Gallagher, of the Napanee Dramatic Club, went up to Belleville to witness the play of 'Engaged,' by the Histrionic Association of that city. They all speak in the highest terms of the manner in which this difficult drama was put on the boards and the admirable manner in which each of the members sustained his part. They are anxious to induce the association to visit Napanee and give our people an exhibition of their talents, and the members of our club in such an event would do all in their power to make their visit successful and pleasant. We have no doubt but they would be favored with a bumper house. Come along, gentlemen."

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—Mr. C. H. Smith's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company are to produce that popular drama at the Metropolitan Hall on Wednesday evening next. The St. John (N. B.) Telegraph says of them:—"Wherever Uncle Tom's Cabin is played it is sure to draw a good house, and the performance at the Institute last evening by Mr. C. H. Smith's Company was no exception to the general rule. Miss Daisy Markoe who played in the character of Topay, is still with the company, and is as bright and clever as ever. Her songs were new, and xylophone solos were loudly applauded. Mr. W. W. Plum's Uncle Tom was good, and Mr. Thomas Dunn make an excellent Phineas Fletcher, Marks senior and Marks junior were very good. Little Eva was well done by little Lo Lo, and Mrs. Frankie Gonzalez was good as Ophelia. The other characters were all well taken, and the play ran very smoothly and the applause was frequent."

DRAMATIC.—The Madison Square dramatic company are to appear in the Metropolitan Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings next, presenting on the first night The "Two Orphans" and on the second night "Jane Eyre." Of their performance of the first named play, the Montreal Herald says: Miss Jennnings as "Louise" acted the part with considerable effect, and as "Henriette," Miss Wallace won hearty plaudits. Mr. Wallace, in the role of the "Chevalier de Vaudray," gave an impersonation which was at once strong and manly, and Mr. Laurie as "Picard" was vivacious and highly amusing. Mrs. Vincent as "Madame Frochard," mother of "Pierre" and "Jacques," displayed a good deal of dramatic power, and Messrs. Henley and Williams, as "Pierre" and "Jacques," respectively, showed themselves quite capable of creditably performing all that was demanded of them. As the "Countess de Linieres," Miss Daniel, was perhaps a little stolid in the earlier parts, but appeared to better advantage in the prison scene. Miss Foster made a tender and sympathetic "Sister Geneve." The remainder of the support was quite up to the average.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

Property Owners' Association.

A meeting of the Property Owners' Association was held last evening, Thos. Wills, Esq., in the chair.

Mr. A. S. Brown moved, seconded by Mr. Sawyer, "That the City Council be petitioned to reduce the number of wards in the City of Belleville from seven to three, viz., to have two on the east side of the river and one on the west."

The resolution was carried after considerable discussion.

The following resolution was then moved by Mr. C. F. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cornell:—"That the Ontario Government be petitioned to amend the Municipal Act so as to compel any City Council to act in accordance with the request by petition of one-third of the rate-payers, representing at least half of the assessed va'ue of the municipality, for the reduction of the number of wards, or submit a By-law to the same effect for the approval of the rate-payers of the said city at the first general election thereafter."

The resolution was also carried, with very little opposition.

The meeting then adjourned.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held last evening. There were present—Ald. Dickson (Chairman), Lingham, Smith, Diamond, Petrie, McIninch, Costello, Dunnet, and his worship the Mayor.

The petition of Thos. Cheevers, for reduction of taxes, was referred to the Court of Revision.

With reference to Mr. H. Thompson's petition in regard to wrong assessment, it was decided to recommend that the taxes on Lot 26 be remitted.

The petition of Mrs. M. Fahey, with reference to her taxes, was not entertained, and that of Margaret Thompson was referred to the Court of Revision.

It was decided to recommend the payment of the following accounts from the Public Works Committee:

|---|---|
| Wm Sutherland, lumber | $501.95 |
| Wm. P. Clarke, blacksmith work | 29.75 |
| Wallbridge & Clarke | 5.00 |

It was decided to recommend that $6 be struck off Edward Harkin's account ($23.00), and that the account of F. McAmbridge, $6, be not entertained.

Pay-list No. 26 was passed, as follows:—Public Works, $63.37; Water and Gas, $11.56.

On motion it was decided to grant Michael Malyea a blind old employee of the city, $16.

Two accounts from the Fire Department—R. McCrudden, $6.25; and Henry Brown, $2.50—were passed.

On motion of Ald. Ostrom, it was decided to recommend that the Hand Engine be placed in Coleman Ward, and that the lease of the ground on which the shed is to be erected be executed.

Connors, $1[illegible].34—were passed.

The erection of a gas lamp on Commercial St., near the residence of C. W. Bell, Esq., was recommended.

The Committee then adjourned.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT.

A Man has his hand smashed in a Corn Husker.

AMELIASBURG, Dec. 24.

Yesterday afternoon while Mr. Wilford Potter, son of John Potter, Esq., of this place, was feeding his corn husker at John Nightingale's, Huff's Island, his hand was caught in the rollers, smashing and bruising it as far as the wrist. Amputation will doubtless take effect. At 8 p. m. last night he was suffering much, and his recovery was considered doubtful.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and [illegible] will positively [illegible] when all other remedies fail. A single [illegible] always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

Farmers and Mechanics.

If you wish to avoid great danger and trouble, besides no small bill of expense, at this season of the year, you should take prompt steps to keep disease from your household. The system should be cleansed, blood purified stomach and bowels regulated, and prevent and cure diseases arising from Spring malaria. We know of nothing that will so perfectly and surely do this as Electric Bitters, and at the trifling cost of fifty cents a bottle. Exch.—Sold by Jas. Clark & Co.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Tribune says there are a hundred rumors, mainly or entirely false, regarding the alleged discovery by the Senate Committee investigating the Contingent expenditures of the Treasury. A number of irregularities in the Custodian's office have been proved, but nothing has been discovered showing that any high official of the Department was cognizant of the fraud.

The Herald says that Beck received a letter from ex-Governor Seymour, directing his attention to the effect the policy of protection is likely to have on the policy of foreign nations in their dealings with us.

The Times says that the application of business principles in the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General has reduced the estimates for the year ending June 30th, 1883, nearly 3 per cent. from the appropriations for the current year.

RAILWAY PASSES

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—Yesterday the Western trunk lines passenger association, representing 30,000 miles of railroad, adopted a resolution that they will not issue free passes to agents or employees of any steamship or transportation Co. that gives business to railroads that discriminate against the lines in the Association, and will not allow their agents to work in the interests of steamship lines opposed to the Association. There are indications of a lively contest throughout the west. The Pennsylvania R.R was represented at a meeting of the Association yesterday.

Robbery of the Late Earl Crawford's Remains.

Full details have now been received of the robbery of the body of the late Earl of Crawford and Balcarres from the marble mortuary chapel attached to the Dunecht House—his late mansion, and one of the most princely in Aberdeenshire. The details recall minutely the outrage perpetrated at St. Mark's Church in 1878 upon the remains of the late A. T. Stewart. On Thursday morning, December 1st, a laborer passing the spot on his way to his work observed that the ground on the top of the entrance to the mausoleum had been disturbed, and that the slab opposite the first step of the stairs was standing on its side supported by a stick. He communicated with the servants at the house and with all persons in the locality, and although the worst suspicions were entertained, it was decided not to enter the vault until the arrival of the commissioner and police officers from Aberdeen, who were at once summoned. When they arrived they decided to enter and examine the mausoleum. For this purpose another slab had to be lifted and two persons entered. They were horrified at the sight that met their view. Strewed upon the ground were pieces of wood and sawdust and the coffins in which the remains of the late Earl had lain were lying on the shelf in a state of wreck. The wooden erection placed in front to protect the coffin had been torn away, that the guilty parties might the more readily accomplish their task. They had then unscrewed the lid of the outer coffin, but the others were not treated so respectfully. These they cut with chisels or some sharp tools, and after making an opening in the end large enough to admit of their doing so, they pulled the remains of the noble Earl out by the feet and carried them away. The silver mountings of the coffin were untouched, which led to the belief that the main object of the robbers was ransom money. The audacity of the robbery is apparent when it is known that the spot at which the excavations were made is in full view of the windows of the mansion, and so close to the rooms in which the servants reside that the slightest noise, especially in the night time, was likely to arrest their attention. From the facts that the slabs were of immense weight it is certain [illegible] upon the soft earth near the mouth of the cry[illegible] one of the prints is that of a large shoe heavily hobnailed. Since the death of the Earl the Dowager Countess and other [illegible] of the family have resided at Dunecht. The present Earl, resident there for the shooting season, having left it only three weeks previously.—N. Y. World.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

ENGLISH EMIGRANTS AND THE CHURCH.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has written a letter to the clergy anxiously directing attention, from a Christian point of view, to the vast movements of people which for years have been going from Europe to the British colonies, especially between England and America. He says an endeavor is about to be made to establish more direct communication between the Church at home and the Colonial Church, with a view to the spiritual welfare of the emigrants. The Archbishop says the proposal has obtained the hearty consent of many Anglican Bishops in America.

—The British Board of Trade reports that for the nine months ending with September last, there were 117 railroad collisions, and 251 others trains accidents in Britain. By these trains nine passengers and seven employees were killed, and 649 passengers and 59 employees injured. By all railroad accidents 796 persons were killed, and 6,094 injured. As elsewhere, the persons killed on the road are many times the number of those killed on the trains.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25 cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

TOBY TYLER; OR, TEN WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS.

BY JAMES OTIS.

TOBY SITS DOWN ON MR. STUBBS.

CHAPTER X.

MR. STUBBS AT A PARTY.

Toby was about to say that he did not intend to represent the matter other than it really was, when a voice from behind the canvas screen prevented further conversation.

'Sam-u-el, come an' help me carry these things in.'

Something very like a smile of satisfaction passed over Signor Castro's face as he heard this, which told him that the time for the feast was very near at hand, and the snake charmer, as well as the Albino Children, seemed quite as much pleased as did the sword-swallower.

'You will excuse me, ladies and gentlemen," said the skeleton, in an important tone. 'I must help Lilly, and then I shall have the pleasure of helping you to some of her cooking, which, if I do say it, that oughtn't, is as good as can be found in this entire country.'

Then he too disappeared behind the canvas screen.

Left alone, Toby looked at the ladies, and the ladies looked at him, in perfect silence, while the sword-swallower grimly regarded all, until Mr. Treat appeared bearing on a platter an immense turkey, as nicely browned as any Thanksgiving turkey Toby ever saw. Behind him came his fat wife carrying several dishes, each one of which emitted a most fragrant odor; and as these were placed upon the table, the spirits of the sword-swallower seemed to revive, and he smiled pleasantly, while even the ladies appeared animated by the sight and odor of the good things which they were to be called upon so soon to pass judgment.

Several times did Mr. and Mrs. Treat bustle in and out from behind the screen, and each time they made some addition to that which was upon the table, until Toby began to fear that they would never finish, and the sword-swallower seemed unable to restrain his impatience.

At last the finishing touch had been put to the table, the last dish placed in position, and then, with a certain kind of grace, which no one but a man as thin as Mr. Treat could assume, he advanced to the edge of the platform, and said.

'Ladies and gentlemen, nothing gives me greater pleasure than to invite you all, including Mr. Tyler's friend Stubbs, to the bountiful repast which my Lilly has prepared for—'

At this point, Mr. Treat's speech—for it certainly seemed as if he commenced to make one—was broken off in a most summary manner. His wife had come up behind him, and, with as much ease as if he had been a child, lifted him from off the floor, and placed him gently in the chair at the head of the table.

'Come right up and get dinner,' she said to her guests; 'if you had waited until Samuel had finished his speech, everything on the table would have been stone-cold.'

The guests proceeded to obey her kindly command, and it is to be regretted that the sword-swallower had no better manners than to jump on to the platform with one bound, and seat himself at the table with most unseemly haste. The others, and more especially Toby, proceeded in a leisurely and more dignified manner.

A seat had been placed by the side of the one intended for Toby for the accommodation of Mr. Stubbs, who suffered a napkin to be tied under his chin, and generally behaved in a manner that gladdened the heart of his young master.

Mr. Treat cut generous slices from the turkey for each guest, and Mrs. Treat piled their plates high with all sorts of vegetables, complaining, after the manner of housewives generally, that the food was not cooked as she would like to have had it, and declaring that she had had poor luck with everything that morning, when she firmly believed in her heart that her table had never looked better.

After the company had had the edge taken off their appetites, which effect was produced on the sword swallower only after he had been helped three different times, the conversation began by the fat woman asking Toby how he got along with Mr. Lord.

Toby could not give a very good account of his employer, but he had the good sense not to cast a dampener on a party of pleasure by reciting his own troubles, and he said, evasively,

'I guess I shall get along pretty well, now that I have got so many friends.'

Just as he had commenced to speak, the skeleton had put in his mouth a very large piece of turkey—very much larger in proportion than he was himself—and when Toby finished speaking he started to say something evidently not very complimentary to Mr. Lord. But what it was the company never knew, for just as he opened his mouth to speak, the meat went down the wrong way, his face became a bright purple, and it was quite evident that he was choking.

Toby was alarmed, and sprang from his chair to assist his friend, upsetting Mr. Stubbs from his seat, causing him to scamper up the tent pole, with the napkin still tied around his neck, and to scold in his most vehement manner. Before Toby could reach the skeleton, however, the fat woman had darted toward her lean husband, caught him by one arm, and was pounding his back, by the time Toby got there, so vigorously that the boy was afraid her enormous hand would go through his tissue-paper like frame.

'I wouldn't,' said Toby, in alarm; 'you might break him.'

'Don't you get frightened,' said Mrs. Treat, turning her husband completely over, and still continuing the drumming process. 'He's often taken this way; he's such a glutton that he'd try to swallow the turkey whole if he could get it in his mouth, an' he's so thin that 'most anything sticks in his throat.

'I should think you'd break him all up,' said Toby, apologetically, as he resumed his seat at the table; 'he don't look as if he could stand very much of that sort of thing.'

But apparently Mr. Treat could st[illegible] more than Toby gave him [illegible] coughing [illegible] at this juncture he [illegible]

His attentive wife, seeing that he had ceased struggling, pulled him up above the chair, and sat him down with a force that threatened to snap his very head off.

'There!' she said, as he wheezed a little from the effects of the shock; 'now see if you can behave yourself, an' chew your meat as you ought to. One of these days when you're alone you'll try that game, and that'll be the last of you.'

'If he'd try to do one of my tricks long enough, he'd get so that there wouldn't hardly anything choke him,' the sword-swallower ventured to suggest, mildly, as he wiped a small stream of cranberry-sauce from his chin, and laid a well-polished turkey bone by the side of his plate.

'I'd like to see him try it!' said the fat lady, with just a shade of anger in her voice. Then turning towards her husband she said, emphatically, 'Samuel, don't you ever let me catch you swallowing a sword!'

'I won't, my love, I won't; and I will try to chew my meat more,' replied the very thin glutton, in a feeble tone.

Toby thought that perhaps the skeleton might keep the first part of that promise, but he was not quite sure about the last.

It required no little coaxing on the part of both Toby and Mrs. Treat to induce Mr. Stubbs to come down from his lofty perch; but the task was accomplished at last, and by the gift of a very large dough-nut he was induced to resume his seat at the table.

The time had now come when the duties of a host, in his own peculiar way of viewing them, devolved upon Mr. Treat, and he said as he pushed his chair back a short distance from the table, and tried to polish the front of his vest with his napkin:

'I don't want this fact lost sight of, because it is an important one. Every one must remember that we have gathered here to meet and become better acquainted with the latest and best addition to this circus, Mr. Toby Tyler.'

Poor Toby! As the company all looked directly at him, and Mrs. Treat nodded her enormous head energetically, as if to say that she agreed exactly with her husband, the poor boy's face grew very red, and the squash pie lost its flavor.

'Although Mr. Tyler may not be exactly one of us, owing to the fact that he does not belong to the profession, but is only one of the adjuncts to it, so to speak,' continued the skeleton, in a voice which was fast being raised to its highest pitch, 'we feel proud, after his exploits at the time of the accident, to have him with us, and gladly welcome him now, through the medium of this little feast prepared by my Lilly.'

Here the Albino children nodded their heads in approval, the sword-swallower gave a little grunt of assent, and thus encouraged, the skeleton proceeded:

'I feel, when I say that we like and admire Mr. Tyler, all present will agree with me, and all would like to hear him say a few words for himself.'

The skeleton seemed to have expressed the views of all present remarkably well, judging from their expressions of pleasure and assent, and all waited for the honored guest to speak.

Toby knew that he must say something, but he couldn't think of a single thing; he tried over and over again to call to his mind something which he had read as to how people acted and what they said when they were expected to speak at a dinner table, but his thoughts refused to go back for him, and the silence was actually becoming painful. Finally and by the greatest effort he managed to say, with a very perceptible stammer, and while his face was going very red:

'I know I ought to say something to pay for this big dinner that you said was gotten up for me, but I don't know what to say, unless to thank you for it. You see I hain't big enough to say much, an', as Uncle Dan'l says, I don't amount to very much 'cept for eatin', an' I guess he's right. You're all real good to me. an' when I get to be a man, I'll try and do as much for you.'

Toby had arisen to his feet when he began to make his speech, and while he was speaking, Mr. Snubbs had crawled over into his chair. When he finished, he sat down again without looking behind him, and of course sat plump on the monkey. There was a loud outcry from Mr. Stubbs, a little frightened noise from Toby, an instant's scrambling, and then boy, monkey, and chair tumbled off the platform, landing on the ground in an indescribable mass, from which the monkey extricated himself more quickly than Toby could, and again took refuge on the top of the tent pole.

Of course all the guests ran to Toby's assistance; and whilst the fat woman poked him all over to see that none of his bones were broken, the skeleton brushed the dirt from his clothes.

All this time the monkey screamed, yelled, and danced around on the tent pole and ropes as if his feelings had received a shock from which he could never recover.

'I didn't mean to end it up that way, but it was that Mr. Stubbs's fault,' said Toby, as soon as quiet had been restored, and the guests, with the exception of the monkey, were seated at table once more.

'Of course you didn't,' said Mrs. Treat, in a kindly tone; 'but don't you feel bad about it one bit, for you ought to thank your lucky stars that you didn't break any of your bones.'

I s'pose I had,' said Toby, soberly, as he looked back at the scene of his disaster, and then up at the chattering monkey that had caused all the trouble.

Shortly after this, Mr. Stubbs having again been coaxed down from his lofty position, Toby took his departure, promising to call as often during the week as he could get away from his exacting employers.

Just outside the tent he met old Ben, who said, as he showed signs of indulging in another of his internal laughing spells,

'Hello! has the skeleton an' his lilly of a wife been givin' a blow-out to you too?'

'They invited me in there to dinner,' said Toby, modestly.

'Of course they did, of course they did,' replied Ben, with a chuckle; 'they carries a cookin-stove along with 'em so's they can give these little spreads whenever we stay over a day in a place. Oh I've been there!'

'And did they ask you to make a speech?'

'Of course. Did they try it on you?'

'Yes,' said Toby, mournfully, 'an' I tumbled off the platform when I got through.'

'I didn't do exactly that,' replied Ben, thoughtfully; 'but I s'pose you got too much steam on, seein' 's how it was likely your first speech. Now you'd better go into the tent an' try to get a little sleep, 'cause we've got a long ride to-night over a rough road, an' you won't get more'n a cat-nap all night.'

'But where are you going?' asked Toby, as he shifted Mr. Stubbs over to his other shoulder, preparatory to following his friend's advice.

'I'm goin' to church,' said Ben, and then [illegible] for the first time that the old [illegible] had made some attempt at dressing [illegible] to meetin' once on Sunday. It's something I promised my old mother I would do, an' I hain't broke my promise yet.'

'Why don't you take me with you?' asked Toby, wistfully, as he thought of the little church on the hill at home, and wished—oh, so earnestly!—that he was there then, even at the risk of being thumped on the head with Uncle Daniel's book.

'If I'd seen you this mornin,' I would,' said Ben; 'but now you must try to bottle up some sleep agin to-night, an' next Sunday I'll take you.'

With these words old Ben started off, and Toby proceeded to carry out his wishes, although he rather doubted the possibility of 'bottling up' any sleep that afternoon.

He lay down on the top of the waggon, after having put Mr. Stubbs inside with the others of his tribe, and in a very few moments the boy was asleep, dreaming of a dinner party at which Mr. Stubbs made a speech, and he scampered up and down the tent pole.

HALLO! JACK FROST!

Hallo! Jack Frost!
I thought you were lost;
I was really troubled about you.
I feared, it is true,
I should have to do
The whole winter long without you!

No ice on the lakes,
Nor any snowflakes,
Nor chance for a slide in the gutters;
Our skates and sleds must
Be covered with rust,
And ruined those beautiful cutters.

That skim o'er the ground,
To the musical sound
Of bells that go jingle-a-jingle,
When soft lies the snow,
And chill breezes blow,
And hearts have a merrier tingle.

Hallo! Jack Frost!
I thought you were lost,
You are such a terrible rover,
Or else, frozen fast
To the North Pole at last,
You'd stay till the winter was over.

But here you are now,
With your frosty old pow,
And soon will the breezes mellow
Ring sharp and clear,
And shouts of cheer
Will welcome you back, old fellow!

My mittens and cap,
My skates and strap,
And sled, are ever so handy,
Just waiting for you
And your frosty crew,
My beautiful Jack-a-dandy!

And soon we'll go
Over ice and snow;
And soon will the sleigh-bells' ringing
Join in the song
Of the merry throng
Of boys and girls who are singing:

Hallo! Jack Frost!
We thought you were lost;
We were really troubled about you.
And feared, it is true,
We should have to do
The whole winter long without you!

Post Mortem Examintions have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Falling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Fellows' Hypophosphitics makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D., Amherst, N.S.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Cruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment with their very [illegible]. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Templeton, druggist, sole agent for Belleville, and County of Hastings. 172d&wly

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debility, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

...ut now good-bye, for I must fly;
Be merry to-morrow and play away;
You must laugh and be gay, not sigh and cry,
For Christ was born on Christmas Day."

The merry little man faded from Nellie's view in just the same way that the two ladies had done, and the last that she saw of him was his twinkling little eyes winking merrily at her, and the little bell at the top of his long pointed cap, as he bobbed it backward and forward. Nellie was sorry to see him go, and she looked long and earnestly, expecting that one of her three friends would return, or that perhaps another would come. As she lay thus, waiting and watching, she was aroused by the sudden slamming of a door, and all at once the beautiful music ceased, the air grew cold again, the bright green light vanished,—and Nellie suddenly found herself lying on the hard mattress, shivering with cold, and staring hard at the broad belt of silver ...nlight that streamed in through the ... window, and made a bright spot on ...door a few inches from where she was ... Just then she heard Ben's footstep ...e stairs, and she rose and went to the ... to meet him. She was so stiff and ... from having lain so long in one posi..., that she could hardly walk. She ...ened the door and stood waiting for Ben; ...ut she did not have long to wait, for Ben ...as as eager to get home as Nellie was to ...ve him come. A moment later and the ...other and sister were in each other's arms, ...ssing one another. Ben was a fine manly ...y, two years older than Nellie. He loved ...er almost as much as she did him, and was ... little father to her as well as a brother. ...e worked hard all day to support himself ...nd her, and it was all that he could do to ...eep the life in. His clothes were all old ...nd very thin. He wore his little coat-...ollar up round his neck as far as it would ...o, and kept it tied there by a bit of a woolen scarf that he had picked up somewhere. He wore a cloth cap with a peak ...o it, and had only one mitten; he carried ...he other hand in his pocket, to keep it ...arm. His shoes had been given to him ...y some kind person, and were far too big ...r him. His face was pale and thin, be...ase he did not get much good food to ...ake him strong and healthy; but his eyes ...ere large and dark and full of kindness, ...d Nellie used to think that when he ...iled his face looked like the face of Christ in the picture which hung on the wall. Now you know what kind of a fellow Ben was.

'Well, Nell,' said Ben, cheerfully, 'what sort of a day have you spent?'

Nellie did not like to make Ben sad, as she would have done if she had told him how much she had suffered from cold and ...unger, and so she answered as cheerfully ...she could, only she said she had been ... lonely without him.

...'ve had a pretty good day to-day,' said ... 'and I've brought home something. ...e's a fellow down stairs with a load of ...od, enough to last all to-night and to-morrow, and perhaps the next day. and I've got two loaves of bread instead of one, and a tin can full of milk. We'll have real bread and milk before we go to bed, Nellie.'

Then Ben went down to help the 'fellow' bring up the wood, and in a few minutes it was all piled nicely up in a corner. Then he brought in his bread and his can of milk. Nellie bustled about, and made a fire, and warmed the milk. When it was all ready she and Ben brought their stools close up to the little stove, and sat there eating their bread and milk out of little tin bowls. They were both quite contented and almost happy, and for the time forgot all about their sorrows and hardships. But Nellie's mind was full of all the wonderful things that she had just seen, and she could hardly keep from telling Ben all about it at once. Ben saw that there was something unusual on her mind, and he began to question her, but she tried to keep it from him, because she wanted to see his surprise in the morning when all the splendid things which the two ladies and the funny little man had promised would be in the room when he woke up—for Nellie did not doubt for a moment that what her three visitors promised would come true. But after she and Ben had finished their supper and were sitting with their arms around each other near the little stove, she could not keep it to herself any longer, and told him the whole story. She told him how she longed to get him a Christmas present to show her love for him; how she had gone to 'the Old Rat,' and how he had treated her; and then of all that she had seen and heard in their own room after she had returned to it.

Ben listened carefully to all she told him, and when she had got through her story he said:

'Why did you want to give me a present so much? You know that I know you love me, and all the presents in the world wouldn't make me love you more than I do. But that was a very pretty dream that you had.'

'A dream! What dream?' asked Nellie.

'Why, that dream about the two beautiful ladies and the funny little man.'

'That was not a dream,' said Nellie, a little annoyed that Ben thought she could ...ot tell the difference between a dream and ... real thing. 'I saw them with my own ...es. You'll see in the morning whether ...was a dream or not,' she added, nodding ... little head wisely at Ben.

...Oh, well, we'll see,' said Ben, laughing; ...t if I was you, Nellie, I wouldn't ex... all these nice things too much, you ..., for you might be disappointed.'

...e two children sat for a little while ... and then they lay down together on the hard mattrass to go to sleep for the night. But before they did so they knelt down side by side and repeated the prayer that the kind missionary who sometimes visited them, and who gave Nellie the picture, had taught them. They were just lying down when Nellie said: 'Oh, Ben, there's something I forgot. The kind gentleman told me that Christ said we should pray for those who use us badly. I think the Old Rat used me badly to-night, and I'm going to pray for him, and you must pray for him too.'

Ben grumbled a little at this; but he saw that Nellie wanted it, and so the two children knelt down on the floor again, and Nellie prayed aloud that God would make the Old Rat kinder and gentler and better looking, more like Christ in her picture, and that he might have as good a time to-morrow as she and Ben were going to have. Then she wanted Ben to pray for him, but Ben said he had prayed to himself. So the two children once more lay down together in peace, drew the old coverlet over them, and went to sleep in each other's arms, with the moonlight shining on their faces.

We will now return to 'the Old Rat.' Ever since he had shut the door in Nellie's face he had felt very uncomfortable. He could not drive out of his mind the image of that sweet, pale, pitiful little face looking up at him so pleadingly, and the more he thought of it the more uncomfortable he grew. When he heard Nellie sobbing in the next room he felt like going in to her and comforting her, only he thought perhaps he would frighten her. This old magician was not a bad old fellow at heart, ugly as he looked outside. He had not been used well by the world, and his temper had grown sour, and he disliked everyone, and hated to have anybody speak to him. His only friend was the fairy that he kept locked up in his great chest, and he poured out on her all the love that was in him. But away back in the far past he had had a mother that was young and beautiful, and a little sister just like Nellie, and sometimes when he would think of them his eyes would grow moist and he would get so sad that he would have to go to the fairy to be cheered up. But to-night nothing could cheer him, not even his fairy-slave. He brought her out of the chest and made her talk to him and play for him; but nothing that she could do had any effect on his spirits, and he soon clapped her back in the chest and shut down the lid. Then he walked softly to and fro on the floor, listening for some sound from the next room; but Nellie had ceased sobbing and he heard nothing. He then went out and walked up and down the street for a while, but could find no relief there. Nellie's pale, pleading little face and pitiful voice haunted him and he could not get rid of them. He came back into his room a minute or two before Ben came in, and he heard all that Nellie told him about the wonderful things that she had seen and heard during the evening. He then heard Nellie praying for him, and the thought of that sweet patient little girl praying for him because he had been cruel to her and treated her unkindly had such an effect on him that he covered his face with his hands, and lay down on the floor just on the other side of the board partition, and did what he had not done for many long years: he cried. After lying there for some time, thinking how good Nellie was and how wicked and cruel he was, an idea came suddenly into his head. He thought: 'I have had my fairy-slave for years and years, and have nearly always used her for bad purposes: now I will make her do one good thing, something that will make up for my cruelty to little Nellie.' So saying he walked to his chest, unlocked it and said to the fairy, 'You must do a good deed to-night. I want you to bring here, within an hour, all the things that were promised to little Nellie to-night by the two ladies and the little man'—and here the old magician repeated to the fairy all the things that Nellie had heard promised by her three visitors, and which she told Ben about. (You will remember that the magician heard Nellie telling Ben about all she had seen and heard.) When the fairy-slave heard what she had to do, her appearance changed at once. She grew as beautiful as an angel. A bright smile spread over her face, her hair fell around her like a golden mist, a shining star came out on her forehead, and two glimmering, transparent wings that had all the colors of the rainbow in them, became visible near her shoulders. Waving her hands, and beaming a joyous smile at her master, she vanished in a moment from the room. The old magician also went out, and came back in about an hour. When he returned he could hardly get into his room, it was so crowded with all the things that the fairy had brought. Softly the old magician carried the presents, one by one, into Ben and Nellie's room and arranged them around the mattrass where they were sleeping. After a while all the things were carried in, and the magician softly closed the door and went back into his own room.

Nellie awoke first on Christmas morning, and the first thing that she saw was a big wax doll with light curly hair, staring at her with its big black eyes. She sprang up with a scream of delight which awoke Ben, and he too jumped to his feet.

'There!' shouted Nellie; 'was it a dream, Ben?'

'Well, I'll—be—blowed!" said Ben, rubbing his eyes, and then staring stupidly at a big scroll-saw with a splendid pair of skates on top of it. 'Well, I'll—be—blowed!' he repeated. That's all he could say for a while.

Everything was there that Nellie's three visitors had promised—even to the buns and apples and nuts.

At last Ben recovered a little from his surprise, and though he could not account for all those things being there, he had to admit to Nellie that they were there, and that what she told him had come to pass.

While they were standing there in the midst of their Christmas presents, examining, admiring, and tasting them, they heard a knock at the door.

'Come in!' said Ben.

The door opened, and a nice-looking old gentleman, well dressed, and with a smile on his face, came in.

'Good morning, children; merry Christmas!' he said, in a brisk, cheery voice.

'Thank you, sir; the same to you, sir,' said Ben, while Nellie dropped a pretty little curtsey.

'I've come to ask you if I may spend Christmas with you. Don't you know me? I'm the Old Rat.'

Nellie and Ben then recognized him, and they wondered what had made the sudden change in his appearance, while they both hung their heads with shame at having called such a fine old gentleman by such a disrespectful name as 'Old Rat.'

'I suppose you wonder why I look so much better than I did last night, Nellie,' said the magician. 'Don't you remember praying that God would make me better looking? Well, he has answered your prayer. Hello! where did all these things come from?'

Then Nellie told him all the story; and when she had finished the magician asked her if she would forgive him for the harsh way in which he had treated her the night before and let him spend his Christmas with her and Ben. Nellie willingly forgave him, and the three spent the day together.

The magician told Nellie and Ben long stories and showed them a great many beautiful and curious things which his fairy-slave had brought him. In the evening he took them out for a long sleigh-drive, and when they had got back again and were in their poor little garret once more, both Ben and Nellie declared that they had never spent such a happy day in their lives.

Then the magician told them that he had no one to love him in the world, and that he would like to have them come and live with him and be his children. It did not take long for Ben and Nellie to make up their minds. They went away from the garret where they had spent so many miserable days and nights, and went to live with the magician in a nice house in another part of the city. The magician turned out to be a very rich man, and when Ben and Nellie became his children they never wanted for anything, and they grew to love their new father very dearly, for he was always kind to them. Nellie grew up to be a beautiful woman, and Ben to be a strong handsome man, but neither of them ever forgot that Christmas Eve that brought them such delight, and Christmas Eve was always, to them, the happiest time of all the year.

After that night the old magician never sent his fairy slave on any errand except good ones, and the consequence was that she grew more and more beautiful until her beauty became famous all over the land. But her master used to say that of all the good deeds which she had ever done, none had done him so much good or yielded him so much pleasure, as the work which she did on that night which he and Nellie and Ben always loved to call 'Nellie's Christmas Eve.'

CHRISTMAS SONG.

O'er the hil's night shadows steal;
Scarce a light breeze stirs;
See the Virgin mild
Clasps her new born Child!
Round the manger shepherds kneel—
Humble worshippers.
Hark! angels sing
Round their heavenly King!
'Tis for man, and not them,
Sleeps the Babe in Bethlehem.

Thou whose head to earth is lowly
Bowed in woe and shame,
When no help seems nigh
To thy piteous cry,
Think! it was not for the holy
The Redeemer came.
Hark! angels sing
Round their heavenly King!
For earth's sinful and defiled
Comes to-night the Saviour Child.

He who to the cradle brings
One pure, generous thought,
To the infant there
Brings a gift more rare
Than the gold and myrrh the kings
Of the Orient brought.
Hark! angels sing
Round their heavenly King!
'Tis for man and not for them,
Sleeps the Babe in Bethlehem.

A CHRISTMAS REVERIE.

(By W. T. Herridge, Montreal.)

The light was fading in the sacred courts,
And ghost-like shadows from the gathering night
Went sweeping through the aisles. I sat me down
Before the altar rich in cunning work,
And read the gilded symbols, which declare
That Jesus is the Saviour of mankind.
The darkness came, and like a far-off scene
Dimly discovered through the misty air,
The solemn organ rose amid the gloom
Which fast enshrouded all the wide expanse.
Yet still, as if by some fair seraph's hand
Touched with a living fire, the mystic signs
Grew brighter.
In the snowy streets without
Hunger and want wended their toilsome way,
And shiv'ring sought a momentary rest
From the rude wintry blast: and blackened vice
In forms Protean sped to deeds of sin,
Or hurried from the vengeful Nemesis
Which ever crossed its path with gleaming sword.
From casement windows fell a stream of light
Upon each passing traveller, and the shout
Of merry laughter echoed through the halls
In joyous holiday.
Within the church
These earthly sounds scarce broke the silent calm;
And other thoughts poured in upon my soul
Like music, as those golden characters
Beamed down upon like the evening star.
I felt the peace of that Judæan night,
When in the sky the glory of the Lord
Shone round about the shepherds; and I heard,
Or so it seemed, the sweet-voiced angel choir
Which sang the joyous pæan of a world.
The murmur of that tide of harmony,
Adown the ages, fell upon my ear:—
'To you is born a Saviour, Christ the Lord.'
And as again the wave of human care,
O'erflowing, rolled in current through the aisles,
And like a dreary sigh, borne on the wind,
Struck the glad anthem of my grateful heart,
And joined it to a sorrowful refrain,
I wondered why the echo of that song
Which I had seemed to hear within the church,
Did not make music in those other souls
All desolate and sad.
And as I mused,
Methought an angel touched me with his wing,
And taught me how that Christ must save the soul
Through faith, and our impious, rebel pride
Would fain, like Herod, slay the infant King,
Because He is the Saviour of mankind!
And as I listened to the strange, sad tale,
And still beheld the solemn darkness, riven
By those bright signs of flame, which ever grew
To fuller lustre in the deep'ning night,
With rev'rent lips I breathed a silent prayer:—
'O Son of man, the meaning of whose work
Burns full upon me from this radiant glow
Amid the darkness; be the Light of all
Through the o'ermastering gloom of woe and sin;
Subdue the evil which with serpent's guile
Lurks in our hearts, and guide our trembling feet,
Dear, tender Shepherd of the erring fold,
Beyond all signs which but distort the gaze,
To the strong refuge of Thy loving arms.
O make perpetual Christmas in our lives
By Thine indwelling there!'

Mistletoe at Christmas Tide.

The hanging of the Mistletoe is the cause of much frolic and laughter in the house. It is a rule that whoever is passing under the mistletoe-bough must submit to being kissed then and there by whosoever chooses to take that liberty. As a bough usually hangs from the centre of the ceiling, spreading over a large space, it follows that there must be much dodging or much kissing. I am inclined to think that there are both.

The origin of this use of the mistletoe is not known; but we know that more than eighteen hundred years ago, when the glad stars sang together over a manger at Bethlehem, and wise men brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to a young child in the peasant mother's arms, England was a chill, mist-covered island, inhabited only by savages who wore garments of skins, and lined in huts of mud and stone. Among these savage Britons there were pagan priests called Druids. These priests were a mysterious folk, who lived in dense woods far away from other men, and who, in the gloomy solitude of the forest, perfound strange, secret ceremonies. The "sacred groves," as they are called were of oak; for the oak was a divine tree, according to Druidic religion. W..., in latter centuries, England was taught the Christian religion by the priests who went thither from Rome, the people, though professing a belief in Christ, retained many of their heathenish rites and customs changed from their original meaning and purpose. At any rate, from the Druids has come the modern usage of the mistletoe-bough, strangely preserved in festivities which commemorate the birth of Him whose pure worship destroys all heathen superstitions.

A Kiss Under the Mistletoe.

'You are really going to hang up that sprig of mistletoe, Winifred?' said the stately Gertrude Ponsonby to her gay young sister, as she was arranging the decorations for a Christmas party, on a bright, cold, December day.

'I certainly am, Queen Gertrude. Have you an objection?' asked Winnifred, demurely, looking up in the face of her elder sister, whom she dearly loved, devotedly admired, and unscrupulously teased.

Winnifred burst into a hearty laugh.

'Poor darling! Refined! Perfect pity!' she said, throwing her arms around her sister's neck and kissing her, like a spoiled child as she was.

'Don't be alarmed; Louis St. Aubyn shall be duly informed that the magic circle is reserved for fast damsels and children, and that Miss Ponsonby has no connection with either party. There, only see how beautiful it looks! And by the way I asked old Stamford to find a white camellia for your hair, my Queen, and he promised to rumage the conservatory for the said blossm. Will that plead mp pardon?' she added, coaxingly.

'You are a provoking little creature; and Heaven help the man who ventures on such a tiresome, wilful darling,' returned the elder sister, returning the girl's kisses with a protecting fondness.

'Ah, he would certainly be insane to attempt it, in the first instance!' returned the girl, dancing off in glee.

And Gertrude, grandly beautiful as she was, almost gave the palm of attraction, with a generous though doubting sigh, to the petite and piquant fairy.

They were the daughters of a widowed mother, but in easy circumstancesi that enabled them to live in simple elegance, and mingle with the pleasant circle in their neighborhood; while the residence of a bachelor brother of their father's within a short distance of their villa, gave always the sanction of a host to their entertainments when they required his presence.

Within the last twelve months a very pretty place in the immediate neighborhood had been purchased by a gentleman named St. Aubyn, a widower with an only son.

The father was a great invalid; but Louis had become so completely domesticated at the Larches, (Mrs. Ponsonby's residence), and his father was so charmed with the high-bred mother and pretty daughters resident there, that the families had formed a closer intimacy than is sometimes the growth of years.

Still, if there was any tenderer feeling than friendship on Louis St. Aubyn's part for his fair young neighbors, no one appeared to decide for which of the girls it was entertained; and it would have been difficult for the closest observer to say whether the stately blonde Gertrude or the piquant brunette Winifred engrossed the largest portion of the young man's attention and thoughts. At any rate, neither of the parents appeared to object to the probable circumstances of such an intimacy. Perhaps, as usual, they were blind to the feelings springing up before their eyes.

The evening arrived.

Gertrude was nearly ready; but though the beautiful hair was arranged in its most becoming style, she stood in a sort of dissatisfied pause before the chevelglass.

'This horrid crimson flower will never do!' she murmured fretfully. 'My pale blue silk can never stand such a vulgar contrast.'

And she glanced despairingly around at the fairy dress—all trimmed with delicate white lace, that accorded so well with her pale skin and soft bloom.

It was very trying, doubtless, for the only resource from the crimson camellia was an artificial flower, which had already done duty at two balls and a dinners.

But there was no alternative, and with a deep sigh, she seized the French spray of lilies of the valley, which was her pissaller, and was in the very act of raising it to her hair, when Winifred burst joyously in.

'See, Gerty! here's a lovely white camellia—with such leaves! I never saw anything to equal them! There, be quick! See, I am dressed already!'

And very charming the little creature looked in her amber and black costume, that contrasted so well with her brilliant eyes and hair.

Gertrude gazed with delighted surprise.

'How good of old Stamford; I suppose he found me one at last, she said. And what a beauty it is—like waxwork.'

She placed it among her fair braids as she spoke, while Winifred archly pinned a slip of paper on the toilette table.

Gertrude's eyes rapidly caught the words, 'To Miss Ponsonby—from L. St. A.'

'There, queen Gertrude, I hope you are happy now;' said Winifred, gaily. 'But make haste down stairs. I only hope the mistletoe will not spoil all,' she added demurely, as she danced out of the room.

Gertrude soon followed. The slip of paper had disappeared when the maid entered to clean the room immediately afterwards.

Perhaps it was thrown away.

* * * * *

Louis St. Aubyn did not appear till an unusually late hour, and Gertrude's card was filled up far more closely than she wished in his absence; and it was while she was waltzing with one gentleman, and just before a rapidly succeeding quadrille, for which she was claimed by another, that he came into the ball room, and requested her first disengaged dance.

Poor Gertrude fancied he looked cold and formal; perhaps her own manner was somewhat piqued and annoyed; for he went off, and at the end of the quadrille he was not visible till she caught sight of him at the side of a delicate lovely looking girl, to whom he was talking with great interest.

She did not even know her, and co... only suppose that some of their guests ... brought an unexpected visitor int... party.

And Louis gave an ...ch smile, and bending down, whispered something that brought the color to the girl's fair cheeks.

Gertrude dared scarcely breathe her very heart was choked and swelled with grief, at shame and indignant pride ... ...ere Louis spoke once more, and her ... strained to listen to the words.

'Yes, Ada, we can, I trust, both be happy now; but this is scarcely the time to enter on all I have to say. We must return; and I want to find Gertrude for the next dance. Hist!—By jove!—what a sprig of mistletoe! just the very thing for the occasion!' and, drawing the fair Ada under the branch, he pressed a kiss on her lips.

She laughed—blushed—and with a half arch, half reproving tap on his arm with her fan, they went off together in the direction of the ballroom. Poor Gertrude! she sat cold and sick, as if stricken by sudden illness.

She never had guessed, never confessed the extent of her love for Louis St. Aubyn till now.

And to hear such words, when actually wearing on her brow his volunteered gift, when she could recall such numberless looks and words, and even gestures, that could scarcely be interpreted as aught but the indication of honorable love.

It was a terrible blow, and one that fell very hard on a singularly proud and deep nature.

She had committed herself. She had given Winifred the insight into her mind. What could she do? Where could she hide herself till she had crushed down the agony, and taught herself to wear a mask that could not but deceive her nearest and dearest?

She felt that her very face must be wan and haggard, her voice constrained. She must wait till the first shock was over, and then brave all, and suffer torture like a Spartan or stage Indian.

So with dry, tearless eyes and a cold hand, which mocked the burning brow it supported, she rested on a small couch in the recess, and listened mechanically to the music and dancing and only wondered when the advent of the party to supper might risk her discovery, and cause a search for the missing daughter of the house.

She closed her aching eyes in utter weakness. Life seemed so dark to her now.

How could she ever trust anyone more, even if this deep pain was conquered?

The music and the tread of feet sounded as if the crowd had actually gone frantic. How could anyone be so happy, so gay, and she so miserable?

Gertrude never knew how the minutes passed by till they certainly lengthened into an hour.

A kind of a dull apathy stole over her, and a voice said softly and doubtingly, 'Gertrude—dear Gertrude, what is this?' she started as if in a deep slumber.

'Mr. St. Aubyn! This is extraordinary,' she said, gaspingly. 'What could bring you here—in my private retreat?'

'I came to find you, Gertrude; your mother is anxious about you. She fears you are ill, to have left the dance so long.'

'I am quite well. I will go to—to mamma,' she murmured. 'I am not wanted. Please to leave me, Mr. St. Aubyn.'

'Not wanted? Not by me—and you have not danced with me yet, Gertrude,' he said, reproachfully.

'You must excuse me. No doubt you would only be missed elsewhere—where you ought to be,' she said, irritated at his seeming treachery.

He stood for a moment in wondering silence. Then, to her excessive annoyance, he gave a slight but irresistable laugh.

'Can it be?—and I so happy?—are you, indeed, resenting a perhaps, natural mistake?' he said, a bright flash of triumph illumining his features.

Gertrude's eyes were downcast, and a dawn of suspicion that she might have been too hasty came on her mind.

'Perhaps you may have been here when I brought my cousin here for air, and for a few moments' talk after her long absence,' he said, with an arch smile, 'and to exchange mutual confidences, dear Gertrude?'

'I—I really do not know—it is no affair of mine,' she said, reddening, and trying to rise and pass him; but he stood before her.

'No, Gertrude, not till you have heard the explanation which is due to you, after all I have said in manner if not in words' he said firmly. 'The simple truth is, that my cousin Adelaide Fance, who has been as a sister to me since boyhood has just unexpectely returned with her mother to our house, and I knew I might venture to bring them to your party, even at the last moment. She had been betrothed most happily in her absence, and I was exchanging congratulations, with her on her real and my wished for happiness, when we strolled in here, and, I believe, enacted a foolish piece of sentiment into the bargain,' he added, with a glance at the mistletoe.

'Gertrude, 'he resumed, drawing her more daringly towards him 'can you not guess what was the happiness I hoped for that I wished Adelaide to sympathize in? Will you not tell me whether you can love me, and whether this dear hand is to be given for life as well as for the dance, to Louis St. Aubyn, your true lover?'

She certainly did not speak; but then said hand told a great deal instead of the lips.

And when they went in to supper Adelaide Fance's dark eyes looked significantly at her cousin and his companion when they passed near the mistletoe beugh.

But Louis did not take advantage of its privilege. Perhaps he scarcely acknowledged its necessity in his present happy case.

Three months after, Gertrude and Adelaide were married on the same day to the lovers of their choice; and some twelve months after, when Winifred followed their example. Mrs. Fance and Mrs. Ponsonby agreed to share the home of the latter. But, so long as she lived, Gertrude preserved that memorable branch of the mistletoe.

Christmas—Its Ancient C...

Christmas! we love thee dearly, not only for thy sacred associations, but for thy old and beautiful historic recollections.

Among the primitive Christians, the festival of the Saviour's nativity was ushered in by the display of calm, religious feeling, unmingled with the consideration of mere worldly enjoyments; but in course of time, when this important feast of the Christian Church had come to be incorporated with those heathen rites of the northern nations, which were celebrated towards the end of the year, it degenerated, for the most part, into a mere display of boisterous festivity. Such was it during the Anglo-Saxon period and such it continued under the line of Norman kings; though one good feature connected with the celebration of the Christmas festival by these latter monarchs was the practice that prevailed with them of assembling upon the occasion the chief prelates and nobles of the kingdom, when the general affairs of the country were taken into consideration. As a relief, however, to these grave deliberations, the guests were feasted with a series of grand banquets; and one of the metrical romances of the period has the following allusion to the circumstance:

"Christmas is a time full honest;
King Richard it honored with great feast.
All his clerks and barons
Were set in their pavilions,
And served with great plenty
Of meat, and drink, and each dainty."

The company were, it is true, served with "meat and drink in great plenty;" for we find it recorded, that at several of the entertainment of the period, as many as thirty thousand dishes were set before the famished guests. Many of the dishes would, no doubt, be regarded as questionable by modern tastes; but our ancestors loved them. The favorite dish was however, the boar's head, of which much has been spoken and sung. Days thus spent in feasting and deliberation gave place to nights of revelry, at which masques and mummings, varied with games of chance, and the tricks of jugglers and mountebanks, formed the chief features of the evening's entertainment. A continual round of pleasure was thus kept up throughout the whole of the twelve days forming the feast of Yule; and it was rarely, until the expiration of the closing night's debauch, that a time was found for the return to a more sober course of proceeding.

Chaucer, five hundred years ago, in his racy verse, preserved the most exact description of the Christmas of the age in which he lived. It furnishes us, however, with few points to dwell upon. We therefore are not enabled to illustrate the customs and festivities of the Christmas season among our forefathers at this early period of our history. The material for this purpose we are obliged to cull from more obscure sources. The earliest writers on the festivities of the Christmas season speak of the custom of decking houses and churches with evergreens, and therefore it appears to us that it must be of very ancient date, it being, in fact, one of those ancient remnants of paganism, which although forbidden by the councils of the early Christian Church, had obtained too great a hold on the prejudices of the people to be readily relinquished, as its transmission down to the present day, all over Europe, serves to prove. The holly and the ivy have been the favorite evergreens throughout Great Britain and Ireland for the above purpose. They are regarded as sacred emblems of the season, even to the present day. Indeed, it is not Christmas unless the village church is handsomely decked out with them, and likewise the cottage parlors. In Ireland especially this custom is carried almost to extravagance, and, indeed, also in England. The humblest cottage and the poorest church have their share of the holly and ivy; every picture is crowned with them; and the more historic the picture, the larger the quantity placed over it. Heathenish though it may seem to be, it has beautiful associations, and when we remember the number of centuries it has been the custom, we surely cannot blame the people for having a reverence for it, particularly when all classes, from the highest to the lowest, revere it.

Passing now to the Elizabethan age, we find that that female sovereign, although she possessed but little of the gentleness of her sex, brought her influence to bear in refining the manners of her courtiers, and with no object beyond the gratification of her own vanity, converted them into so many beaux chevaliers, who did homage to her person, more, perhaps, because she was a woman, than by reason of her position as a queen. However, the Reformation, and the introduction of printing, had begun to produce their fruits, and before then the barbarism of the national manners was slowly but surely to be eradicated. A keen woman, with a large share of common sense, she readily discerned all this, and resolved to change the customs of her own household; but among the many changes which she effected, none were, perhaps, more apparent than in the festive entertainment of the time.

None suffered so much from these innovations as the once highly rewarded minstrel; he, who had been in past times the soul of the tournament, and the welcome guest at every banquet, was now a street "ballad singer," or ale house fiddler, chanting forth from "benches or barrel heads to a small audience of gaping rustics; and, as if the degradation of these despised and unhoused favorites of former days had not been enough, the law made them more vile, obliging them to perform their merry offices in fear and trembling. Minstrels were now looked on as vagabonds, and made liable to the same penalties."

One of the most distinguishing features of the Christmas festivities of this era, was the custom which, originating in the reign of Henry VII., was now at its height, of appointing a Lord of Misrule, or ...ef of Merry Disports, who exercised ...ries days' sway, perpetrating within ... of a while a sufficient number of of these to be repented of during the the special long life. Not only ...ign and her Christmas princes appoint selected a entertainment of ... the festivities court, but every ...ding to old Stow, similar officer to ... the house of every of the season, ...ood worship, were he there was ...al." noblemen ... town and country vied spirit ... as to which should exhibit ... extravagance in the preparation ... 'Men may talk of country Christmasses,
Their thirty-pound butter'd eggs, their pies of carps' tongues,
Their pheasants drenched with ambergris, the carcasses
Of three fat wethers bruised for gravy, to Make sauce for a single peacock; yet their feasts
Were fasts, compared with the city's."

Immediately after matin service, the 'fine old English gentleman' stood at his own gate, and superintended the distribution of alms to the aged and destitute. At dawn, all his tenants were welcomed to his holly-decorated hall; the strong beer (our readers must remember that in the time of which we write all parties indulged in this beverage, and temperance societies were, it is to be regretted, unknown,) and 'black jacks went plentifully about, with cheese, ...gar, nutmeg, and good Cheshire ...' thor, 'were ... servants,' writes an old author, with merry heart running here and there, every one was busy ... jolly countenances; and looked as smug as ... coming of guests, Pug would scuttle about ...ed puppies, for John, while Tom ran har... ... a toast ... to draw a jug for Margery.'

We have already alluded to the superstitions of the people; but we cannot close this paper without narrating a few of them. Numerous and beautiful were the opinions which popular superstition formerly entertained respecting the Vigil of the feast of the Nativity—many of which still linger among the rural population. Perhaps the finest of them is that alluded to by Shakspeare in the following lines:

'Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes
Wherein our Saviour's birth was celebrated,
A bird of dawning singeth all night long;
Then, they say, no spirt dares stir abroad;
...ts are wholesome; then no planets ...
No fai... ...kes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallo... and so gracious is the time."

Accord... bird of da..., it was supposed that 'the ... long' to scare' (the cock) sang 'all night ... festing the ... all evil things from in-... peasantry in ... fixed hours. Many of the ... England, still ... southwestern counties of ... be found kneeling that the cattle are to ... as if in reverence ... midnight of this vigil, ... miraculous birth.

The bees, too, are said to sing at the same hour in their lives. 'These,' remarks an excellent author, 'are superstitions; but superstitions based on the principle of education, and as purely poetry as the Iliad.' Brand relates that a Cornish peasant told him, in 1790, of his having, with some others, watched several oxen in their stalls, on the eve of old Christmas day, and that "at twelve o'clock they observed the two oldest oxen fall upon their knees and (as he expressed it in the idiom of the country) make a cruel moan like Christian creatures.' Mr. Howison, in his 'Sketches of Upper Canada' tells a similar anecdote. He mentions meeting an Indian, at midnight, creeping cautiously along, in the stillness of a beautiful moonlight Christmas eve. The Indian made signals to him to be silent: and when questioned as to his reason, replied: 'Me watch to see the deer kneel; this is Christmas night, and all the deer fall upon their knees to the Great Spirit, and look up.'

The custom of wassailing the fruit trees on the eve of Twelfth Day, by the Devonshire farmers, was a very old one. They would proceed to their orchards in the evening, accompanied by their farm servants, who carried with them large pitchers or milk-pails, filled with cider. In each orchard one tree was selected as the representative of the rest, and saluted with a certain form of words; then would they immerse cakes in cider and hang them on the apple-tree; after which they sprinkled the tree, pronounced their incantation, danced right merrily round it, and then went home to feast. This was done in order that the trees might bear much fruit, as we learn from the following old verse:

"Wassail the trees that they may bear
You many a plum and many a pear;
For more or less fruits they will bring,
As you do give them wassailing."

The following curious custom is related by Waldron:

"In the Isle of Man, on the 24th of December, toward evening, all the servants have a holiday; they go not to bed all night, but ramble about till the bells ring in all the churches, which is at twelve o'clock; prayers being over, they go to hunt the wren; and, after having found one of these poor birds, they kill her, and lay her on a bier; bring her to the parish church, and bury her with a 'whimsical kind of solemnity,' singing dirges over her in the Manks language, which they call her knell; after which Christmas begins."

At Dewsbury, Yorkshire, one of the church bells is tolled, as at a funeral, on Christmas eve; and any one asking whose bell it was, would be told that it was the 'devil's knell.' The moral of it is that 'the devil died when Christ was born.' This custom was discontinued for many years, but revived by the vicar in 1828.

In ancient times, on Christmas eve, every one kept watch, like the shepherds, while minstrels chanted carols in celebration of the nativity. In the Isle of Man this observance is still retained. Similar to our own custom of watching out the old year, is that kept by the people of this island. In vast numbers they assemble at church, where the Divine office is solemnized, they remaining in the sacred edifice, singing carols, till midnight.

But the picturesque ceremonies and rude festivities that distinguished the Christmas of bygone days had passed away, and we cannot say that we regret them. Too thankful ought we to be to have lighted upon a more civilized age, and to have escaped all the troubles, dangers, and miseries, with which the "good old times" were so thickly beset. The mummings of our ancestors, the Yule Log, and the Wassail Bowl, are beyond revival, and even the Christmas Carol, common in our own days, is fast falling into desuetude. The practice of decking the churches and houses with evergreens, may now be said to be the only existing custom of old Christmas. It is decidedly the most honored. The boar's head has, however, still a place in the Christmas banquet at Oxford University, and on odd occasions at a few of the mansions of the nobility. At Oxford it is brought to the high table in the Hall, while an altered version of the old carol, printed by Wynkin de Worde, is chanted forth by a band of attendant choristers.

Rome may now be said to be the only place where the most ridiculous customs are practiced. Singular superstitions are believed in by the lower classes of the people, many of which could not be credited in this country. Much carousing is carried on, and during the whole of the night prec... ...istrel are heard in the Ca... ...ient author says:

...evening the decorators are busy ...ing the churches, clothing the altars and festooning facades. Nuns and ladies are preparing dresses, crowns, necklaces and cradles, for the Madonna and Child of their respective churches. The cannons of St. Angela announce the festival; shops are shut, and saloons deserted. The midnight supper and the midnight bands begin the holy revel; and the splendid pomp in which the august ceremonies are performed at the churches of the Quirinal, St. Louis, and the Ara Coeli, is succeeded by a banquet, of which even the poorest child of indigence contrives to partake. The people from the mountains of the Campagna flock in to witness and to enjoy the fete, and present a strange sight of wild figures amid the inhabitants of the city. The churches are lit up with thousands of wax tapers; the Cradle of Christ is removed from the shrine at the chapel of Santa Maria Maggiore, and caried in procession to the chapel of the Santa Croce; and the Pope himself performs Divine service in the Sistine Chapel."

Our space will not allow us to descant upon such Continental customs as appertain to the Vigil of the Nativity; one, however, peculiar to Germany, we must allude to. The children made little presents to their parents, and to each other, and the parents to their children. On the evening before Christmas a great bough of yew or birch is fastened up by the children, in one of the parlors where the parents must not go. This bough is then illuminated with tapers, and colored paper hangs and flutters from the twigs. Under this they lay out, in great order, the presents they mean for their parents, still concealing in their pockets what they intend for each other. Then the parents are introduced, and each presents his little gift; they then bring out the remainder, one by one, from their pockets, and present them, with kisses and embraces. On the next day, in the great parlor, the parents lay on the table the gifts for their children. A scene of sober joy succeeds; as, "on this day, after an old custom, the mother tells secretly to each of her daughters, and the ... was ... his sons, that which he has ... HE WAS DOUBTLESS A TRAMP.—From Harper's Weekly.

JOHN PAUL

[From HARPER'S WEEKLY, Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. Sent to any address in Canada, postage prepaid, for one year, on receipt of Four Dollars.]

He was doubtless a tramp. His worn and dusty dress, his crushed felt hat, his dirty shoes, and the checkered muslin shirt tied at the neck with a bit of rusty black ribbon, and the little bundle borne on his shoulder from the end of a stout stick, told the story plainly. Added to this was the beard of a week's growth, except the mustache, which had not been touched by a razor. He was rather a gay and good-looking fellow for all that, with a keen eye, an open countenance, and a well-knit figure, and he strode along as though he felt that the wandering idler was really the king of other men, and tramping a superior art.

Presently he threw down his stick and bundle, and made a leap i oad, just in time to stop a runaway hor long reins flapping about his feet the waggon behind him swaying from the side. The occupants of the wagg couple as old-fashioned as the carry-all which they sat, had been frantically cryin to the horse to stop, and now that some one had stopped him, were profuse in their thanks.

'Bob is not vicious,' said the man, whose language and dress showed him to belong to the Society of Friends. 'but two geese flew across the road, and before I knew it he had jerked the reins out of my hands and started on a run. I'm obliged to thee for if thee hadn't caught him, he might have spilled us over the high bank below there.'

The tramp nodded, and turned to go, when the woman spoke.

'Friend,' she said, 'thee has split thy coat up the back.'

'Have I?' returned the tramp, feeling for the rent. So I have. I must get it mended somewhere.'

'As thee did it helping us—' said the man, putting his hand in his pocket,

'I bar that,' said the tramp, raising his hand, and showing with a laugh a set of white teeth. I don't take money for stopping horses; but I thank you for your intention.'

'I tell thee what to do, friend—I don't know thy name,' said the woman.

The tramp smiled again, and said, 'You may call me John Paul, if you choose.'

'Well, friend Paul, does thee see that white house among the trees, off from the road back yonder? Thee go there, and say to Rachel—that's our niece—that her uncle and aunt, Mahlon and Naomi Stacy, sent thee, and ask her to sew thy coat for thee. She'll make it passable at least.'

'Thank you, ma'am; I'll do so.'

The tramp removed his battered felt hat, made a bow rather more courtly than might have been expected, and the parties pursued their several ways.

A brisk two minutes' walk brought John Paul to the lane leading from the road to the Stacy farm-house. Down this lane he turned, and when half way in it, heard a woman scream. The next minute a pretty yung girl. with her hair flying o pped shoulders, ran out of the house, ing. The a great, burly, rough fellow served the whet he saw the other tr doubt whether girl kept on, but when new-comer, stopped inquired John Paul. it was not a con !' gasped the girl.

'Anythin ps, and tramps. The one Th advanced was of the baser sorry, whiskey-sodden, and brutal. to w at do you mean by frightening this g lady?'

Take it easy, pard,' rejoined the big tramp, grinnin 'The gal give me a lunch, an' I wa d to sweeten the victuals with a kiss. Th 's no bones broke.'

John Paul's fa reddened. He took off on the palings of the se.

'Now,' said he, qu etly, 'you'll leave,'

'When I get good 'n' ready,' answered the other, insolently.

'No, sir—now.'

'Ha! ha! Suppose you spell able. Do you see that?' and he thrust his fist under the nose of the younger man.

It was dashed aside suddenly, and the right hand of John Paul fell with full force between the eyes of the tramp, who fell, doubled in a heap. He was up in an instant, to go down again by another facer. Picking himself up he made a rush with both arms extended toward his opponent. It was impossible to parry this, and it was not attempted. Paul stepped suddenly aside, and before his antagonist could recover himself, caught him on the throat with his right arm, and suddenly bending him over his own extended knee, threw the great mass of flesh to the ground with a force that made quite an audible sound. The ruffian lay there for a minute or so motionless.

'Thee hasn't killed him?' timidly inquired the girl.

'No, miss,' said John Paul, 'but I've given his backbone a jar that makes him sick of fighting. Come, sir, get up,' he added, as the man began to stir; 'pick yourself up and go, or I'll give you more of it, and worse.'

'I'm goin',' said the other, rising slowly, and rubbing his back—"I'm goin', boss. But I say, you ain't a man; you're a steam-ingine, you are.'

As soon as the fellow had dragged himself out of sight, John Paul took his coat, and finding on inquiry that the girl's name was Rachel, gave her the message of her aunt. He followed her, at her request, to the house, where he seated himself on the back veranda while Rachel, coat in hand, dissappeared in the kitchen.

In a few minutes she came out. 'There is my coat, friend, as good as new: it was only ripped in the seam, not torn, and—Oh dear! There is that vexatious Crumple in the garden again!'

Paul looked, and saw that a cow had got into an enclosure not meant for browsing ground and volunteered to get her out. It did not prove an easy job, however; and by the time he had managed to overcome her dodges and manœuvres, and finally got the brute safely into the barn-yard, he saw the farmer and his wife drive in, and knew from her manner that Rachel was telling them all about the fight. As he came forward to reclaim his mended coat, Mahlon Stacy met him with a beaming countenance.

'Thee has placed me under obligation again, friend Paul,' he said. 'I hear thee was obliged to resort to force. It is against the principles of Friends, but since thee had to do it, I'm glad to learn thee did it well. A big man too, for I think the one we met with blood on his face was the one thee dealt with.'

'There was no trouble in handling him, The matter is not worth speaking of. only too glad to have been of service young lady.' With these words he won thee'lnd,' cried the farmer. At the supper table, John coun-ing minute inquiry, let them kful he lived in New York when at hon gave them some account of the metr of which they had heard, but never and did it in a plain and lucid way th showed he kept his eyes open during hi tramping.

After supper Mahlon Stacy and John Paul sat on the veranda while the women-folk were clearing the table, and the former, after two or three preliminary hems, spoke his mind.

'Thee was looking for work, perhaps, friend?'

'No, I can't say that I was.'

'Thee would take a job if thee could one, maybe?'

'That depends on what it is.'

'Can thee mow?' ung man's face.

A smile broke over th 'I did learn how 'Not very well,' he s —when I—when I— to swing a scyth a month in the hay sea- was on a far ot an expert mower.' son; but ight come by practice,' rejoined 'T er. 'You see, my man was ob- t to leave me before the hay is all made —and when I met thee I was going after some one to take his place, and did not succeed. Thee might be of help if thee would, and I would give thee fair wages.'

'Well, sir, it is new business for me; but I'll do the best I can for you till you can do better; and as for the wages, we'll not differ on that.'

'Then thee'll stay here, and we'll tackle the south field to-morrow,' exclaimed th farmer, joyously. 'Naomi, thee'll go room ready for friend Paul. He's goir help with the hay.'

The fourth day it rained so that out-door work was stopped. The farmer and John sat in the kitchen, the farmer in a rather downcast mood. John watched Rachel's motions for some time, as she moved about gracefully, and then took a book which lay upon the shelf, and began reading. Mahlon smiled grimly.

'If thee likes to read, he said, 'there is No cross, No Crown, and Barclay's Apology in the sitting-room. This is a foolish book of poetry that Rachel delights in. But it can do no one any good. It is funny in parts though.'

It was Hood's Poems. 'Some of this is by no means funny,' said John, 'the 'Bridge of Sighs,' for instance.'

'I don't remember. Will thee read it out?'

John read the poem, and in a way that no one there had heard—read it with feeling and force.

'Thee reads remarkably well, John,' said Mahlon.

'Poor creature!' said Naomi. She referred to the heroine, and not to John.

Rachel said nothing, but her eyes were full of tears.

On Saturday John got two hours' leave of absence, and returned with a bundle, which he carried to his room. The next day he came down to breakfast in a new light suit. Mahlon made no comments, but after breakfast asked John if he would go with them to the Friends' meeting, or to some other place of worship, or would stay at home. 'We go to meeting, of course; but Rachel's father was 'Piscopal, and Rachel goes there. Then there's the Methodists and Presbyterians.'

'I shall go to the Episcopal church,' said John.

'Ah! Well, we drop Rachel at the cross-road, always, and thee can get out there.'

So John walked from the getting-out place to the church, which was a missionary chapel, where the rector of an adjoining parish gave a service every alternate Sunday. There were few attendants, and the coming of a fine-looking young man made a sensation. When service was over, however, and they all came out, some one whispered that the new-comer was "Mahlon Stacy's hired man," and the sensation died out.

Absalom Browning was waiting in his buggy.

'Shall I drive thee home, Rachel?' he asked.

'Thank thee, no, Absalom. I came in the carry-all with uncle and aunt, and they'll stop for me at the corner.'

Absalom walked alongside, however, leading his horse and talking to Rachel, and John fell behind. When they came to the corner, Mahlon and his wife were already there, and Absalom renewed his request. Rachel made no demur, for Naomi said it would relieve their horse with one less in. John smiled to himself. The aunt favored the courting.

The summer months came and went. Absalom Browning came and went once a week, and sometimes twice, and John Paul remained on a farm. He grew to be a favorite, and his activity and physical strength, with his great good-nature, made him popular with the young men around. Absalom did not like him, however. With Rachel he got along famously. She had been his friend from the first, never forgetting his opportune championship. Then he read so beautifully, and was full of tales of adventure, for, according to his own account, he had travelled a great deal. In his wanderings he had picked up a deal of knowledge too, as leaked out bit by bit, and he bade fair to make a good farmer, so the farmer liked him too. But Mahlon, whose spirits had been getting lower and lower, at length grew quite gloomy, and his gloom was shared by his wife, and even infected Rachel.

The cause of this trouble John Paul learned one day from the talkative clerk at the store where the Stacys dealt, and with it he got some of the family history. It appeared that Rachel Taylor, the younger sister of Mahlon's wife, had eloped and married with Gordon Forsyth, a gay and wealthy young gentleman from New York, who had accidentally met and fallen in love with her. Rachel had been 'disowned' for marrying 'out of meeting,' but worse followed. Forsyth, who was on the downward course, soon got tired of his pretty wife, resumed his dissipation, and was drowned while drunk two years afterward, leaving his widow with a one-year-old child. Rachel Forsyth did not long survive her husband, who proved to have been at his death baukrupt. He had managed to get Mahlon Stacy, who believed in him, to become bondsman in a case involving, it afterward turned out, a questionable transaction. Mahlon paid the judgment, but was obliged to mortgage the farm, which had been in the Stacy family for four generations. He adopted the little Rachel, sent her to the West Town school to be educat- e and bit by bit accumulated money suf- ient to discharge the mortgage. The ank in which he kept his savings broke, and he not only lost his store, but was unable to meet the interest for a year. The mortgage was in other hands—a rich New-Yorker held it—and proceedings to foreclose had been begun. If Rachel married Absalom Browning, who was rich himself and a rich man's son, there would be no difficulty. 'They say that Rachel hangs back,' concluded the clerk. 'I raythor guess she'll give in at last. That's the way Mahlon 'll pull through, in my judgment.'

John came home after hearing all this, and found Absalom Browning there. young Quaker was got up quite smar in plain clothes, to be sure, but his bellied coat was of the finest olive-broadcloth, and his broad-brimmed hat of the very best beaver. He remained to supper, and was treated with marked consideration by the farmer and his wife. Rachel seemed to be a little embarrassed. John glanced at her a little curiously, but she avoided his eye. The hired man went out after he had eaten his supper, attended to the horses and cattle, and, this done, came into the house. It was usual for the family to sit together for an hour or two after supper before retiring to rest. It was their main recreation from daily labor. But the old couple had retired, and John retired also, leaving the younger couple together.

John sat at the window in the dark, looking out on the night, and thinking. In a little while Absalom Browning left, and he heard the wheels of his wagon driven after the fashion of Jehu, the son of Nimshi. Then he heard the light step of Rachel on the stairs on her way to rest.

The next morning John went out early to see to the horses and cattle. When he returned to breakfast he observed Mahlon was curt and monosyllabic of speech, Naomi gloomy, and Rachel distressed. John ate his meal silently, and then went to the field with Mahlon. But he soon made an excuse to return to the house. Rachel was alone there, seated with her face buried in her hands, and so intent on her thoughts that she did not hear him come in.

'What is the trouble, Rachel?' he asked.

The girl started up, and the blood rushed to her face, but she made no reply.

'Is it to be a wedding?' he continued.

'John Paul, thee's—thee's—'

'Or did you send Absalom B. about his business last night?'

'What is that to thee, John? Uncle is displeased with me, aunt is sorry, and now thee must—What is it to thee whether I have or not?'

'Rachel,' he said, taking her trembling hand, and retaining it in spite of her effort to withdraw it, 'it is everything to me, for I love you dearly.'

The eyes of the girl filled with a sudden light. 'Thee! thee love—me!'

John read the answer to his question before he put it, and drew the sobbing Rachel to his breast.

How long they stood there neither could tell, but at the sound of Mahlon Stacy's heavy step on the verandah, Rachel made her escape.

'What keeps thee in the house, John?' inquired the farmer, entering the room. 'We have work to get through with.'

'Let that pass for a moment, Mr. Stacy. I have something to say. Who holds now the mortgage on the farm?'

'Why does thee ask?'

'From no idle curiosity. What is his name, and where does he live?'

'His name is Frobisher, and he lives in New York. It is his lawyer, Woodford, who has the business in hand.'

'Woodford! Not Charles Woodford? So! In that case, make yourself perfectly easy. I can arrange all that for you.'

'Is thee serious, John Paul? Does thee think Frobisher would do it for thee?'

'Why not? He never refused me anything I wanted yet, from the time we went to the same school.'

'Thee must be out of thy mind, John. This Frobisher, they say, is worth a million of dollars. Does thee expect to influence him? If I didn't know thy habits, I should say thee'd been drinking.'

'The man you speak of is worth more than you say, in estate, but he'll give you all the time you need. Let me see. This is nearly eight. The mail closes at ten. I have time to write a letter, hitch up, and get to the post-office in good time. You'll have an answer by to-morrow evening;' and without further words he went out, harnessed the horse, and drove to the village, leaving Stacy staring in amazement. When he came back, the farmer was still in the house, with Naomi and Rachel, discussing John's freak. During that day and next morning Mahlon would glance at John at times with an expression made up of hope, and suspicion of John's sanity.

At noon next day John quietly hitched up the horse again, and without asking leave, drove off, with a re-assuring smile to Rachel's inquiring looks as he went. This was hours before the mail was due, and John had on his Sunday clothes too. He did not get back until supper-time, and then handed a letter to Mahlon, in presence of the rest. It was postmarked 'New York,' and the farmer opened it with trembling hands.

'John,' said he, after he had read it, and handed it to Naomi, 'thee made no vain boast. Woodford says I can have all the time I want. Thee has done me great service. I only wish I knew how I could repay thee.'

'Perhaps you can,' said John smiling, and taking Rachel by the hand 'Suppose you let me take care of this young lady in future?'

'Why, Rachel!' cried Mahlon, in astonishment. 'Does t

But Rachel's ans audible, her face bei Paul's waistcoat.

'Has thee thought ab tly p t a wife?' inquired N means to mi, with a la flitter of expiring loyal to Absalom Browning.

'There eed be no trouble n that score,' returned John. 'But I hav a confession to make. I have in some meare deceived y. When you asked my na , I just said John Paul.'

'And has thee been using a name to ic thee has no right?' demanded Naomi, ely.

'I have a right to that name, ut there is more of it. I am John Paul Frobisher.'

'Frobisher!' exclaimed Mahlon, as a light broke in on him. 'Then thee is—'

'I am, or rather was the holder of your mortgage. I say was'—drawing a paper from his breast pocket and handing it to Naomi. 'I have been to West Chester, and made an assignment to your wife. I hope she'll be a lenient creditor to you, Mahlon. You see, I had been taking a pedestrian tramp for health and amusement, and you came across me just as I had run sufficiently to seed in the journey, and was about to take the cars for home. This face of Rachel's attracted me, and she's the captive of my bow and spear, anyhow. I won her by fair fight,' said he, laughing.

They all sat down to supper. The farmer said his customary grace with great unction—'For what we are to receive, the Lord make us truly thankful!' and John, whose hand had found that of Rachel somehow under the table-cloth, responded with a fervent 'Amen!'

NELLIE'S CHRISTMAS EVE.

A FAIRY STORY FOR CHRISTMAS.

Written especially for the very young readers of the "Intelligencer," by J. L. L.

It was Christmas Eve in a great city—a city more than twenty times the size of Belleville. The night had set in; but the night was brighter than the day had been, and there seemed to be more people in the streets. How good-natured and merry everyone appeared! The wind blew the snow in the people's faces, and found its way in among the warmest and thickest clothing, and seemed to blow through and through those whose clothing was not warm and thick. But what did the people care? It was Christmas, and they liked the season all the better because of the cold and snow and wind, just as we love a dear friend the more because of his very faults. The shop-windows seemed to glow so much with joy that they could not keep it all to themselves, and so poured it out on the streets and threw a cheerful, joyous light on the faces and figures that were passing in great crowds to and fro. They were good faces to light up, for—rough and ugly and plain-looking as many of them were—they nearly all had the happy, eager, bright Christmas look in them. The hum of the busy streets rose high into the keen wintry air, and could have been heard at a very great distance off. It was heard by a great many who could not go out and mix with the crowds in the streets; people who were too ill to leave their warm rooms, perhaps so ill that they would have to spend their Christmas lying in bed, suffering great pain; people who had all they could do to keep themselves warm indoors, so thin and ragged and wretched was their clothing, and who did not dare to face the cold winds and drifting snow lest they should be frozen; and to nearly all these people the pleasant, happy hum that came from the thronged streets brought thoughts and feelings such as had not come to them at any other time in the year, and made their coldness and hunger and suffering a little easier to bear; and many of them blessed the happy Christmas season.

Ah, but how many, many homes and hearts there were in this great city which could be cheered only a very little by the happiness of others, and which felt the Christmas influence not as if it had come directly to them, but as though it had reached them from a great way off! I wonder whether all those pretty, fresh little girls with their mothers and fathers or their older sisters and brothers, dressed in warm comfortable clothing, with their hands cozily thrust into nice fur muffs, and their clouds and scarfs and mufflers keeping the cold away from their necks and ears; with their cheeks glowing and their eyes shining almost as brightly as the druggist's lamps, and their lips forever smiling.—I wonder if these happy little girls, looking forward with joy to to-morrow, would feel less happy and contented if they were suddenly told that away off in another part of the city, down a dark, dreary wretched street, in a poor little room away at the top of a high building, there was at that moment a little girl, just about the same age as themselves, standing alone, crying softly to herself, while she looked up at the moon, (which was doing its best to shine in spite of the storm), and thought how lonely she was, and wondered how little girls felt who had warm homes and kind fathers and mothers to take care of them, and dolls, and cakes, and candies, and all the other nice things she had heard about, but about which she knew very little herself! The name of this little girl was Nellie (never mind her other name), and it is about her that this story is going to be.

Nellie did not live all alone in this little room at the top of the high building. Her brother Ben, who worked hard all day and part of the night, selling newspapers on the streets and holding horses, lived with her. Their father was dead, and their mother did not often come to see them, and when she did come she used to beat them so cruelly that they used to be frightened every time she came and were glad when she went away. She was always drunk, and often used to make Ben give her the money that he had earned during the day. So the two children did not love their mother much; but they loved each other all the more, and they used to say to each other that if one died, the other would die too, because they could not live without one another.

The little room was Nellie's world, and she seldom went out of it. She used to do her best to keep it clean and tidy, so that Ben would praise her when he came home at night, for she would work hard all day for a smile or a kind word from Ben, so much did she love him. But all that poor Nellie could do could not prevent the room from looking anything else but wretched and comfortless. A straw mattrass lay on the floor near the wall: that was Nellie's and Ben's bed; they used to lie on it at night, clasped in each other's arms in order to keep themselves warm. A table with only three legs, a couple of old stools, a wash-basin, and a little bit of a stove in which they burned chips of wood and bits of coan when they could get them, completed the furniture. Oh, no; there was something else I forgot—a picture which was given to Nellie by a kind man who said he was a missionary, and who taught Nellie how to pray. This picture was Christ blessing little children, and Nellie had pasted it up on the wall, just over the mattrass, and used to sit on the floor and gaze up at it for hours together. She thought she had never seen anything so beautiful as Christ in the picture, and used to wish that she was one of those little children that were clustering around him, and that she could hear him say: 'Let all the little children come unto me,' as the kind gentleman had told her Christ was saying in the picture.

Well, this cold Christmas eve, Nellie was win with an old blanket wrapped herselr her. looking through the little the moon, and crying softly to she was co re was no wood to burn, and she was cryin t it was not for this that in the little room, nre was nothing to eat but that did not make was very hungry; the reason: Ben and she This was before, been talking about Chris the night Ben had told her about the shop-windows all full of beautiful things and of the crowds of people who were buying them.

'But why do they buy things now, any more than at any other time?' asked Nellie.

'Why, to give them away as presents, you know,' explained Ben. At Christmas, people who love other people always give them presents.

Nellie had been thinking about these words all day. She loved Ben better than all the world beside, and Ben had said that people who love other people always give them presents on Christmas. It was clearly her duty to show her love to Ben by giving him a present. But what was she to do? She had no money to buy anything with. She had nothing to give. She felt helpless and quite miserable. 'Ben will soon be home now,' she thought, 'and I have nothing to give him to show that I love him.' And so she stood there crying softly, and looking at the moon through her tears. Suddenly she stopped crying, and a new light came into her eyes. 'I'll ask the Old Rat!' she said, out loud. This was a strange thing for her to say, was it not? It needs a word of explanation.

Nellie and Ben did not live entirely alone at the top of this high building. There was another little room just next to theirs, and separated from it by only a thin board partition. In this room lived an ugly old man, all alone. He wore a long brown overcoat, that buttoned up close to the chin and reached nearly to his heels, and Nellie and Ben used to wonder whether he wore anything under it. On his head there was always a large hairy cap, and he wore on his feet leather slippers which were either too big for him or were not properly fastened on, for they used to go 'slip-slap' on the floor at every step he took. His skin was yellow and wrinkled and shrivelled looking; his hands were long and knotty, and his fingers had great yellow nails on them like birds' claws; his eyes were away back in his head, and when he frowned he made his heavy gray eyebrows come down so far that you could not see his eyes at all, which were greenish in color. Ben had given him the name of 'Old Rat,' because he said he looked like one, and so the brother and sister, not knowing the old man's real name, used to call him 'The Old Rat'—not to his face; they were too frightened of him to do that; but to themselves. From the description I have given of him, you may judge that this old man was not a very pleasant old man to look at; but, ugly as he was, he was in reality a powerful magician He had as his servant a fairy that could do almost anything she was commanded to do. It only needed a word from this ugly old man to make her fly straight off and do things that would surprise you. She could bring him almost anything that he wished, and take him anywhere he wanted to go, or show him anything he wanted to see: in short this wonderful fairy was the most obedient as well as the most powerful servant a man ever had. A strange thing about this fairy was, that she would change her appearance very often. If the magician sent her out on a good errand (which was very seldom), then she became beautiful: her eyes would beam with gladness, her long hair would float around her like a golden mist, and a large bright star would appear on her forehead. But when her master sent her on a bad errand, then she grew wrinkled and yellow and ugly, just like her master. The old magician loved this fairy better than he did all the rest of the world put together, and he lived in constant terror lest someone should come and steal her away from him (for she had no power over herself, although she had so much over every other person and thing; and she was the slave of the one who put his hand on her). And it was because he was so afraid of losing his fairy that the old man lived all alone away up at the top of this high building He kept her locked up in a great chest, bound with iron, and he kept the key of it tied to a string, which he wore around his neck. Ben and Nellie used to hear him talking away to something at night, and they wondered who it could be, until Ben one day, when the old man happened to be out, knocked a knot out of one of the boards of the partition, and, that night, by the light of the moon, they saw the magician leaning over his chest and fondling something inside and talking to it softly. But they were frightened lest the old man would catch them looking at him, and did not dare to look through the hole except once in a great while.

So, when Nellie said suddenly, 'I'll ask the Old Rat,' she meant that she would go to the old magician and ask him for a little money to buy a present for Ben, before he came home. This was a very bold thing for her to do, for she had never yet spoken to the old man. Once or twice she had met him on the narrow stairs, but he had looked at her so fiercely that she had nearly tumbled down stairs with fright. But her love for Ben and her strong desire to show it by giving him a present made her forget her fear for the time, and so she turned away from the window, walked to the door, opened it and went into the narrow, dark passage, and in a second or two was standing before the door of the old magician's room. She knocked, at first softly, and then louder. There was a pause, and then a voice came from within the room, that was something between a growl and a snarl: 'Who's there?'

Nellie did not reply, but rapped at the door again.

'Who's there, I say?' cried the old magician, raising his voice almost to a yell: it sounded to Nellie like the snarl of a wild beast, and her courage began to forsake her. Can't you answer, whoever you are? Haven't you got a tongue? What do you want prowling about here this time of night? Go 'way!'

Nellie began to cry, then; and with her tears came back her boldness, and she forgot her fear once more. Her head was just about on a level with the keyhole of the door, and she put her lips to it and said, "I want to speak to you for a minute, sir. Please let me in.'

'What do you want? Say what you want to say from the outside. Tell me who you are.'

'I'm the little girl that lives in the next room,' said Nellie, through the keyhole.

When she said that, she heard the old man's slippers come slip-slapping towards the door. He stopped at the door, unlocked three or four locks, unbolted half a dozen bolts, and then slowly and cautiously opened the door and peeped out. When he saw that Nellie was alone in the passage he gave a grunt and opened the door a little wider and stood in the opening. 'Well,' he growled, looking down at her, 'what do you want?'

Nellie did not hesitate a minute, but spoke right out.

'Ben says all people who love each other give each other presents at Christmas, and I love Ben a great heap, and I am afraid that if I do not give him a present he will not think I love him as much as I do, and so I want to give him one. But I've nothing to give him, and will you get me something to give—or help me to get something?'

'Is that all?' snarled the old man. He had now gone back into the room, and only his head was outside the door, and he held the knob in his hand.

'Yes, sir,' replied Nellie. 'Won't you please—'

But poor Nellie did not finish the sentence, for the door was slammed in her face and she was left alone once more in the dark passage. She sank down on the floor, and letting her head fall between her knees she began to sob aloud.

'Go 'way,' yelled the old man from the room. 'Get out o' that, or I'll come out and throw you down sts'

'Nellie crept softly b to her own room, and, throwing hel down on the old mattress, she broke into loud sobs, and lay there for a long while with her in her hands, her little bo all over, so strong was her g r a while she grew quieter, and ound on her hard bed she saw ight streaming in through the l a broad band of silver and bright spot on the floor, ju from her head. All around it was dark; Nellie could see nothing great shaft of golden light that cleave the blackness around it like Presently, as she gazed wonderi this gleaming pathway, she though saw, in the midst of the light, about twenty feet above her head, a face looking down at her. It was very indistinct at first, d came and went like a moving shadow. ut it gradually became more and more dis- tinct, and Nellie soon beheld a beautiful face and form grow there before her e They did not seem to come there, bu to grow out of the light, and be a pa it. The face and form were those of a lovely lady—so lovely that Nellie held her breath as she looked at her, and thought to herself that she could never have dreamed that there was anything half so beautiful in the world. Her long hair was the same color as the light in which she floated. Her face did not have any bright color in it, and yet it was not pale, but had a warm glow all over it. Her eyes seemed to in them the essence of the light rounded her, and they beame bright stars, only more softly. no dress such as Nellie had som the fine ladies wear on the stre figure was enveloped in a cloud gauze and lace and the finest satin, which fell in graceful folds Around her waist was a girdle of gold, and she held in her right han ver wand tipped with gold. Pres turned her large star-like eyes Nellie, and smiled at her. All t the beautiful music was ringing i ears, but it had grown softer, and once she heard a sweet voice singin same tune as the music. The voic ed as if from a distance, but it was and clear just like a church bell away off on a clear frosty night. saw the lady's lips moving, and she that it was she that was singing. are the words the lady sang:—

"Christmas will soon be here again,
With peace on earth, good will to men;
And what will it bring to Nellie and B
To Nellie 'twill bring a nice new dress,
Of blue merino, and nothing less;
A woolen jacket, and mitts, and hood,
And shoes and stockings stout and goo
A knitted scarf, both warm and pretty
And the best little muff in all the city
To Ben it will bring an overcoat,
A woolen muffler for his throat;
A big fur cap that his nose will hide,
With ear-laps fastened on each side;
And socks and mittens, I suppose,
And a pair of top-boots with copper toes.
And now, dear Nellie, good-bye, good-by Enjoy to-morrow as best you may:
Let your heart be glad, and bright your e
For Christ was born on Christmas Day.

As this strange song, or whatever could call it, drew to a close, the lad face and figure grew dimmer and fai until, just as the last words were she faded away from Nellie's sight, ing to melt into the light again, ju had grown out of it.

Nellie lay gazing up the lon golden pathway, the strange musi had never ceased, still ringing in her Suddenly she noticed a growing chang the color of the light. From a bright g en it gradually deepened into a rich p ple, not dark, but warm and glowing. Nellie looked upwards she became aware another face and figure slowly forming o of the rich light, in the same way that t first one had come. As the form and fea- tures of the new visitor grew more and more distinct, Nellie could see that it was another lady, and that she too was very beautiful, though her beauty was not of the same kind as that of the first lady. She had black braided hair and bright black eyes that had a sunny smile in them; her cheeks and lips were glowing red, as if she had just been out in the keen winter air, and enjoyed it. She wore a long crimson robe, and a pretty white cloak drooped from her shoulders. Roses bloomed in her hair, and the girdle about her waist was of fresh flowers. In her left hand she held a large bunch of grapes, and in her right a branch of apple-blossoms. As soon as her face and figure had grown into full view she threw a bright and joyous smile down a Nellie, and began singing in time to the music that filled the air, in the same wa that the other lady had done. And th is what she sang:—

"Christmas will soon be here again,
With peace on earth, good will to men;
And what will it bring to Nellie and Ben?
It will bring them lots of every size,
A big fruit-cake, and two mince-pies;
A great plum-pudding, warm and sweet,
Nuts, candies, and raisins, all they can eat;
The goose's leg and wing for Ben,
With some of the stuffing now and then
By way of change, but, for dainty Nellie,
A bit of the breast, with currant jelly.
And both shall have, ere the day is throu
Apples and pears, and peaches too.
And now, my dear, good-bye, good-bye
Let you and Ben to-morrow be gay;

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!

PUTTNER'S EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age, undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.

MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.

There is no doubt that the events of the past five months have occasioned disappointment to all who are interested in the welfare of this Railway, so much so, indeed, that the many favorable features which have developed within the two previous years to the permanent benefit of the undertaking appear to have been entirely forgotten. Attention has apparently been centred upon the one solitary and transient adverse circumstance which has arisen to mar the prosperity of the Line, viz., the suicidal "war of rates" on the American Railways, and although this Company has suffered considerably during the struggle which has prevailed, the absolute loss is, after all, decidedly small by comparison with the prophecies of those who have been so industrious in their efforts to create alarm. The absolute net loss for the four months to the end of October is only £62,000, so that to that date the dividend on the Second Preference stock had not been encroached upon. The month of November has so far shown a falling off in traffics of only £5,510 (the past week being £512 decrease), and December is not likely to suffer much diminution, as the earnings in that month last year were comparatively small, the winter having been exceptionally severe. It is, therefore, probable that at the end of this year the profits will not be reduced to any greater extent than to occasion a reduction in the dividend on the Second Preference Stock to 4 per cent. Now as the fall in quotations has been brought about by much gloomier forecasts as to the half-year's working (estimates having fluctuated between an encroachment upon the First Preference dividend and a maximum payment of one per cent. on the Second Preference) it is, to say the least, probable that a recovery will quickly ensue.

Upon the vexed subject of the "War of rates" it is difficult to speak. Even after five months' experience, it is as perplexing to discover any reason for its existence as it was impossible to foresee its commencement. The losses which it has occasioned have been as severely felt by American Railways as by the Grand Trunk, and Shareholders in America are beginning to resent the conduct of their administrators who provoke these contests to aid their own speculations. The inutility and absurdity of the struggle has been clearly demonstrated, and when the strife ceases, as it must do very soon if common sense is ever again to prevail, the Grand Trunk will be enabled to resume its advance in the path of prosperity.

Of the many trials which have latterly been inflicted upon the proprietors, there is one which I think they can afford to treat with indifference, viz., the rumor of new competing schemes in Canada. However energetic the Canadians may be in their demand for "increased competition," they are scarcely likely (judging from former experience), to show commensurate zeal in providing the necessary funds, and if they look to British investors to do so, they will be doomed to grievous disappointment. The employment of British capital in Canadian Railways has not yet received any very great reward, the Canadians will look in vain for the raising elsewhere of such a large amount of capital as would be required to construct a competitor with the Grand Trunk Railway, which possesses 1,300 miles of line (nearly all steel-railed), about 250 stations, the great Victoria and International Bridges, an equipment of Rolling Stock of the cash value of two millions sterling, and an investment and reversionary interest in 335 miles of Railway extending to Chicago.

The meeting called for the 22nd instant, to ratify the proposed agreement with the Midland Railway of Canada, by which the Grand Trunk will be much benefited, will afford an opportunity for the proprietors to learn from the President the position and prospects of the undertaking.

ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANIES.

Transactions in the shares of the Brush and the Electric Light and Power Companies considerably increased during the past month. Hitherto the subject of electric lighting has scarcely attracted attention outside the comparatively limited area of municipal bodies and shareholders in gas companies; and although the latter have in many instances been taught to regard the new competitor as something very little better than "a pretty toy," the voice of public opinion proclaims it as the "light of the future," and its adoption in numberless directions affords indubitable evidence of its intrinsic merits and of the firm hold which it has established. The removal of the Electrical Exhibition from Paris to the Crystal Palace, where it will be opened in about a fortnight, will afford an opportunity for everyone to study the subject; and there is no doubt that the companies above referred to, who are amongst the most prominent exhibitors will be materially benefited, as a splendid opportunity will be thereby afforded for further demonstrating the success of their respective systems, ensuring an extension to the rapidly-increasing business of both.

COAL AND IRON COMPANIES' SHARES.

The improvement in the coal and iron trades is fully maintained, and the market for these shares is subsequently more active than for a long period.

CANADIAN COPPER AND SULPHUR COMPANY.

Large purchases of shares were recently made on a report that some important extension of the business was contemplated, and the quotation has advanced to £1 16s. 0d. The forthcoming report is looked forward to with much interest.

LA PLATA MINING AND SMELTING COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

After remaining dormant for some time, these shares have latterly attracted much attention, owing to the greatly improved prospects of the undertaking. The property is situated in Leadville, Colorado, and consists of extensive smelting works and three silver mines. Up to the present the mines have been worked only to a small extent, the principal business having been in smelting ores produced by neighboring mines. The capital amounts to £400,000 in 200,000 shares of £2 each, which are fully paid up, and the liability is strictly limited. Since the establishment of the Company in 1879, dividends have been regularly paid every month at the rate of 9 per cent. per annum, and a Reserve Fund of $63,240, has been accumulated. It is now proposed to erect another smelting furnace in order to meet the growing demands which the opening-up of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway has attracted, and this is expected to add materially to the profits. Simultaneously with this development of the smelting business, the Company's mines are proving very valuable, important discoveries having recently been made. The accompanying official report will fully explain the position and prospects. The present price of the shares is £2 5s. 0d., and on the basis of only the 9 per cent. dividend being maintained a buyer would obtain 8 per cent. on the investment. There is, however, the prospect of an increased yield next year.

AMERICAN CONFEDERATE LOANS.

The commotion occasioned in America by the announcements in the English press incidental to the establishment of the Committee of Bondholders has been such as might have been expected, but the reports which have emanated from the other side of the Atlantic as to a gigantic speculation in these Bonds having commenced here on the strength of the supposed existence of immense funds lying unclaimed in Europe was a surprise to all, as being not in accordance with fact. The dignified address recently issued by the Committee fully explains the reason for its existence, viz., that they seek only to establish the justice of the claims of those who advanced money for specific purposes to creditors who have not yet repaid the same, but are perfectly able to do so if only allowed. "A Bond never dies" and there are those who believe that there is a great deal more life in Confederate Bonds than the price of 17s. 6d. per £100 would indicate.—From Mr William Abbott's Circular for December, 16 Tokenhouse Yard, London, England.

Mr. Bright's Struggle with the Costume.

Long before he enjoyed the remotest prospect of office—at the time when Lord Palmerston, who not only disliked but despised him, seemed to have been chosen dictator for life, Mr. Bright came forward in a very handsome manner to defend the Queen. Her Majesty seemed to London tradesmen to be unduly prolonging the period of her mourning for Prince Albert; and the Tribune, as he was beginning to be called, pleaded her cause with simple and pathetic eloquence. The Queen was deeply touched, and let Mr. Bright know it. Some years after there was a happy exchange of courtesies between them. The member from Birmingham was at length a Minister, and had to repair to Windsor, where he was to kneel before the Sovereign, kiss her hand, and receive his portfolio. Her Majesty with her usual thoughtfulness, informed the Premier that his Quaker colleague need not trouble himself to kneel or perform any other ceremony abhorrent to his conscience. Further, he might present himself in whatsoever costume pleased him best, Mr. Bright considered himself bound to meet the Queen half way. He did not kneel, but he bowed very low; he touched the royal hand with a veneration such as Catholics accord to the Pope's foot, while his dress presented a remarkable combination of essentially conflicting designs. It was well described as that which in truth it was—a quaker's court suit. The sword, as may be imagined, Mr. Bright has steadily declined to wear.—Swiss Continental Times.

"Corner" in Apples

Four Boston firms, it is said, formed an apple syndicate, some two months ago. Soon after the organization was perfected they went to work, and soon learned, through their Eastern and Western correspondents, that there would be a scarcity of apples in all but a portion of Vermont, known as the Champlain Valley, a very fertile tract of country, lying between Lake Champlain and the Adirondack range on the West and the Green Mountains on the East. Here the apple crop was remarkable, both in quality and productions, and a combination was immediately formed to purchase and control this fruit, which is famous for its keeping qualities as well as fine flavor. Agents were quietly sent to all points along the lines of railway, and contracts made with all the leading producers of apples, at various prices, ranging from $2 to $2.75 and $3.00 per barrel, a few extra lots costing as high as $3.50 per barrel. In the town of Shelburne, Chittenden county, several extensive orchards were purchased, one producing nearly 2,000 barrels and several 1,500 to 2,000 each, while in Addison and Grant Isle counties orchards are numerous which produce from 400 to 600 barrels of No. 1 fruit annually. The syndicate is now busily engaged in securing the small lots of 25 to 100 barrels over this section and in forwarding the fruit contracted to market. It has purchased, to this date, over 32,000 barrels of No. 1 graft apples. Of these 5,000 are sent to New York for storage in "coolers," where the fruit is guaranteed to be kept constantly at a temperature of 40°, which prevents decay and admits of sales later in the season, when the markets are cleaned out of choice fruit. The remainder of its extensive purchase will be sent direct to Boston for storage and sale. The two leading members of the syndicate have both been spending their time in Vermont, giving their personal attention to the packing and shipping of the fruit, and they express themselves well satisfied with the superior quality of their purchases. They say in all their experience they have never seen or purchased a finer lot of apples, and express their surprise at the uniform beauty and fair fruit on the trees.—N. Y. Independent.

Mr. W. Galer, of the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch office, says: "If every medicine possessed the genuine curative properties of St. Jacobs Oil there would be a great diminution of medical graduates. My wife used it lately in a very severe attack of vertigo, and the result was very gratifying. Rankin, of the Journal, had something like the mumps a few days since. He bought a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and it did him more good than all the doctors. It is a splendid thing."

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world, for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easy obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Protection in Canada.

Our astute neighbors of the United States are thoroughly informed as to the effect of the protective tariff in Canada, and whilst some of their journals, which allow self-interest to dictate their course, write in condemnation of the Government's policy, others are more candid and treat the subject with fairness. Of this latter class is the Portland (Maine) Press, which in its issue of the 21st inst., treats of the subject as follows:

> Canada's experience with protection is another forcible argument against free trade. The protective policy has since its adoption only two years ago exercised a most beneficial effect upon the industries of the Dominion. A report made to the State Department by Consul Crawford contains interesting information concerning its operations. The revised tariff went into effect March 15th, 1879. In anticipation of its passage heavy importations of merchandise were made by Dominion merchants. This surplus stock had to be consumed before the friends of the protective policy could judge of its effects. So the time the tariff has actually worked is brief, and the result the more significant. Under the old system the industries of the Dominion became paralyzed, the balance of trade was against the country, and there was a general stagnation of business. So many people were out of employment that great numbers left the Dominion and settled in the United States. The number of laborers who left Canada during the quarter ending September 30, 1880, was 45,592. During the past year business has been rapidly reviving. New factories are being built, old industries re-established and the people are well employed at wages nearly as high as those paid in this country. The number of immigrants fell from the number given above for 1880 to 19,346, for the corresponding quarter of the present year. The demand for labor in the lumber regions of Maine and New Hampshire has heretofore been readily supplied, wages ranging from $6 to $12 per month during the winter of 1879 and 1880. Now wages have increased, Mr. Crawford reports, to from $18 to $24 per month. Both employers and employed, producers and consumers, are reaping benefit.

The New Land Regulations.

The change of circumstances in the North-West has necessitated an alteration of the land regulations, which have been issued in an amended form. The Mail gives the following synopsis of the new regulations: For the purpose of ordinary sale and settlement, the land is divided into four classes, class A being that within twenty-four miles on either side of the main line, or any branch lines of the Canadian Pacific. According as branches are projected this class will be more and more definitely located; but, of course, we assume that all titles arising previously will be respected. Class B consists of lands within twelve miles of any projected line of railway authorized by order-in-Council, other than the Canada Pacific railway. Class C includes all lands south of the Canada Pacific railway not included in the other two classes. Class D consists of lands other than those mentioned in the three preceding classes, that is of all lands outside of twenty-four miles from the north side of the Canada Pacific railway, all lands outside of the twenty-four mile limit on either side of any branches of the Canadian Pacific railway; and outside of the twelve mile limit on either side of any authorized railway other than the Canadian Pacific railway. These are the divisions of the land.

The sub-divisions for the purposes of settlement and sale are as follows:—The even-numbered sections in all the classes are reserved for homesteads and pre-emptions, except where, in class D, such sections are subject to colonization agreements where it may be necessary to provide wood lots out of them for settlers; where the Minister of the Interior may deem it proper, under the authority of the Dominion Lands Acts, to withdraw and sell them at auction. The odd-numbered sections in class A are reserved for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The odd-numbered sections in classes B and C are to be sold at $2.50 per acre, payable at time of sale; except where it may be otherwise ordered in Council. The odd-numbered sections in class D shall be for sale at $2.00 per acre, payable at time of sale; except where it may have been otherwise ordered by the Government, or where colonization agreements may affect the same. Persons who took possession of odd-numbered sections previous to the issue of the land regulations of October, 1879, excluding odd-numbered sections from homestead entry, shall be protected in their titles if they are bona fide permanent settlers.

The pre-emption prices are now as follows:—In classes A, B, and C, $2.50 per acre; in class D, $2.00 per acre; payment to be made at the end of three years from date of entry, or at such earlier date as the settler may determine. Payment for lands may be made in cash, or scrip, or police or military warrants.

The colonization provisions are very important. They provide for the sale of lands to colonization companies on two plans. The lands in each case are to be in class D, which is described above. The price of the lands to such colonization companies shall be $2 per acre, subject to conditions and rebates which we shall indicate. In the first plan the odd-numbered sections only are to be sold at $2 per acre, payable one-fifth down, and the balance in four equal annual instalments. In the second plan all the sections may be sold, payable for in cash at time of sale. In the first plan the colonizing company is obliged to put two settlers on each 640 acres. In the second alternative arrangement the company may lump, so to speak, their settlement at any one place in a township or over a township. Such a grant of land must be "colonized" as indicated within five years; if that is legitimately done, the company will be entitled to a rebate of $120 per actual settler, so that the land shall return to the Government the sum of $1 per acre. If the colonization is not complete the rebate is forfeited.

The Senate.

The Mail announces that five of the vacancies in the Senate have been filled.

In Nova Scotia, Mr. Thomas McKay, ex-M. P., succeeds Hon. Mr. McLelan, who is now President of the Council.

In Quebec, Mr. Alex. Ogilvie, of Montreal, succeeds the late Senator Penny.

In Ontario, Mr. Donald McInnes, of Hamilton, succeeds the late Senator Bull.

In British Columbia, Dr. McInnes, M. P., succeeds Senator Cornwall, who has been promoted to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the province.

Senator Skead has been reappointed, and the seats formerly occupied by Messrs. Brouse and Christie will remain vacant for some time longer.

Editorial Brevities.

At the nomination yesterday Mayor Patterson said that one reason why Mr. St.Charles should be preferred to Mr. Lingham was that the former was the better educated of the two gentlemen. Those who know His Worship the most intimately will be the most inclined to doubt his capabilities as a critic in that regard.

Boyd, the English sculler, has ordered from a Toronto firm, a shell in which to pull his race with Hanlan. Canada thus turns out not only the best oarsmen but the best boats as well.

The Property Owners' Association, at their meeting on Friday night last, resolved to petition the Ontario Government to amend the Municipal Act in a certain way. Time was when the Legislature was petitioned—not the Government; but of late years Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have been, to all intents and purposes, the Legislature, which is called together once a year to register their decrees. Therefore the mistake of the Property Owners—if it were a mistake—was a very natural one.

The work of instructing the Indians of the North-west in agricultural pursuits seems destined to be of great advantage to the aborigines. The Battleford Herald of November 26th says:—"Machoyse," an Indian on Strike-em's reserve, in the Battle River valley, handed over to the Farm Instructor, to be cared for as his seed for next year, seventy bushels of potatoes, eighteen bushels of barley, and three bushels of wheat. The quality of these products is good, and considering that the past season is really the first in which agricultural operations have been pushed on this reserve the return has been very good indeed. The rest of the Indians have stored in the instructor's root-house, two hundred and twenty-three bushels of potatoes, besides a very considerable quantity of barley, for seed next year. Machoyse harvested forty bushels of grain and a hundred and seventy bushels of potatoes, besides losing forty bushels by the unusually early frost in October. This man is a full-blooded Indian, and he is so well pleased with his success that he has determined to double his operations next year. In addition to what is given above he also raised a hundred and fifty bushel of turnips. He is one of the first to see that success depends upon cultivation and giving things room to grow, and not on putting seed thickly into the ground."

The School Elections.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sir,—It is hoped that the City Council in electing High School Trustees and the electors in choosing Public School Trustees will select men who will place the interests of the Schools before that of individuals, for unless this is done, the minority of the Board of Education, who are striving to effect much needed changes in the personnel of the Teachers, will again be defeated in their praiseworthy efforts, and our High School will continue to be what it has been for the past few years.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Addresses by the Candidates and Others.

The nominations for Mayor and Aldermen for 1882 took place yesterday.

THE MAYORALTY NOMINATION.

The City Hall was crowded with electors, but there was no roughness or boisterous behavior on the part of any individual, and the greatest order was preserved throughout. Indeed, very little enthusiasm was manifested either by the supporters of Ald. Lingham or Ald. St. Charles.

The City Clerk, as Returning Officer for the City, presided, and received the nominations from 10 to 11 o'clock. The following nominations were received:—

Ald. Dunnet—nominated by C. L. Coleman, seconded by R. Gordon.

E. B. Fraleck—nominated by J. W. London, seconded by C. W. Bell.

C. W. Bell—nominated by Wm. Lattimer, seconded by Jas. McCrudden.

Ald. Lingham—nominated by Hugh Walker, seconded by Jos. P. Reeves.

Ald. St. Charles—nominated by Jas. Brown, M. P., seconded by Mayor Patterson.

Mayor Patterson—nominated by Wm. Sutherland, seconded by S A. Moore.

These were all the nominations received up to 11 o'clock. The different gentlemen who were nominated, together with those who nominated them, were called upon.

Mr. C. L. Coleman said a few words in favor of Ald. Dunnet, whom he had nominated.

Ald. Dunnet and Mr. E. B. Fraleck were called on, but were not present.

Mr. C. W. Bell then came forward He said he was somewhat surprised at having been nominated, for he had not the slightest intention of coming forward as a candidate for the Mayoralty. However, as he was nominated, he would take the opportunity of saying a few words in favor of Ald. Lingham. He was a man whom they all knew, and whom they all could trust. He was a Bellevillian, and his whole career was known, and he had reason to be proud of it. He was a large employer of labor, had lived here all his life—and no stigma had ever been attached to his name. He had sat in the Council at least as long as Ald. St. Charles, and had been a faithful trustee of the people's interest. He (the speaker) deprecated the introduction of either politics or religion into this contest. If either the one or the other had been introduced it was not the fault of Ald Lingham's friends. He retired in favor of Ald, Lingham.

Mr. Hugh Walker nominated Ald. Lingham. He said Mr. Lingham was a Belleville boy—he had seen it as a village, a town, and a city. He had been elected several times to the Council Board by acclamation—proving the confidence which the people had in him. Nothing could possibly be brought against him, either in his public or private character. It was the duty of the citizens to confer honor on men who, like Ald. Lingham, were large employers of labor. He was confident that on next Monday evening, it would be found that Ald. Lingham was at the head of the poll.

Mr. Joseph P. Reeves seconded the nomination. He had known Ald. Lingham for many years, and he knew him to be possessed of the qualities which would make him an excellent Mayor.

Ald. Lingham, on coming forward, was greeted with loud cheers. He said that he allowed his name to be brought forward as one of the candidates for the Mayoralty, as he considered that his long services at the Council Board entitled him, in some degree, to that honor. There had been reports to the effect that he intended to retire from this contest; he wished to give that report a most emphatic denial. He had given his word to his friends, and he would not go back on it. As far as Ald. St. Charles was concerned, he held the most friendly sentiments towards him. They were personal friends, and he hoped that no personal bitterness would be introduced into the contest. He touched briefly on the manufacturing interests of the city, which he said he would, if elected, do his utmost to foster and develop. There was a probability of extensive iron and other industries being established in the city in a short time; and whatever lay in his power, both in public and in private, to assist in having these works established here, he would do. He was fully alive to the desirability of having manufacturing industries in Belleville. He had sat at the Council board for many years, and was thoroughly conversant with the routine of official duties; and he was sure that, if the people had sufficient confidence in him to elect him as their Mayor for 1882, he would perform his duties at least as faithfully as he had fulfilled those of the different offices he had held as a member of the Council. He had met with all the encouragement which a man could receive in the course of his canvass, and he was confident that he would be successful.

Jas. Brown, M. P., came forward to nominate Ald St. Charles. He said Ald. St. Charles, though born in the Township of Madoc (which, he hoped, was no disgrace) had lived in Belleville the greater part of his life. He had carried on his business as a carriage manufacturer for a large number of years—contending against great difficulties, and successfully competing with manufacturers at a distance. Nothing could be said truthfully against Ald. St. Charles either in his public or private character: he was a credit and an honor to the city—whether he would be elected Mayor or not. He spoke a few words respecting manufactures of Belleville The manufacturers of this place, he said, need not fear competition with those of any other place. Belleville was favorably situated as a manufacturing centre, and at present, when every manufacturing industry in the country had taken a fresh start and had new life infused into it, the prospects of the manufacturing interests of Belleville were brighter than ever before. He concluded by hoping that the electors would show their confidence in Ald. St. Charles by placing his name at the head of the poll.

Mayor Patterson seconded Ald. St. Charles' nomination. He had known that gentleman for 30 years, and had always known him as an upright, honorable man He had known him as a Councillor for 6 or 7 years, and he had made one of the very best that had ever sat at the Council Board. So far as education went he was much the superior of the two candidates Though politics had often been brought into the Council, he defied anyone to point to any vote which Ald. St. Charles or he himself had ever given which had been influenced by political motives. He was glad to know that neither politics nor religion had been introduced into this contest. Manufacturing industries were greatly needed in the city, and he believed that Ald. St. Charles was eminently qualified to foster them, He would admit that Ald. Lingham had been a good alderman, and would, he did not doubt, make a good Mayor; but his personal preference was in favor of Ald. St. Charles.

Ald. St Charles, on coming forward, was greeted with applause. He said the reason that he was before the electors as a candidate for Mayor was, that he had served the city for six years as a Councillor. He entered the Council in the same year that Ald. Lingham did, and the career of that gentleman, and his own, were before the electors. He was sorry that better men than he and Ald. Lingham were not before the people; but it had for some years been the custom to select the Mayor out of the Council, and as he intended retiring from public life he thought his services merited that honor at the hands of the electors. He did not come out to oppose Ald. Lingham, but Mr. Robertson. He had hoped to support Ald. Lingham for the Mayoralty; but when Mr. Robertson was appointed Clerk, then Ald. Lingham came forward. He (Ald. St Charles) came out to oppose Mr. Robertson, and Mr. Lingham came out to oppose him. The coming year was going to be a very important one in the history of the city, as it was probable that large iron and other industries would be established here, and it was desirable that the occupant of the Mayor's chair should be one who would take a deep interest this matter. As far as he was concerne vas personally interested in the iro y, as he owned an iron lot in the rt of the county, and, whether in he would do his utmo establishment of sme Belleville. He referred question. A number the city had during the past year or two taken the poor and indigent of the city under their protection, and were doing their best to establish a Hospital and Home. They had taken charge of the poor at an almost nominal cost to the city, and had saved the Council a great amount of trouble as well as expense by so doing, while they performed their duty much better than it had ever been done before. The Woman's Christian Association had met with much unreasonable opposition in this year's Council: their work was belittled and obstacles were thrown in their way. He, however, was of opinion that they were doing a great work, and, if elected, he would do all in his power to secure the ends they had in view with regard to a Hospital and Home. He had lived in Belleville for the last twenty years, had grown up with the town, and whatever money he had made had been expended in bricks and mortar in the city, and whatever prosperity might attend him in the future would redound to the benefit of the city. He had met with such great encouragement in his canvass, if any reliance could be placed on promises, that he would be triumphantly elected on Monday evening next.

Mr. Wm. Sutherland nominated Mayor Patterson, He did so because he thought it due to the retiring Mayor, as a compliment to him. He had filled the Mayor's chair with ability, prudence, and energy, and the city's interests had been carefully looked after by him.

Mr. S. A. Moore seconded the nomination.

Mayor Patterson thanked his nominator and seconder, but said that it was his intention to retire from the Mayor's chair, though he felt that he could do more good to the city next year than he had been able to do in the past two years. He referred to the probability of an extensive iron industry being established in the city next year It was necessary that immediate and strong efforts should be put forth by our citizens to secure iron works as soon as possible, for, when the lines of railway which are now in process of construction shall have crossed the northern part of the County, the ore which should naturally come to Belleville might find its way to Toronto and Kingston. The great thing was, to secure iron works here as early as possible, and after they were once established no competition from other places need be feared. He thanked the electors for their confidence in him, as shown by their electing him twice to the Mayor's chair. Whether in or out of office, he would never cease to take a lively interest in the welfare of the city. He retired in favor of Ald. St. Charles.

The meeting then broke up, without the customary cheers.

THE ALDERMANIC NOMINATIONS.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

True to her Trust.

Too much cannot be said of the ever-faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleansing, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world, and only cost fifty cents. Sold by James Clark & Co.

Women's True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co.

HYDROLEINE

HYDROLEINE HYDRATED OIL EQUIVALENT TO 10 TIMES THE SAME BULK OF C.L. OIL. PREPARED BY THE HYDROLEINE Co. LONDON ENGLAND

(Hydrated Oil.)

An artificially digested Cod Liver Oil.

For Consumption, Winter Cough, Affections of the Chest and all Wasting Diseases.

Prescribed by the leading physicians of England, the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

A WONDERFUL FACT.

Hydroleine mixes perfectly with water, showing a complete artificial digestion of the oil, and just as the Hydroleine mixes with the water, so does it mix with the liquid contents of the stomach, and enters immediately into the system to nourish and build it up. The efficacy of Hydroleine is not confined to cases of Consumption, as from its valuable tonic effect on the nervous system in addition to its special stimulating action on the organs concerned in the production of Fat in the body, it causes marked increase in weight in persons of naturally thin habit, who do not present any evidence of disease.

Unlike ordinary preparations of Cod Liver Oil, it produces no unpleasant eructation or sense of nausea, and should be taken in such very much smaller doses, according to the directions, as will ensure its complete assimilation; this, at the same time, renders its use economical in the highest degree.

For sale by all Druggists.

We have sold the above remedy for several months and find it spoken of very favorably by both the medical profession and the public.

We can safely recommend it to parties needing such a remedy.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, DEC 27.

City and Vicinity.

THE City Council will meet this evening.

THE nominations for School Trustees will take place to-morrow.

THERE were only two prisoners in the cells last night—both drunks.

IT is more than probable that the report of the murder at Beaver Creek, in the northern part of this county, is untrue.

A CHRISTMAS pantomime is to be held at the D. & D. Institute on Friday evening next, chiefly for the entertainment of the pupils.

ON Saturday evening the Band of the 15th Battalion played through the streets as an advertisement for the Fireman's Ball last evening.

THE Band of the 15th Battalion intend holding an assembly in the Ontario Hall on Friday evening next. The full String Band will be in attendance.

The new gas purifier was placed in the Gas Works on Saturday, and as a consequence the gas has since been much better than it was before. It is not, however, perfectly pure even yet.

MR. BURTON, father of the caretaker of the cemetery, fell from a haymow on Saturday, dislocating his shoulder and injuring some of his ribs. He is under the care of Dr. Willson and is progressing favorably.

A NEW and magnificent set of furniture has been manufactured by Mr. J. G. Frost for the hall of Belleville Lodge No. 81 I. O. O. F. The hall will be reopened during the second week in January—probably on Wednesday the 11th—when a grand concert will be held.

A CHRISTMAS entertainment given by the pupils of the R. C. Separate School, will be held in the City Hall to-morrow evening. The scholars will be assisted by several ladies and gentlemen, and it is probable that a pleasing entertainment will be furnished.

AT the St. Michael's Church S.S. School entertainment to-morrow evening, an election for a smoking tray and meerschaum pipe will take place for the mayoralty between Messrs. Lingham and St. Charles. The successful candidate will be presented with the articles.

THE upper ferry was running all day yesterday, and is still running. She did a tremendous business on Saturday, taking over 150 teams in four hours. The fact of the Mary Ethel continuing her regular trips has been of great benefit to the city from a business point of view.

MESSRS. Harris & Walton on Saturday night entertained all the men employed in their sash factory to any oyster supper and in addition presented each man with a turkey for his Christmas dinner. The relation between this firm and its employees is evidently of a very cordial and mutually satisfactory character.

AN old gentleman named Rolls, well known to many of our readers, has become so insane as to necessitate his confinement in the County Gaol. He will be kept there under close observation for several days, and if his symptoms do not improve, he will be removed to an asylum. Mr. Rolls is an Englishman, and is evidently well-educated and well-bred.

ON Saturday evening a shirt hanging in the window of Retallack's gents'-furnishing store caught fire from a gas jet and blazed up, setting fire to the rest of the contents of the window. For a time the window was almost filled with flame, and the building was in great danger. However, by vigorous exertions Mr. R. and his clerks succeeded in smothering the fire and getting the goods out of the window, and there was no alarm given. About $150 worth of goods was destroyed or damaged, but the loss is fully covered by insurance.

THE examination of the school in the 4th concession of Thurlow, where Miss Richards is teacher, was held on Friday, Dec. 23rd. There were a number of visitors present, including parents, trustees and others. It passed off very pleasantly indeed, doing credit to both pupils and teacher. A number of recitations were given by the children, which were spoken very nicely, and the people dispersed after speeches were delivered by the trustees, who pronounced themselves well pleased with the success of the examination.

THE Winnipeg Times of the 21st inst. says:—"M. R. Canniff, of the Hastings House, left yesterday on a trip to Belleville, Ont., not having been to visit his friends since he left there seven years ago. His friends taking advantage of the occasion presented him with a gold watch and an address on the eve of his departure. He replied in suitable terms to the kindness experienced at the hands of his friends. The remainder of the evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic to the strains of a string band." Mr. Canniff has arrived safely, and has been warmly greeted by his old friends. He looks as if the climate of the North-west agreed with him to perfection.

AS Mrs. P. Temple was walking up Hotel St. on Saturday evening about 8 o'clock, in company with her mother, she stepped into one of the holes near the Victoria Buildings which were formerly the entrances to short flights of steps. The depth of these holes from the sidewalk is about six feet, and Mrs. Temple received an ugly fall. When lifted out she was insensible, and was driven home in a cab. On examination it was found that one of her shoulders was dislocated and her head was severely cut, while she received several bruises on her body. Throughout Saturday night her condition was very precarious, but she is now improving under the care of Dr. Willson.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 27.—Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, fair weather, slightly lower temperature to-night.

CITY MISSION SERVICES THIS WEEK.—This evening at Mr. Gallagher's, Mary St., near Flint & Holton's mills. On Thursday evening at Mr. Bonar's opposite the Ferry Landing. On Friday evening at Mr. Bean's, Station road, opposite the pottery. All the services at 7:30 o'clock.

OBITUARY.—The intelligence that Mr. John Northcott, contractor, had departed this life yesterday morning at an early hour was quickly disseminated through the city, and caused a gloom to fall on the countenances of nearly all who heard the sad intelligence; for the dead was known to and loved by many in this community. Mr. Northcott was a true type of the better order of Englishmen—outspoken, independent, yet concealing a heart as tender as that of a woman under a bluff exterior, and withal honest as the day. He was born in Lapford, Devonshire, in 1805, and was consequently in his seventy-sixth year. He came to Canada in 1853, settling in Belleville, and carried on the business of contracting and building up to 1876, when he retired from active business life. For four years he represented Baldwin and Bleecker Wards in the municipal Council, and was for several years assessor. Mr. Northcott was twice married, and leaves seven daughters and four sons to lament the loss of a loving and indulgent father.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

AMELIASBURG, Dec. 27th, 1881.

Dr. Wilson was obliged to take Wilford Potter's hand off above the wrist on Saturday, it having been mangled so badly in the husker. The patient is reported doing well.

Fatal Accident.

A Man Kicked to Death by a Vicious Horse.

A correspondent writes from Tweed on the 27th inst.: A Mohawk named "Bill" John was kicked to death last Friday by a horse belonging to Andrew Finley, a farmer in Huntingdon. It appears that a daughter of Finley's had taken a couple of horses to water, when one escaped. Deceased, who lived close by, came to her assistance, and was blanketing the horse, when it turned and kicked him with both feet, knocking him down against the stall, where the animal continued to kick the man until the girl climbed over the stall and pulled the halter off the horse. Deceased made one attempt to rise, but sank again and breathed his last without saying a word.

It is expected that President Arthur will soon make the influence of his office actively and decidedly felt.

Serious troubles between the colonists of Liberia and the natives are reported.

A despatch from, Louisville, Kentucky reports that within the twenty-four hours ending last evening, there were 5 murders, 2 fatal accidents, 2 suicides, 1 attempted suicide, and 3 serious drunken affrays in the three cities around the Falls.

The steamship Scandinavian has arrived at Portland from Liverpool.

Get out Doors.

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle.—Christian Recorder.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Deserving of Praise.

Too much cannot be expressed in favor that unsurpassed remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, sore throat, and all lung complaints. If you suffer from neglected cold, try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The cost is trifling, only 25 cents.

CHRISTMAS.

ITS CELEBRATION IN BELLEVILLE.

The Christmas of 1881 will long be a memorable one in this country, for it may be taken for granted that it will be many years before Canadians experience another Christmas when not a vestige of snow is to be seen anywhere, when the rivers and small streams flow on heedless of the fact that it is midwinter, when mud is universal, and when the rain falls as incessantly as on an April day. This was the condition of the weather yesterday, notwithstanding the fact that Vennor foretold snowstorms and cold weather. Sunday, however, was much pleasanter. Though there was not a smack of winter in the air, the day was bright and pleasant.

In nearly all the churches the day was observed by some special form of service, by an appropriate sermon, by specially prepared music or by decorations. The most elaborate preparations were made by the congregation and choir of St. Thomas' Church, which was beautifully and appropriately decorated with evergreens, banners, &c. A conspicuous ornament was a new and exceedingly chaste lecturn, which was sent out from England, as a Christmas gift to the church, by Miss Hulme (sister of R. C. Hulme, Esq.), who was here on a visit about a year ago. The lecturn is of a simple yet ingenious design. It consists of a large brass eagle with outstretched wings, on which rests the reading desk. A suitable inscription is engraved on the lecturn. The gift will be a great ornament to the church, and, as the Rector said on Sunday morning, it will, as long as it remains in the chancel, be a memorial of the liberality and thoughtfulness of the donor. The music at both morning and evening service was of a very high order, and was magnificently rendered. The attractiveness of the Christmas service in St. Thomas' drew a great many people from other churches, and there were large congregations both in the morning and evening.

In John St. Presbyterian Church, at the morning service, about a hundred of the Sunday School children were brought into the gallery, and assisted in the singing, under the leadership of Prof. Coleman, leader of the choir. Several Christmas hymns were sung with capital effect.

In Bridge St. Methodist Church a union service of the Sunday Schools of Bridge St., Holloway St, and Bleecker St. Church, was held in the afternoon. The services were of the most interesting character. A similar service was also held in St. Andrew's Church in the afternoon. In nearly all the Churches special sermons were preached, appropriate to the occasion.

Yesterday morning broke rainy and gloomy. The people on the west side of the river, long before daybreak, were wakened by strains of music; they proceeded from the Oddfellows' Band, who thus early were abroad, giving their friends a Christmas greeting in their own way. They serenaded several parties, but were obliged to cease their musical rounds on account of the rain, which began to pour shortly before daylight, and continued, with short intervals, until evening.

CHRISTMAS AT THE INSTITUTE.

At the Institution for the Deaf & Dumb Christmas was celebrated with all the festivities and rejoicing which rightly belong to it. Shortly before 10 o'clock all the pupils at the Institution, together with the parents and friends of many of them, were gathered together in the large recreation room at the west end of the main building, and there, with eager bright faces, sparkling eyes and fluttering hands, and amid a hubbub of guttural, inarticulate sounds, they received from the hands of Mr. Mathison and their teachers the presents which had been received from their parents and friends at a distance. These consisted of books, toys, ornaments, toilet articles, &c., but in most cases they were parcels of good warm clothing. But there were a great many of the pupils who did not receive any present from a distance, and to each of these a beautifully bound and nicely illustrated book was presented, and small picture-books were distributed among the younger pupils. It was worth the long walk to the Institute to see the faces of these little ones as they received their gifts. The poor mute little things could not give expression to their pleasure, like ordinary children, by exclamations of delight, and all their joy shone out in their faces, and was given expression to in eloquent gestures. The pupils were regaled at a grand dinner, and in the evening a "party" on a rather extensive scale was held, when the children were amused at various games suitable to their condition. It would hardly be too much to say that there was not a pupil present who did not enjoy his or her Christmas more than they would have enjoyed it at home.

In the city the day passed off very quietly. There were not a few to be seen who had imbibed rather too freely of the spirits of the season, but that was perhaps owing to the excitement occasioned by the nominations. Only one or two disturbances occurred and these were easily quelled by the police, without injury to anyone.

In the evening the ball of No. 2 Independent Hose Company and the Sons of St. Patrick were well patronized, and passed off successfully.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE LAND COURT.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—A Dublin correspondent says, appeals have been taken in 60 per cent. of the land cases decided by the assistant commissioners. There are now on the docket about 300 appeals for hearing. The chief commissioners sit for the first time as an appeal court at Belfast on 10th January.

Arrived out, State of Nebraska and Main.

THE GERMAN TARIFF.

A Berlin correspondent says that the Customs officials have contrived to double and treble the tax of many kinds of imported provisions by taxing the wrappers or labels as an essential part of the consignment. Thus American corned beef in tins is taxed as fine iron ware.

DIFFICULTY SETTLED.

Special despatches from Vienna agree in declaring that the difficulty between Austria and Roumania has been settled, and the incident closed.

THE KHEDIVE'S SPEECH.

CAIRO, Dec. 27.—The Khedive in his speech at the opening of the Assembly of Notables yesterday, dwelt upon the necessity of the progress and of respect for international obligations, but concluded with reference to the powerful support of useful reforms received from the Sultan of Turkey.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 27.—Arrived, the Egypt.

JAPAN'S COMMERCE.

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—An influential Japanese gentleman states that Japan has for some time past been earnestly desirous to remodel her commercial relations with Europe and America. Japan has already drawn the attention of the powers concerned to her aims, and their representatives will hold a conference at Tokio on the subject early in January.

NARROW ESCAPE.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Dec. 27.—A fire this a.m. in E. A. Robinson's jewelry factory was caused by the use of naphtha in cleaning silks. The employees escaped with difficulty. Several firms occupied the building. Loss heavy.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine is an unfailing food for the Brain and Nerves, and by its rejuvenating effect on these organs never fails to cure nervous exhaustion and weakness of the generative organs. See advertisement in another column.

Keep the Feet Dry.

This is the season of sloppy weather so productive of colds, and lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet is a great source of these difficulties. Cure your cough with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and always reliable.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

DIED,

On the 26th inst., JOHN NORTHCOTT, contractor, aged 76 years, 1 month and 10 days.

MARRIED.

On the 26th inst., by the Rev. S. J. Shorey, at Foxboro, at the residence of John A. Shetler, Esq., DAVID D. SERVISS, to MISS REBECCA WRIGHT, both of the City of Belleville.

At Mr. Dennis Lake's, Front St., Belleville, on the 27th day of December, by the Rev. A. Schuster, MR. EDWARD LAKE to MISS ISABELLE CONNORS.

PROCLAMATION.

IT having been the time-honored custom for generations to celebrate "Christmas Day" in commemoration of the birth of our Saviour, and for the re-union and rejoicing of families and communities, and whereas in consequence of the 25th day of December falling upon Sunday the present year, the Dominion and Provincial Governments have recommended that Monday, the 26th day of December next, be observed instead thereof.

Now, therefore, by and with the advice of the Aldermen of this city, I proclaim

as general holidays and days of rejoicing, and enjoin upon all good citizens to observe the same in a becoming and reverential manner.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR!

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable, the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms and the cure—viz.:

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis,

and every species of oppression of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—Consumption at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration,

CONSUMPTION

IT HEALS THE ULCERATED SURFACES

and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 25cts. and $1 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

He started—and a faint flush passed over his face.

'Yes,' he said 'it was natural—as things had gone on—a consequence inevitable. Then she died at last in the hospital!'

'Not exactly that—as you would interpret the word. This house is, indeed, a species of hospital; it is intended as a refuge for the sick and dying, who have nowhere else to go; but it does not exactly resemble an ordinary hospital. In the first place, the services performed are not altogether gratuitous; in the second, every patient has a room to herself. We are only women, except the medical attendants; and we admit none but women—and those women of a higher class, of gentle breeding, and refined habits, who have fallen into poverty, and yet who have not been hardened in their sensations by habits, so as that the edge of privation is blunted; or what, perhaps, is still more difficult to bear, that painful sense of publicity unfelt, which renders shelter in an ordinary hospital a source of suffering to them—which—God be thanked!—it does not necessarily prove to those for whom such places of refuge were intended. This house would have been more justly called an asylum than a hospital, for it is intended as a shelter for the sick and destitute; but yet those who are received into it are expected to contribute to their own support.'

He made no answer to this explanation. After all, it interested him very little now to know that his Ella had not been a mere object of the charity which is extended to paupers. His pride had died within him, for his nature had been much changed; but, only as such natures change. His faults had withered away, but no good qualities seemed as yet to burst forth to flourish in their stead. The soul had been so utterly ruined and devastated, the portion of living waters had been so completely dried up, that he seemed merely to have lost the inclination to do wrong—that was all.

'We are a small party of friends,' the lady went on; 'some of us in the heyday of prosperity, but who, amid all the triumphs of youth, wealth, and beauty, have not quite forgotten the poor, the sick, and the miserable; others, who like myself, are fallen into the yellow leaf of life—whose years cannot of necessity be many—may be very few—and would fain do something in the great vineyard before they are called away. It is our practice, for some of us to visit this place everyday, to see our patients, attend to their wants and comforts, and where it is desired, administer by our conversation such helps and solace as we can. I come here pretty often, for I am not one who is very much occupied upon this earth; and as I love to sit with the sufferers, and am more aged than the majority of them, they seem to lean upon me a good deal. They love to have me with them; and many of the younger ones have treated me with a confidence, which has excited, I can scarcely say whether more satisfaction or pain.'

He still spoke not, but listened with deep attention.

'A few months ago,' she continued, 'the matron of the establishment came to me one morning, and said that a young lady had been received here some days ago, whom she wished me very much to visit. I had but the day before returned from an excursion into the country, and had been absent from my post about a fortnight. I asked at whose recommendation the patient had been received. She said, that of Lady R., but that Lady R. knew nothing about her. It was at the earnest solicitation of the wife of the baker who supplied her family with bread, that Lady R. had given the order; the woman, who was a very plain sort of person, but highly respectable in her way, having assured her that it was a case of the most urgent necessity; that the young lady was utterly penniless and destitute, and in an almost hopeless state of health. She had brought on a decline by over-exertion to maintain a sick sister, and pay some debts of that sister's which she thought herself bound in honor to discharge—' and other expenses,' she added, somewhat mysteriously,—promising that she would advance the required guinea a week; for, as for the young lady, she did not believe that she had five shillings left in the world."

He struck his hand flat at the top of his head, and held it there, leaning his elbow upon the table, so that his arm covered in part his face, which was painfully contracted; but he neither spoke, nor groaned, nor even sighed.

'I went up to the young lady's room immediately. Our rooms are each provided with a single bed, a sofa, an easy chair, a table, and such other requisites as make a chamber at once a bed-room and a sitting-room.

'The matron knocked gently at the door; but no one answered it; she therefore gently turned the handle of the lock, and we went in.'

'The window was open. Hers looked upon those green trees you see at the back of the house, and the fresh air came pleasantly in; but it seemed unheeded by the sufferer. She was clothed in a long white sleeping-gown. One arm was thrown above her head; her hair had gotten from her comb, and fell in waves and curls of the utmost beauty and luxuriance almost to her feet. She lay with her face upward, resting upon the back of her head, almost as motionless as a corpse; her features were fixed; her eyes rested upon the top of the bed. She seemed lost in thought. Never in my life have I seen any thing so supremely beautiful.'

'Ella—Ella!' he just muttered.

'When we approached the side of the bed, she first perceived us, gave a little start, glanced at the matron, and then, with a look of rather displeased surprise at me—

"'I beg your pardon if I intrude upon you,' I said. 'Mrs. Penrose asked me to pay you a visit. I am but just returned from the country. I spend a good deal of my time when in town with the sick ladies here, and they seem to like to have me; but if you do not I will go away directly.'

'She made an impatient and half-contemptuous motion of the head as I used the words 'sick ladies,' but she fixed her large lustrous eyes upon me as I went on speaking—saying nothing, however, when I concluded, but keeping those large dark eyes fixed upon my face.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their food. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold every where.

Post Mortem Examinations have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debilty, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere, at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

'alling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Fellows' Hypophosphites makes an old person look years younger "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

ALEXANDER CLARKE, D. D, Amherst, N.S.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

August Flower.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c. Go to your druggist, Jas. Clarke & Co., and get a 75 cent Bottle of August Flower or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

ruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected Those wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himsel cheaply, privately and radically.

PUTTNER'S

EMULSION!

Has obtained the highest medical reputation of any other preparation known, and soon after taking it one is sensible that it is not a bogus preparation but performs all that it claims.

Read what the Rev. P. J. Filleul says:

WEYMOUTH, N. S., May 6, 1881,
C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.,

Dear Sir,—I have used your Emulsion myself, and so have members of my family, and must say with signal benefit. Soon after taking it one is sensible that the article is not a "bogus" preparation, but all that it claims to be.

I am 62 years of age undertaking the performance of three full services each Lord's day, besides week-day duties, and I am occasionally greatly indebted to your Emulsion for the tone and vigor in which I am able to go through the physically oppressive duty.

I have recommended it to parties suffering from coughs, colds, debility, &c., and I am thankful to add that the results have, in every instance, been attended with most beneficial results.

Wishing you all success, and with every good wish I am, Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

P. J. FILLEUL, Episcopal Minister.

PUTNER'S EMULSION.

I ESTEEM IT A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 7, 1881.
MR. C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

My Dear Sir:—My physician having recommended me your Emulsion, and having used it for some time, I esteem it as a sovereign remedy. It has cured me quicker than anything I ever used, and I have no trouble in taking it, as it digests so easily. Yours truly,

MRS. A. GLASS, 97 Cornwallis St.

PUTTNER'S EMULSION.

A GREAT DESIDERATUM.

C. E. PUTTNER, PH. M.

Dear Sir:—I have much pleasure in stating that, having had occasion to use the COD LIVER OIL EMULSION WITH IRON AND HYPOPHOSPHITES prepared by Mr. C. E. Puttner, containing as it does Iron in combination, I find it everything that could be desired where such a compound is required. It is also quite palatable, which is a great desideratum in all preparations of Cod Liver Oil.

Front of Sidney School.

For the Intelligencer.

An examination was held in No. 2 school, Sidney on Friday, Dec 23rd, at which 60 visitors were present, including eight public school teachers. A very interesting time was spent, the pupils acquitting themselves as was their wont under the careful and efficient teaching of Mr. Parker. It being the occasion of Mr Parker's resignation the pupils took the opportunity of showing the high respect with which he was held as their teacher and the deep regret they felt at parting, by presenting him with an affectionate address and handsome writing desk. The several speakers and friends highly congratulated Mr. Parker on his very successful career as a public school teacher and his promotion to the teaching staff of the D. & D. Institute where he will begin his duties at the beginning of the new year.

Christmas at Roslin.

ROSLIN, Dec. 27, 1881.

Through your valuable paper we wish to make known to the friends of our S. School how pleasantly our Christmas Tree Social and Concert passed off on the evening of Dec. 23rd. After a great deal of preparation, in the way of decoration and platform and the tree, a large number of people assembled at the Methodist Church, at the hour of 6:30. The eatables having been got through with, Robert Gordon Esq., Reeve of Hungerford, was called to the chair, which he accepted with his usual wit and humor, among those who helped us were Mr. Philip Le Riche, Dr. Hudson, Mr. John McTaggart, with readings and recitations, Miss Maud Chapman, Miss Alma Embury, Miss Annie Chapman and Miss Maud Hooton, gave the music, these with the children's pieces, were all well received, as was attested by repeated applause from the audience. The presents were given to the scholars by merit after which Rev. W. H. Peake was asked to read an address to the Bible Class teacher Mr. Philip Le Riche accompanied with a copy of Dr. Young's Analytical Concordance, some other presents were then distributed, having been put on by friends. The church choir was then called upon to sing a piece, after which the Rev. W. H. Peake closed with the benediction. The proceeds were $25.75.

Marmora Correspondence.

MARMORA, Dec. 24.

Mr. G. Irwin, long a resident of this township, has opened a carriage factory in Brandon City, N. W. T., and seems likely to have hit the right nail on the head.

A meeting of the patrons of Marmora cheese factory was held on the 17th. The following parties were hired to draw milk next summer: D. Kelly, W. McCoy and J. Ryan.

It is agreeable and profitable to combine business with pleasure when practicable, so school examinations and tea meetings are in great abundance. Mr. G. H. Rowe, the teacher in the village, held his final examination on the 20th. The several classes were examined in reading, writing and arithmetic, with the addition for the 3rd and 4th of grammar (including analyses and parsing), after which addresses were delivered by Rev. S. McCaulay and Messrs. J. H. Rowe and F. Boddome. The teacher appeared to be on excellent terms with his pupils and congratulated them upon their good behaviour in general. If these exhibitions of youthful skill and progress in education were attended a little better by parents and trustees, it would be much more encouraging for all parties concerned.

Mr. J. Wiggins has purchased 100 acres of the Gilmour place in Belmont for $1,100.

Campbellford Correspondence.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 24, '81.

The large new factory and its connections have brought a much improved business here. Some six or seven new stores of various kinds have been opened since last spring. Many more improvements are being pushed forward and many more are in contemplation for next spring.

On Monday, 12th Dec., the members and friends of the M. E. Church held their anniversary and bazaar in the Music Hall. Notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the roads and the weather, there was a very good attendance at both dinner and tea, and a very pleasant time all through. But best of all was the good financial result, the largest I think ever gathered in Campbellford. The proceeds of dinner, tea and bazaar and its associations amounted to about four hundred dollars.

Next came the Sunday School Christmas Tree in the M. E. Church on the evening of the 22nd, when mud, rain and darkness prevailed all over. Notwithstanding all, the house was well filled at an early hour, and every person says it was a well conducted affair. The tree was well filled with presents for the children of the school and for many others who were in the company. The tree bore fruit to the amount of nearly $150.

Tweed Correspondence.

TWEED, Dec. 27.

On the 21st inst. your correspondent, in company with R. Gordon, Wm. White, and one or two others, drove to Culvert's Church, Huntingdon, to hear the Rev. Mr. Dunkley deliver his lecture on "William, Prince of Orange." The lecturer acquitted himself with credit. His subject was well handled, and very interesting. The audience was small, but seemed to appreciate the subject. The chair was occupied by Mr. Wray, the District Master.

Mr. R McGowan made a fine display of Christmas meat last Saturday, namely, a cow fed by Mr. J. Brown, which weighed when dressed 600 lbs., a sheep, 100 lbs., and some fine lambs and porkers. His shop would not have been a discredit to any place in the County.

St. James Church entertainment and Xmas. tree was a perfect success, both as to attendance and financially. The committee of management are certainly indebted to the friends who so amply provided for the entertainment and for the articles with which the tree was decorated, likewise to the people for their attendance, and their orderly conduct during the proceedings. The chair was ably filled by our worthy Reeve, R. Gordon, Esq. The following was the order:

1st, Christmas choral by the Sunday School children.
2nd, Song by Miss Graham.
3rd, Reading by Mr. Wray.
4th, Song by Jennie Burr, a child of 7 years.
5th, Recitation by Miss Guillett.
6th, Song by Mrs. Battams and Miss Waller.
7th, A dialogue by Master Willie Battams and Miss E. Easterbrook.
8th, Song by Mr. S. Battams.
9th, Address by the Rev. Mr. Gardiner.
10th, Song by Mr. Earnest Pomeroy.
11th, Recitation by Mr. W. Ebbs.
12th, Song by Miss Graham.

Last, but not least, was the distribution of the presents from the tree, which was beautiful, and when illuminated by wax tapers presented a fine appearance.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

THE HOLIDAYS.

HOW THEY WERE SPENT IN AMELIASBURG.

AMELIASBURG, Dec. 27, 1881.

ROSSMORE.

This thriving little village was not behind in its entertainment. On Friday evening of last week (the night announced for their Christmas tree) long before the appointed hour the school house began to show want of room. The room was very tastefully decorated with evergreens, and mottoes worked from the same. At the end of the room the word "Welcome" was very beautifully constructed of evergreens and reflect to much credit upon the builders. At the appointed hour for commencing it was with great difficulty people crowded through, many having to stand up. Mr. Murray, the Superintendent of the S. S., having announced the hour for opening had arrived, moved, seconded by M. Laird that Councellor W. B. Morden be chairman. The motion being received by unanimous show of hands Mr. Morden took the platform. After a few remarks appropriate for the occasion, Mr. Frederick was called upon to offer prayer, after which the choir then sang "Whosoever will may come," Miss Waterbury playing the organ. The selection of readings and dialogues were by small children who showed that they had received a thorough training from Mr. Howell, Teacher. A quartette, by the Misses Murray, was sung in real artistic style, Ed., Fred. and Miss Anderson were present and enlivened the proceeding occasionally by a piece of instrumental music. The tree was handsomely trimmed and presented a very pretty sight, being full of presents, some of which were very handsome indeed. The proceedings throughout were successful.

DEMPSEY'S.

The people in this section held their annual entertainment, which was pronounced highly successful, on the 23rd. The programme was interesting in fact it could hardly be anything else in the hands of young amateurs. Some very handsome as well as valuable presents were upon the tree, a very fine set of dishes being presented to the Rev. Mr. Scales.

BUSH'S.

The Xmas tree held at this place on Friday night last was perhaps of a more interesting nature than any of the rest. The programme was amusing and gave many a good laugh. The tree was well filled with presents. Mr. B. Rothwell, Sup't. S. S. was the recipient of a very pretty cake basket from the school, while the Rev. Mr. Tomblin received a fine turkey.

ROBLIN'S MILLS.

The Xmas tree for this place was held on Xmas eve in the Town Hall, the attendance was good. Mr. Ed. Roblin acted as chairman, and made a few general remarks, after which a very interesting programme was gone through with. Mr. Wm. Delong gave a short speech in his usual jovial manner after which the proceedings came to a close.

ANOTHER ESCAPE.—The Czar has had another escape. His assassination was to have taken place as he rode through a street of the city, but he providentially did not go by that street. The hand of the Nihilist, too, is seen in the flames which have, at going to press, burnt down a quarter of the naval city Cronstadt in the empire of the ill-omened ruler of the Russias.

No article ever attained such unbounded popularity in so short a time as Burdock Blood Bitters, and that too during the existence of countless numbers of widely advertised bitters and blood purifiers. It is evident that this medicine begins its work at once, and leaves no desirable effect unattained.

The Blood and Nerve Tissues owe their healthy existence to PHOSPHORUS and become disorganized when it is lessened in quantity. It is necessary to the proper preservation of the functions of life as Electricity is to the Telegraph. The use of Phosphorus, combined with Cod Liver Oil, Lime, Soda, &c., in PUTTNER'S EMULSION, by providing, in a palatable and perfect digestible form, all the elements necessary for the healthy growth and vitality of the body prevents and rapidly cures all diseases which are due to its being present in less quantity than Nature demands. Hence its inestimable value in Brain diseases, Nervous Debility, Wasting and other LUNG troubles, which, beginning in loss of flesh and vitality with COUGHS, COLDS and BRONCHITIS, ending in the fell destroyer of the human race—CONSUMPTION.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family liniment. Immediate relief will follow its use in all cases of pain in the stomach, bowels or side; rheumatism, colic, cold, sprains and bruises. For internal and external use it has no equal in the world, for what it is recommended. For sale by all dealers at 25c. per bottle.

An Astonishing Fact.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existance of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of Druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try it virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all Druggists on the Western Continent.

A General Stampede.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at James Clark & Co., for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons afflicted with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Important to Farmers, etc.

If you would keep your kine, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry in the most perfect health and remunerative condition, mix HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally with their feed. These great specifics are the wealth of the barn yard. See to it! Sold everywhere.

Dr. A. R. Scovill, of Cincinnati, says:—"For Coughs and all the early stages of Lung complaints, I believe it to be a certain cure; and if every family would keep it by them, ready to administer upon the first appearance of disease about the Lungs, there would be very few cases of fatal consumption."

ZOPESA.

(FROM BRAZIL.)

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Billiousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

Waterloo House of Industry.

As the subject of establishing a House of Industry for the County of Hastings has been frequently discussed, we present the following statistics from the report of the Waterloo County House of Industry, which will be found of interest alike by the supporters and opponents of the scheme: Number of inmates at last report 78, admitted this year 47, born in house 2, deaths 15, children sent out on trial 4, absconded 3, discharged 18, now in the house 85. Average number of inmates in house during the year 85, keeper's family and hired help added 93, number of weeks' board for inmates 4,419, keeper's family and help added 4,835.

The total expenditure for the year was $7,317.66, adding clothing, produce, provisions and cash on hand at last report $3,103.96, total $10,421.72. From this amount deduct.

|---|---|
| Permament improvements | $ 356.57 |
| Produce of farm on hand | 1,399.50 |
| Fat cattle and hogs | 433.00 |
| Provisions and fuel | 491.50 |
| Drygoods and clothing | 525.00 |
| Balance of cash in hand | 273.44 |
| Produce of farm sold | 2,609.73 |
| Total | $6,088.74 |

This leaves the amount actually expended for the support of the inmates $4,332.88, an average per week for each of 89½ cents, and $46.54 per year.

The amount expended on house and farm account is as follows.

|---|---|
| Hired labor | $ 645.95 |
| Stock, team and implements | 1,399.50 |
| Salaries | 650.00 |
| Physician and medicines | 300.00 |
| Stationery | 3.70 |
| Permanent improvements | 365.67 |
| Repairs and furniture | 207.40 |
| Provisions and fuel | 2,826.01 |
| Clothing and bedding | 807.32 |
| Sending paupers out of Co | 8.05 |
| Incidentals | 112.96 |

The earnings of the house and farm are for produce sold $1,855.73. For support of certain inmates of the house $854.00; total $2,609.73.

The Telegraph War.

There is a telegraph war as well as a rail road war, and whilst the railroad men confine themselves, as a rule, to a war of rates the warring telegraph men carry on a fierce war of words The promoters of the new Mutual line accused Mr. Erastus Wiman, President of the North-Western, of having bribed a clerk in their employment to furnish him with a copy of their agreement. Mr. Wiman has published a pamphlet in reply, of which the Canadian Spectator says:

"The pamphlet which Mr. Wiman has issued for circulation among his friends in the Dominion, gives a series of decidedly opportune sketches of the principal promoters of the Mutual Telegraph Company, which certainly is one of the most gigantic swindles recorded in modern times. It is as interesting and sparkling reading as the Arabian Night's Entertainment. Those who wish to get a true insight into the manner in which the public is fleeced out of its hard earnings by the machinations of opposition telegraph enterprises, will have their eyes opened by the startling facts which Mr. Wiman has embodied in the biographies of the schemers whose histories he has limned with consummate terseness and ability. Of course Mr. Wiman's main object in appealing through this pamphlet to men, many of whom have known and esteemed him for the past forty years, was to vindicate his character, which has never had a stain upon it during a long and active public life. That he has more than vindicated it by the new documents alone he has submitted to the public in the appendix to his pamphlet, and the logical applicatian he has made of all the facts, no honest and impartial reader will fail to appreciate. Upon all the facts in connection with the Mutual Telegraph schemes the pamphlet sheds a flood of light, supported by the most absolute and convincing proof. In the whole matter Mr. Wiman has achieved a legitimate triumph. It is true that the pamphlet is only small in size, but it contains a greater amount of information than is found in many a large volume, simply because the contents have been well digested and condensed, so as to occupy the smallest possibe space. In the latter respect, Mr. Wiman's early journalistic training and experience are clearly discerned."

Editorial Brevities.

The Manager of the Midland Railway seems determined to have the shortest possible line between Peterborough and Omemee. The Peterborough Review informs us that still another survey has been ordered, "the great idea being to make it still more direct than the last line located. For a distance of three miles no deviation is to be made, but from that place to Omemee the line will be materially changed, and the engineers think they can save quite a distance. The line will be very costly, the cuttings, although small in number, presenting considerable engineering difficulties." Mr. Cox is pursuing a wise course in this matter, as it will be less costly in the end to secure the shortest route, even if the cost of construction be much greater than that of the longer line. The shortening of the route is decidedly in the interest of Belleville.

That goods are dearer to the extent of the duty is the favorite theory of the free trader, but the Montreal Journal of Commerce declares that ready made boots and shoes are cheaper now than ever before, within the recollection of its editor.

The London Advertiser speaks of Mayor Campbell, of that city, as "one of the strongest Mayors London has ever had." In strength of language the worthy Mayor is certainly entitled to great distinction. He it was who at a recent committee meeting called one of the Aldermen a "—— pup," "a thing," and other choice names.

The Globe's allegations as to the fortunes which the "sugar robbers" are making receives an emphatic contradiction in the fact that the proprietors of the Halifax sugar refinery have so far found their business unprofitable and have been obliged to suspend production.

The Toronto World doesn't take any stock in the free-traders' whine as to the sufferings of the farmers under the N. P. It says: "There is no class of people in this or any other country less oppressed by legislative burdens than the farmers of Canada. If the N. P. has done them no good it has at least done them no harm, but we think it a self-evident proposition that it is impossible to build up towns and cities without enhancing the value of the farmer's land, and increasing the consuming power of his home market. The attempt to array class against class will fail again as it failed in 1878. There are tens of thousands of farmers who have voted for Sir John when they felt that he was wrong, and there are tens of thousands of others who believe that he is right upon this question. Why, the farmer escapes even the much-abused coal duty."

News Condensed.

—It is said that the disturbed localities in Ireland have been divided into five or six districts, each under the charge of a superior magistrate, who is given control over the military and police. The object is the securing of prompt action in the case of disturbance, and, as the despatch puts it, it may be a preliminary step toward the enforcement of payment of rent.

Ameliasburg Correspondence.

About fifty visitors assembled at the Union School House to witness the school examination on Friday, Dec. 23rd. The school has been under the supervision of W. T. Kinney for the last three years and is divided into two apartments. Miss Maggie Lauder, who by her industry and perseverance has worked herself up from a pupil to be the assistant teacher, has charge of the juniors and has become a great favorite with her pupils and former schoolmates.

The visitors present expressed themselves highly pleased with the state of the school and their regret at parting with Mr. Kinney, who purposes going to the North West, and who has been associated with the schools of this Township for the past 11 years. At the close of the examination H. N. C. Thompson, Esq., was called to the chair, when the pupils of the school took the teacher Mr. K by surprise and played a practical joke on him by presenting him with a handsome Floral Autograph Album and some books accompanied with a couple of very flattering addresses expressing their regret in losing so kind and useful a friend, and one who seems to so happily combine those genial qualities which adorn social life with those rarer attributes which give dignity and influence to the teacher, and they cherished the hope that when in the midst of far different scenes in a distant clime he might find a wider sphere of usefulness and that fortune might still continue to smile upon him as it ever does on the wise and good, and that then their small token of regard might serve to recall the many pleasant hours spent together in the school room, and the high esteem in which he was held by the pupils of S.S. No 11. Mr. Kinney replied in suitable terms reciprociating the sentiments expressed on parting with such kind friends.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—At the nomination on Monday Mr. St. Charles and Mayor Patterson, both good Reformers, endorsed the principle of the National Policy as strongly as any Tory could. The strong point each endeavored to make in favor of Mr. St. Charles' candidature was the likelihood of that gentleman being able to accomplish more than Mr. Lingham in the direction of securing manufactures for Belleville.

If manufactures are good for Belleville they must surely be good for the Dominion; and, as between the party that created the N. P. and the scores of manufacturing industries to which it has given birth, and the party that calls manufacturers legalized robbers, and would substitute for it one sided free trade, Mr. Patterson and Mr. St. Charles, to be consistent, would be constrained to support the party in power.

I would suggest that the Ontario be heard from on this veiled treason to the "party,"

Another point: If some old Tory of the date of the family compact had advanced as a reason for supporting Mr. St. Charles that he was more highly educated than Mr. Lingham, we would have heard a howl from the Radical camp. Mr. Patterson made a mistake that time.

ELECTOR.

Dec. 28, 1881.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MR. EDITOR,—Your Saturday's issue contains a report of the proceedings of the Property Association.

Their proceedings indicate their belief that there is something wrong with our municipal government, either as constituted or administered. Our municipal boards are elected from and by the electors. If the elected are not competent, it is because either there is not competent material in the municipality, or if so then the electors won't elect such material or such material won't be elected.

I venture the assertion that the fault is with the electors, and very largely with the Property Owners' Association. After years of neglect the property owners wake up to find several leading sources of prosperity dried up, new ones not yet sufficiently established to compensate, depression and high taxes, and at once jump to the conclusion that the fault is in the number of the Council not in its quality. This is a very great mistake. In the first place it costs no more to have 21 members than 9, and with the larger number there is certainly less chances of rings and corruption. Again, with the larger number there are more chances of some of that element which the property owners think is desirable being elected. The electors as a whole have been so degraded, I was going to say, by "canvassing" that canvassing itself is a degradation. Instead of the franchise being considered, as it should be—the priceless privilege of a free man—the electors have been educated by the canvassers to believe that it is a thing to be bartered for money or place, or a gift to be given for the asking, with this result: that men fit for the position will not go through the mud necessary to be elected.

Again, property holders as a rule are actively engaged in business, or have acquired a competence and prefer the enjoyment of their earnings without the annoyances of the Council, so one cannot afford it, another cannot be bothered, and the aspiring unfit candidates canvass vigorously and the elector who has learned that "if his vote is not worth asking for it is not worth having," votes for the man who asks him. He flatters him by inducing him to believe that he has a great favor to confer. Reduce, then, the number of Aldermen to one in each Ward and, I ask, will the composition of the Council as a whole be improved?

The property owners are fond of criticising the Council, but they won't and they can't be induced to make an effort to elect proper men, nor can they apparently rise above the selfishness of their own profit or ease and share the responsibilities of the Council. There are numbers of property owners in this city who have ample time, but nothing apparently can induce them to offer some of their surplus time and their large experience to the community by serving it in the Council.

The ward system has its disadvantages; but will a partial or entire obliteration of wards remedy or even mitigate the evil? I say not. Suppose you elect seven Aldermen for the whole city, those seven would be selected with reference to locality to a very large extent, and with the enlarged field you would only throw the Council more and more into the hands of the vigorous, skilful canvasser.

The local press does not give that amount of attention to municipal matters, it seems to me, which they deserve. We have from it politics ad nauseam daily. In Toronto the entire press is a unit on anything which affects that city, and the leading organs of the great opposing political parties agree most cordially in watching municipal matters and the interests of the city of Toronto, and the rapid progress and material prosperity of that city is in no small degree due to its intelligent, watchful press.

Your obedient servant,
GEO. D. DICKSON.

Belleville, Dec. 27. 1881.

Almost young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

County Court.

The following verdicts were given on the 27th Dec., 1881, in County Court causes:

JOHNSON vs. MCCAMON.—Judge found deft. made the note sued on. Plff. bona fide holder for value before maturity, without notice of fraud. Verdict for plff. for $161.70. —Clute and Blair for plff; Burdett and Fraleck for deft.

CLOUGH vs. DAY.—Plff. bona fide holder for value. Before maturity deft. was induced to make note by fraud and misrepresentation, without negligence. Verdict for deft.—Clute and Blair for plff; Wallbridge, Delaney & Ostrom for deft.

CLOUGH vs. WESSELS.—Plff. bona fide holder of note for value before maturity, Note obtained by fraud and misrepresentation. Deft. guilty of negligence, Verdict for plff. for $211.20.—Clute and Blair for plff; Wallbridge, Delaney & Ostrom for deft.

QUEEN vs. BROWN.—Deft. entered into recognizance. Verdict for $100.—Burdett for plff; Henderson for deft.

The New York Hop Market.

The Price Current reports as follows:

Receipts for the week ending December 23, inclusive, 1,619 bales; since September 1, 50,285 bales. Exports for the week ending December 22, inclusive, 280 bales; since September 1, 15,509 bales.

Brewers have bought cautiously and only when sellers have named low prices. They generally bid about 22c. for good, sound, serviceable samples, rarely 23c. Dealers have taken a few lots also, but have wanted most that choice quality which is seldom offering. Exporters are sending forward some lots, some of them lately bought in the interior, but generally taken from stocks which they have been holding here. A cable dispatch received from London on the 17th reported a decline in American and a clearing up of stocks at a range of £6 10s@£6 15s. Shippers hope that the lots now going forward will find a more active market after the holidays. The highest quotation for choice American in London, given by the cable referred to, was £7 10s. The markets in the interior of the state appear to be generally quiet. Most cash sales at 21@22½c., with the usual range at 20@23½c. Lots to brewers on time, however, brought considerably more money.

The Late Dairy Markets.

CHEESE.—As has for some time been anticipated, the value of fine fall stock is gradually creeping upward. The supply is comparatively limited, and as it grows less, it will probably become more valuable. Prices are not quotably higher than they were last week, but transactions at these quotations have been much freer and more active. Stock which a week ago would not have brought over 12½c., now commands 12¾c. and occasionally as high as 13c. In the county, full milk stock is very nearly exhausted. There has been some demand from the west for New York state fall made cheese, and several car loads could have been shipped from this vicinity if the article was to be had. It speaks well for the reputation of our cheese, when Chicago merchants, with plenty of fine Wisconsin stock on hand, are anxious to get hold of central New York cheese for their best trade with groceries. Creamery skims are in fair demand, and range from 8 to 9½c. Following is the usual table of comparison:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dec. 27, 1879. | 21,144 | 17,257 | 64s.6d. | 25s. | 13¼c. |

Little Falls Cheese Market.

LITTLE FALLS, Dec. 26.—The market was dull. Sales of only 1,300 boxes of factory cheese at 10 to 12c.

Capt. Sargent S Day, of Gloucester, Mass., writes: "I was suffering with rheumatism; I used a small portion of St. Jacobs Oil, and was at once cured. I have also used it for a sprained ankle and bruised foot, and never once found it to fail. It is superior to any other medicine I ever had in my house, and I will never be without a bottle of this great pain destroyer." The Captain is wise.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, at 100,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be to widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by James Clarke & Co.

Free of Cost.

All persons wishing to test the merit of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitus, or any affections of the Throat and lungs are requested to call at James Clarke & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar size bottle will do.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. HYDROLEINE

(HYDRATED OIL.)
An artificially digested Cod Liver Oil.

For Consumption, Winter Cough, Affections of the Chest and all Wasting Diseases.

Prescribed by the leading physicians of England, the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

A WONDERFUL FACT.

HYDROLEINE mixes perfectly with water, showing a complete artificial digestion of the oil, and just as the HYDROLEINE mixes with the water so does it mix with the liquid contents of the stomach, and out is immediately into the system to nourish and build it up. The efficacy of HYDROLEINE is NOT CONFINED to cases of Consumption, as from its valuable tonic effect on the nervous system in addition to its special stimulating action on the organs concerned in the production of Fat in the body, it causes marked increase in weight in persons of naturally thin habit, who do not present any evidence of disease.

Unlike ordinary preparations of Cod Liver Oil, it produces no unpleasant eructation or sense of nausea, and should be taken in such very much smaller doses, according to the directions, as will ensure its complete assimilation; this, at the same time, renders its use economical in the highest degree.

For sale by all Druggists.

We have sold the above remedy for several months and find it spoken of very favorably by both the medical profession and the public.

We can safely recommend it to parties needing such a remedy.

THE Council adjourned at an early hour last night in order to allow two or three members to attend a Masonic Dinner.

THE Belleville Branch of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will have a "select circle" at their new hall this evening.

THE funeral of the late John Northcott, Esq., took place yesterday afternoon, and was attended by a large concourse of friends.

YESTERDAY being St. John's Day, the anniversary was celebrated by a grand Masonic dinner in the evening, which was largely attended.

MR. WESLEY HOWELL, who received a severe injury to one of his eyes several weeks ago while working in Gibbard's furniture factory, Napanee, has temporarily lost his sight.

THE entertainment in the City Hall this evening, given by the children of St. Michael's Sunday School, deserves to be well patronized. A good programme will be furnished. The admission price is only 15 cents.

MR. E. GAUJOT has left for Buffalo to attend a meeting of the Ontario Steel Association, taking the seal of the Company with him. It will be decided at this meeting where the works of the Company will be located.

CAPT JELLETT is having the Prince Edward repaired, and she will resume her regular route in a day or two. This is probably the first instance on record of a ferry, after having been laid up for the season, being brought out again to resume her trips.

MR. J. S. MCMURRAY, organist of the Halloway Street Church, was last night agreeably surprised. He was summoned to the house of Mr. Lewis Grills and there found assembled the members of the choir, who presented him with a highly complimentary address and a purse of money.

THE only case before the Police Magistrate this morning was that of Mr. Huffman, of the Dafoe House, who was charged with allowing the sidewalk in the vicinity of the hotel to be obstructed with trunks. Nothing was done in the matter, Mr. Huffman promising that the nuisance would be remedied in the future.

WE are pleased to learn that Professor Macoun has been appointed "Dominion Naturalist," a permanent office which, we understand, has been created for him. He richly deserves the honor, for he has probably done more for the country, through his scientific investigations and indefatigable exertions during his explorations in the Northwest, than any other naturalist.

A MAN named Gordon Haight, living near the railway crossing, on College St., was seized with an apoplectic fit yesterday while working in his garden. Dr. Willson was summoned, but the unfortunate man was beyond the reach of medical skill and he died shortly after midnight. It was the third time that he had had a similar fit. Haight had just returned from California a few months ago. He leaves a wife and family, almost wholy unprovided for. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and will be buried by them.

THAT fine emotional drama, "The Two Orphans" is to be presented at the Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening next by the Madison Square Company, the leading part, that of Louise, being taken by one of the most promising actresses of the American stage—Miss Helen E. Jennings, who comes to us highly recommended by the New York press. A St. Albans journal speaks of her in the following flattering terms:—"Miss Jennings, the beautiful young emotional actress, appeared with the Madison Square Co. last evening. Miss Jennings possesses rare beauty and a full, rich voice, which she uses to the best advantage, showing the result of excellent training. In some of the more intense passages she gave a beautiful rendering of the lines which won for her enthusiastic applause."

WEATHER PROBABILITIES—Toronto, Dec. 28.—Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly south and west, cloudy to fair continued mild weather, with local rains.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At a regular meeting of the Workingman's Temperance Association held last night the following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter: President, Bro. W. H. Bosely; 1st Vice-President, John Vanorman; 2nd Vice-President, Jas. N. Hawley; Recording Secretary, A. D. Walker; Financial Secretary, Jos. Maiden jr.; Treasurer, Hugh Walker; Conductor, Jos. Maiden sr.; Assistant Conductor, Chas. Lapointe; Warden, Elias Lapp.

IMPROPER ISSUE OF LICENSES.—In the Queen's Bench, Toronto, on Saturday last judgment was given in the case of the Queen v. Grainger, in which an application was made to quash a conviction by the Police Magistrate of Belleville. The defendant was License Inspector, and was charged with having issued one license in excess of the number allowed by the statute for the City of Belleville—the limit being twenty-four—and a twenty-fifth was issued. The conviction by the Police Magistrate was sustained by the Sessions, and the court decided that the motion to quash had no locus standi, and dismissed it.

TWEEDS.—This is a leading department with us, and this Fall we offer for sale an unusually large stock of Scotch, English, German and Canadian Tweeds, worsted diagonals and overcoatings of beautiful new designs and in reliable qualities. The special facilities we possess of buying these cheaply in the cheapest markets in the world secure them to our customers at the very lowest price they are to be had in Canada.—JAMES HENNESSY.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening.

PRESENT.—His Worship the Mayor; Ald. Clarke, Costello, Dickson, Diamond, Dunnet, Durand, Farley, Frost, Holden, Henderson, Lingham, McIninch, Ostrom, Petrie, St. Charles, and Vandusen.

COMMUNICATIONS, &C.

The following were read:—

From W. J. Diamond, resigning his position as High School Trustee.

From Mrs. Newbery, in reply to the resolution of condolence passed by the Council with reference to the death of the late City Clerk.

From Mrs. Burden, asking for remission of her taxes.

From the Deputy Minister of Militia and Defence, with reference to a pensioner named Xavier, who was not on the list of pensioners.

From Barney Conway, asking that the fine imposed on him for neglecting to secure a carting license, be remitted.

From John Doyle, asking permission to rebuild his barn and stables, recently destroyed by fire, with wood, promising to paint the building with fire-proof paint.

From A. McGinnis and others, asking that the water-tank opposite the Canifton Road be repaired.

From B. Trusisch and others, asking that patrick Tansey's taxes be remitted, on account of his destitution.

From Luke O'Donnell, asking for remission of his taxes.

A number of accounts were also read, which, with the foregoing petitions, were referred to their appropriate committees.

On motion of Ald. Dickson, the Council adjourned till Friday evening on account of a Masonic dinner which was in progress and which several of the Aldermen wished to attend.

SCHOOL NOMINATIONS.

Election by Acclamation the Order of the Day.

The nominations for Public School and Separate School Trustees were held to-day. They proceeded very quietly—very few persons, in fact, knowing that they were being held. In all but Ketcheson Ward only one person was nominated, and, consequently, returned by acclamation. All those returned by acclamation, with the exception of Mr. W. R. Carmichael, were the retiring members of the Board.

The following is the result of the nominations for Public School Trustees:—

KETCHESON.—Dr. Willson, Hugh Walker, P. J. M. Anderson.

FOSTER.—James Richards, elected by acclamation.

BALDWIN.—Wm. Davis, elected by acclamation.

BLEECKER.—W. W. Northcott, elected by acclamation.

SAMSON.—Wm. Wensley, elected by acclamation.

COLEMAN.—E. Hayne, elected by acclamation.

MURNEY.—W.R. Carmichael, elected by acclamation.

SEPARATE SCHOOL NOMINATIONS.

All the nominees for Separate School Trustees were elected by acclamation. They were as follows:—

MURNEY WARD.—T. O. Bolger.
COLEMAN.—Jos. Durand.
BLEECKER.—Jno. Doyle.
BALDWIN.—Jas. Nolan.
KETCHESON.—R. Costello.
SAMSON.—D. Holden.
FOSTER.—D. Brennan.

Mr. T. Bayeur was elected Auditor for the ensuing year.

MONTEAGLE AND HERSCHEL.

Mr. John Fitzgerald was re-elected Reeve by acclamation.

TUDOR, ET AL.

The united Townships of Tudor, Limerick and Cashel, elected by acclamation the following gentlemen to municipal honors for 1882: P. M. Gunter, Reeve; Wm. Blackburn, Th's Peacock, Benj'n Lavende, and Wm. Morton, Councillors. The greatest of harmony prevailed at the nomination.

—A boiler explosion in a shade cloth factory at Oswego, N. Y., at an early hour on Tuesday morning, made houses tremble, and broke widow panes throughout the city. The first impression was that the place had been visited by an earthquake. The west wall of the factory was blown out by the explosion.

H. E. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold by A. L. Geen, Druggist, at 50 cents per bottle.

Fotunes for Farmers and Mechanics.

Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. If you are bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—Tribune.—Sold by James Clarke & Co., druggists.

Pains and Griping in Children.

HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS are a sovereign remedy for this ailment which is not alone confined to children. Nothing can withstand their subtle action and purifying influences. They are purely vegetable, and never inconvenience the patient. They are sold everywhere.

DEPRESSION OF MIND AND BODY, and all diseases due to insufficient or impaired nutrition are at once arrested and cured by the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, etc.

Free of Cost.

All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at Jas. Clark & Co.'s Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-sized bottle will do.

NEW YORK MISCELLANY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—120 cases of small-pox are reported here this year, against 67 cases last year.

John H. Murray, a well-known circus proprietor, died yesterday in his 53rd year.

Geo. W. Hunt, paying teller in the Importers and Traders Bank, accused of embezzling $19,000, has been discharged from custody, the Directors having decided not to prosecute.

At the Socialist convention yesterday it was announced that the Socialists intend to start a daily paper here.

Edward Tinware Co., suspended; liabilities $160,000.

The Manhattan elevated railway yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on preferred stock.

$100,000 was collected here on Saturday and Sunday for the hospital fund.

Daniel H. Stone, an aged lawyer, formerly a Methodist minister, was sentenced in Brooklyn yesterday to 3 years for alleged perjury in reference to the disposition of money belonging to a lady client. It is claimed that new evidence in favor of Stone has been discovered, and it is thought a new trial will be had.

The Herald contains interviews with some members of both Houses. The following favor free canals in the Assembly: Andrew and O'Brien. The following do not favor free canals: Assemblymen Sheldon, Patten and O'Neil. Senator McCarthy says: "I am in favor either of lower tolls or free canals, or some other plan that shall make them more beneficial to the people." Assemblyman Patten thinks it would first be well to rid the canals of such monopolies as elevators under the present system, and many other existing evils. Assemblyman Benedict, who voted in the Legislature for a free canal resolution, says that his constituents are much divided on the question. He is of opinion the canals are suffering more from the influence of railroad control and elevator and insurance scalpers at Buffalo and New York than from the evil of high tolls.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS.

The Herald says: The troubles in Liberia are in the northwestern part of the Republic, and are said to have been fomented by traders who object to the custom dues at ports of entry, and who incited the natives against the Government. The Essex goes to Liberia for the protection of American citizens and interests, to manifest the friendly interest of our Government toward Liberia, and acting in conjunction with the Liberian authorities in suppressing the revolt among the natives.

This is the warmest December experienced in Washington in 17 years. Rose bushes in all parts of the city are still in bloom.

The Sun says: The costs in the prosecution of Guiteau, not including witness's fees, will amount to nearly $100,000. The fees of witnesses on both sides, which the Government pays for, will probably be nearly as much more. Some of the experts charged very high.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Arrived the Furnissia from Glasgow.

A THIEVISH LAWYER.

The Herald's Syracuse special says that Henry Byhault, a prominent member of the bar, and Clerk of the town of Camillius, has been arrested, charged by several of the leading merchants with larceny. At the prisoner's house were found articles of all descriptions, from a pair of diamond earrings, to a keg of powder.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The receipts of butter here during the past year were 1,500,000 packages; cheese, 3,000,000 boxes; eggs, 600,000 cases.

FLOOD AT TROY.

TROY, Dec. 28.—At midnight the bells of several churches rang to warn the people on the lowlands that the Hudson was rising and a freshet was imminent. The work of removing goods from exposed points was begun. The water rose twenty inches in an hour and a half. The rain has ceased.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

SUNDAY MEETINGS IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Dec. 28.—A circular of the Ladies League, summoning all the branches of that organization to meet on Sunday, has been issued for the purpose of testing the legality of Sunday meeting.

LIGHT SHIP RUN DOWN.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The South Arklow, a light ship on the coast of Ireland, has been run down by a four masted vessel believed to be the Dominion. The men belonging to the light ship are supposed to be saved.

SMALL-POX IN DAKOTTA.

WESPETON, Dak., Dec. 28.—The symptoms of the patients in the small-pox infected district below here, indicate that the disease is not simply small-pox, but partakes of the nature of a plague.

FLOODS IN THE HUDSON AND HOOSAC.

TROY N. Y. Dec. 28.—The Hudson is over 8 feet above low water mark and speedily rising. The docks are flooded. The Hoosac river at Pownal overflowed the Troy and Boston R. R. track.

HEAVY PUNISHMENT.

ODESSA, Dec. 28.—The Military Tribunal sentenced a Cossack of a convicted political crime to 10 years transportation with hard labor.

GRAIN FOR EXPORT.

ODESSA, Dec. 28.—It is calculated that Odessa magazines contain a million and a half quarters of grain ready for exportation and other Black Sea ports an equal quantity. Total value, 30,000,000 roubles. Business is quiet, because of the low prices in England and France.

IN SIX CHAPTERS.

'Shall I go?' I said, after a little time thus spent.

'She made a gesture as if to stop me—but without moving those large mournful eyes, in which I could see that tears were slowly gathering.

'Mrs. Penrose had already left the room. I said no more; but took a chair, sat down by the bedside, and laid mine upon her thin fevered, but most exquisitely formed hand.

'I gave a gentle, gentle pressure; it was faintly, very faintly returned; and then the tears, which had so slowly gathered into her eyes, fell in a few large drops over her faded cheeks.

'This is lonely, desolate work, do what we will,' I said, as a sort of answer to these few large tears, falling so quietly and still, and without revulsion of features—the tears of a strong but softened mind. 'To be sick, and without familiar faces—to be sick and among strangers, is a sorrowful, sorrowful thing; but we do our best.'

''O, you are good—very good,' she said.

''There is nothing I feel so much myself as this destitution of the heart; solitude in sickness is to me almost more than I can bear; and, therefore, it is, perhaps, that I am almost troublesome in offering my society to those here who have not many friends and visitors—especially to the young. I can bear solitude myself better now, badly as I do bear it, than when I was young. Society seems, to the young, like the vital air upon which they exist.'

''Yes, perhaps so,' she said, after musing a little—'yes. So long as there was one near me whom I loved, I could get on—better or worse—but I could get on. But she is gone. Others whom I have loved are far—far away. The solitude of the heart! yes, that kills one at last.'

'Then will you try to make a friend of me? A new friend can never be like an old friend. Yet, when the old wine is drawn down to the dregs, we accept the new, although we still say the old is better.'

'How very kindly you speak to me! You have none of the pride of compassion,' she said, fixing her lovely eyes, filled with an earnest, intelligent expression, full upon mine. 'You will not humble me, whilst you serve me.'

'Humble you! My dear young lady! That, I hope, indeed, would be far from me—from every one of us.'

'I dare say so—as you say it. I have seen none of the ladies, only the matron, Mrs. Penrose and a friend of mine, to whom I owe much; but they are both so inferior to myself in habits and education, that I don't think they can humble me if they tried. The insolence of my inferiors, I can defy—the condescensions of my superiors, are what I dread.'

'I saw in this little speech something that opened to me, as I thought, one side of her character. All the notice of it, however, which I took, was to say, 'We must not exact too much from each other. A person may have a very single-hearted and sincere desire to serve us, and yet be somewhat awkward in conferring benefits. We must not be unreasonable. Where people do their best to be kind, we must accept the will for the deed, and besides ....

You mean to say that benefits may be accepted ungraciously,'—and she laid her hand upon mine, and pressed it with some fervor. 'Yes, that is true. We may, in the pride of our unsubdued and unregulated hearts, be captious, exacting and unjust. We may be very, very ungrateful.'

'Do I tire you with relating these things?' said the lady, breaking off, and addressing the fallen man. 'Shall I pass on to others? Yet there are few events to relate. The history of this life of a few months is comprised in conversations. I thought you would probably like to hear them.'

'I do like to hear of them. I adjure you, solemnly, to omit nothing that you can remember of them. She was a noble creature.' And he burst forth with a bitter cry.

'She was a noble creature!'

'I sat with her some time that day, and learned some little of her history; but she was very reserved as to details and explanations. She told me that she had once lived in great affluence; but that a sudden reverse of fortune had ruined her father, who had been obliged to quit the country; and that she and her sister had found it necessary immediately to set about getting their own livelihood. Only one course was open to either of them—that of becoming governesses in private families, or teachers at schools. They had wished to adopt the latter course, which would have enabled them to keep together, but had not been able to provide themselves with situations; so they had been compelled to separate.

''My sister,' she said, 'took a situation in London; I was obliged to accept one that offered in a distant county, so that we were entirely parted; but in such cases one cannot choose. My dear Clementina's accomplishments were such as the family in London wanted; mine suited those who offered me the place in the country, or I would have exchanged with her. But it was not to be. Things in this miserable world are strangely ordered.'

''For the best,' I said, 'when the issues are known.'

''Who shall assure us of that? and when are their issues known?' she asked, with some bitterness. It would need great faith when one receives a heavy injury, to believe it was fraught with good, and well intended.'

''It would, indeed! Yet, we must have that faith. We ought to have that faith in Him, the All-wise, Merciful, and Good. We should have it,—should we not?—whatever appearance might be, in an earthly friend of that description.

'Ah! but we see and know such a friend.'

'We ought to know, though we cannot see, that other friend.'

'Ah! well—it is so, I dare say. But, oh, there are moments in life when the cruel blow is so real, and the consolation so illusory!'

'Seems so real—seems so illusory! Ah! my dear young lady, have you drank so deeply of the cup of sorrow? And have you not found the great, the only true reality, at the bottom?'

'She had loosed hold of my hand, and turned her head coldly away, as I uttered the last speech.

'I asked her why she did so.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Fellows' Hypophosphites makes an old person look years younger. "This witness is true." Would that I could more widely make it known for its many virtues. Long may its inventor live to see the happy fruits of his invention.

Why Incur Torture?

By disregarding cleanliness of the teeth, and thus encouraging their decay, when SOZODONT, which is delightful to use, prevents the possibility of toothache, by keeping the teeth in health. No one who has not used this popular article, can form an adequate idea of how much improvement defective teeth are susceptible. SOZODONT is infinitely to be preferred to abrading tooth powders. It preserves, not scratches the enamel.

Post Mortem Examinations have, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the lung tissue when diseased is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of blood and other affections of the Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest renovants used by physicians, reviving the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

DECLINE OF MAN.—Impotency of mind, limb or vital function, nervous weakness, sexual debility, and all diseases caused by indiscretions and abuse, are radically and promptly cured by the use of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, which is for sale by all responsible druggists. See advertisement in another column. Sold in Belleville by James Clarke & Co.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 264lv

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 264ly

...alling Leaves!

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the falling leaves," sighed an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language,—language uttered from the heart, yea, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

...ruelty to animals.

There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But men and women grow pig-headed when their stomachs are demoralized. They insist upon eating at all hours of the day and night whatever their perverted and normal appetites crave, until they become incurable dyspeptics. They will enlarge feelingly on the theme of "cruelty to animals" and then retire to the dining-room and gorge huge masses of indigestible food. Which is worse cruelty to animals or men? Every house should keep as a life blessing a quantity of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which will remedy this evil of cramming down indigestible food until we feel light headed from the table or suffer from paralysis. They carry away the offal and renovate the system. Sold by all druggists.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent letter, by and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. R. Is a compour... of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingi... mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide... potash and iron, all powerful blood-m...ng, blood-cleansing, and life-sustainin... elements. It is the purest, safest, and ...ost effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.
